Acknowledgments

The work required to translate Kitāb ut-Tawheed has been considerable. In conjunction with the author, this first commenced several years ago. It could never have been produced but for our small team who undertook the difficult and time consuming task of translating this text. We are also indebted to I. A Choudhury and M. B. Awan for the manuscript review, comment and input on this project. Once again, N. Uddin provided not only the cover design but invaluable expert technical support. Lastly, special thanks is due to K. M. Hasan, for managing the project overall, from translation to publication.

Those conversant with the original text in Arabic will note that the English version is organised quite differently. The Arabic ‘bāb’s’ are presented as ‘Parts’ and each ‘fāṣl’ as a chapter. Chapter titles overall have been streamlined and abbreviated. Quotations, including ahādīth, have been separated and indented from the main body of text. Footnotes are used, where appropriate, to facilitate ease of reading, for example instead of having copious references as part of the body-text. There are also some additional explanatory references that have been enclosed, where required. Moreover, some additional explanation has on occasion been written into the body-text to provide greater exemplification for the English reader. That has been done under the supervision and approval of the author.

A small number of paragraphs in Part 1 chapter 3 have been omitted altogether from the translated text. These relate to the use of rare Arabic words and isn't a necessary component to have translated in full. Chapter 20 in Part II (Events that occurred on the day of Badr), has been omitted altogether. Strictly speaking this doesn't form an essential component of the present volume relating to the foundational principles of Deen, but is rather an appendix to the study. None of the appendices that are referred to appear in this volume. It is intended to include these with the last volume in the series.

In tandem with our other publications, ahādīth are translated in full including the chains of transmission. On occasion the Arabic text has been omitted altogether where it is of considerable length, particularly in relation to large quotations made from works of exegesis. While some may dislike this method of presentation, it is our view that English translation should reflect the text in full and not be disconnected from the mode of transmission.

We ask Allah to accept our humble efforts, to forgive our mistakes and shortcomings. May the peace, blessings and greatest of salutations be upon Mu ammad, the best example and role-model sent forth to all of mankind.

Introduction

All praise and thanks are due to Allah; we praise him and ask him for help and forgiveness. We seek refuge with Allah from the evil within ourselves and our conduct. Whomsoever Allah guides, none can mislead and whomsoever he sends astray, none can guide. Whoever obeys Allah will be rightly guided and whoever disobeys Allah and his Messenger, will definitely stray afar. I bear witness that there are no multiple gods or deities, but there is only Allah alone; he has no partner, consort or offspring and I bear witness that Mu ammad is his servant and Messenger, the most beloved of all mankind.

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا اتَّقُوا اللَّهَ حَقًّا تُقَاتَهُ وَلَا تَمُوتُنَ إِلَّا وَأَنْتُمْ مُسْلِمُونَ

يَا أَيُّهَا النَّاسُ اتَّقُوا رَبَّكُمُ الَّذِي خَلَقَ مِنْ نَفْسٍ وَاحِدَةً وَخَلَقَ مِنْهَا زَوْجَهَا وَبَثَّ مِنْهُمَا رِجَالًا كَثِيرًا وَنِسَاءً وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ الَّذِي تَسَاءَلُونَ بِهِ وَالْأَرْحَامَ إِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ عَلَيْكُمْ رَقِيبًا

*O mankind! Be mindful of (your duty to) your Lord, who created you from a single being and created its mate of the same (kind) and spread from these two, many men and women; and be careful of (your duty to) Allah, by whom you demand one of another (your rights), and (to) the ties of relationship; surely Allah ever watches over you.*²

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا اتَّقُوا اللَّهَ وَقُولُوا قَوْلًا سَدِيدًا، يُصْلِحُ لَكُمْ أَعْمَالَكُمْ وَيَغْفِرُ لَكُمْ ذُنُوبَكُمْ وَمَن يُطِعِ اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ فَقَدْ فَازَ فَوْزًا عَظِيمًا

*O you who believe! Be mindful of (your duty to) Allah and speak the right word. He will put your deeds into a right state for you, and forgive you your faults; and whoever obeys Allah and His Messenger, he indeed achieves a mighty success.*³

Truly the best of speech is the book of Allah and the best guidance is that from Mu ammad, peace and blessings be upon him. The worst of things are those that are newly invented without legal precedent; it is but an innovation (bidāh) and all innovation results in misguidance. May the peace, blessings and greatest of salutations be upon Mu ammad, the best example and role-model sent forth to all of mankind. And may the blessings of Allah also be upon his noble family, his companions, their successors and all those who strive in the path of Allah.

To proceed - this treatise represents a study into the very root origins of Islam, the essential nature of Tawheed (monotheism), its proofs as found in the Qur'ān and that which has been established by the authentic Sunnah. Consequently the title that has been chosen for this work is: Kitāb ut-Tawheed: 'Asās al-Islam wa Haqiqat-at-Tawheed (the book of monotheism: the basis of Islam and the reality of monotheism). There are a number of reasons why this study was prepared, amongst them the following:

³ Qur'ān 33: 70/71

Firstly - the age-old problem concerning the precise nature of 'worship' (ibādah) and its exact relationship with the concept of a deity (al-Ilāh). Many have misunderstood this resulting in an extremely unsatisfactory answer which has led them to accuse the people of the Qiblah of polytheism (Shirk) which takes one outside the fold of the religion. Closely followed by this, was an unsound analysis and judgment by many of what actually constitutes Shirk (polytheism) resulting in one exiting the fold of Islam, which is a very serious matter indeed. Such line of reasoning has been extremely dangerous particularly when it has proceeded upon the basis of proofs that are neither decisive in nature and have more often than not been blatantly misapplied. Given the seriousness of the topic, there cannot be room for difference or interpretation; foundational principles must be based upon definitive evidences reaching the level of certitude.

Secondly – the confusion and ill-disciplined tripartite division of Tawheed which is espoused by the sect of Wah bi's, namely: Tawheed ar-Rububiyyah (monotheism of lordship), Tawheed al-Uluhiyah (monotheism of worship) and Tawheed al-Asmā' wa'as-Sifāt (monotheism of names and attributes). Putting Tawheed into this classification originates with the Shaykh and Imām Ibn Taymiyyah. Indeed, the mistakes which underpinned his reasoning for placing Tawheed into this division are heinous, as are those made by Shaykh Mu ammad ibn Abdul-Wahab who followed him in this regard, taking the division as being sacrosanct. The disorder in understanding ultimately lies with Imām Ibn Taymiyyah and his tripartite division which as we will show in this treatise is fundamentally flawed. In fact the decisive truth regarding the tripartite division is that it is seriously misleading and below-par for a division befitting in Islam. Several reasons can be advanced to demonstrate this:

1. The meaning of the words used to propound the 'conventional' Wah bi tripartite division is fallacious and invalid. These are not rooted in classical Arabic in which the Qur'ān was revealed and they are neither found in legal custom which always furnishes the linguistic custom. Deep rooted flaws exist within the reasoning advanced with respect to 'Ulūhiyah.' None more so than the implied logic that the existence of a deity is somehow contingent upon those that undertake the performance of worship towards it. Undoubtedly this is from the statements of disbelief (kufr), may Allah protect us from that. As will be demonstrated with decisive proofs and evidences the rejection of which would result in disbelief and ultimate exit from the fold of Islam.

2. Without accurately describing the reality of polytheism (Shirk) as it existed amongst the pre-Islamic Arabs it is false and misleading. However it goes further in that it stubbornly clings to this false understanding that the pre-Islamic Arabs did not have Shirk in the realm of lordship (Rububiyyah). In doing so it represents a denial of knowledge that is known by necessity from history which has reached us by way of recurrent transmission (tawātur) and the study of such reports. Taking such a line of argumentation, which is borne of obsession and often psychosis, to its natural conclusion ultimately would require one to claim that the Qur'an is founded upon a lie, which is without question a statement of disbelief.
3. There is an inverted or upside-down logic to their claim that lordship (Rububiyyah) entails or requires worship (Ulūhiyah) and not the opposite.
4. The analysis upon which the tripartite division is derived is ill conceived, in that it's various sub-divisions are not distinct and they overlap.

problems were about the reality of Tawheed, its sections and it how it corresponds to contemporary issues like ruling, governance and allegiance, Tawheed Hākimiyyah and Tawheed al-Muwāla wal-Mu'ādā. Such problems resulted from weaknesses and faults of the aforementioned tripartite division. Further compounding this situation was the work of government scholars - rabbinical sycophants and soothsayers - descending from the tradition of Prophet killing. Openly standing at war with Allah, they have sought to amplify these problems as well as mislead the public. All the while acting in private service to their masters, the leaders of kufr and tyrannical oppression; they have brazenly changed the laws of the Sharī'ah, being the enemies of the 'Awliyā of Allah. They have aligned themselves with the enemies of Allah, fighting the Muslims under the banner of disbelief, all for a pitiful transient monetary worldly gain. Thus, they have betrayed and breached the heavenly covenant:

وَإِذْ أَخَذَ اللَّهُ مِيثَاقَ الَّذِينَ أُتُوا الْكِتَابَ لِتُبَيَّنَ لِلنَّاسِ وَلَا تَكُنُمُونَهُ فَبَدُواهُ وَرَاءَ ظُهُورِهِمْ
وَأَشْتَرُوا بِهِ ثَمَنًا قَلِيلًا فَبِئْسَ مَا يَشْتَرُونَ

*And when Allah made a covenant with those who were given the Book: You shall certainly make it known to men and you shall not hide it; but they cast it behind their backs and took a small price for it; evil is that which they buy.*⁴

The tyrants of the Arabian Peninsula, the House of Saud, are at the forefront of this campaign, seeking to change the Sharī'ah laws at any opportunity. They align themselves with hostile disbelieving forces openly at war with Islam and actively supporting them against Muslims under their banner and chain of command. Such tyrannical rulers exceed all bounds and have surpassed all their fellow rulers in this regard, who are themselves rulers of darkness, yokes around the necks of Muslims. Is it any surprise therefore that the enemies of Islam have been able to base their forces in the Arabian Peninsula, the very heartlands of Islam? From these bases they laid siege to Iraq for many years, thereafter they occupied it wreaking untold carnage upon its people; humiliating them in the most brutal of ways.

All the while the House of Saud remains aloof, their 'scholars', modern day clergy, cling to their tails, being part and parcel of this grand deception. These 'scholars' who are the lackeys of the tyrannical rulers of the Arabian Peninsula are not a disparate group, rather they are a religious institution, an essential component in the oppressive state apparatus. In terms of their organisational structure, funding and indeed modus operandi, they differ very little from the Catholic Church of the Middle Ages. Hence, the 'Council of Senior Scholars' (Kibār al-Ulemā) have deservedly earned their true title, that of the 'Church of Najd.' The Council being more reflective of the College of Cardinals expend great ink in support of their Pope, the 'Grand Mufti of Saudi Arabia', who is in effect a Minister of State by virtue of salary and rank through holding the position of chair of the 'Standing Committee for Scholarly Research, Issuance of Religious Edits, Propagation and Guidance'.

The ruling system upon which the House of Saud is built is a system built upon kufr and Shirk, a satanic system, rotten to its very core. Given the oddity of its political set-up it is more akin to a mafia-state founded upon criminality and the systematic looting of the wealth of Muslims. The state treasury is viewed as being nothing more than a family bank account, a mechanism for the self-enrichment of the mafia elite. Has history ever witnessed a similar gross and vulgar system? One built around the greed of the ruling family whose involvement in the drug trade, organised prostitution, alcohol, arms dealing and money-laundering is well known.

For that reason, their grand scholars are nothing more than hypocrites. They brazenly deceive the masses in order to protect the power-base of the House of Saud. Tawheed for them is a distorted idea, a Tawheed divorced from life, solely concerned and revolving around the dead, hence their obsessive preoccupation with graves, tombs and the like. This is even to the extent that they boastfully proclaim their destruction of all Islamic antiquities as objects of polytheism. In actuality, they are trying to destroy Tawheed, replacing it with a fixation of graves and the realm of the deceased. Writing in Madārij as-Sālikeen, Imam Ibn Qayyim succinctly summed up their pitiful condition:

If the truth is in opposition to their route to power, they crush it and stain it with all their capacity. If they are unable to do that, they push it away aggressively. If they are unable to that, then they divert it away from their path and put it on another. Indeed they are prepared to push it away depending on the circumstance. So if they do not find a partner who would give them support and a platform, they distance it from being dispensed, ruled by, and implemented. If there is a supporter for them, they attack the truth, search for it and come to it in compliance with their supporters. They do not go to it because it is truth rather because it is in opposition with their goals and their desires: *And when they are called to Allah and His Messenger that he may judge between them, lo! A party of them turn aside. And if the truth be on their side, they come to him quickly, obedient. Is there in their hearts a disease, or are they in doubt, or do they fear that Allah and His Messenger will act wrongfully towards them? Nay! They themselves are the unjust.*⁵

These are the words of the esteemed scholar Ibn Qayyim, may Allah be pleased with him. Truly it is a beautiful characterisation of what they consider as vexatious. If one were in doubt concerning this, consider the announcements made by their treacherous priests and the groups of innovators that peddle their views; the self-appointed and proclaimed - ‘people of Sunnah and hadith’, ‘helpers of Muhammad’s

Sunnah’ and ‘troops of the Šahābah’, let alone the publications which they freely distribute, entitled: ‘Obedience to ar-Rahman is obedience to the ruler’, ‘the heresy and fitna of al-Qutubiyyah’ in reference to Sayyid Qutb and ‘Hākimiyah and the fitna of takfeer!’

وَمِنْهُمْ مَنْ يَقُولُ ائْذَنْ لَيْ وَلَا تَقْتُلْنِي أَلَا فِي الْفِتْنَةِ سَقَطُوا وَإِنْ جَهَنَّمْ لَمُحِيطَةٌ بِالْكَافِرِينَ

*And among them there is he who says: Allow me and do not try me. Surely into trial have they already tumbled down, and most surely hell encompasses the disbelievers.*⁶

Recent history is littered with horrible disasters and vile massacres that the people of Islam have endured at the hands of barbarous Wahabi groups, whether from the Armed Criminal Group (known as the GIA) in Algeria all the way to Dā’esh (State of Iraq and Shām) and the TTP (Tarika Taliban/Pakistan) of today. This also includes other organisations affiliated falsely to al-Qā’eda or the ‘global Jihād’, few of whom actually display any mercy. They have abandoned the fight against the warriors and aggressors from the people of idolatry, turning their swords instead against the people of Islam; brazenly slaughtering women, children and the ordinary peaceful citizens who themselves suffer immeasurably at the hands of tyranny. Know without doubt, nay with certain knowledge, that the Wahabi sect is a renegade sect that descends from the Khawārij al-Azāriqa who perished previously. They are, accordingly to scholarly consensus, upon manifest misguidance and were from the bloodiest people of Nahrawān. And indeed we are furnished also with the statement made by the Imam and established proof Abu Mu’ammad Ali Ibn azm (may Allah be pleased with him) in his seminal work, al-Fisal fi al-Milal wa al-Nihāyah (The Separator Concerning Religions, Heresies and Sects): ‘But al-Azāriqa they were ignorant Arabs like cattle, they are on the path of misguidance.’ The Wahabi sect is a sub-division from the Khawārij - al-Azāriqa – for indeed they are like cattle and are on a path of clear misguidance; may Allah protect us all from that.

We appeal to Allah, the exalted and majestic, to make this book useful and to guide us in order that all of our deeds be sincere, seeking Him alone. He has the power over all things. May the salutations, blessings and peace of Allah be upon His Messenger and servant Mu ammad and on his virtuous family and faithful companions until the day of judgement.

Praise be to Allah, Lord of all the worlds.

Professor Mu ammad ibn Abdullah al-Mas'ari

Part I.

Religion and Worldly Life

1 Deen and Dunya

Islam does not necessarily have a directly corresponding word for what is conveyed by the English term ‘religion’. This is particularly the case when the word is set in the context of common parlance. The term employed, is ‘Deen’, which means a comprehensive way of life; that is, a specific way of living based upon a comprehensive belief regarding the universe, man and life and its relationship with what precedes it (i.e. Allah, the almighty), and with what succeeds it (i.e. the day of judgement). Deen does not only regulate the relationship between man and Allah and identify some of the moral values and individual proprieties, but it is also a comprehensive regulation of man’s life in its entirety. Thus, there is a clear distinction between this and the Western concept of religion, which is limited to very specific areas of life. In the West since the revolutions of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, as well as the ‘age of Enlightenment’, religion is viewed solely as being a collection of rituals through which man has a personal relationship with the supernatural. Yet for Muslims the term Deen is far wider, addressing the following:

1. Man’s relationship with Allah regarding beliefs, rituals and designated acts of worship.

2. Man’s relationship with himself concerning knowledge, intention, emotions (love, hate, loyalty, etc.), manners, food, clothing, and even extends to beautifying and adorning oneself.
3. Man’s relationship with other human beings, including:
 - i. Family relations such as marriage, kinship, inheritance.
 - ii. Private or civil relations, that is, relations with other individuals concerning contracts, transactions, industry, agriculture, exchange of services in trade, institutions and corporations.
 - iii. Public relations, such as between the ruler and the ruled; constitutional relations; relations with public authorities; the constitution of the state, the judicial system and the penal code (evidences, punishments), public funds, legislation concerning land tax, general taxation and excise duty, public ownership etc.
 - iv. International relations like those concerning independent groups, nations and countries with regards to treaty provisions, Jihād, envoys and embassies
4. Man’s relationship with other creatures, such as animals, plants, inanimate objects and the environment holistically.

Conversely, worldly life – Dunya - in this context means the empirical nature of the universe as it is, without any value judgments being formed. It is worth noting that the following are considered to be related to worldly matters:

1. Natural sciences such as physics, chemistry, botany and other sciences that are concerned with the laws of the physical world which involve the use of experimentation, observation, sense perception and reason.

2. The application of these sciences in the fields of engineering, agriculture and medicine and their related skills, handicrafts and arts: such as shipping, smith craft, architecture, etc.
3. Methods of making and increasing wealth by various means such as grazing, hunting, planting, manufacturing, and trading as well as sciences related to circulating money and funds and the nature of markets, that is, the science of economics.

All these sciences are considered related to ‘worldly matters’ or Dunya. All the permissible means of earning money, and channels through which it can be spent and all means of distributing wealth in society, referred to as the economic system or economic policy are not related to worldly matters but rather to religious matters, for they are certainly related to the perception of life, which is the comprehensive belief regarding the universe, man, life and its relationship with what precedes and what succeeds it. Allah, the exalted and ever majestic, revealed obligatory Shari’ah legal judgments, that must be followed and for which man will be held accountable on the day of resurrection. This reckoning results in either eternal happiness which lies in the pleasure of Allah and enjoying the delights of paradise, or in permanent misery and damnation which is in the wrath of Allah the almighty and the severe torment of hell.

2 Urbanisation, Civilisation and Culture

Urbanisation (madaniyyah) is the total sum of the material manifestations of human activities that include the experimental and observatory sciences, the applied sciences and related skilled disciplines of the arts and crafts. Based upon this clear definition, it becomes apparent that urbanisation in origin, and in principle is universal, general, unbiased and has nothing to do with a specific perception or viewpoint of life. Urbanisation is also essentially similar in all nations regardless of their beliefs and culture. Therefore, it is possible for a Muslim to borrow it from any place and apply it in any manner he wishes to as long as it does not contradict any specific Shari’ah legal text and that he is totally aware and permanently cautious of its possible cultural contamination with biased beliefs and doctrines. There is also a ‘special’ or ‘specific urbanisation’ that is related to and influenced by a perception of life. This type of urbanisation is uniquely related to a specific nation or people and Muslims should neither borrow nor copy it. This special urbanisation includes the arts of dancing, painting, sculpture, acting, theatrical performances and the like. It also includes some professions such as prostitution, Allah forbid, as well as certain physical sports, amusement and entertainment, like bull-fighting.

As for civilisation (Haḍārah), it is commonly denoted as being a way of living, namely, the total set of beliefs, concepts, morals and criteria about life and its related ‘culture’ that is derived from this. Indeed, many times the use of these terms overlap so that the term civilisation is used when the actual term meant is urbanisation. Sometimes the two concepts are mixed up resulting in misconceptions. The clarity of the perception of belief is marred by such confusion and the process of taking a sound juristic attitude becomes difficult. Therefore, we should be accurate when dealing with these difficult concepts and take care that the meaning of a concept corresponds to the actual term itself, so that they do not overlap or become confused with one another. Otherwise the creedal, intellectual and practical consequences will be serious.

It is true that the term civilisation is close in its original meaning to that of urbanisation. However, civilisation is closer in meaning to denoting a particular way of living than urbanisation, in that it relates to stable living within an urban environment and utilises the practice of settled agriculture and industry. That is in marked contrast to a nomadic existence, which is characterised by a lack of settlement, hunting and movement according to seasonal shifts. These are two different types of living which are clearly distinct. Although there are differences between life in cities as opposed to villages, both of which relate to settled living; the utilisation of technology, crafts etc. only differ by degree in these settings.

In Arabic, the term ‘Haḍārah’ has been used to denote meanings related to thoughts. That is why it was much closer to expressing concepts. The Arabic dictionary has that “/haḍura/ with a dammah is similar to /naḍusa/, that is, a man of eloquence and who is well-learned in jurisprudence. Al-Lissan also points out that ‘rajuulan haḍr’ with a sukkun on the /d/ denotes a man of eloquence. So, the term Haḍārah (civilisation) is closer and more appropriate than urbanisation in denoting a set of concepts, moral and ideal values, i.e. how things ought to be, whereas urbanisation is more appropriate in denoting material forms, i.e. how things are. It is important to bear in mind the essential difference between the content of both concepts. As for these terms, they should not be contestable. Nevertheless, being accurate in selecting a term that corresponds or is close to the intended meaning is still important and required.

The term 'culture' (thaqāfa) means all the sciences, knowledge and crafts which the belief of such a civilisation has instigated and out of which they emerged. It could also denote the knowledge that influences the mind and its moral judgment upon matters, like legislation, economics, history, language, and similar branches of knowledge. Thus civilisation, and culture which is a part of it, are necessarily biased and unique to each nation and people. It is related to the basic or fundamental beliefs that a nation holds. If such a civilisation emanated from a comprehensive belief regarding the universe, man and life – as in the case of the Islamic civilisation and the democratic-capitalist civilisation – it would be considered a religious or ideological civilisation. Civilisation is always connected to the unique features of people and the nation which emerged through historical development and the interaction with events happening with the passage of time. In this case, such a civilisation would be a man-made civilisation like the Greek, Babylonian, Assyrian, Chinese and European civilisation, that is, before the liberal-democratic-capitalist civilisation became victorious and dominated life in Europe, the United States and Western world. There is no doubt that the Greek, the Babylonians and the Assyrians in ancient times as well as the Americans and Europeans more recently had their own religions, be that paganism or Christianity. Yet these religions are just pure spiritual doctrines and moral codes. They do not include all the concepts, convictions, criteria, or legislation covering all aspects of life. Thus, no civilisation will emerge from these religions. The people agree on their own set of concepts and legislation pertaining to worldly affairs. These man-made concepts, convictions and criteria constitute their own civilisation though they are not specifically derived from their religion. This way the people have a non-religious-based civilisation, although they may believe in a certain religion, their civilisation is not derived from it, therefore it is a man-made civilisation.

Many modern people and nations, while embracing several different religions, follow the same civilisation, like the Japanese, the Indians, the Americans and the French, which is the Western democratic-capitalist civilisation. Islam has its own unique civilisation and culture. The culture included the sciences of the Arabic language and those of the Deen with its various branches. This civilisation filled the world with light, knowledge and guidance. Without doubt this is the most perfect civilisation in the whole world, which produced the largest number of books and references.

Western commentators often brag about what they call ‘human civilization.’ However, this is a false terminology as they marshal it to refer only to their own civilisation. Any serious objective study shows that this is a civilisation based essentially upon the edifice of Greco-Roman paganism with slight traces of the Christianity of Paul; not the genuine ‘Christianity’ of Jesus the son of Mary (peace be upon him and his mother), and a cursed racial Judaism, that of sinful scribes and rabbis who killed the Prophets; not the genuine ‘Judaism’ of the Torah and Moses (peace be upon him). Pauline Christianity diverged further several centuries after its emergence to become a spiteful and malicious Crusade. Western civilisation is a purely local phenomenon that has nothing to do with the beliefs, thoughts, concepts, convictions and customs of the rest of the world no matter how the proponents of globalisation brag and argue. The term was selected as it bears humanitarian and international connotations so as to deceive the other nations in the world, and Muslims in particular, to cunningly drive Muslims out of their own Deen. Embracing Western civilisation, falsely and erroneously known as ‘humane’ or ‘humanitarian’ and living according to it, inevitably entails Muslims’ reverting to kufr, misguidance and to perpetual misery and a permanent curse ultimately ending in hellfire. The term is also strongly indicative of the racism and arrogance of the West and of its contempt for the rest of mankind. They claim that whatever is Western is ‘humane’ and ‘international’, while whatever is non-Western and belongs to other nations, is underdeveloped, backward, uncivilised and barbaric. In the best scenarios, it is limited, local and can never be universal.

From the previous discussion, this shows that Deen - in the eyes of the people of Islam - is not simply limited to pure ritualistic acts of worship, metaphysical beliefs or even beautiful manners and general morality as it is within the Western conception of religion. In fact, it relates to all voluntary human acts upon which a legal Shari’ah judgment (hukm sharī’) is made, whether:

- a. It is intended as being pure worship; drawing closer to Allah in order to achieve a particular spiritual, devotional or ascetic value, such as through the devotional acts of worship associated with prayer, remembrance and supplication.
- b. Or intended to achieve a congenital ethical value, like being honest, generous and even considerate to animal welfare.
- c. Intended as achieving a humanitarian value, such as helping others suffering from loss, like in war or in natural disasters; saving someone from drowning regardless of race, colour or religion etc.
- d. People seek to gain a greater moral standing, by praise or glory.
- e. Wanting to obtain a material benefit such as a monetary one obtained by payment or trade.

All of this division from optional human acts is considered within the domain of hukm sharī’. Adherence to the hukm sharī’ is the spiritual side of worshipping in it. If a person wishes to realise worshipping Allah according to all its conditions, they must adhere to the hukm sharī’ in all actions. That would result in being a spiritual worshipper.

Such an individual thus becomes worthy of praise and reward from Allah. ‘Worship’ here means acceptance of, contentment with, and obedience to the command of Allah, emerging from the utmost love and glorification of Allah, constructed upon firm belief to the level of certitude. It is also the absolute belief that Allah is the one true God, necessarily existing; al-Hayy (the ever-living) al-Qayyum (the self-existing by whom all subsist), the first who is uncreated and eternal, without beginning or end. He acts as he wills, creating whatsoever he wills or chooses. He cannot be questioned regarding what he does; nothing can reach his prerogative of command and he is swift in taking account.

In truth, this is ‘spirituality’ for it is a matter of consciousness and perception. There is nothing related to the matter of the spirit itself or whether the man is composed of material and spirit, regardless of whether that is a valid line of reasoning or not. As for what some of the scholars have said: ‘Customs (or mores) become acts of worship if accompanied with a correct intention,’ such wording is not strictly correct. Customs or to be more precise, the permissible, does not turn into that which is recommended (mustahab) or obligated (wājib) on the basis of certain intentions or consciousness. Whilst the one undertaking this may be deserving of a particular reward or perhaps even punishment, it is fundamentally not the same act. All of this will be detailed in a later chapter.

3 Distinguishing between ‘Deen’ and ‘Dunya’

The aforementioned arguments are easily recognisable with perception, reason and through the interpretation of the texts of revelation namely the Qur’ān and Sunnah. These are the only revealed legal texts. Allah, whose names and attributes are blessed and sanctified, has explicitly stated some of these points in the Qur’ān. He also revealed this to his infallible Prophet Abū Qāsim Mu‘āmmad ibn Abdullāh ibn ‘Abdul-Mu‘alib, the Hashemite, Qurayshī, Adnānī, Arab, the unlettered Prophet and Messenger, the last of the Prophets, the leader of Messengers – directly and explicitly, so that no exegesis - even if all texts are brought together - would be needed to further prove it. In this regard, the following texts set out the scriptural basis of this argument.

As reported in the Musnād of Imām Aḥmad with the upmost acknowledged authentic channel of transmission upon the authority of ‘Aishah, mother of the believers as well as Anas ibn Mālik:

'Aff n narrated to us he said amm d bin Salama narrated to us he said Th bit reported to us from Anas and Hish m bin 'Urwa from 'Urwa from 'Aisha that the Prophet (peace be upon him) heard some sounds. So, he asked - What are these sounds? It was said: It is the palm-tree being pollinated, O Messenger of Allah! He said: If they had not done that, it would have been better. So they did not do it that year and the date fruits did not ripen. They mentioned it to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and he said: If it is something related to your worldly affairs, it is your affair and if it is something from the commands of your Deen it is unto me.

Similar is reported in the Sunan of Ibn M jah,¹ as well as in other collections, such as in the Musnad of Abu Ya'la² and by Ibn ibb n in his Ṣaḥīḥ.³ Commenting upon this narration, Shaykh ussein Asad said that the channel of transmission was authentic (isnād Ṣaḥīḥ); whereas Shaykh Shu'ayb al-Arn 'u said that it was authentic upon the conditions as set out by Im m Muslim. Additionally, on the same subject Im m A mad cited the following narration in his Musnad:

Abda - ammad narrated to us amm d narrated to us from Th bit from Anas he said: The Prophet (peace be upon him) heard some sounds upon which he said: What is this? They replied pollinating date palms. So, he said: If it is left it would be better. They did not pollinate and less was yielded. Thus, the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: What (have) you (done)? They replied, we left it upon your statement. Upon this the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: If it is related to your worldly affair, you (are all) more knowledgeable of it. If it is something related to your Deen, it is (referred) to me.

Im m Muslim records a narration bearing the same meaning with an authentic chain of transmission in his Saḥīḥ,⁴ but with an insufficient summary. The narration contains the wording: 'You are more knowledgeable of your worldly affairs.' It is an aborted version that people unfortunately use in most cases. Another version similar to that of Muslim was recorded by D raqu ni, as well as by Al-Bazz r in his Musnad. Im m Abu Mu ammad Ali Ibn azm cited this in his seminal work al-Iḥkām fi Uṣūl al-Aḥkām (Judgement on the Principles of Law) via the channel as recorded by Al-Bazz r. The hadith related by Anas as found in Al-Bazz r states – 'You are more knowledgeable of what is good (for you in) worldly life. As for your hereafter, it is (referred) to me.' This narration seems to be of similar meaning, for one of the narrators must have replaced the word 'your Deen' with 'your hereafter.'

As for what is said by amm d ibn Salama, for example in Fawā'id Tamām,⁵ – from Hish m bin Urwa from Urwa from 'Aisha, it is more likely than that to go against all of what has been reported from Kh lid bin al-H rith, Muhadir and af bin Ghay th and other than them, as it is reported as loose (mursal). This has been confirmed by Im m D raqu ni in his 'Illal where it is stated:

³ Ṣaḥīḥ Ibn ibb n Vol. 1 sec. 202, no. 22

⁵ Fawā'id Tamām Vol. 3 sec. 83, no. 1082

And what is said from the hadith of ‘Urwa from ‘Aisha from the Prophet (peace be upon him) that he heard about the pollinating of date palms and said: (summary statements). He also said: as is reported from amm d ibn Salama from Hish m from his father from ‘Aisha, is at odds with what has been reported from Kh lid bin al-Harith, Muhadir and af bin Ghay th and other than them. The report from Hish m from his father is mursal and it is correct.

¹Imām Muslim records the next narration in his Sahīh.

Abdullah bin ar-Roomi al-Yam mi, ‘Abb s bin Abdal-‘Adtheem al-Anbari and A mad bin Ja’far al-Ma’qiri narrated to us they said: an-Na r bin Mu ammad narrated to us ‘Ikrima narrated to us (and he is Ibn ‘Amm r) Abul-Naj shi narrated to us R fi’ bin Khadij narrated to me, he said the Prophet (peace be upon him) came to Medina and the people had been grafting the trees. He said: What are you doing? They said: We are grafting them, whereupon he said: It may perhaps be good for you if you do not do that, so they abandoned this practice (and the date-palms) began to yield less fruit. They made a mention of it (to the Prophet), whereupon he said: I am a human being, so when I command you about a thing pertaining to religion, do Ikrima reported that he said something like this; al-Ma'qiri said (diminished) beyond any doubt.

Ibn ibb n cites the same tradition in his Sahīḥ,⁶ with the wording – ‘I am only human, if I narrate something to you concerning matters in relation to Deen, take it; if I narrate something regarding your worldly affairs, I am but human.’ After which Ibn ibb n says: ‘Abul-Najashi is the mawla of R fi’, his name is ‘A bin uhayb.’ The narration is further reported in Mujam al-Kabir of Im m a - abar ni,⁷ with wording similar to that as reported by Ibn ibb n. Concerning the narration, Shaykh Shu’ayb al-Arn ’u said the isnād was hasan. Definitely the hadith is Sahīḥ and is established by way of definitive proofs. And what has been said about the semblance of disturbance (iḍṭirāb) in the hadith of ‘Ikrima bin ‘Ammār, he is thiqā ma’moon but only in his hadith from Ya ya bin Abi Kathir and not other than it.

Following on from this, there is also the hadith of Jibr ibn Abdullah, which is related to the same subject matter and has an authentic channel of transmission as is its wording. Imam Maabarani reported this in the Mu'jam al-Awsat:

A mad narrated to us – he is Abu Abdullah A mad bin D wud bin Musa al-Makki - he said ‘Ayy sh bin al-Waleed ar-Raqq m narrated to us he said Mu ammad bin Fu eel narrated to us he said Muj lid bin Sa'eed narrated to us from ash-Sha'bi from J bir may Allah be pleased with him), he said: The Prophet (peace be upon him) saw the people pollinating the date palms, so he said: What are the people doing? He said: Pollinating O Messenger of Allah. He said – Don't pollinate (or) I don't see this pollination (being) anything. He said: so, the people left the pollination of (their) dates. So, the Prophet said: I am not an agriculturalist and not an owner of trees. You (may) pollinate!

abar ni also reports the same in his Mu'jam al-Kabir.⁸ It is also reported in *Sharh Mashkool al-Athār*⁹ via essentially the same channel, after which Im m a - a wi elicits us with the following important comment:

And this was not a report stemming from revelation that is from him (peace be upon him), but it was a speech concerning the apparent reality in which people are equal regarding to understand it, then they are going to disagree on this matter, and that will distinguish the people of knowledge and differ them from those who have no knowledge. And the Messenger (peace be upon him) wasn't among those who were experts of this (in other words, of planting, pollination), nor was his land one in which there were date-palms, because he (peace be upon him) was from Mecca. This is the contrary to that of Medina, where the Prophet (peace be upon him) had migrated to and he lent a hand and worked with its people in order to repair the planting of palm tree's, more so than the people of Mecca. The comment in this matter over the Prophet's speech is: it's possible that the Prophet said so, and his speech was according to what he thought to be impossible, and his speech was just from that doubt.

⁹ Sharh Mashkool al-Athār Vol. 4 sec. 425, no. 1723

There is also the narration which is in Kashf al-Astār 'an Zawā'id al-Bazzār with the alternate wording of:

Mu ammad ibn al-Muthanna narrated to us 'Ayy sh bin Abb n narrated to us Mu ammad bin Fu eel narrated to us from Muj lid from ash-Sha'bi from J bir that the Prophet (peace be upon him) once observed the people pollinating the date-palm and he said: (From) what I see this won't do anything. So the people left that the next year.

Al-Bazz r said: 'We don't know of it reported from Ibn Fu eel except by Mu ammad bin 'Amr at-Tanuri and 'Ayy sh and they are both Basran.' As well as 'Ayy sh bin Abb n and with this odd wording which is close to that from the single wording of the ahādīth by Im m Muslim, but it is from al-Bazz r, he was dictating this from his memory and there were many great errors. There is also what has been reported in al-Kharrāj of Ya ya bin Adam:

_____:

Ism 'il reported to us he said al- asan narrated to us he said Ya ya narrated to us he said Abu Bakr bin 'Ayy sh narrated to us from Sulaym n at-Taymi from Abu Mijlaz he said the Prophet (peace be upon him) went to a garden of the An r and (there) they were pollinating date palms. So he (the Prophet) said: this isn't of any use. (Therefore) they left it and the date palms didn't bear dates. Thus, the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Come back, for what I said to you, I did not know.

Imām Muslim also reports this in his Sahīh:

: : ! : :

Qutayba bin Sa'eed ath-Thaqafi and Abu Kamil al-Ja' dari narrated to us and the wording converges and this is Qutayba's hadīth; they said Abu 'Awāna narrated to us from Simmāk from Musa bin 'Alā from his father he said: I and Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) happened to pass by people near the date-palm trees. He (the Prophet) said: What are these people doing? They said: They are grafting, i.e. they combine the male with the female (tree) and thus they yield more fruit. Thereupon Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) said: I do not find it to be of any use. The people were informed about it and they abandoned this practice. Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) (was later) informed (that the yield had dwindled), whereupon he said: If there is any use of it, then they should do it, for it was just an assumption of mine, and do not go after my assumption; but when I say to you anything on behalf of Allah, then accept it, for I do not attribute a lie to Allah, the exalted and glorious.

Imām A'mad bin Anbal cites the report in his Musnad in two places.¹⁰ The later, containing the wording: 'That was only my thought. If it will do any good, then do it. I am only mortal like you, and what I think may be right or wrong. But when I tell you: "Allah the exalted and majestic says", I will never tell lies about Allah, the exalted and majestic.' The same narration is reported with authentic and good channels of narration in several collections.¹¹

All of the above is reported via the channel of Simmāk bin 'Arb from Musa bin 'Alā from his father 'Alā bin 'Ubaydallah (may Allah be pleased with him). The hadīth is connected and authentic and we know of no defect within it. Simmāk bin 'Arb is trustworthy (thiqā) and truthful (sadooq). But there is a semblance of disturbance (idqirāb) in some of the hadīth from 'Ikrima.

The narration from 'Alā bin 'Ubaydallah (may Allah be pleased with him) carries an important addition with significant implications. Contained with the narrative is the reported formulation of his words that he had expressed a thought made upon an assumption. As will be demonstrated later in exhaustive detail, the Prophet (peace be upon him) is rendered infallible in his delivery of the message by Allah. Hence the people had mistaken his assumption regarding a matter concerning human affairs, thinking that it was in some sense related to revelation. As shown in the text where he said: *That was only my thought. If it will do any good, then do it. I am only mortal like you, and what I think may be right or wrong. But when I tell you: "Allah the exalted and majestic said", I will never tell lies about Allah, the exalted and majestic.*¹²

All narrations demonstrate this truth without any room for doubt.

Consequently, where he said: 'If they had not done that, it would have been better.' In the case where its lettering was preserved and not from the narrators reporting it with the meaning, 'If they had left that pollination, it would have been better;' the form being a meaning carrying an exclusion, a command to leave the pollination of palm trees. At the same time, he (peace be upon him) is an infallible Prophet, and rendering obedience to him is obliged. And his speech in that specific regard, was that of a thought, an assumption. If there was certainty in that matter, the manner of expression would have reflected that clearly, such as: if you do that, it will not produce the desired effect. And it became clearer when we said: 'maybe if you didn't so that would be better!'

Expressing the matter in the form of a wish or desire to, shows that there is an underlying assumption in the wording. That is clear from his speech, ‘I don’t think that pollination is going to benefit,’ because when a person says, ‘I think’, it conveys that there is an assumption being made, which could be right or wrong in relation to the matter. When he (peace be upon him) said: ‘I don’t see this pollination (being) anything,’ which is more obvious, because: it was an opinion or thought, an assumption, which can be mistaken, without any doubt. The Prophet (peace be upon him) wasn’t an individual who was an agriculturalist, he didn’t cultivate or grow date-palms and would thus not have prior knowledge in relation to pollination and other similar processes. Hence, his statement of recall for what he had instructed: ‘Come back, for what I said to you, I did not know.’ And that is expressly put, just like where he (peace be upon him) said: ‘That was only my thought. If it will do any good, then do it,’ which is also explicit. The statements of the Prophet (peace be upon him) were perhaps not that of an express command, in other words saying: ‘leave this pollination.’ In reply, their reported wording was not that of ‘you commanded us to obey and we thus complied.’

Understanding the distinction here is very important, given that the Prophet (peace be upon him) had also clarified this point. As revelation ultimately originates with Allah, it comes with certain knowledge and firm truth. Assumptions, even if made by the final messenger of Allah, cannot be construed as being truth, because in this area of opinion which does not ultimately emanate from revelation, he can make a mistake; such a mistake can never be regarded as correct.

And this also is entirely the case in what is conclusive evidence to support that he wasn't speaking from revelation, but that he was speaking from himself, similar to his acceptance or rejection of witness testimony by litigants in a judicial setting. Or even in relation to the reports which are brought before him. Greater detail concerning the subject will be detailed shortly, with the grace of Allah. Let us limit ourselves here with what we said, as has been reported in Kashf al-Astār an Zawā'id al-Bazzār:

Ism 'il ibn Abdullah al-A bah ni narrated to us ussein bin af narrated to us Kha b bin Ja'far bin Abul'Mughira narrated to us from his father from Sa'eed bin Jubayr from Ibn 'Abb s he said: The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) was passing in some date-palm (groves) in Medina. Thus, he made the people speak (concerning) a wasq (one camel load). The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: This and that. They replied: Allah and his Messenger have spoken the truth. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Indeed, I am but mortal, so when I narrate to you from Allah, it is the truth. If what I say in it from myself, then indeed I am but mortal and suffer loss and am mistaken.

After this, al-Bazzār commented by saying, ‘We don’t know of it being reported from Ibn ‘Abbās by other than this (particular) isnād.’ There is also another report contained in Kashf al-Astār an Zawā’id al-Bazzār:

A mad bin Manur narrated to us Abdullah bin Uthman narrated to us al-Layth narrated to us from Ibn ‘Ajlān from Zayd from Abu Uthman from Abu Hurayrah from the Prophet (peace be upon him), he said: Whatever I reported to you that it was from Allah, it is beyond doubt.

Again, after citing this, al-Bazzār comments by saying, ‘We don’t know of it being reported from Abu Hurayrah by other than this (particular) isnād.’ Likewise, there is the report which is contained in the Musnad of Imam Ahmad,¹³ with an authentic channel of transmission and it is a particularly long narrative:

Yazeed bin Hurr narrated to us ‘Abdullah bin Salama reported to us from Thabit from Abdullah ibn Rabbah from Abu Qatādah he said: We were with the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) on a journey. He said - If you do not reach (a place of) water by tomorrow, you would become thirsty! The people rushed seeking water, but I lingered behind with the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). Riding his camel, the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) leaned and he took a nap. So I tried to rest him on me and he rested on me. Then he leaned, and I tried to rest him on me and he rested. Then he lent again till he almost fell from his camel. Then I tried to rest him on me but he woke up and asked - Who is the man? I said Abu Qatādah. He asked: How long have you been traveling? I said, Since this night. He said: May Allah safeguard you as you have safeguarded His Messenger! He said, What if we spent the night here?

He lent towards the tree and climbed down the riding camel. Then he said - Behold! Can you see anybody?” I said - Here is one person on a camel. There is the other. The number came to a total of seven. He said: Keep (try not to forget) the time of our prayer! We slept over and were awakened only by the heat of the sun. We woke up and the Prophet (peace be upon him) rode his animal. He moved ahead and we moved slowly, then he got off asking - Do you have water? I said, Yes, I have a container with a little water. He said, Bring it to me and I did. He said - Just take a dribble, just take a dribble. The people performed ablution and there remained a small amount of water. He said, Keep it Abu Qatādah, for it will be of use. Then Bilal called for the prayer and they performed two rakat before Fajr prayer and then performed Fajr prayer. Then he rode and we rode too.

People said to one another - We have not performed prayers properly (delaying its performance from due time). The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: What is it that you are saying? If it is a worldly matter, it is up to you, but if it is a religious matter, it is (referred) to me. We said, “O Messenger of Allah! We have not performed the due prayers properly. He said, There is no negligence due to sleep, but it is while being awake. If it is so, then perform the same prayers tomorrow at its due time. Then he said, What do you think the people (say about us)? They said - Yesterday, you said if you do not arrive to (a place of) water by tomorrow, you will become thirsty. People are at the place of water. The people woke up the next morning missing their Prophet (peace be upon him). They said to each other: The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) is at the place of water. Among the people were Abu Bakr and Umar. They said: O People! The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) can never precede you to the place of water and leave you behind! If people were to obey Abu Bakr and Umar, they would have been guided.' (It was said three times).

At noon, the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) rose to them. They said, O Messenger of Allah! We have almost died out of thirst. He said, Allah forbids that you may perish. Then he said, 'Abu Qatādah! Get your container. I brought it to him. Then he said, Untie my cup for me. I did and brought it to him. He started to pour water in the cup, and provide the people with it. So people were crowded around him. He said, O you people! Behave properly, for all will drink. Everyone drank except myself and the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). He poured water for me saying, Go ahead - drink Abu Qatādah. I said, 'You drink first, O Messenger of Allah.' He said, The person who gives water for the people is the last one to drink. So I drank and he drank after me. The same amount of water that was in the container remained in it. That day, the people were about three hundred.

Abdullah ibn A'mad bin Anbal said: 'Ibn 'Umayr narrated to us from Thabit from Abdullah ibn Rabbah from Abu Qatada from the Prophet (peace be upon him) with a similar narration.' And Abdullah ibn A'mad bin Anbal also said: 'Ibn 'Umayr - who is Ibn 'Umayr bin al-'Ajjāj as-Salami - narrated to us from Thabit from Abdullah ibn Rabbah from Abu Qatada from the Prophet (peace be upon him) similarly.' Concerning this Shaykh Shu'ayb al-Arn'awi has said: 'The isnād is Ṣaḥīḥ upon the conditions of (Imām) Muslim and its men are trustworthy, (being) the men of the two Shaykh's (sic. Bukhari and Muslim) bar A'mad bin Salama.' I would submit that A'mad bin Salama bin Dinar is resolutely trustworthy and from the scholars of the Muslims. Indeed, it is acknowledged that there was an objection raised from Bukhari and he did not report from him. However many have accepted narrators considerably below his particular rank. Also Bukhari did not report anything via Abdullah ibn Rabbah and he is regarded as being trustworthy by scholarly consensus. Hence all of these channels are considered resolutely authentic and therefore taken as being decisive proof.¹⁴

Imām Muslim cites the next narration in his Ṣaḥīḥ via a channel other than that by way of A'mad ibn Salama. The isnād is resolutely authentic:

And Shaybān bin Farrouk narrated to us Sulaymān – that is to say – ibn al-Mughira narrated to us Thabit narrated to us from Abudllah bin Rabbah from Abu Qatada he said: the Prophet (peace be upon him) addressed us and he said: You would travel in the evening and the night till (God willing) you would come in the morning to a place of water. So the people travelled (self-absorbed) without paying any heed to one another...¹⁵

The narration continues bearing the same meaning as those previously cited, however the crucial sentence - If it is a worldly matter, it is up to you, but if it is a religious matter, it is (referred) to me – is not reported, or its substitute wording. It also is reported in the Musnad of

¹⁵ Only a short excerpt of the full hadīth is cited

Ibn Ja'd.¹⁶ The hadith – both in the long / shorter format – reach us through various channels, both Sahīh and hasan. It is noted that this is also reported in the Sahīh of Ibn Khuzayma in a shorter format;¹⁷ the Sunan of Abu D wud;¹⁸ Sharḥ Ma'āni al-Athār of Im m a - a wi,¹⁹ and also in the Sunan of Im m D raqu ni.²⁰ Very briefly confined to the saying which the Messenger (peace be upon him) said: 'If it is one of the matters of your Deen, then it is referred to me.' We say – Oh Messenger of Allah, we send our prayers upon you to excess. And he (peace be upon him) also said: 'There is no negligence in sleep. The negligence is in wakefulness. If any of you forget saying prayer, he should offer it when he remembers it and next day (he should say it) at its proper time.' We have mentioned this beautiful and dignified hadith – indeed every hadith of the Prophet is beautiful and dignified – in relation to the judgement concerning the Prophetic signs which establish Mu ammad's (peace be upon him) Prophethood.

The authentic ahādīth previously mentioned rest upon the testimony of five of the Prophet's companions (may Allah be pleased with all of them). They are Anas bin M lik, R fi' bin Khadij, Abu Qat dah, Imr n bin ussein and al a bin 'Ubaidallah. These narratives are further supported by the mursal narratives which have reached us from 'Urwa bin az-Zubayr and he is from the older senior Tābi'een and perhaps it is taken from 'Aisha (may Allah be pleased with her) or from other senior Sahābah, which in turn are supported by the mursal narration of Abu Mijlaz. Abu Mijlaz is from the junior Tābi'een, having heard from Ibn 'Abb s as well as from Ibn Umar both of which are from the class of junior Sahābah. Indeed this has come upon the testimony of six authentic channels, each being independent from the other and being contrasted from the other. When looking at this objectively, it does not seem plausible that all the narrators could have colluded in order to fabricate such an incident. Nor can it be said that the reported facts, given the independent channels are but a figment of the imagination borne of a mistaken narrator. One can thus be assured with decisive certainty that the Prophet (peace be upon him) has indeed said:

- ❖ If it is something related to your worldly affairs, it is your affair and if it is something from the commands of your Deen it is unto me.
- ❖ You know (better) with what is related to your worldly affairs; that relating to your hereafter is (referred) to me.
- ❖ I am a human being, so when I command you about a thing pertaining to Deen, do accept it, and when I command you about a thing out of my personal opinion, keep it in mind that I am a human being.
- ❖ If it is related to your worldly affair, you (are all) more knowledgeable of it.

It is like that to be the riwayāt with the meaning of the first hadith because of the more numerous reporting routes and the most powerful of the first hadith as it comes with the first wording. It is identical to the second hadith and not the third except in remote way, because he said: 'If I narrate to you something concerning your worldly affairs, I am but mortal.' Consequently, the first part bears the condition, without the answer to this condition. It is discarded therefore by necessity – 'I am mortal like you all.' Not having more knowledge than you, and not interfering in it; and I do not speak about it, it is your affair! Or close to that. Some narrators have given an exaggerated version of the meaning of the hadith or its shortened wording, as is the case of the version recorded by Im m Muslim. He only recorded, 'You are more knowledgeable of your worldly affairs.' Thus, several significant points and judgments implied in the complete authentic version of the hadith were lost by this abridgement. This should be a lesson learned and a warning against narrating the meanings of aḥādīth instead of the exact wording. It also emphasizes the necessity of strictly adhering to the infallible words uttered by the honorable and infallible Prophet (peace be upon him). Furthermore, this also necessitates tracing the chains of transmission and making sure of the different narrations.

When the Prophet (peace be upon him) said, 'If it is a worldly matter, it is up to you, but if it is a religious matter, it is (referred) to me' he referred all worldly matters to the people and made it their own affair to study, discover, experience and apply them. In other words, the theoretical science acquired by the innate nature of people, their senses, experience and reason as well as the application, use of skill, specialisation of crafts, professions, industry, practices, methods and means, are all permissible and lawful for people. They are allowed to do what they want, whenever they want, and in whatever manner they wish. To further illustrate this point, let us examine critically once again the example of pollinating palm trees. When we examine the relationship between pollinating trees, both the ripeness of the fruit and the productivity of the crop and what is similar to that, it is considered a worldly affair. It is not a question of the legal judgment pertaining to pollination, whether or not it is obligatory, desirable, permissible, disliked or prohibited. Nor is it a moral judgment whether it was good or bad, for both aspects are purely 'religious.'

'Worldly life' (Dunya) is the perceptible world existing and bearing certain qualities and properties, whose constituents and concrete objects are related according to certain laws. In other words, the world as it is in itself. It covers all its concrete objects, qualities, powers, properties, the related sciences and knowledge, the related human skills, crafts, professions and industries and all the products and services resulting from all of these constituents. This is the exact definition of the phrase 'worldly life', as illustrated above by the detailed thorough examination of the reality of palm trees, their division into male and female; the need for the female tree to be pollinated by the male tree, of people undertaking the pollination process regularly to ensure its soundness and success, the quality of the product and its high productivity. Add to this, they do not depend on wind and bees, which originally and instinctively undertake the process to perform pollination.

Our Deen - al-Islam, is not merely just a collection of ritualistic acts of worship, belief in the unseen, or merely limited to morals and manners, as is the case in the Western concept of 'religion.' In fact, all the voluntary human deeds are subject to Sharī'ah legal judgment. In the Arabic language, the word 'ad-Deen' is a considered a māṣdar or verbal noun. The act is dāna, yadeen, deenan and diyāna. It denotes anything that is worshipped beside Allah. The various denominations that the word can refer to is – customs, cults, reckoning or accounting, kingdom or dominion, ruling/judgement, reigning, and authority. The verb /dāna/ is to subdue, make others subservient and make others obedient. Whereas /dāna bi kadtha/ is to adopt something as a Deen and worship it. The term /dāna fulān fulānum/ is for one person to hold another accountable, to reward, punish him and control him. As it is reported in an-Nihāya fi Ghareeb al-Athar:²¹

Deen: From the names of Allah, the most high, is ad-Dayyān and it is said that this is synonymous with his name, al-Qahhār, The Subduer. It is also stated that it is synonymous with The Ruler, The Judge. The word, ad-Dayyān, is an emphatic noun form from the phrase 'dānan-nas' which means to subdue them to obey. It is said that when one says 'deen-tu-hum fa dānū' that it means 'I have subdued them and so they obey'. Another evidence for this opinion is the poetry of al-'Amash al-irmāz which addressed the Prophet, may Allah honour him and grant him peace, 'Master of people and dayyān of the Arabs'. There is also a hadith; It is upon me to be the dayyān of this nation.

²¹ an-Nihāya fi Ghareeb al-Athar Vol. 2 sec. 148, no. 1,216

Also there is the hadith of Abi alib when the Prophet, may Allah honour him and grant him peace, said to him: I want the Quraysh to say a word that, with it, they will tadīn the Arabs. In other words tadīn means 'make them obey' and 'cause them to humbled.' Another hadith is, The one who is of intellect and manners is the one who dāna over their soul and prepares for what is after death. In other words, dāna here is 'to humble their soul and make a worshipper out of it.' It is also said that it means 'to account for their soul.'

In my opinion the most correct meaning is that ad-Diyyān is synonymous with the names of the ruler and the judge. Elsewhere in the same work, an-Nihāya fi Ghareeb al-Athar, the following is mentioned also:

Al-Kha bi said: 'The scholars of the Muslims have unanimously agreed that the Khawārij, due to their misguidance, are a group from the deviant groups of the Muslims. Despite this, their marriages, slaughter of meat and testimonies are valid and accepted. When Ali bin Abi lib was questioned about them it was said to him, 'Are they non-believers?' He responded, 'What disbelief have they shown?' They said, 'Are they from the hypocrites?' He responded, 'Little do the hypocrites remember Allah and, as for them, they remember Allah in morning and evening.' It was then said, 'So what exactly are they?' Ali responded, 'A group of people who have been afflicted by a great calamity and have consequently become blind and deaf.'

Al-Kha bi continues to say, 'Therefore the meaning of the Prophet's statement, may Allah honour him and grant him peace, 'they will pass through this Deen...' is that he intended by 'deen', obedience. In other words, that they would exit from the obedience of the leader who it is obligatory to follow and that they would detach themselves from him; and Allah knows best.' And in the hadith of Salm n, 'Indeed Allah will yadīn for the hornless livestock like he does with those that have horns', yadīn means 'to follow up and recompense' therefore Deen can also mean recompense.

The Deen of Islam therefore, is not just a spiritual belief on which a moral system is based and with which ritual acts of worship are associated. It is not just a 'religion' in the Western sense of the term. Deen denotes a certain way of living, how the world should be, i.e. how should we behave in this world. It is a holistic system and not just a set of beliefs regarding the unseen, ritual acts of worship, or proper morals and manners as is the case with the Western concept of the word 'religion'. As mentioned above, Deen is much wider in scope than that. It is a regulation of all relations and it is supported by an innumerable number of convincing evidences that are considered to be acknowledged facts. To further clarify the idea, some of the following examples may be outlined:

Post-Pollination

After the first incident of pollination in the early period at Medina, the Prophet (peace be upon him) stated that religious affairs should be referred only to him, while all worldly affairs were referred to the people. He reiterated this distinction at various junctures and through a number of authentic hadith. It has been established through recurrent incidents, historical facts, and through the acknowledgement of all believers and disbelievers that the Prophet (peace be upon him) had commanded, prohibited, informed and conducted innumerable transactions, punishments, governmental judgments, international affairs, war and peace and many other matters that definitely go beyond the unseen beliefs, acts of worship, and proper manners and morals. Consequently, this proves that all are considered matters of Deen.

Prescribing Punishment

Allah the exalted prescribed the penalty of lashing as a punishment for committing adultery. He also made it obligatory that a group of believers witness the execution of this penalty:

الَّذِي نَهَا مَنْهَا مَاهَةً جَنْدَةً وَلَا تَأْخُذُمْ بِهِمَا رَأْفَةً فِي دِينِ اللَّهِ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ تُؤْمِنُونَ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ وَلِيَشَهِدْ عَذَابَهُمَا طَائِفَةٌ مِّنَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ

(As for) the fornicatress and the fornicator, flog each of them, (giving) a hundred stripes, and let not pity for them detain you in the matter of obedience to Allah, if you believe in Allah and the last day, and let a party of believers witness their chastisement.²²

This is a conclusive Sharī'ah legal text, denoting the prohibition of adultery and the prescribed worldly penalty for it should neither be forgiven, nor tolerated out of tenderness or mercy towards those committing the crime. It also indicates that a number of believers witnessing adultery being committed and the number of believers witnessing the punishment are among the matters of the Deen of Allah.

The Prophet Yusuf

In the Qur'an we are told of how Allah enabled Yusuf (peace be upon him) to detain his brother in Egypt. He executed the penalty of theft - prescribed in the jurisdiction of Ya'qub (peace be upon him) since it was enslaving thieves instead of the penalty prescribed in the jurisdiction of the king of Egypt. Allah says:

[Joseph] began by searching their bags, then his brother's, and he pulled it out from his brother's bag. In this way, We devised a plan for Joseph—if Allah had not willed it so, he could not have detained his brother as a penalty under the king's law - We raise the rank of whoever We will. Above everyone who has knowledge there is the One who is all knowing.²³

It is known by necessity that the discussion here does not deal with matters related to the unseen or ritual acts of worship, nor is it related to morals or even mannerisms. It deals with the crime of theft and whether its penalty is executed according to the jurisdiction of Ya'qub or that of the king – which is the Deen, jurisdiction – as stated in the Qur'an. His 'Deen' means his laws and system and not his belief relating to the unseen, or rituals of worship. The discussion here does not deal with that and is not related to it at all. Limiting revelation to matters of 'religion' does not mean at all that revelation is not concerned with worldly matters. In fact, it might be concerned with some or many worldly matters.

In the Musnad of Imam Ahmad the following hadith which is Sahih is reported:

Al-Waleed bin Muslim narrated to us Abdul-Aziz bin Isma'il bin 'Ubaidallah narrated to me that Sulayman bin abeeb narrated to them from Abu Umama al-Bahili from the Prophet (peace be upon him), he said: Verily, the knots of Islam will be undone one by one. Whenever one knot is lost then the people grab onto the one which came after it. The first of these knots will be the ruling (al-hukm) and the last will be the Salāh.

²³ Qur'an 12: 76

It is also reported in a large number of hadith collections, such as:

- ❖ Sahīḥ Ibn Ibb n [Vol. 15 sec. 11, no. 6,715]. Shaykh Shu'ayb al-Arn 'u said the isnād was strong (qawi). It is as he said, the isnād is strong, Sahīḥ and can be taken as a proof
- ❖ Al-Mustadrak of Al-kim [Vol. 4 sec. 104, no. 7,022] and following citation Al-kim said: 'And the isnād, all of it is Sahīḥ, but they did not record it.'
- ❖ In the works of Im m abar ni, Mu'jam al-Kabir [Vol. 8 sec. 98, no. 7,486] and Musnad ash-Shāfiy [Vol. 2 sec. 411, no. 1,602]
- ❖ Sha'b al-'Imān by Im m Bayhaqy [Vol. 11 sec. 261, no. 5,045 & Vol. 16 sec. 72, no. 7,265]
- ❖ Ma'rifa aṣ-Ṣāḥabah by Abu Nu'aym al-A bah ni [Vol. 11 sec. 47, no. 3,427]

The legal texts are explicit in relation to the fact that the ruling (al-hukm) of Islam is also used in the same sense as the Deen and the Salāh. In this regard, they are completely alike. The term 'ha ka ma' [حاکم] or ruled, will be detailed further in relation to the word of Hākimiyah. From perusal of the Qur' n it can be discerned that there are seven usages of the term:

1. Hikmah (wisdom): situating matters in their rightful position; whoever does so is hakeem (wise).
2. Al-Ihkām (accuracy, perfection): relating to the perfection of crafts and achieving the ultimate aim of a deed, whoever does so is called muḥkim, namely the one who perfected.
3. Judging the deeds of mankind on the Day of Judgement and resolving their disputes finally and forever which is the exclusive right of Allah alone and the verses of the Glorious Qur' n which prove demonstrate this are numerous.

4. Issuing judgement or Fatwa. This is not restricted to giving an opinion in a legal matter but can also relate to opinions in matters of perception, rational ideas, aesthetics or ethics. As an example, we rule, or judge - naḥkum, that reincarnation is a clear falsehood as is the Christian doctrine of the Trinity; telling lies is rationally unacceptable etc. Numerous examples abound to highlight this point, such as where Allah states:

أَفَنْجُلُ الْمُسْلِمِينَ كَالْمُجْرِمِينَ، مَا لَكُمْ كَيْفَ تَحْكُمُونَ

*Should We treat those who submit to Us as We treat those who do evil? What is the matter with you? On what basis do you judge?*²⁴

5. Resolving disputes and issuing judgements that are legally binding. This specifically relates to the acts of judicial bodies and certain authorities that have this vested power. A judge is called a hākim and his legally binding verdict a hukm.
6. Management of public affairs. Under this comes the modern notion of public ruling and government, such as running the affairs of state, applying and executing laws etc. Whoever assumes this role is called a hākim – a ruler or can even be referred to as a wali or wali ul-'amr, sultan etc. Modern political usage has the term of hukumah to mean the government and its executive branch.
7. Legislation. This relates to enacting and implementing laws, rules, regulations and delineating constitutional principles and boundaries.

Essentially the last four connotations of the word hukm concern this present research, namely: informed opinion and fatwa; judicial decisions; executive acts or actions, and legislation.

The word used – namely Deen - is narrower than that to mean only government and the judiciary. As has been reported from the dignified companion of the Prophet (peace be upon him), Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, cited in the Muṣṣanaf of Abdar-Razz q with a good isnād:

Abdar-Razz q reported to us from 'A im from Zirr ibn ubaysh he said Ibn Mas'ud said: as-Suht – (is) bribery in Deen. Sufy n said: that is to say, in the hukm.

It is also reported in Akhbār al-Qudā:

Is q ibn asan reported to me he said Abu udhayfah narrated to us he said Sufy n narrated to us from 'A im from Zirr from Abdullah: as-Suht is bribery in Deen.

The word 'Deen' may be used to denote allegiance, affiliation, and carrying citizenship. That is, either by way of utilising the name to signify all or a part of that for rhetorical purposes, which would also include referring to a part to signify the wider whole. Like what has been reported by Im m Bukh ri in his collection of Sahīh:

Ali ibn Abdullah narrated to us Sufy n narrated to us from Ayub from 'Ikrima that Ali may Allah be pleased with him, burnt some people and this matter reached Ibn 'Abb s who said: Had I been in his place, I would not have burnt them, as the Prophet peace be upon him said: Don't punish with Allah's Punishment. No doubt, I would have executed them, for the Prophet peace be upon him said: *Whoever changes his Deen, then he is to be executed.*²⁵

Similar is also cited in the Musnad of Im m A mad bin anbal, reported on the authority of Mu' dth ibn Jabal:

Abdar-Razz q narrated to us Ma'mar reported to us from Ayub from umayd ibn Hil l al-Adawi from Abu Burda, he said: Abu Musa came upon Mu' dth ibn Jabal in Yemen, when a man said: what is this? He said: There was a Jew who accepted (but) reverted from Islam two months (prior), and we wanted him to remain upon Islam. He said: By Allah, I shall not be seated until you strike his neck, so strike his neck since the Messenger of Allah said: Whoever reverts from his Deen, he is to be executed. Or he said: Whoever changes his Deen, then he

That is also to be found in the Muṣṣanaf of Abdar-Razz q with the addition carried by Abdar-Razz q being: ‘Ma’mar said: and I heard Qat dah saying, Mu’ dth said: by Allah, I shall not sit until they strike his back.’²⁶ Im m a - abar ni reports in his Mu’jam al-Kabir from Mu’ wiya ibn ayda:

D wud ibn Mu ammad ibn li al-Marwazi narrated to us awtha ibn Ashras narrated to us amm d ibn Salama narrated to us from Bahz ibn akeem from his father from his grandfather, he said: The Messenger of Allah peace be upon him said: Whoever changes his Deen, execute him. No repentance of the slave is accepted by Allah, by Kufr after his Islam.

It is also cited again by abar ni in Mu’jam al-Awsat, upon the authority of Abu Hurayrah:

Mas’ud ibn Mu ammad ar-Ramli narrated to us ‘Imr n ibn H run narrated to us Ibn Lahiya narrated to us Bukeer ibn

²⁶ Muṣṣanaf Abdar-Razz lq [Vol. 10, sec. 168, no. 18705]

Abdullah ibn al-Ashaj narrated to me from Sulaym n ibn Yass r from Abu Hurayrah, that the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him said: Whoever changes his Deen, execute him. Thereafter Im m a - abar ni said: This ḥadīth wasn’t narrated from Bukeer except by way of Ibn Lahiya.

What is being expressed here it not merely one of switching from the Deen, namely what is construed as being apostasy from Islam in the classic sense of the term, or for that matter, conversion from one Deen to another in general, as has been construed by the majority of the fuqahā (jurists). Rather, it is the severance of affiliation; leaving the political community (al-Jamā’ah), and / or being accompanied by rebellion against the just lawfully constituted ruler. Leaving that obedience may be from amongst the following:

1. To renounce an ostensibly Islamic ‘citizenship’ and leave the domain of Islam (dar al-Islam) and move to a domain of war (dar al-harb). By undertaking this act, the individual would be considered a ‘waring apostate’, aligning with hostile waring disbelieving forces.
2. To remain within the domain of Islam (dar al-Islam), but to engage in operations other than war, namely, to spy, engage in acts of sabotage or the like, on behalf of hostile waring disbelieving forces, an individual would be regarded as a ‘waring apostate.’
3. To remain within the domain of Islam (dar al-Islam) and compel its people by armed force to disbelief and idolatry (kufr and shirk). Any individual undertaking that would be treated as waging war and fought accordingly, like the Khawārij and other types of insurrectionism.
4. Remaining within the domain of Islam (dar al-Islam) and engaging in brigandage.

5. Where a legitimate Imam has been justly appointed within the domain of Islam (dar al-Islam), but instead of being lawfully obeyed is opposed by force.

Such acts that relate to fighting are in relation to specific crimes, where the individual may at times be considered an apostate, at other times not. The proof for that, has been set out by the majestic, glorified be his names:

فَمَا لَكُمْ فِي الْمُنَافِقِينَ فِتَنَّنِ وَاللَّهُ أَرْكَسَهُمْ بِمَا كَسَبُوا أَتَرِيدُونَ أَنْ تَهْدُوا مِنْ أَصْنَالِ اللَّهِ وَمَنْ يُضْلِلِ اللَّهُ فَلَنْ تَجِدَ لَهُ سَبِيلًا

Why are you divided in two about the hypocrites, when Allah himself has rejected them because of what they have done? Do you want to guide those Allah has left to stray? If Allah leaves anyone to stray, you will never find the way for him.

*They desire that you should disbelieve as they have disbelieved, to be like them. So do not take them as allies until they migrate for Allah's cause. If they turn [on you], then seize and kill them wherever you encounter them.
 Take none of them as an ally or supporter.*

But as for those who seek refuge with people with whom you have a treaty, or who come over to you because their hearts shrink from fighting against you or against their own people, Allah could have given them power over you, and they would have fought you. So if they withdraw and do not fight you, and offer you peace, then Allah gives you no way against them.

You will find others who wish to be safe from you, and from their own people, but whenever they are back in a situation where they are tempted [to fight you], they succumb to it. So if they neither withdraw, nor offer you peace, nor restrain themselves from fighting you, seize and kill them wherever you encounter them: We give you clear authority against such people.²⁷

A mad bin anbal and Mu ammad ibn al-Muthanna narrated to us, and (this is) the wording of A mad, they said: Abdar-Ra man ibn Mahdi narrated to us from Sufyān from al-'Amash from Abdullah ibn Murra from Masruq from Abdullah, he said: The Messenger of Allah peace be upon him stood up and said: By Him besides whom there is no god but He, the blood of a Muslim who bears the testimony that there is no god but Allah, and I am His Messenger, may be lawfully shed only in the case of three persons: the one who abandons Islam, and deserts the community [A mad is doubtful whether the word used li'l-jamā'ah or al-jamā'ah), and the married adulterer, and life for life. Al-'Amash said: I narrated this tradition to Ibrāhīm, he narrated to me similarly from al-Aswad from 'Aisha.

²⁷ Qur'an 4: 88/91

Again, Imam Muslim records in his collection of Sahīh with the following wording:

Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba narrated to us 'af ibn Ghayth, Mu'wiya and Waki' narrated to us from al-'Amash from Abdullah ibn Murra from Masruq from Abdullah, he said: The Messenger of Allah peace be upon him said: It is not permissible to take the life of a Muslim who testifies there is no god but Allah, and I am the Messenger of Allah, but in one of the three cases: the married adulterer, a life for life, and the deserter of his Deen, abandoning the community.

Imam Bukhari also has this in his collection of Sahīh with the following wording:

Umar ibn 'af narrated to us my father narrated to us al-'Amash narrated to us from Abdullah ibn Murra from Masruq from Abdullah, he said: The Messenger of Allah peace be upon him said: The blood of a Muslim who testifies that there is no god Allah and that I am His Messenger, cannot be shed except in three cases: life for life, a married fornicator and the one who abandons his Deen and deserts the community.

Reporting on the authority of 'Aisha, mother of the believers, Imam an-Nas'i cites the next tradition in his Sunan with a Sahīh isnād:

A mad ibn 'af ibn Abdullah reported to us he said my father narrated to me, he said Ibrhim narrated to me from Abdal-Aziz ibn Rufeeh' from 'Ubayd ibn 'Umayr from 'Aisha, mother of the believers, from the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him that he said: *It is not permissible to kill a Muslim except in one of three cases: A adulterer who has been married, who is to be stoned; a man who kills a Muslim deliberately; and a man who exits Islam and wages war against Allah, the mighty and sublime and His Messenger, who is to be executed, crucified or banished from the land.*²⁸

The wording reported '...and a man who exits Islam and wages war against Allah, the mighty and sublime and His Messenger, who is to be killed, crucified or banished from the land,' is confirmed as per the noble verses cited here:

إِنَّمَا جَزَاءَ الَّذِينَ يُحَارِبُونَ اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ وَيَسْعُونَ فِي الْأَرْضِ فَسَادًا أَن يُقْتَلُوا أَوْ يُصْلَبُوا أَوْ تُنْطَلَعَ أَيْدِيهِمْ وَأَرْجُلُهُمْ مَنْ خَلَفٍ أَوْ يُنْفَوْا مِنَ الْأَرْضِ ذَلِكَ لَهُمْ حُكْمٌ فِي الدُّنْيَا وَلَهُمْ فِي الْآخِرَةِ عَذَابٌ عَظِيمٌ إِلَّا الَّذِينَ تَابُوا مِنْ قَبْلٍ أَنْ تَقْدِرُوا عَلَيْهِمْ فَأَعْلَمُوا أَنَّ اللَّهَ غَفُورٌ رَّحِيمٌ

²⁸ Sunan Nas'i Vol. 8 sec 23, no. 4743. The majority of scholars cited this wording in their respective works. More often than not, the reported wording has '...the one who forsakes his Deen and separates from the community.' Again, the Arabic edition contains a very large array of additional references where this tradition is cited, appearing in the respective Sahīh, Sunan, Musnad, Mujam and Muṣṭanaf collections.

The punishment of those who wage war against Allah and His Messenger and strive to make mischief in the land is only this: that they should be executed or crucified, or their hands and their feet should be cut off on opposite sides or they should be imprisoned; this shall be as a disgrace for them in this world, and in the hereafter, they shall have a grievous chastisement. Except those who repent before you have them in your power; so know that Allah is forgiving, merciful.²⁹

It would also apply to those involved in highway banditry from amongst the disobedient Muslims, that is from the essence of what we have said. But as a subject in itself, it is incredibly complex and requires a standalone in-depth study. That research, upon the invalidity of the hadd relating to apostasy, will by the grace of Allah be concluded soon.

What we have mentioned up till now is the first and the most significant Shari'ah legal meaning of the term Deen; it is a certain way of living, a system of life. Islam is the true and only Deen that Allah accepts in the hereafter. Secularism or to be more accurate ‘worldliness’ is also a Deen. Yet it is a false Deen, as is the Western system of governance, modern representative democracy. Materialistic socialism is a third type of Deen characterised by disbelief and misguidance. As for the second Shari'ah legal meaning of the term ‘Deen’ it is punishment and reward, as indicated in the following verse where Allah says:

Master of the Day of Judgment.³⁰

This means the day of reckoning and reward, in other words the day of judgement. Further to this, Allah states of the disbelievers comments:

²⁹ Qur'an 5: 33/34

³⁰ Qur'an 1: 4

إِذَا مِنْتَ وَكَنَّا تُرَابًا وَعِظَامًا إِنَّا لَمُدِينُونَ

What! When we are dead and have become dust and bones, shall we then be certainly brought to judgment?³¹

When discussing matters of Deen, this is the prime specific concern of Deen. However, that that is not to say that revelation does not address matters relating to the present worldly affairs. Allah has said:

أَوْلَمْ يَرَوْا أَنَّا نَنْصُرُهَا مِنْ أَطْرَافِهَا وَاللهُ يَحْكُمُ لَا مَعْقَبٌ لِحُكْمِهِ وَهُوَ سَرِيعُ الْحِسَابِ

Do they not see that We are bringing destruction upon the land by curtailing it of its sides? And Allah decides – none can reverse his decision, and He is swift to take account.³²

وَرَبُّكَ يَخْلُقُ مَا يَشَاءُ وَيَخْتَارُ مَا كَانَ لَهُمُ الْخِيَرَةُ سُبْحَانَ اللهِ وَتَعَالَى عَمَّا يُشْرِكُونَ

And your Lord creates and chooses whom He pleases; to choose is not theirs; glory be to Allah, and exalted be He above what they associate (with Him).³³

خَالِدِينَ فِيهَا مَا دَامَتِ السَّمَاوَاتُ وَالْأَرْضُ إِلَّا مَا شَاءَ رَبُّكَ إِنَّ رَبَّكَ فَعَالٌ لِمَا يُرِيدُ

Abiding therein so long as the heavens and the earth endure, except as your Lord pleases; surely your Lord is the mighty doer of what He wills.³⁴

³¹ Qur'an 37: 53

³² Qur'an 13: 41

³³ Qur'an 28: 68

³⁴ Qur'an 11: 107

فَعَلَ لِمَا يُرِيدُ

*Doer of what He wills.*³⁵

لَا يُسْأَلُ عَمَّا يَفْعُلُ وَهُمْ يُسْأَلُونَ

*He cannot be questioned concerning what He does but they shall be questioned.*³⁶

The Prophet Nūh was given the knowledge of ship-building through wahy (revelation) and it was a command concerning worldly affairs. The Prophet Dūwud was instructed through the medium of wahy in relation to warfare and armour; the Prophet Sulaymān was given the understanding of the language of birds. To other Prophets, they were instructed in medicine and the treatment of illness. All of this, without doubt, is related to what is considered as being worldly affairs. Some of what was given to the Prophets was inculcated via mannerisms and grace, others by way of dignity and a blessing to their followers and heirs.

As for what has been reported from the almighty regarding the many facets in the universe, this is given as an education and guidance. It is also provided by way of Prophetic miracles, establishing compelling proof of their mission, their truth and to bolster delivery of the message. Notwithstanding this, the main purpose of wahy is to inform us about 'religious' facts, such as the reporting of events from Allah, establishing the commands and prohibitions; relating information about the unseen and what is sacred as well as providing information concerning the day of judgement.

4 Islam is an intellectual creed

Islam is an intellectual creed from which emanates a complete system. The Deen of Islam therefore, is not just a spiritual belief on which a moral system is based and with which ritual acts of worship are associated. It is not just a 'religion' in the Western sense of the term. Rather it is a 'first principle'; a belief from which a system is derived; in English, it is called an ideology. Moreover, the Islamic ideology is a rational ideology because it is based on using reason and is built on the principle of sufficient reason. This principle necessitates the presence of an explanation or cause behind the existence of the whole universe. It answers the question: why does the universe exist in the first place? Such a Deen would not proceed except and until this fundamental issue is resolved. As will be seen throughout this present book, the Islamic ideology is a rational ideology and is the sole true ideology. The Islamic ideology is also a spiritual belief as it is based on having absolute faith and firm belief in the existence of Allah, the exalted. It is a belief that creation and the prerogative of command are matters that solely belong to Allah. In other words, He created the universe but neither did he step down, nor did He retire, high and exalted be Allah above such reprehensible opinions. He gives commands, makes prohibitions, sends messengers, reveals scripture, and enacts laws. This obviously contrasts and totally opposes all materialistic and atheistic creeds.

وَرَبُّكَ يَخْلُقُ مَا يَشَاءُ وَيَخْتَارُ مَا كَانَ لِهُمُ الْخِيَرَةُ سُبْحَانَ اللَّهِ وَتَعَالَىٰ عَمَّا يُشْرِكُونَ

And your Lord creates and chooses whom He pleases; to choose is not theirs; glory be to Allah, and exalted be He above what they associate (with Him).¹

Second, follows the necessity of recognising the connection between man and Allah, acknowledging it, submitting to Him who has made it an obligation, and rendering it the basis for all other relations, systems and legislation. In this respect, Islam is different and is in stark contrast to all secular, worldly and liberal sects. The Islamic ideology is also a political ideology, for its system encompasses all laws pertaining to life including subject-governor relationships, managing public affairs, and the relationship between nations.

By way of contrast, materialistic socialism is an ideology; it is an ideology from which a system is derived. According to the aforementioned definition, it is therefore, a Deen. The basic belief on which socialism is based is materialism, especially dialectical materialism, advanced by the so-called scientific socialists. With all its detailed sects, materialism is not a rational ideology, even if it so claims, for it is based on acknowledging the eternity of matter with its basic properties. That is to say, matter is 'necessarily existent', eternal and ancient, without the need to provide evidence thereto. The only aim of materialists is to attempt to sow the seeds of scepticism and to challenge the conclusive evidence that prove the existence of Allah. Such an ideology is, a-priori, a materialistic one, it can never be a spiritual one, for it denies the existence of anything other than matter, a fortiori, the existence of Allah. Concepts like spirituality, sacredness etc. have, evidently, no place in a materialist ideology.

After a long period of gestation and development, liberal-democratic-capitalism became an ideology. This system is undoubtedly a 'Deen.' Underpinning its core principles such as representative democracy, the rule of law, the separation of powers, the 'rights' of man (or human rights in modern parlance) etc., lies the core principle of secularism. Although there is variance in the application of this core tenet, it is held as being sacrosanct throughout the West. The ideological roots of this Deen developed over a long period time and were originally borne out of a schism within the Western Church. The Reformation in Europe and the subsequent wars of religion had the effect of fragmenting the religious uniformity of Christendom and ultimately gave rise to the concept of religious pluralism, toleration, and a view that religion should be kept apart from the practical aspects of governance and life. When it first emerged, secularism was merely a compromise, a set of incoherent procedures and agreements to solve the problem of this given conflict. But this was not the characteristic of an 'ideology' as it later became. This was followed by a sustained period where constitutional limits were placed upon monarchs. Man was no longer viewed as merely a subject of the monarch, or for that matter a pawn of the clergy, but as a citizen with rights that were based upon 'natural law' and reason. Against this backdrop, and subsequently very often through violent revolution, such as in the American colonies and France, philosophers, thinkers and men of capital, sought to redraw the political and economic framework.

The existence of God and revealed law lost centre stage as the philosophers and thinkers of this new era placed man at the centre of the universe. Man alone would decide for himself what system he would choose to live by. Providing the modern state did not encroach upon citizens cherished 'freedoms', man could pursue his own path to enlightenment and happiness. Even after this ideology developed, its central core remained irrational. Debate concerning the existence of God and His law became a matter only of personal conscience, not a burning issue that needed to be solved. Since such an ideology does not take the issue of Allah's existence into consideration, it is impossible for it to be a spiritual ideology.

Therefore to reiterate, it is imperative to distinguish between the following:

- What is and what is not a 'religious matter' i.e., the general law, and its related issues such as: civilisation, culture and special civilisation. A Muslim should not take any of these from a non-Muslim at all. It is impermissible to base them on anything other than the revealed texts.
- 'Worldly affairs' or affairs related to the perceptual world; its properties; laws; 'urbanisation' including science, crafts, professions etc. as well as the means and methods of regulating all permissible things, such as procedural systems and administrative regulations. All of these matters may be fearlessly and freely adopted and utilized from non-Muslims.

The ferocious attack on the Muslim world over the course of the last three-hundred years and the fact that most Muslim lands suffered from direct Western colonisation and imperialism, induce reactions of extreme anxiety. This reaction has prevented them from making use of general urbanisation elements, learning science, acquiring engineering or adopting administrative systems or procedures. Such reactions and agitation are mostly rooted in a spirit of defeatism that encourages people to assume defensive postures or to think negatively instead of being active and taking the initiative. The feeling of defeat coupled with an imprisoned ghetto frame of mind drives many Islamic activists and leaders to take defensive attitudes. They utter meaningless and terrible words that are more or less similar to those uttered by the crazy, deluded or insane. These two factors have also driven others to withdraw, retire from public life, despair of worldly life and invoke Allah for the quick advent of 'the awaited Mahdi'.

To the discerning rational mind, looking into the lives of other nations, learning from their experiences, adopting their developed means and methods are not only logically correct, but a required facet of human progression. It is only logical that a person would make use of the available fruits and results, and then would focus efforts upon creativity in inventing countless matters anew, instead of mere mimicry, for this would only be re-inventing the wheel as the saying goes. However very often many minds completely overlook this point, coupled with the fact that it is in actuality, sanctioned by the legislative texts, as the following evidences will show. Imam Malik recorded the following authentic tradition in his Muwatṭā:

From Muhammad ibn Abdar-Rahman ibn Nawfal that he said 'Urwa ibn az-Zubayr reported to me from 'Aisha, mother of the believers, that Ju'da bint Wahb al-Asadiyya reported to her that she heard the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) say: I intended to prohibit ghila but I remembered that the Greeks and Persians do that without it causing any injury to their children. Imam Malik explained - Ghila is that a man has intercourse with his wife while she is breast-feeding.

Indeed, the isnād for this narration is Sahīh as is its textual content. Several other notable hadith collectors cited this in their respective works, such as Imam Muslim in his Sahīh, Tirmidhi, and Abu Dawud.

At this juncture, it is important to stress that we are not about to delve into an extensive discussion of ‘Prophetic intentions’ i.e., whether these intentions are infallible and in accordance with the truth, or they are according to human nature. It could be an intention for doing something right or for doing something false; in which case Allah would prevent His Prophet (peace be upon him) from doing, saying or acknowledging something that arises from such a false intention. Rather than dwell upon the matter, the reader should refer to the research entitled Hamm-ul-Anbiya’ (Intentions of the Prophets). That work conclusively sets out the evidences to show that the Prophet’s concerns are not infallible, and thus, these intentions cannot be taken as the basis of making a legal argument. It could be an intention for doing something right or for doing something false; in which case, Allah would prevent His Prophet (peace be upon him) from doing, saying or acknowledging something that arises from such a false intention. Allah, the most glorified and most sublime, would prevent the Prophet (peace be upon him) in the manner He so wishes. He would either cause to dispel the intention so that the Prophet (peace be upon him) would no longer have the will or the determination to carry out the intended deed, He would send down a revelation preventing the Prophet (peace be upon him) from carrying it out, or inspire him with an alternate judgment. Allah, the almighty and all-wise may dissuade him in any other manner He wishes.

In the aforementioned incident, Allah the exalted prevented His Prophet (peace be upon him) from his intended act to prohibit men from having intercourse with their wives who are breast-feeding mothers for fear that it might do harm to their infants. He, most glorified and most sublime, diverted his attention inspiring him to look into the conditions of other peoples and learn from their experience, which situated this particular incident. He saw that whole nations practiced this over long periods of time without any harm being done to their infants. The Prophet (peace be upon him) had only intended by this prohibition to maintain the health of infants and avoid any harm that may be done to them, which is a matter that can be directly conceived by perception and reason. Therefore, it may be possible to look into the experience of other peoples, be they believers or unbelievers, pagans or people of the Scripture. Thus, it is even more possible to examine the confirmed and documented findings of scientific and medical research to solve the issue. That was what Allah inspired His Prophet (peace be upon him). All praises be to Allah, there is no God but Him, on whom we depend entirely and whose help we seek.

The Prophet (peace be upon him) did not only look into the experiences of other people, but he also guided others to do the same. In other words, he directed them to look into other nations’ experiences and confirmed documented findings of scientific and medical results. Imam Muslim records the next tradition in his Sahih which substantiates this point:

Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Numayr and Zuhayr ibn Arb narrated to me, and (this is) the wording of Ibn Numayr, they said Abdullah bin Yazid al-Maqboori narrated to us aywat narrated to us ‘Ayyash bin ‘Abdullah narrated to us that Abu Na’ir narrated to him from ‘Amir bin Sa’eed that Usama bin Zayd reported to his father Sa’id ibn Abi Waqqas that a man came to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) and said: I do ‘coitus interruptus’ with my wife. Thereupon Allah’s Messenger (peace be upon him) said: Why do you do that? The person said: I fear harm to her child or her children. Thereupon Allah’s Messenger (peace be upon him) said: If that were harmful it would (also) harm the Persians and the Greeks. Zuhayr bin arb said in the same transmission - If such was the case, this harmed neither the Persians nor the Romans.

Similar aḥādīth are also reported in other collections, such as in the Musnad of Amad,² Mu'jam al-Awsat of Im m a - abar ni,³ in the Sunan al-Kubra of Im m Bayhaqy,⁴ as well as others. All of these transmissions are authentic and similar to the hadīth of Zuhayr as reported in Muslim.

Given this, emphasis must be placed upon the reported statement of the Prophet (peace be upon him) in this authentic tradition – ‘If that were harmful it would (also) harm the Persians and the Greeks.’ This implies what has been mentioned previously, yet in this situation, he was teaching the questioner. Thus the exhortation of looking into the lives of other people, learning from their experiences, adopting their developed means and methods is not only rationally correct, but it is also Islamically permissible; this has undoubtedly been established, all praises be to Allah, the Lord of the worlds. This was the same attitude adopted by the rightly guided Caliphs according to the consensus of all the Companions. For example, they adopted the different military tactics and stratagems of their respective age. They also used different methods of irrigation and drainage found in Iraq and benefited from administrative regulations and procedures pertaining to various methods and means. They even did not see any harm in leaving most diwans (official recorders) to use languages other than Arabic. In fact, all diwans were Arabized much later in the Umayyad reign. All this happened with nobody disputing or dissenting and without any discussion of any relevance.

At this juncture a reminder must be made, to advise ourselves and all who call to Allah in this last age of ours to rise above such reactionary fervor as they try to lead man from one false attitude to another, and the latter could be even worse than the former. This was the disaster that befell the Khawārij, a reaction for remissness and negligence, most of which was minor and little of which was major. It then mushroomed into excessiveness and apostasy, which is an utterly devastating and damaging affair. It is much worse than any of the original remissness and negligence. An example of such an obsessive and extremist attitude can be found in what Shaykh Abdul Qadir ibn Abdul-Aziz mentioned in his book al-Jāmi' fi Talab al-'Ilm ash-Shareef under the title of 'The Innovation of (the) man-made constitution.'⁵ The Shaykh wrote:

As mentioned briefly before, man-made constitutions are derived from the bad fruits of evil secularism, which is considered the modern era of Jāhiliyyah (ignorance) after the pre-Islamic. The unbelievers have set down such constitutions because they have no sound religion or straight law to which they can refer. They were plagued by the perverted statutes which rabbis and monks altered as they wished and according to clerical synods. This made the unbelievers agree to set down books that fulfilled their interests as much as limited human reason can perceive. These books are the constitutions to which they refer as if they were divine scriptures...

Without question this is a deplorable statement and it becomes even more deplorable when made by a man like Shaykh Abdul Qadir ibn Abdul-Aziz, who is a good seeker of religious knowledge, whose good intentions, loyalty, and opposition toward tyrannical regimes, leaders of disbelief and misguidance, that currently dominate the Muslim world, is not doubted. It is even worse when seen in light of the Saheefa-tul-Madina (the constitution or charter of the city of Medina).

The story of how it was written in its entirety has been proven and is authentic. It is in fact a ‘constitution’ in the modern sense of the term. It may well in fact be the first constitution, as described thoroughly in our book entitled: Obedience to the rulers – Limits and Restrictions. If this well-known fact, together with the above set of proofs and discussion are taken into consideration, this will necessarily result in an important awareness that constitutional documents are good and desirable. They are not bad or evil innovations, contrary to Shaykh Abdul Qadir’s flawed and obsessed opinion. His previous statement was a reaction to the ferocious secular attack on Islam. That is why the Sheikh reacted against an extreme with an extreme, but the true Deen of Allah is a middle-path between going to extremes and being misguided.

Rather than rubbish the matter as an evil innovation, everybody should consider very carefully all the Islamic draft resolutions and draft bills enacted during the past century, then adopt the strongest and the most accurately worded amongst them, complete the missing points and come out with a revised strengthened draft that can be taken as a constitution and a basis for an Islamic political entity, when established – Allah willing. In so doing, it will do no harm to benefit from the jurisprudential and legal formulae of wording used by other people especially that found in the West, as they have attained a high level of efficiency in this area.

By contrast, Islamic jurisprudence has stagnated and deteriorated after having been so vibrant for so long. Jurisprudential and legal formulae did not develop in Islamic law beyond giving judgments, some jurisprudential rules and studying similar and corresponding issues, and the like. On the other hand, Western jurisprudence took great steps toward formulating jurisprudential theories, such as tort. All these formulae form a bulk of means and methods. They have nothing to do with the legislation itself as a referential authority. They are not in any way related to questions like who is the sovereign or who can initiate legislation. Rather they are related to how a jurist formulates the judgments he deduces; what are the best methods of analysis, composition, and classification and arrangement etc. Therefore, there is no harm in adopting those methods regardless of their source as they can retain their fidelity to Allah’s guidance.

5 The Definition of Islam

Al-Islam is the Deen that has been revealed and sent down from Allah, the one and only deity, the exalted and majestic, upon the final Prophet and Messenger, Mu ammad (peace and blessings be upon him). It is the last and final Deen which places a seal upon everything prior to it; all that was revealed prior to this is completely abrogated by the advent of this message. The present Deen is the sole determiner of what is considered right and wrong, nothing will therefore be accepted by Allah unless it is in accordance with its precepts and one cannot attain salvation in the afterlife by other than it. The foundation of Islam, its fundamental principles and its solid constituents are based upon the testimony that there is no god/deity except Allah and that Mu ammad is the Messenger of Allah.

Within the language, the word ‘al-Islam’ means complete and total submission. That is the very essence of al-Islam, namely: obedience to Allah in total and absolute submission and surrender, based upon the firm acknowledgement of his prerogative of command (al-hākimiyah); to his final supreme sovereignty. In truth by his very essence, he has the ultimate and absolute right for ordering and forbidding, for declaring matters as being obliged or prohibited, unconditionally (albeit on the proviso against what he has obliged upon himself or forbidden himself from). That is because he is ‘Allah’ and there is without doubt no other god/deity; he is the one, the only; the ever-living, the self-subsisting; originator of the heavens and the earth, lord of all creation. He does as he wills, having mastery over everything; he creates as he wills and chooses and his knowledge encompasses all. And there has to be disbelief in all others considered as lords, rivals, oppressors and everything of that type. Allah the exalted and majestic has said:

وَمَن يَتَّبِعْ غَيْرَ الْإِسْلَامِ دِينًا فَلَن يُفْلِحْ مِنْهُ وَهُوَ فِي الْآخِرَةِ مِنَ الْخَاسِرِينَ

And whoever desires a Deen other than Islam it shall not be accepted from him and in the hereafter he shall be one of the losers.¹

إِنَّ الدِّينَ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ الْإِسْلَامُ وَمَا أَخْتَلَفَ الَّذِينَ أُوتُوا الْكِتَابَ إِلَّا مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا جَاءَهُمُ الْعِلْمُ بَغْيًا
بَيْنَهُمْ وَمَن يَكْفُرُ بِآيَاتِ اللَّهِ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ سَرِيعُ الْحِسَابِ

Surely the (true) Deen with Allah is Islam, and those to whom the Book had been given did not show opposition but after knowledge had come to them, out of envy among themselves; and whoever disbelieves in the communications of Allah then surely Allah is quick in reckoning.²

وَوَصَّى بِهَا إِبْرَاهِيمَ بْنَيْهِ وَيَعْقُوبَ يَا بْنَيَ إِنَّ اللَّهَ اصْطَفَى لَكُمُ الدِّينَ فَلَا تَمُوتُنَّ إِلَّا وَأَنْتُمْ
مُسْلِمُونَ

And the same did Ibrāhim enjoin on his sons and (so did) Ya'qub. O my sons! Surely Allah has chosen for you (this) faith, therefore die not unless you are Muslims.³

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا اتَّقُوا اللَّهَ حَقًّا تُقَاتَهُ وَلَا تَمُوتُنَّ إِلَّا وَأَنْتُمْ مُسْلِمُونَ

فَإِنْ حَاجُوكُمْ فَقْلُ أَسْلَمْتُ وَجْهِيَ لِهِ وَمَنْ اتَّبَعَنِي وَقُلْ لِلَّذِينَ أَوْتُوا الْكِتَابَ وَالْأُمَمِينَ أَسْلَمْتُمْ فَإِنْ أَسْلَمُوا فَقَدِ اهْتَدُوا وَإِنْ تَوَلُّو فَإِنَّمَا عَلَيْكُمُ الْبَلَاغُ وَاللَّهُ بَصِيرٌ بِالْعِبَادِ

But if they dispute with you, say: I have submitted myself entirely to Allah and everyone who follows me; and say to those who have been given the Book and the unlearned people: Do you submit yourselves? So if they submit then indeed they follow the right way; and if they turn back, then upon you is only the delivery of the message and Allah sees the servants.⁵

وَأَنِيبُوا إِلَى رَبِّكُمْ وَأَسْلِمُوا لَهُ مِنْ قَبْلٍ أَنْ يَاتِيَكُمُ الْعَذَابُ ثُمَّ لَا تَشْرُونَ

And return to your Lord time after time and submit to Him before there comes to you the punishment, then you shall not be helped.⁶

⁶ Qur'an 39: 54

you and chosen for you Islam as a religion; but whoever is compelled by hunger, not inclining wilfully to sin, then surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.⁷

The words ‘Islam’ and ‘Muslimeen’ have been used in relation to the previous religions, an example of which can be found in the following verse in relation to the Torah, where the exalted has expressed the following:

إِنَّا أَنْزَلْنَا التَّوْرَاةَ فِيهَا هُدًى وَنُورٌ يَحْمِلُهَا النَّبِيُّونَ الَّذِينَ أَسْلَمُوا لِلَّذِينَ هَادُوا وَالرَّبَّانِيُّونَ وَالْأَحْبَارُ بِمَا اسْتَحْفَظُوا مِنْ كِتَابِ اللَّهِ وَكَانُوا عَلَيْهِ شُهَدَاءَ فَلَا تَخْشُوْنَ النَّاسَ وَأَخْشُوْنَ وَلَا تَشْرُوْنَ بِآيَاتِي ثُمَّا قَلِيلًا وَمَنْ لَمْ يَحْكُمْ بِمَا أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ فَأُولَئِكَ هُمُ الْكَافِرُونَ

Surely We revealed the Torah in which was guidance and light; with it the Prophets who submitted themselves (to Allah) judged (matters) for those who were Jews, and the masters of Divine knowledge and the doctors, because they were required to guard (part) of the Book of Allah, and they were witnesses thereof; therefore fear not the people and fear Me, and do not take a small price for My communications; and whoever did not judge by what Allah revealed, those are they that are the unbelievers.⁸

Similar is also found in the verse that mentions Ya'qub and his sons, peace be upon them:

وَوَصَّى بِهَا إِبْرَاهِيمُ بْنَيْهِ وَيَعْقُوبَ يَا بْنَيَ إِنَّ اللَّهَ اصْطَفَى لَكُمُ الدِّينَ فَلَا تَمُوتُنَ إِلَّا وَأَنْتُمْ مُسْلِمُونَ

And the same did Ibrâhim enjoin on his sons and (so did) Ya'qub. O my sons! Surely Allah has chosen for you (this) faith, therefore die not unless you are Muslims.⁹

⁷ Qur'an 5: 3

⁸ Qur'an 5: 44

⁹ Qur'an 2: 132

Allah the exalted has also said the following:

أَفَغَيْرَ دِينِ اللَّهِ يَبْغُونَ وَلَهُ أَسْلَمَ مَنْ فِي السَّمَاوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضِ طَوْعًا وَكُرْهًا وَإِلَيْهِ يُرْجَعُونَ

Is it then other than Allah's religion that they seek (to follow), and to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or unwillingly, and to Him shall they be returned.¹⁰

From these verses it can reasonably be established that the intended sense of ‘Islam’ and ‘Muslim’ is the original linguistic one, which is submission and surrender. Moreover, it is the complete submission to Allah alone, total submissiveness, surrender and subjection towards him. It is based upon the acknowledgment of Allah’s firmly established hākimiyah, the final supreme sovereign authority. Only he, in truth, is the ultimate determiner of what is to be commanded or prohibited; only he has the prerogative of command absolutely, without condition or qualification. That is, except where he has placed a restriction or condition upon himself not to enact or undertake something. He is Allah, there is no god or deity except him. He is the one and only, the ever living (al-Hay), the self-existing (al-Qayyūm), originator of the heavens and the earth, lord of all creation. He acts as he wills and holds dominion over everything; he creates whatever he wishes according to his choice and his knowledge encompasses all. With regards to any tyrants, partners or rivals that are set up either beside or in tandem with him, there is total disbelief in all of them.

All the previous Prophets and those who believed in them and followed them were upon that which is good and guidance; therefore, they were upon ‘Islam’ in a general sense. But this isn’t the ‘Islam’ in a specific sense; in other words, that as we specifically know it – the complete Deen; with its detailed Shari’āh and doctrines as has been revealed upon the seal of the Prophets, Muhammad ibn Abdullah (peace and blessings be upon him). Given that he is the final seal of Prophethood, there is no ‘Islam’ in its general sense anymore; rather there is only the Islam as set out and revealed to him and thereunto us.

6 The meaning of ‘there is no deity except Allah’

The meaning of ‘there is no deity except Allah’ is that there is nothing whatsoever that has the attributes of divinity (al-Uluhiyah). It relates to him having the ability by his divine-self for action; acting independently in an absolute way, without need or recourse to others. In particular, this can be said of acts such as the initiation of creation from nothing, with its resultant follow-on of fashioning, imaging, configuring, managing, not least to say compelling this into existence through divine will. He alone has the prerogative of command, in origin to command and prohibit. Such action is by way of complete freedom, without any condition. There is nothing by necessity or by the necessity of reason compelling him to act, for in truth he is the only deity. He is the self-subsistent, or stated alternatively, the necessarily existent; acting by his express will and self, rich without any dependence. His knowledge is complete, all-encompassing; whatever he desires to be, that is what will be. Whatever he doesn’t wish to be, will not therefore come to pass, for there is nothing that is characterized by such qualities except Allah. Even if anyone attributes any of these qualities to other than Allah, it will be a manifest lie, slander, false imagination, or an illusion that has nothing to do with the actual reality. Allah the exalted and majestic states:

ذَلِكَ بِأَنَّ اللَّهَ هُوَ الْحَقُّ وَأَنَّ مَا يَدْعُونَ مِنْ دُونِهِ هُوَ الْبَاطِلُ وَأَنَّ اللَّهَ هُوَ الْعَلِيُّ الْكَبِيرُ

That is because Allah is the truth and that what they call upon besides him, that is falsehood; because Allah is the high, the great.¹

ذَلِكَ بِأَنَّ اللَّهَ هُوَ الْحَقُّ وَأَنَّ مَا يَدْعُونَ مِنْ دُونِهِ الْبَاطِلُ وَأَنَّ اللَّهَ هُوَ الْعَلِيُّ الْكَبِيرُ

This is because Allah is the truth, and that which they call upon besides him is the falsehood, and that Allah is the high, the great.²

فَاعْلَمُ أَنَّهُ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا اللَّهُ وَاسْتَغْفِرْ لِذَنْبِكَ وَلِلْمُؤْمِنِينَ وَالْمُؤْمَنَاتِ وَاللهُ يَعْلَمُ مُتَقَابِكُمْ وَمُنْتَوِّكُمْ

So know that there is no god but Allah and ask protection for your fault and for the believing men and women. Allah knows the place of your abiding.³

Moreover, the meaning behind ‘there is no deity/god except Allah’ is illustrated by his words where he states:

إِلَّا إِنَّهُ الْخَلْقُ وَالْأَمْرُ تَبَارَكَ اللَّهُ رَبُّ الْعَالَمِينَ

...surely his is the creation and the command; blessed is Allah, lord of all creation.⁴

There is also the statement which Allah informs us that in relation to the Prophet Yusuf (peace be upon him), conveying the meaning behind ‘there is no deity/god except Allah’ in the following verse:

² Qur’ān 31: 30

³ Qur’ān 47: 19

⁴ Qur’ān 7: 54

مَا تَعْبُدُونَ مِنْ دُوْنِهِ إِلَّا أَسْمَاءٌ سَمَّيْتُمُوهَا أَنْتُمْ وَآباؤُكُمْ مَا أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ بِهَا مِنْ سُلْطَانٍ إِنَّ الْحُكْمَ
إِلَّا لِلَّهِ أَمْرٌ إِلَّا تَعْبُدُوا إِلَّا إِيَّاهُ ذَلِكَ الدِّينُ الْقَيْمُ وَلَكِنَّ أَكْثَرَ النَّاسِ لَا يَعْلَمُونَ

You do not worship besides him but names which you have named, you and your fathers; Allah has not sent down any authority for them; the hukm belongs to none but Allah. He has commanded that you shall not serve any but him; this is the right Deen but most people don't know.⁵

Pillars underpinning the testimony of faith (Shahāda)

Firstly, to completely reject the notion that any particle, substance, be that referred to as nature or the universe, holds any of the characteristics of divinity, except Allah the exalted. Specifically relating to the acts of creation, configuring, fashioning; apportioning the correct measure, benefit, harm and the like. Coupled together with the complete free will and ability of choice in determining these matters, as well as the knowledge of its proportionality. The proof of all these attributes, in totality, to the utmost beauty and perfection belongs to Allah the exalted. At the apex of this together with ḥakimiyyah: the ultimate, final supreme sovereignty. In other words, only he – the exalted and magnificent, has prerogative of command, the ultimate choice in determining what is to be commanded or prohibited. He alone retains this by his very self or essence, with no partner.

Secondly, is the absolute, complete rejection and denial that anything from divinity can be given to other than Allah. That rejection is for all perceived gods/deities besides Allah, or for that matter, every lord (rabb) beside Allah. There must be complete disbelief in all that, because that disbelief here also encompasses disavowal and rejection. Allah the exalted and majestic has expressly stated:

⁵ Qur'ān 12: 40

لَا إِكْرَاهٌ فِي الدِّينِ قَدْ تَبَيَّنَ الرُّشْدُ مِنَ الْغَيِّ فَمَنْ يَكْفُرُ بِالْطَّاغُوتِ وَيُؤْمِنُ بِاللَّهِ فَقَدِ اسْتَمْسَكَ
بِالْعِرْفَةِ الْوُثْقَى لَا انْفِصَامَ لَهَا وَاللَّهُ سَمِيعٌ عَلَيْهِ

There is no compulsion in Deen; truth stands clear from error. Therefore whoever disbelieves in Taghut and believes in Allah has grasped the firmest handle that doesn't break and Allah is hearing, knowing.⁶

And he has said of Ibrāhim (peace be upon him) while praising him specifically that:

وَإِذْ قَالَ إِبْرَاهِيمُ لِأَبِيهِ وَقَوْمِهِ إِنِّي بَرَاءٌ مِّمَّا تَعْبُدُونَ، إِلَّا الَّذِي فَطَرَنِي فَإِنَّهُ سَيِّهُدِينَ

And when Ibrāhim said to his father and his people, surely I am clear of what you worship. Save him who created me for surely he will guide me.⁷

There is also what has been authentically reported from the Messenger of Allah (peace and blessings be upon him), where he said:

مَنْ قَالَ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا اللَّهُ، وَكَفَرَ بِمَا يُعْبُدُ مِنْ دُونِ اللَّهِ، حَرُمَ مَالُهُ وَدَمُهُ، وَحِسَابُهُ
عَلَى اللَّهِ عَزَّ وَجَلَّ

Whoever testifies that there is no deity except Allah, and he disbelieves in whatever is worshipped besides Allah, his property and blood become inviolable, and it is for Allah the exalted and majestic to call him to account.

Consequently, the testimony of faith, ash-Shahāda, has two aspects: an affirmation that all qualities and characteristics which pertain to divinity belong solely to Allah, the almighty. The negation is to categorically deny that any of these divine qualities and characteristics reside anywhere else. There is no being in existence other than Allah to whom these apply. Furthermore, it is to disbelieve in every tawāghīt – in every false deity, evil, and exorbitant tyranny. Without this specific affirmation and rejection, there is no Islam and no salvation in the hereafter.

⁷ Qur'ān 43: 26/27

7 The meaning of ‘Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah’

The latter half of the proclamation relates to Muhammad (peace and blessings be upon him) being the conveyer of Allah's truth and words, in a manner that is completely free of anything missing or added, as well as any form of error, lie or forgetfulness. The Prophet (peace be upon him) does not forget, but rather he is made to forget, so as to set for his nation Prophetic traditions pertaining to forgetfulness. As Allah the exalted has lucidly explained:

سُنْقِرُكَ فَلَا تَنسَى إِلَّا مَا شَاءَ اللَّهُ إِنَّهُ يَعْلَمُ الْجَهَرَ وَمَا يَخْفِي

We will make you recite so you shall not forget; except what Allah pleases, surely he knows the manifest and what is hidden.¹

He is the best leader, the exemplar, the ideal to be followed. Neither does he speak of his own desire nor does he utter except that which is true. He never says anything except out of the knowledge that Allah has bestowed upon him or wishes to proceed ahead of his Lord. If he is asked about something new, he remains silent and waits until the divine ruling is revealed to him. He is simply a conveyer of Allah's truth and words, so he does not practice ijtihād (independent legal-juristic reasoning). He neither needs it nor did he practice it, for Allah has elevated him high above the need for that. But Allah gave honour and mercy to anyone of his nation who practices independent legal reasoning – whether or not the practice results in a sound or an erroneous judgement. He who reaches a sound judgment receives a double reward or more, whereas he who reaches an erroneous judgment receives a single reward for his effort.

To put the matter more expressly, we would say about him (peace be upon him), that he has no need or requirement to resort to ijtihād (independent legal juristic reasoning). There is no requirement for him to exercise substantive effort in undertaking the process that scholars from his nation are required to do to reach a legal judgement. He has no need or requirement to seek to deduce legal rulings from the detailed evidences. Therefore the meaning of 'Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah' is that none has the right to be followed except the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). Others beside the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) are not to be followed or obeyed except by virtue of an established evidential command. He who follows something without such evidence will be following falsehood. Even the following in permissible matters requires a proof, for permissibility is considered a 'legal ruling'. The following in permissible or 'optional rulings' is the same as the following in other legal rulings including the obligatory, the recommended, the undesirable, and the prohibited. This is similar to the following in so-called positive rulings including: cause, condition, allowance, easement, restriction, validity, invalidity and incorrectness. The legal ruling of such optional deeds performed by human beings cannot be identified except by means of a legal proof – no matter what the deed is. As for the deeds people perform by their own free will and determination during the pre-Islamic period and before the establishment of any legal proofs or authority, they are neither mandatory nor permissible. Permissibility is a legal ruling established by way of revelation.

Allah has set out some definitive parameters regarding obedience to the commissioned Prophets and Messengers, including the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) as per the following verses:

فَلَا وَرَبَّكَ لَا يُؤْمِنُونَ حَتَّىٰ يُحَكِّمُوكَ فِيمَا شَجَرَ بَيْنَهُمْ ثُمَّ لَا يَجِدُوا فِي أَنفُسِهِمْ حَرَجاً مِّمَّا قَضَيْتَ وَيُسْتَأْمِنُوا تَسْلِيمًا

But no! By your Lord! They do not believe until they make you a judge of that which has become a matter of disagreement among them, and then do not find any resistance in their hearts as to what you have decided and submit with complete submission.²

وَمَا كَانَ لِمُؤْمِنٍ وَلَا مُؤْمِنَةٍ إِذَا قَضَى اللَّهُ وَرَسُولُهُ أَمْرًا أَنْ يَكُونَ لَهُمُ الْخَيْرَةُ مِنْ أَمْرِهِمْ وَمَنْ يَعْصِي اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ فَقَدْ ضَلَّ ضَلَالًا مُّبِينًا

And it behoves not a believing man and a believing woman that they should have any choice in their matter when Allah and His Messenger have decided a matter; and whoever disobeys Allah and His Messenger, he surely strays off a manifest straying.³

مَنْ يُطِعِ الرَّسُولَ فَقَدْ أَطَاعَ اللَّهَ وَمَنْ تَوَلَّ فَمَا أَرْسَلْنَاكَ عَلَيْهِمْ حَفِظًا

Whoever obeys the Messenger, he has indeed obeyed Allah and whoever turns back, so we haven't sent you as a keeper over them.⁴

² Qur'an 4: 65

³ Qur'an 33: 36

⁴ Qur'an 4: 80

فَرَّأَهُمْ الرَّسُولُ لَوْجَدُوا إِنَّ اللَّهَ تَوَابٌ رَّحِيمٌ

8 The Grades of Deen

The specific arrangement or ordering for the grades of Deen comes from the famous authentic hadith of Jibreel in which the Prophet (peace be upon him) was reported to have said: ‘That was Jibreel (Gabriel) he came to teach you the affairs pertaining to your Deen.’ As for its transmission, this is available in all the major collections, the narrative being transmitted upon the authority of Abu Hurayrah and Umar bin al-Kha'b (may Allah be pleased with them) appear in Sahīh Bukhārī and Muslim, whereas that reported by Ibn ‘Abbās (may Allah be pleased with him) appears with an authentic isnād in the Musnad of Imām Amad.

To proceed, as has been reported in Sahīh Muslim upon the authority of Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him):

Zuhayr ibn arb narrated to me Jarir narrated to us from Um ra – and he is Ibn al-Qa'q 'ah – from Zura' from Abu Hurayrah he said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Ask me, but they (the Companions) were too much overawed out of profound respect to ask. In the meanwhile a man came and sat near his knees and said: Messenger of Allah, what is Islam? To which he (the Prophet) replied: To not associate anything with Allah, and establish the prayer, to pay the Zakāt and to fast in Ramadān. (The questioner) said: You have spoken the truth. He (again) asked: Messenger of Allah, what is al-'Imān? He (the Prophet) said: That you believe in Allah, his angels, his Books, his meeting, his messengers, and that you believe in resurrection and that you believe in al-Qadr in its entirety. (The questioner) said: You have spoken the truth. He (again) asked: Messenger of Allah, what is al-Ihsān? Upon this he (the Prophet) said: that you fear Allah as if you are seeing him, although you do not, but verily he sees you.

(The questioner) said: You have spoken the truth. He (further) asked: Messenger of Allah, when is the hour? (The Prophet) said: The one who is being asked about it is no better informed than the inquirer himself. However I will narrate to you some of its signs: when you see a slave (woman) giving birth to her master, that is one of the signs of; when you see barefooted, naked, deaf and dumb kings of the earth that is one of its portents. And when you see the shepherds of black camels exult in buildings, that is one of its portents. The (hour) is one of the five things (wrapped) in the unseen; no one knows them except Allah. Then (the Prophet) recited: *Verily Allah is he with whom alone is the knowledge of the hour and he it is who sends down the rain and knows that which is in the wombs and no person knows whatsoever he shall earn on morrow and a person knows not in whatsoever land he shall die. Verily Allah is all knowing, aware.*¹ (Abu Hurayrah) said: Then the person stood up and went on his way. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Bring him back to me. He was searched for, but they (the Companions) could not find him. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) thereupon said: He was Jibreel (Gabriel) and he wanted to teach you (things pertaining to religion) when you did not ask (them yourselves).

Im m Muslim reports the same tradition in other parts of his Sahīh.² As one would expect, the narration is widely reported, appearing in many notable collections of hadīth.³ Im m Muslim reports the next tradition in his Sahīh upon the authority of Abdullah ibn Umar:⁴

Abu Khaythama Zuhayr ibn arb narrated to me Waki' narrated to us from Kahmas from Abdullah bin Burayda from Ya ya bin Ya'mar (ḥawala) and Ubaidallah bin Mu' dth al-Anbari narrated to us and this is his narrative; my father narrated to me Kahmas narrated to us from Ibn Buraydah from Ya ya bin Ya'mar he said: the first man who discussed Qadr in Ba ra was Ma'bad al-Juhani. I along with Humayd bin Abdar-Ra man al-imyari set out for pilgrimage or for Umrah and said: Should it so happen that we come into contact with one of the Companions of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) we shall ask him about what is talked about tagdir. Accidentally we came across Abdullah ibn Umar ibn al-Kha b, while he was entering the masjid. My companion and I surrounded him. One of us (stood) on his right and the other stood on his left. I expected that my companion would authorize me to speak. I therefore said: Abu Abdar-Ra man!

There have appeared some people in our land who recite the Qur' n and pursue knowledge. And then after talking about their affairs, added: They (such people) claim that there is no such thing as Qadr. He (Ibn Umar) said: When you happen to meet such people tell them that I have nothing to do with them and they have nothing to do with me. And verily they are in no way responsible for my (belief). Abdullah ibn Umar swore by Him (the Lord) (and said): If any one of them had with him gold equal to the bulk of (the mountain) Uhud and spent it (in the way of Allah), Allah would not accept it unless he affirmed his faith in Qadr. He further said: My father (Umar ibn al-Kha b) narrated to me: One day we were sitting in the company of Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) when there appeared before us a man dressed in pure white clothes, his hair extraordinarily black. There were no signs of travel on him. None amongst us recognized him.

At last he sat with the Prophet (peace be upon him); he knelt before him placed his palms on his thighs and said: Mu ammad, inform me about al-Islam. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Al-Islam is that you testify that there is no deity but Allah and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah, and you establish prayer, pay Zakāt, observe the fast of Ramaḍān, and perform pilgrimage to the house if you are solvent enough (to bear the expense of) the journey. He (the inquirer) said: You have spoken the truth. He (Umar ibn al-Kha b) said: It amazed us that he would put the question and then he would himself verify the truth. He (the inquirer) said: Inform me about 'Imān (faith). He (the Prophet) replied: That you believe in Allah, in his angels, in his Books, in his Messengers, in the day of judgment, and you believe in al-Qadr, (both) its good and bad. He (the inquirer) said: You have spoken the truth. He (the inquirer) again said: Inform me about al-Ihsān. He (the Prophet) said: That you worship Allah as if you are seeing Him, for though you don't see him, verily he sees you. He (the inquirer) again said: Inform me about the hour. He (the Prophet) remarked: One who is asked knows no more than the one who is inquiring (about it). He (the inquirer) said: Tell me some of its indications. He (the Prophet) said: That the slave-girl will give birth to her mistress and master; that you will find barefooted, destitute goat-herders vying with one another in the construction of magnificent buildings.

He (the narrator, Umar ibn al-Kha b) said: Then he (the inquirer) went on his way but I stayed with him (the Prophet) for a long while. He then, said to me: Umar, do you know who this inquirer was? I replied: Allah and his Messenger know best. He (the Prophet) remarked: He was Jibreel and he came to you in order to instruct you in matters of Deen.

Similarly, this narration is widely reported, appearing in many notable collections of hadith.⁵ But the following narration which appears in the Musnad of Im m A mad contains the following additional wording:⁶

Abu Nu'aym narrated to us Sufy n narrated to us from

'Alqama bin Marthad from Sulaym n bin Burayda from Ibn Ya'mar, he said: I said to Ibn Umar: we travel to different countries and we meet people who say there is no Qadr. Ibn Umar said: if you meet them report to them that Abdullah bin Umar has nothing to do with them and they have nothing to do with him - three times. Then he began to narrate: whilst we were with the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him), there came a man - and he described his appearance. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: come closer; so he came closer. He (again) said: come closer, so he came closer. (Then again) he said: come closer, so he came closer until his knees were nearly touching (the Prophet's knees). Then he said - O Messenger of Allah report to me what 'Imān is - or about 'Imān.

He (the Prophet) said: To believe in Allah, his angels, his books, his Messengers, the last day and to believe in al-qadr. Sufyān said: I think he said: (both) its good and its bad. He said: So what is Islam? He (the Prophet) said: To establish prayer, pay zakāt, perform pilgrimage to the house, to fast Ramadān and to perform ghusl in the case of janābah (major ritual impurity) – all of that. For all of that he (the stranger) said: You have spoken the truth, you have spoken the truth. The people said - we never saw any man show more respect to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) than this man did. It was as if he was teaching the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). Then he said: O Messenger of Allah report to me about al-Iḥsān. He (the Prophet) said: It is to worship Allah as if you see him - for even if you do not see him, verily he sees you.

For all of that we said - we never saw any man show more respect to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) than this man did; he said you are right, you are right. He said: report to me about the hour. He (the Prophet) said: The one who is asked about it does not know more about it than the one who is asking. He said: you have spoken the truth, which he said several times and we never saw any man show more respect to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) than this man did. Then he left. Sufy n said: I heard that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: look for him, but they did not find him. He said: That was Jibreel who came to you to teach you your Deen. He never came to me in any form but I recognised him, except for this form.

A similar narration in terms of wording to that of Imām Aḥmad appears in the Muṣṭanaf of Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba, albeit via a different channel.

Ibn Fu'eel narrated to us from 'A'bin as-S'ib from Mu'rib bin Dith'r from Ibn Burayda he said we alighted back at Medina and came upon Abdullah ibn Umar, so we said to him - O Abu Abdar-Raman, indeed we meet people in the land and peoples who claim that there is no Qadr. He (Ibn Umar) said: from amongst the Muslims who pray towards the Qibla. We said: Yes, from those who pray towards the Qibla. He (the narrator) said: he was angered by this until (the point) I wish that I didn't ask him this. Thereafter he said: If you come across such people inform them that Abdullah ibn Umar has nothing to do with them and they have nothing to do with him. Then he said: If you would like, I (will) narrate to you from the Prophet (peace be upon him), so he said: We were with the Messenger of Allah when a man came very well dressed with a handsome face. He said - O Messenger of Allah, what is al-Islam? He (the Prophet) said: to establish the Salāh, to pay the Zakāt, to fast in Ramādān, to undertake pilgrimage to the house, and to perform ghusl from Janābah. He (the questioner) said: You have spoken the truth. So what of al-Imān? The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: to believe in Allah and the final day; (to believe in) his angels, the book and the Prophets and al-Qadr, all of its good and bad, (and in) its sweetness and its bitterness. He (the questioner) said: You have spoken the truth. He then departed. Upon which the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Recall this man (to me). We looked but could not see him. Thus the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: this (is) Jibreel, he came to you to teach you all the affairs of your Deen.

Concerning this narrative there is no fear in relation to the ‘mixing up’ (ikhtilāt) resulting from ‘A’ib ibn as-S’ib, since Mu’ammad bin Fu’eel heard from him both before and after his ikhtilāt. Additionally there is no fear here either particularly given that it has also come via the channel of Shareek bin Abdullah al-Q’i and he is old in hearing from ‘A’immaan-Nas’i also cites similarly in his Sunan al-Kubra, albeit again with some additional wording:

Abu Dhu’ud reports, he said: Yazeed bin Hurrun narrated to us he said Shareek reports from ar-Rakeen bin ar-Rabih’ from Ya’ya bin Ya’mar and from ‘A’ib bin as-S’ib (from Mu’rib bin Dithar) from Ibn Burayda he said: we performed Hajj and Umrah and then came to Medina and came upon Ibn Umar. So be upon him) said bring this man to me. So we called for him but couldn't find him. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: This (was) Jibreel, he came to teach you all the affairs of your Deen. And what never came to me except that I recognise him, but this image of him.

In as-Sunan al-Kubra Imam al-Bayhaqy reports the following narration with more complete wording:

Ali Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Bishr narrated to us in Baghdad, Abu Ja'far ibn Muhammad ibn 'Amr ibn al-Bukhtari reported, Muhammad bin 'Ubadah ibn Yazeed narrated to us Yunus bin Muhammad narrated to us Mu'tamir, he is Ibn Sulaym narrated to us from his father Ya'ya bin Ya'mar he said: I said to Ibn Umar, O Abdur-Rahman there are some people who conceive that there isn't Qadr, so are we one from among them? He (Ibn Umar) said: No. So, convey to them when you meet them that Ibn Umar, by Allah, has nothing to do with them and they nothing to do with him. I heard Umar bin al-Khattab (may Allah be pleased

O you who believe! When you stand for prayer, wash your faces and your hands as far as the elbows, and wipe your heads and your feet to the ankles; and if you are under an obligation to perform a total ablution, then wash (yourselves) and if you are sick or on a journey, or one of you come from the privy, or you have touched the women, and you cannot find water, betake yourselves to pure earth and wipe your faces and your hands therewith, Allah does not desire to put on you any difficulty, but He wishes to purify you and that He may complete his favour on you, so that you may be grateful.¹⁰

Also, there is what has been reported in the Mu'jam (Mashkul) of abar ni:

ussein bin Bih n al-'Askari narrated to us Sahl bin Uthm n narrated to us (hawala) and Mu ammad bin ussein bin Mukram narrated to us al- asan bin amm d Sajj dah narrated to us, they said: al-Mu alib bin Ziy d ath-Thaqafi narrated to us from Man ur bin al-Mu'tamir from 'A from Ibn Umar he said: A man came to Ibn Umar and said: O Abu Abdar-Ra man, indeed we travel and meet people who say there is no Qadr. He said: If you meet with them inform them that Ibn Umar has nothing to do with them. We were with the Messenger of Allah when a handsome man with a handsome face came along, with a good fragrance and immaculate clothing. He said: peace to you O Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him), may I come closer to you? He (the Prophet): (you may) come closer. He came closer and we came closer as well, (saying) that a number of times until his knees were touching the Prophet's knees (peace be upon him).

He said: O Messenger of Allah, what is Islam? He (the Prophet) said: Testifying that there is no deity except Allah and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah. And to establish the Salāh, pay the Zakāt, pilgrimage to the house and fasting in Ramaḍān and performing ghusl from Janābah. He (the questioner) said: If I do that will I be Muslim. He (the Prophet) said: Yes. He (the questioner) said: You have spoken the truth (and continued to say), what of al-'Imān? He (the Prophet) said: Al-'Imān is to believe in Allah, his angels, his books and Messengers and heaven and the fire (hell); the (the day of) judgement and al-Qadr – its good, bad, its sweetness and bitterness is from Allah. He (the questioner) said: If I do that, will I be a believer (mu'min)? He (the Prophet) said: Yes. He (the questioner) said: You have spoken the truth, and what of al-Ihsān? He (the Prophet) said: To worship Allah as if you see him, although you cannot see him he sees you. He (the questioner) said: If I do that, will I be Muhsin? He (the Prophet) said: Yes. He (the questioner) said: You have spoken the truth.

We said – we have seen a man with a handsome face and a good fragrance (displaying) great courtesy to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and saying to the Prophet (peace be upon him), you have spoken the truth. So the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Bring this man to me. So we searched and searched upon street after street in Medina but could not find him anywhere. Thus the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Do you know of this (man)? We replied, Allah and his Messenger know. He said: This (was) Jibreel peace be upon him, he teaches you all the rituals of your Deen. What came to me is the image (of him), but I never knew him, but this image.

It is also reported in the collection of forty traditions by Ibn al-Muqra':

Mu ammad bin Mu ammad bin Badr bin Abdullah al-B hili al-Baghd di narrated to us in Egypt al- asan bin amm d Sajj dah narrated to us al-Mu alib bin Ziy d ath-Thaqafi narrated to us from Man ur from ‘A from Ibn Umar, he said: A man came and said O Abu Abdar-Ra man indeed we travel and we pass by people who say (there is) no Qadr (then as previously narrated).

Moreover, it is also reported in the Musnad of Im m A mad with an authentic channel of transmission upon the authority of Ibn ‘Abb s:

Abu Na r narrated to us Abdul- ameed narrated to us Shahr narrated to us Abdullah bin ‘Abb s narrated to me he said: The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) sat in a gathering of his and Jibreel came to him and sat in front of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him), placing his hands on the knees of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). He said: O Messenger of Allah, tell me about Islam. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Islam is to turn your face towards Allah; to bear witness that there is no deity except Allah alone, with no partner or associate and to bear witness that Muhammad is his slave and Messenger. He (Jibreel) said: If I do that, will I have become Muslim? He said: If you do that, you will have become Muslim. He said: O Messenger of Allah, tell me about al-Imān. He said: al-Imān means to believe in Allah, the last day, the angels, the book and the Prophets; to believe in death and in life after death and to believe in paradise, hell, the reckoning (al-Hisāb) and the balance (al-Mizān); and to believe in al-Qadr – all of it both good and bad. He said: And if I do that, will I have believed? He said: If you do that, you will have believed.

He said: O Messenger of Allah, tell me about al-Ihsān. He said: Al-Ihsān means to strive for the sake of Allah as if you can see him; although you cannot see him, he sees you. He said: O Messenger of Allah, tell me about the hour. He said:

Subhānallah! There are five matters of the unseen which no one knows except him – ‘Verily Allah is he with whom is the knowledge of the hour; He sends down the rain and he knows what is in the wombs and o one knows what he shall earn on the morrow and no one knows in what land he shall die, surely Allah is knowing, aware.’¹¹ But if you wish, I will tell you some of the signs of its approach. He said: Yes O Messenger of Allah tell me. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: When you see the slave woman give birth to her mistress or master and you see the shepherds competing in the construction of lofty buildings and you see the barefoot, hungry dependents become prominent figures among the people – those are signs and portents of the hour. He said: O Messenger of Allah, who are the shepherds and the barefoot, hungry dependents? He said: The Arabs.

And it is also to be found in Itahāf al-Khayra al-Mahra:

'perfection' arbitrarily without fulfilling certain conditions. Thereafter the person becomes more knowledgeable as his faith grows deeper and even more conscious of Allah, the exalted and majestic. This makes him undertake all prescribed duties and abandon all prohibitions. Such a person becomes worthy of being called a 'mu'min' (faithful).

Following on from this, the individual adopts several recommended matters and avoids the disliked ones, even giving up on some permissible matters as a sign of deep faith and of being extremely conscious of Allah, the exalted and majestic, for he worships his Lord as if he can see him, as noted in the hadith. If any person reaches this level he becomes worthy of being called a 'muhsin', i.e., someone with a 'perfection'. Each 'muhsin' is a 'mu'min' and each 'mu'min' is a Muslim but not vice versa, except under certain conditions and restrictions.

Understanding the reality of 'al-'Imān' is a difficult and thorny topic, particularly when seeking to flesh out all its unique boundaries, including the precise interplay with what are considered its nullifiers that would lead someone into disbelief. Expounding this in exhaustive detail, by the help and grace of Allah, will be presented in a separate forthcoming treatise that has been devoted solely to this topic and is entitled: The Reality of al-'Imān and the Categorisation of Kufr.

9 The Basis of Islam and its Essential Pillars

In tandem with the nature of our present book, it carries this intended meaning, to be an exposition upon the basis of Islam and the reality of Tawheed. In other words, with the meaning of what the testimony of faith is – that there is no god/deity but Allah and that Mu ammad is the Messenger of Allah. The abridgement of what is commonly referred to by many people as being the ‘Five Pillars of Islam’ is good parlance. Yet it is necessary to correct some of the errors that have arisen therein, as well as dispelling some of the confusions that have become quite commonplace. In particular, the word ‘Pillar’ (rukñ, pl. Arkān) is notably absent from the Shari’ah texts, although it has been used extensively by previous scholars. It has largely been taken from the famous hadith of Abdullah ibn Umar al-Kha b (may Allah be pleased with him), as has been reported in the Sahīh of Im m Bukh ri:

‘Ubaidallah bin Musa narrated to us he said andthala bin Abi

Sufy n reported to us from ‘Ikrima bin Kh lid from Ibn Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) he said: the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Islam is built upon five – to testify that there is no deity but Allah and that Mu ammad is the messenger of Allah; to establish Salāh, to pay Zakāt, Hajj and the fast of Rama dān.

The hadith is widely reported such as in Sahīh Muslim,¹ in the Sunan of Nas ’i,² as well in Sahīh Ibn Ibb n.³ Following this citation, the Im m Abu tim Ibn Ibb n furnishes us with a very important and lucid comment,⁴ he writes:

These two reports have both come to address (matters) according to (or based upon) the given situation, because he (peace be upon him) mentioned al-’Imān then enumerated four qualities, then he mentioned al-Islam and enumerated five qualities. And this is what we say in our book, because when the Arabs mention something known in their language which has such enumeration, it doesn’t mean that the listed number of matters is to the exclusion of all others. With his speech, he (peace be upon him) did not say that al-’Imān is only what was stated in the report of Ibn ‘Abb s because he (peace be upon him) mentioned in other reports a great number of things regarding al-’Imān which are not mentioned in either of the reports which both Ibn ‘Abb s and Ibn Umar have conveyed.

A considerable number of scholars of hadith have cited this tradition in their respective works.⁵ Elsewhere in his Sahīh, Im m Bukh ri has a forbids me is that Allah has prohibited the shedding of my brother's blood.' They both said: 'Didn't Allah say: And fight then until there is no more affliction?' He said: 'We fought until there was no more affliction and the Deen is for Allah, while you want to fight until there is affliction and until the Deen becomes for other than Allah.'

And (from) Uthman bin Li from Ibn Wahb he said, aywa bin Shuray and so and so reported to me from Bakr bin Amr al-Ma'fir that Bukeer bin Abdullah narrated to him from Nafi' (the following) is added: that a man came to Ibn Umar and said: 'O Abu Abdar-Ra man! What made you perform Hajj in one year and Umra in another and leave the Jihad in the path of Allah, though you know how much Allah recommends it?' Ibn Umar replied: 'O son of my brother! Islam is founded upon five: 'Imān in Allah and his messenger; the five-prayers, the fasting of Ramadān; rendering of Zakāt and pilgrimage (Hajj) to the house.

The man said: 'O Abu Abdar-Ra man! Won't you listen to why Allah has mentioned in his book: If two groups of believers fight each other, then make peace between them, but if one of them transgresses beyond bounds against the other, then you all fight against the one that transgresses; and fight them till there is no more affliction.' Ibn Umar said: We did it, during the lifetime of Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) when Islam had only a few followers. A man would be put to trial because of his Deen; he would either be killed or tortured. But when the Muslims increased, there was no more affliction or oppression.' The man said: 'What is your opinion about Uthman and 'Ali?' Ibn Umar said: 'As for Uthman, it seems that Allah has forgiven him, but you people dislike that he should be forgiven. And as for Ali, he is the cousin of Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) and his son-in-law.' Then he pointed with his hand and said, 'That is his house which you see.'

Imām Aḥmad also cites similarly in his Musnād again in mawquf (halted) form:

Waki' narrated to us from Sufyān from Maṇīr from Salmān bin Abī al-Ja'd from Yazeed bin Bishr from Ibn Umar, he said: Islam is built upon five: testifying that there is no deity but Allah; establishing the prayer, paying the Zakāt; pilgrimage to the house and the fast of Ramaḍān. A man said to him: And Jihād in the way of Allah? Ibn Umar said – Jihād is good, thus as the Prophet (peace be upon him) narrated to us.

I would submit that there is great difference in the narrative as set out on multiple occasions and shown by these various ahādīth that have been reported. Yet in none of the narratives presented thus far, is there an explicit mention of hearing this directly from the Prophet (peace be upon him) by Ibn Umar. What he does mention is – ‘he said, the Prophet said;’ ‘from the Prophet, he said,’ or ‘the Prophet narrated to us.’ It is something which strengthens the contention that it would appear to be a deduction (istinbāṭ) that has been made by Abdullāh ibn Umar bin al-Kha'b from the famous hadīth of Jibrīl, which he took from his father Umar; more pertinently, he was not a direct eyewitness to that event. In any case, it is a continuously recurrent tradition (mutawātir) from Ibn Umar, as it has been reported by the majority of trustworthy narrators from the Tābi'een.

Within the Musnād of Imām Aḥmad the following is reported upon the authority of Jarīr ibn Abdullāh:

Hishim narrated to us Isrā'il narrated to us from Jibrīl from 'Ammār from Jarīr he said the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Islam is built upon five; testifying that there is no deity but Allah, establishing the Ṣalāh, paying the Zakāt, pilgrimage to the house and the fast of Ramaḍān.

ابن عباس also reports this in Mu'jam al-Kabir,⁶ as does Abu Ya'la in his Musnād,⁷ as well as others than them. Next, Imām Aḥmad has recorded the following, again in his Musnād:

Makki narrated to us Dhu'l-Wudū' bin Yazīd al-Awdī narrated to us from 'Ammār from Jarīr ibn Abdullāh he said I heard the Prophet (peace be upon him) saying: Islam is built upon five; testifying that there is no deity but Allah, establishing the Ṣalāh, paying the Zakāt, pilgrimage to the house and the fast of Ramaḍān.

As with the above, ابوبکر also reports this in *Mu'jam al-Kabir*⁸ as does Abu Ya'la in his Musnād,⁹ amongst others. The following narration has been cited by ابوبکر in his Mu'jam al-Kabir:

⁶ ابوبکر Mu'jam al-Kabir, Vol. 2 sec. 326, no. 2363

⁷ Musnād Abu Ya'la Vol. 13 sec. 490, no. 7502

⁸ ابوبکر Mu'jam al-Kabir, Vol. 2 sec. 326, no. 2364

⁹ Musnād Abu Ya'la Vol. 13 sec. 497, no. 7507

Al- asan bin ‘Aleel al-Ghazi narrated to us Abu Kareeb narrated to us Mu’ wiya bin Hish m narrated to us Shayb n narrated to us from J bir from ash-Sha’bi from Jarir he said: Islam is built upon five; testifying that there is no deity but Allah, establishing the Ṣalāh, paying the Zakāt, pilgrimage to the house and the fast of Ramadān.

Again, abar ni has the next narration, albeit recorded in his Mu’jam Saghir:

Mu ammad bin A mad bin amm d Abu Bishr al-Dawl bi narrated to us in Egypt my father narrated to us Ash’ath narrated to us from ‘A f from Abdullah bin abeeb bin Abi Th bit from ash-Sha’bi from Jarir bin Abdullah al-Bajili from the Prophet (peace be upon him) he said: Islam is built upon five; testifying that there is no deity but Allah, establishing the Ṣalāh, paying the Zakāt, pilgrimage to the house and the fast of Ramadān.

Following each of these narrations, I would submit that there is some divergence in the reporting routes concerning this from Jarir bin Abdullah and its mawquf and ‘an-an’ formats. Also, there is a distinct lack of explicit mention of hearing this directly from the Prophet (peace be upon him), in a similar manner to the aforementioned narratives from Ibn Umar. Perhaps it is also an ijtihād that is being transmitted from Jarir bin Abdullah al-13(0 2)1(a)j()il(i)1i 4(m)21(a)y(h)4()2 all pillars and columns are built from. But the texts that have been outlined thus far make ‘al-Islam’ to be ‘al-Shahāda’ by itself; other texts make ‘al-Islam’ to be al-‘Imān, of which this will be cited shortly. One will therefore discern that without any doubt whatsoever, that the ‘Pillars of Islam’ are in fact more numerous than the famous five. And with that the unusual observation which was made by Imām Abu Ḥanīfa and Mu‘ammad ibn Ibbān as cited previously where he said:

These two reports have both come to address (matters) according to (or based upon) the given situation, because he (peace be upon him) mentioned al-‘Imān then enumerated four qualities, then he mentioned al-Islam and enumerated five qualities. And this is what we say in our book, because when the Arabs mention something known in their language which has such enumeration, it doesn’t mean that the listed number of matters is to the exclusion of all others. With his speech, he (peace be upon him) did not say that al-‘Imān is only what was stated in the report of Ibn ‘Abbās because he (peace be upon him) mentioned in other reports a great number of things regarding al-‘Imān which are not mentioned in either of the reports which both Ibn ‘Abbās and Ibn Umar have conveyed.

It has not been received upon the qualities of Islam not from Imām Ibn Ibbān by himself and not from other than him, with that at present we have here that it is not greatly different from the qualities of al-‘Imān. As has been reported in the Sunan of Imām Tirmidhi:¹⁰

Mu‘ammad ibn Ismā‘il narrated to us Musa ibn Ismā‘il narrated to us ‘Abd ibn Yazeed narrated to us Ya‘ya bin Abi Kathir narrated to us from Yazeed bin Salām that Abu Salām narrated to him that al-Rith al-Ash’ari narrated to him that the ¹⁰ The Arabic text of the narration has been omitted given its considerable size.

Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Indeed, Allah commanded Yahya bin Zakariyya with five commandments to abide by, and to command the Children of Israel to abide by them. But he was slow in doing so. So Esa said: Indeed, Allah commanded you with five commandments to abide by and to command the Children of Israel to abide by. Either you command them, or I shall command them. So Yahya said: I fear that if you precede me in this, then the earth may swallow me, or I shall be punished.’ So he gathered the people in Jerusalem, and they filled (the masjid) and sat upon its balconies. So he said: Indeed Allah has commanded me with five commandments to abide by, and to command you to abide by. The first of them is that you worship Allah and not associate anything with him. The parable of the one who associates others with Allah is that of a man who buys a servant with his own gold or silver, then he says to him: ‘This is my home and this is my business so take care of it and give me the profits.’ So he takes care of it and gives the profits to someone other than his master. Which of you would live to have a servant like that?

And Allah commands you to perform Ṣalāh, and when you perform Ṣalāh then do not turn away, for Allah is facing the face of His worshipers as long as he does not turn away. And He commands you with fasting. For indeed the parable of fasting, is that of a man in a group with a sachet containing musk. All of them enjoy its fragrance. Indeed the breath of the fasting person is more pleasant to Allah than the scent of musk. And He commands you to give charity. The parable of that, is a man captured by his enemies, tying his hands to his neck, and they come to him to beat his neck. Then he said: I can ransom myself from you with a little or a lot so he ransoms himself from them. And He commands you to remember Allah. For indeed the parable of that, is a man whose enemy quickly tracks him until he reaches an impermeable fortress in which he protects himself from them. This is how the worshiper is; he does not protect himself from the Shayṭān except by the remembrance of Allah. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: And I command you with five that Allah commanded me:

Listening and obeying, Jihād, Hijrah, and the Jamā'ah. For indeed whoever parts from the Jamā'ah the measure of a hand-span, then he has cast off the yoke of Islam from his neck, unless he returns. And whoever calls with the call of Jāhiliyyah then he is from the coals of hell. A man said: O Messenger of Allah! Even if he performs Ṣalāh and fasts? So he (peace be upon him) said: Even if he performs Ṣalāh and fasts. So call with the call that Allah named you with: Muslims, believers, worshipers of Allah.

After citing this tradition, Abu Esa at-Tirmidhi makes the following comment:

This hadith is hasan Ṣaḥīḥ, ghareeb (strange). Mu ammad ibn Ism 'il has said: 'al- rith al-Ash'ari was a companion and he has hadith other than this.' Mu ammad ibn Bash r narrated to us Abu D wud a - ay lisi narrated to us 'Abb n bin Yazeed narrated to us from Ya ya bin Abi Kathir from Yazeed bin Sal m from Abi Sal m from al- rith al-Ash'ari from the Prophet peace be upon him - the remainder with a similar meaning. Abu Esa said: This hadith is hasan Ṣaḥīḥ ghareeb. And (of) Abu Sal m al- abashi, his name is Mam ur and he reports from Ali bin al-Mub rak from Ya ya bin Abi Kathir.

Mu ammad ibn Ism 'il is none other than Abu Abdullah al-Bukh ri, the famed Im m of the dunya and the companion of what is termed as authentic, Ṣaḥīḥ. The hadith is reported widely, cited in many notable collections.¹¹

It is also reported by Im m an-Nas 'i in his Sunan al-Kubra, albeit, only the last paragraph:

Hish m ibn 'Amm r reported to us he said Mu ammad bin Shu'ayb narrated to us he said Mu' wiya bin Sal m reported to me that his brother Yazeed bin Sal m reported to him from his grandfather Abu Sal m that he reported to him, he said al- rith al-Ash'ari reported to me from the Prophet (peace be upon him): And whoever calls with the call of Jāhiliyyah then he is from the coals of hell! A man said: O Messenger of Allah, (even if) he prays and fasts? He (the Prophet) said: Yes, (even if) he prays and fasts. So call with the call that Allah named you with: Muslims, believers, worshipers of Allah.

I would submit, there is no mention in this of the pilgrimage - Hajj. Instead there comes that of the 'remembrance of Allah.' There is also the addition in relation to the five also, here being: listening and obeying, Jihād, Hijrah and al-Jamā'ah (the community). Also, it appears in the Muṣṣanaf of Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba with a very authentic channel of transmission:

sec. 289, no. 3430, abar ni Mu'jam ash-Shāmiyān Vol. 4 sec. 112, no. 2870, Bayhaqy Sunan al-Kubra Vol. 2 sec. 282, no. 3348, and Musnad Abu Ya'la Vol. 3 sec. 143, no. 1571.

Ghundar narrated to us from Shu'ba from Abu Jamrah from Ibn 'Abbās that a delegation from Abd'il Qays came to the Prophet (peace be upon him). So the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Who are the people? (or) who are the delegates? They replied: We are from the tribe of Rabi'ah. He (the Prophet) said: Welcome O delegation - or delegates - neither you will have disgrace, nor you will regret. They said: O Messenger of Allah! We have come to you from a distant place and there is the tribe of the kuffar of Mu'ar intervening between you and us and we cannot come to you except in the sacred month, so please order us to do something good and that we may also inform our people whom we have left behind (at home) and that we may enter paradise. He (the Prophet) said: I command you with four and prohibit you from four: I command you all to believe in Allah alone. And he (the Prophet) said: Do you know what is meant by believing in Allah alone? They replied - Allah and His Messenger know best. He (the Prophet) said: To testify that there is no deity except Allah and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah; to establish the ṣalāh, to render the zakāt, to fast in Ramadān and that you give the fifth from the booty. He (the Prophet also further) said: Memorise them and tell them to the people whom you have left behind.

I would submit that here again there is no mention of Hajj within the narrative. It is likely that this may have been before the obligation of Hajj because Abd'il Qays are from the older period of Islam; although, the narration does contain the addition of giving a fifth from the booty.

Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba also cites the following in his Mussanaf:

Ibn Fu'eel narrated to us from 'Aib ibn as-Slim bin Abi al-Ja'd from Ibn 'Abbas he said: an Arab came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and he said – Peace be upon you oh boy from Bani Abdal-Mu'alib. Then he said: and upon you. Then he replied: I am a man from the maternal uncles of Bani Sa'd bin Bakr and I am the Messenger of this people sent unto you, and delegated unto you. I am going to ask you questions about issues, being harsh in enquiry. And implore you strongly that you (respond) to my appeal. He said: O my brother of Bani Sa'd, take. He said: Who created you and who is the creator; it is the creator of you after you. He said: Allah. I implore you with that, is it he that sent you? He replied: yes. He said: who has created the seven heavens and the worlds, providing therein provision? He said: Allah. He said: I adjure you, did he send you with that? He said: Yes. He said: and indeed, we find in your book that, that your Prophet ordered us with five-prayers in a day and a night at its fixed times. I adjure you, has he ordered you with that? He replied: yes. He said: And we find in your book that, that your Prophet ordered us that we take from the source of our margins of our wealth so that a tribute of that may be passed on to our poor, I adjure you, has he ordered you with that? He replied: yes. Then he said: As for the fifth, you are not asked from it and no Arab to have from it. Then he said: By him who has sent you with the truth whoever acts upon that and whomsoever obeys me from my nation. Then the Prophet reverted laughing until his teeth were visible, thereafter he said: By him in whose hand my soul he has spoken the truth and will enter heaven.

Again, as has been collected in the Muṣṭanaf of Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba:

Ghundar narrated to us from Shu'ba from al- akam he said I heard 'Urwa ibn an-Nazz 1 narrate from Mu' dth ibn Jabal he said: We came back with the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) from the expedition (ghazwa) of Tabuk. When I saw him free I said: O Messenger of Allah, direct me to a deed which will admit me to paradise. Bravo, verily you have asked me about a matter of great importance, but it is easy for one for whom Allah makes it easy; to offer the obligatory prayer, to render the obligatory zakāt and to meet Allah without associating anything with him whatsoever. Shall I not guide you upon the head of the matter, its column and its apex? As for the head of the matter, it is Islam, whoever accepts and submits. And as for its column, it's the Ṣalāh, as for its apex it is Jihād in the path of Allah.

Once more, there is another narration from the Muṣṭanaf of Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba:

‘Abeeda bin umayd narrated to us from al- akam from al- ‘Amash from Maymoon bin Abu Shabeeb from Mu’ dth bin Jabal he said: We set out with the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) to the Ghazwa of Tabuk (then mentioned the remainder).

Here I would submit, that this was at the end of the ninth year, after which the obligations of pilgrimage and fasting have already taken effect, and neither are mentioned. There is mention though of Jihād in the path of Allah as being the apex and pinnacle. Imam Maylisi has the next tradition recorded in his Musnad from the wording reported by Udhayfah. The isnād is exceptionally authentic and is upon the conditions of Bukhari and Muslim:

Shu'ba narrated to us from Abu Isqah he said I heard Iliyah bin Zufar narrate from Udhayfah, he said: al-Islam is made of eight-shares: al-Islam is a share; salāh is a share, zakāt is a share.

share, Hajj is a share; Jihād in the way of Allah is a share, fasting in Ramadān is a share and commanding the good and forbidding the evil is a share. And indeed, one who has no share therein has lost.

I would submit, that that he has given the description of ‘Islam being a share,’ that is to say, the testimonial that there is no god/deity except Allah and that Mu’ammad is the Messenger of Allah. That is shown in the next narration which was collected by the Imām Abdar-Razzāq in his Muṣṣanaf:

From Ma’mar and ath-Thawri from Abu Isā q from illah bin Zufah from udhayfah, he said: Islam is built upon eight-shares: testifying that there is no deity except Allah and that Mu’ammad is the Messenger of Allah; establishing the ṣalāh, rendering the zakāt, pilgrimage to the house, fasting the month of Ramadān, Jihād, commanding the good and forbidding the evil. And indeed, one who has no share therein has lost.

Similar is also found in mawdu form in his Muṣṣanaf,¹² but the wording of Jihād being a share is omitted from the text. Imām Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba has also cited the narration in two places in his Muṣṣanaf.¹³ Imām Abu Ya’la cites the next narration in his Musnad:

¹³ Muṣṣanaf Ibn Abi Shayba Vol. 4 sec. 230, no. 19,561 and Vol. 6 sec. 158, no. 30,313

Suwayd ibn Sa’eed narrated to us abeeb ibn abeeb – brother of amza az-Zayy t – narrated to us from Abu Isā q from al- rith from Ali (may Allah be pleased with him) from the Prophet (peace be upon him) he said: al-Islam is eight-shares – Islam is a share; ṣalāh is a share, zakāt is a share, Hajj is a share; Jihād is a share, fasting in Ramadān is a share and commanding the good is a share and forbidding the evil is a share. And indeed, one who has no share therein has lost.

Essentially the hadīth is the same as the former, albeit here with abeeb ibn abeeb az-Zayy t and it is a weak tradition in grading (daef); in its isnād it is attributed to being from al- rith from Ali as ‘marfu’. Perhaps it is a defect from Suwayd ibn Sa’eed given that he is much greater in age and his uncle and consequently had defects. It is also in the Sunnah of Abu Bakr bin Khil 1 (as per the Shāmila):

Abu Abdullāh narrated to us he said Waki’ narrated to us he said my father, Isrā’il and Ali bin Abi Li narrated to us from Abu Isā q from illah bin Zufar al-‘Absi (who) narrated to us from udhayfah he said: Al-Islam is eight-shares; Islam is a share and ṣalāh is a share; zakāt is a share, Hajj is a share; Ramadān is a share and commanding the good is a share and forbidding the evil is a share. And indeed, one who has no share therein has lost.

Furthermore, as has been reported by al-Bazzār in his Musnād:

⋮
⋮
⋮
⋮
⋮

Mu'ammad ibn Sa'eed bin Yazeed bin Ibrāhim at-Tastāri narrated to us he said Ya'qub bin Isqāl al-Hārami reported to us he said Yazeed bin 'A' reported to us he said Abu Isqāl reported to us from illā from udhayfah may Allah be pleased with him from the Prophet (peace be upon him) he said: Islam is made from eight-shares. The first share, is believing in Islam, performing Salāh is one share; paying zakāt is a share; pilgrimage to the house is a share, fasting is a share, commanding the good is a share, forbidding the evil is a share as is Jihād in the path of Allah. Verily (there is) failure for one who has no share in it. And Mu'ammad ibn al-Muthanna reported it he said Mu'ammad ibn Ja'far reported to us he said Shu'bā reported to us from Abu Isqāl from illā bin Zufar from udhayfah may Allah be pleased with him, that he said: al-Islam is eight-shares, then mentioned the remainder without its channel.

Thereafter al-Bazzār commented: 'And this hadīth we do not know of it by this isnād, that is to say, it is raised, except by way of Yazeed bin 'A' from Abu Isqāl.' Imām abu 'Abdullāh al-Bazzār has the next narration in the evil, to give your salam (the greeting of) to the people of your house when you enter upon them and to give your salam upon Bani Adam whence you encounter them. If the respondents don't reply, the angels will receive the salam and respond in kind despite their silence. And whosoever leaves anything from these shares of Islam it would be incomplete, and whomsoever would have their Islam (in that manner) would be ostracized by this.

Similar is also found in the Ta'dtheem Qadra al-Šalāt of Mu'ammad bin Nār al-Marwāzi, the isnād of which contains men who are authentic narrators:

Mu'ammad ibn Bashir narrated to us Ru'būn 'Ubāda narrated to us Thawr bin Yazeed narrated to us from Khālid bin Ma'dīkī from Abu Hurayrah he said the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Verily like roads, Islam has a guidepost and a lighthouse. From that, that you worship Allah and do not associate anything with him. And that you establish the Šalāh, render the zakāt, fast in Ramaḍān; enjoin the good and forbid the evil. To send your salam upon mankind when you encounter them and if they do not respond the angels will do so and either curse them or remain silent upon them. To send your salam upon the people of your household when you enter upon them. Whoever leaves anything from them will be incomplete as these are the shares of Islam; leaving them will be leaving Islam behind ones back.

In the Mustadrak al- kim collected the following narration:

Abu Bakr ibn Is^q narrated to us ‘Ubaid ibn Abdal-W^{hid} narrated to us Mu^{hammad} bin Abul’as-Sarri narrated to us al-Waleed bin Muslim narrated to us from Thawr bin Yazeed from Kh^{lid} bin Ma’dⁿ from Abu Hurayrah may Allah be pleased with him from the Prophet (peace be upon him), he said: Al-Islam is that you worship Allah and do not associate anything (whatsoever) with him; to establish the prayer to render the zakāt, to fast in Ramaḍān; to make pilgrimage to the house and commanding the good and forbidding the evil; to send your greetings upon your family. Whoever leaves anything from them will be incomplete as these are the shares of Islam; leaving them in totality would be to leave Islam altogether.

Thereafter al- kim writes: ‘This hadith is like the first in uprightness (al-Istiqamah).’ I would submit here that there is no fear from tadlees occurring in relation to the narrator al-Waleed bin Muslim as it testified by the channel that appears in the Musnad ash-Shāmiayn,¹⁴ given the omission of the sentence that relates to ‘To send your salam upon mankind when you encounter them and if they do not respond the angels will do so and either curse them or remain silent upon them.’ It may have been cut short due to the ignorance of one of the narrators regarding this, despite its great reward that has been attested to.

The narration also appears in the work of Commanding the Good (‘Amr bil-Ma’rouf) by Abdal-Ghani al-Maqdisi:

Abu ^{hir} A^{mad} bin Mu^{hammad} bin A^{mad} bin Mu^{hammad} bin Ibr^{him} al-Salfi al-A^{bah} ni in Alexandria and Abu al-Fat^{ih} Mu^{hammad} bin Abdal-B^{qi} bin A^{mad} bin Salmⁿ in Baghdad reported to us, they both said: Abu Bakr A^{mad} bin Ali bin al-^{ussein} bin Zakariy^a - areeshshee reported to us Abul’Q^{sim} Habat-Allah bin al-^{asan} bin Man^{ur} a⁻ abari al-^{fiz} reported to us Mu^{hammad} bin Abdur-Ra^{man} bin al-Abb^s Ij^{za} reported to us Sa’eed bin Mu^{hammad} bin ar-Ra^b n reported to us Na^r bin D^{wud} bin awq narrated to us he said that Abu Ubaid said Ya^{ya} bin Sa’eed al-Qahⁿ narrated it to me from Thawr bin Yazeed from Kh^{lid} bin Ma’dⁿ from a man from Abu Hurayrah from the Prophet (peace be upon him) that he said: Verily like roads, Islam has a guidepost and a lighthouse from that; that you believe in Allah and do not associate anything with him. To establish the Salāh, render the zakāt, fast in Ramaḍān; make pilgrimage to the house and that you send your salam about your people when you enter upon them and that you give salam upon your people when you encounter them. Whoever leaves anything from that has left a share of Islam and that is a rejection of Islam.

Following this citation Abdal-Ghani writes: ‘It is reported by al- fiz abari in the book of Sunnah like that.’ Additionally, the narration is found in al-’Imān of al-Q sim bin Sall m:

And from the ninth hadith of Abu Hurayrah from the Prophet (peace be upon him) that he said: ‘Verily like roads, Islam has a guidepost and a lighthouse.’ Abu ‘Ubaid said: the guideposts are what has been thickened and arisen from the earth. What is thickened and rose from the ground ‘From it that you worship Allah and do not associate anything with him. And that you establish the Salāh, render the zakāt, fast in Ramadān; make pilgrimage to the house and enjoin the good and forbid the evil. And that you send your salam upon your family when you enter upon them and that you send your salam upon the people when you encounter them. Whoever leaves anything from that has left a share of Islam and that is a rejection of Islam.’

Abu ‘Ubaid then says:

Ya ya ibn Sa’eed al-Attar narrated it to him from Thawr bin

Yazeed from Kh lid bin Ma’d n from a man from Abu Hurayrah from the Prophet (peace be upon him). That is how it is originally ‘al-A r’ but it is (in actuality) al-Qaht n, Ya ya bin Sa’eed al-Qah n, the reputable Im m; al- fiz, firmly established as a proof may Allah be pleased with him. And he commented and said: some from the ignorant thought that these ahādīth contradict each other and they traced it back to the differences in its (reported) number. But, praise be to Allah, it is far and away from being in contradiction to each other. The matter of its variance is because, as you know, the principle obligations of faith (al-’Imān) were revealed separately. So, whenever a new matter would arise, the Prophet (peace be upon him) added it to the previous commandments. Then, as Allah sent a new one, he (peace be upon him) added it at once. That is why the ahādīth that are mentioned exceed that of over seventy.

And lastly from the words of Kh lid bin Ma’d n in the works of Ibn Bishr n we have the following:

Ja’far reported to us Ja’far reports: Abu ‘Ubaid narrated to us Ya ya bin Sa’eed narrated to us from Thawr bin Yazeed from Kh lid bin Ma’d n he said: Verily like roads, Islam has a guidepost and a lighthouse. That you worship Allah the exalted and do not associate anything with him. And that you establish the Salāh, render the zakāt, fast in Ramadān; make pilgrimage to the house and enjoin the good and forbid the evil.

And that you send your salam upon your people when you enter upon them and that you send your salam upon people when you encounter them. Whoever leaves anything from that has left a share of Islam and that is a rejection of Islam.

Firstly, it would appear apparent from the narrations of Abu ‘Ubaid and Abdal-Ghani al-Maqdisi that concerning Kh lid bin Ma’d n, he has taken the narrative from an unknown man from Abu Hurayrah. If this man was truthful and recorded the hadith in an appropriate way, then the channel of transmission would be considered authentic (isnād Sahīh). As for the matn (text) of the report, it is one of uprightness, because he just mentioned these adjectives as a beacon, exactly like the lighthouse which distinguishes it, or the lighthouse which sailors use to navigate away from the danger of rocks. The word Siwa are stones that are erected amidst a wasteland of an empty desert, evidenced by the signs on the road. The singular form is ‘Swa’, in the same rhyme of this word as ‘Quwa’, also its called ‘Al-Rajoom’ or ‘al-Rijām’ and its singular form is ‘rijm’. The narrator has conveyed that Islam has a special appearance and signs, in which proves its existence; some of these signs are like pillars or markers, others not, by necessity.

Secondly, that the commentary of Im m Ibn ibb n has been given greater precedence over that asserted by Im m Abu Ubaid. What this shows is that there is several different viewpoints when it comes to discussing these matters in relation to the pillars, guideposts and shares of Islam. When it comes to talking about the different aspects of faith (al-‘Imān), the numerous accolades that the Prophet (peace be upon him) has over the previous prophets; the nature of the major sins (kabā’ir) and the like, items are mentioned according to the relevant situation and the circumstances of the recipients. It is not necessary that all aspects are detailed and mentioned in one sitting, but rather mentioning a short number to facilitate easy understanding and memorisation.

In Musnad Shāmiayn Im m abar ni cites the following:

an improvement of the hadith of Abu Hurayrah in this regard, as both being a testimony to one another. There is some disagreement concerning the wording ‘has a signpost and a lighthouse’ but also because of the unknown narrator between Abu az-Z hiriyah and Abu Darda’ and that is not the unknown narrator in relation to the hadith of Abu Hurayrah.

There is also the report that is in the Muṣṣanaf of Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba:

Abdullah bin Mu ammad bin Abdul-Aziz al-Baghawi narrated to us li bin M lik al-Khaw rizmi narrated to us Abdal-‘Ala bin Abul’Mus wir narrated to us ‘A mir ash-Sha’bi narrated to me he said ‘Adi bin tim a - ie came to Kufa and came upon the people of Kufa. We said narrate to us some hadith that you heard from the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). He replied the messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) was sent with Prophethood and none from among the Arabs disliked it more so than I, until my encounter with Rome. When I had heard that the call was to mannerisms and the good. And I came upon a group from amongst the people until I arrived upon them. I stood before them and they were uhayb, Bil l and Salm n. He said: O ‘Adi bin Ḥātim, enter Islam and you will be safe. So, I said: brother, brother. I thus purified myself and I sat down on the ground, my knees next to his knees. Thereafter I said O Messenger of Allah, what is Islam? He replied: To believe in Allah, his angels, his books, his messengers and to believe in al-Qadr, the good or bad, its sweetness or bitterness. O ‘Adi bin Ḥātim the hour will not be established until the treasures of Kisra and Qaysar are opened.¹⁵ O ‘Adi bin Ḥātim the hour will not be established until the lady from al-Hira comes, and not that day from Kufa, to perform circumambulation of the Ka’ba and fears none. O ‘Adi bin Ḥātim, the hour will not be established until circumambulation is undertaken for money, and in that it won’t be acceptable to anyone and the striking of the earth, until it’s said: I wish it wasn’t; I wish you were dust.

Im m abar ni has the next narration in his Mu’jam:

Here there isn’t a great deal in general, the pathway saying ‘testifying that there is no god/deity except Allah and that Muḥammad is the messenger of Allah.’ Some have abbreviated this only to ‘testifying that there is no god/deity except Allah’. Others have expressed this as

¹⁵ The titles that were given to the rulers of Persia and Rome – Khosrau and Caesar

'the oneness of Allah,' or 'that you worship Allah and disbelieve in anything besides him.' Alternatively, there is also 'al-Imān in Allah and his Messenger,' which is surmised or detailed as being 'to believe in Allah, his angels, his books, his messengers and to believe in al-Qadr, its good, bad, its sweetness and its bitterness.'

Im m Muslim cites the following two narrations in his collection:

Mu ammad bin Numayr al-Hamdi narrated to us Abu Kh lid, that is to say, Sulaym n bin ayy n al-A mar narrated to us from Abu M lik al-Ashja'ee from Sa'd bin 'Ubadah from Ibn Umar from the Prophet (peace be upon him), he said: Al-Islam is raised upon five: upon the oneness of Allah, the establishment of prayer, payment of Zakāt, the fast of Ramaḍān and Hajj. A person said: Which of the two precedes the other - Hajj or the fast of Ramaḍān? He (Ibn Umar) replied: No - the fast of Ramaḍān and (then) Hajj as it has been heard from the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him).

And Sahl bin Uthm n al-'Askari narrated to us Ya ya bin Zakariy narrated to us Sa'd bin riq narrated to us he said Sa'd bin 'Ubayda as-Salami narrated to me from Ibn Umar from the Prophet (peace be upon him), he said: Al-Islam is built upon five: that Allah alone should be worshipped and to disbelieve all others besides him; the establishment of prayer, the payment of Zakāt, Hajj to the house, and the fast of Ramaḍān.

Regarding the nature of this important topic, a study relating to the pillars of Islam, the starting point should necessarily should be the Qur' n. Then for consistency, the authentic established Sunnah which by necessity explains and expounds upon the entire Qur' n. Perhaps there are other points that can be marshalled which would provide further restriction upon the absolute statements and further specify the general. Regrettably such efforts diminished after the period of the rightly guided Khulafā' (caliphs), after which began the onset of the 'era of interpretation,' (aṣr at-Tā'weel) inaugurated by the usurpation of the Khilafah by Mu' wiya bin Abu Sufy n. The situation worsened immensely at the hands of the hypocritical scholars associated with the rulers with a small distortion becoming much bigger. Divine texts were disregarded in favour of accumulated interpretation, ushering in an era of what can be considered outright change, in order at times, to suit the whims of rulers. While such methods were often very subtle during that era, they have become magnified in the present era where such distortion is brazen and explicit. Documenting such matters would in fact require an entire separate detailed study. Returning to the original question in relation to the pillars of Islam, it is necessary to consider the words of Allah the exalted at this juncture where he has stated the following:

فَمَا أُوتِيْتُم مِنْ شَيْءٍ فَمَتَّاعُ الْحَيَاةِ الدُّنْيَا وَمَا عِنْدَ اللَّهِ خَيْرٌ وَأَبْقَى لِلَّذِينَ آمَنُوا وَعَلَى رَبِّهِمْ يَتَوَكَّلُونَ

So, whatever thing you are given, that is only a provision of this world's life, and what is with Allah is better and more lasting for those who believe and rely on their Lord.

وَالَّذِينَ يَجْتَنِبُونَ كَبَائِرَ الْإِثْمِ وَالْفَوَاحِشَ وَإِذَا مَا غَضِبُوا هُمْ يَغْفِرُونَ

And those who shun the great sins and indecencies, and whenever they are angry they forgive.

وَالَّذِينَ اسْتَجَابُوا لِرَبِّهِمْ وَأَقَامُوا الصَّلَاةَ وَأَمْرُهُمْ شُورَى بَيْنَهُمْ وَمِمَّا رَزَقْنَاهُمْ يُنفِقُونَ

And those who respond to their Lord and keep up prayer, and their rule is to make consultation among themselves, and who spend out of what We have given them.

وَالَّذِينَ إِذَا أَصَابَهُمُ الْبَعْضُ هُمْ يَتَصَرَّفُونَ

And those who, when great wrong afflicts them, defend themselves.

وَجَزَاءُ سَيِّئَةٍ سَيِّئَةٌ مِثْلُهَا فَمَنْ عَفَا وَأَصْلَحَ فَأَجْرُهُ عَلَى اللَّهِ إِنَّهُ لَا يُحِبُّ الظَّالِمِينَ

And the recompense of evil is punishment like it, but whoever forgives and amends, he shall have his reward from Allah; surely, He does not love the unjust

وَلَمَنِ انتَصَرَ بَعْدَ ظُلْمِهِ فَأُولَئِكَ مَا عَلَيْهِمْ مِنْ سَبِيلٍ

And whoever defends himself after his being oppressed, these it is against whom there is no way (to blame)

إِنَّمَا السَّبِيلُ عَلَى الَّذِينَ يَظْلِمُونَ النَّاسَ وَيَبْغُونَ فِي الْأَرْضِ بِغَيْرِ الْحَقِّ أُولَئِكَ لَهُمْ عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ

The way (to blame) is only against those who oppress men and revolt in the earth unjustly; these shall have a painful punishment.

وَلَمَنِ صَبَرَ وَغَفَرَ إِنْ ذَلِكَ لَمْنُ عَزْمُ الْأَمْورِ

And whoever is patient and forgiving, these most surely are actions due to courage.¹⁶

Here the verses cited from the Qur'an are Meccan. Coupled with this are the words of the exalted in the verse revealed to his Prophet in Medina:

وَاسْتَغْفِرْ لَهُمْ وَشَأْوِرْهُمْ فِي الْأَمْرِ إِذَا عَزَمْتَ فَتَوَكَّلْ عَلَى اللَّهِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ يُحِبُّ الْمُتَوَكِّلِينَ

Thus, it is due to mercy from Allah that you deal with them gently and had you been rough, hard hearted, they would certainly have dispersed from being around you; pardon them therefore and ask pardon for them and consult with them in the affair so when you have decided, then place your trust in Allah – surely Allah loves those who trust.¹⁷

From the aforementioned verse, Allah has mentioned 'ash-Shu'ra' after establishing the salāh and before the obligatory spending - which includes payment of the zakāt, giving a fifth from the booty – all of which is deemed as an obligation. Consultation, 'ash-Shura' necessarily is from the pillars of Islam, similar to salāh and zakāt without any difference or distinction. Yet these we do not find enumerated as being from amongst the essential pillars of Islam?! Nay, they are not even mentioned as being from amongst the essential obligations like you would find it in the pages of debates being devalued, where it is asked: Is 'ash-Shura' a binding requisite or merely something suggested – glory be to Allah!

¹⁷ Qur'an, 3: 159

Therefore, to sum up: that the basis of Islam is:

- ❖ To testify that there is no god/deity except Allah and that Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah

Or to say in an abridged and concise form only:

- ❖ Testifying that there is no god/deity except Allah

Or alternatively saying:

- ❖ That you worship Allah and disbelieve in all else beside him

And perhaps with the intended meaning that it relates to the oneness of Allah –

- ❖ That it is to worship Allah and to disbelieve in whatever is worshipped besides him and has the expression from which al-‘Imān stems, namely ‘Imān in Allah and his Messenger, which is the mujmal.
- ❖ Or as mufaṣṣil: ‘Imān in Allah, his angels, books and his Messengers and ‘Imān in al-Qadr, the good and bad of it as well as its sweetness and bitterness.

Indeed, this is the solid basis and solid foundation upon which everything is to be based upon. Concerning the pillars (arkān) they are greater than the five-pillars which are the most well-known, for indeed they are in total, greater than ten:

1. The salāh with its accompanying conditions and the importance of the prerequisite of complete tahāra
2. The zakāt
3. Payment of a fifth from the booty
4. Performance of Hajj (and also the Umrah)
5. Fasting during the month of Ramadān
6. Jihād in the path of Allah (and it is the pinnacle or apex of Islam)
7. Enjoining the good and forbidding the evil (and its most important aspect of accounting the oppressive rulers and forbidding their evil of their rule. Indeed, it is from amongst the divisions of Jihād and indeed it is from its pinnacle and apex of both Jihād and Islam)
8. Hijrah (migration)
9. Shu’ra (consultation)
10. al-Jamā’ah (the community)
11. To listen and obey the lawfully instituted rulers and governors
12. To send salam upon your family when entering upon them
13. To send salam upon mankind (Bani Adam) when passing them by Regarding no. 13, sending salam upon mankind (Bani Adam) when passing them by, this doesn't only relate to the utterance of words. But rather it also extends to safety and security; providing reassurance to establish long-term relationships as well as disseminating cordial relations, affection and harmony amongst mankind.

By no means is this now the complete picture in totality. It would not be correct to say that until the remaining nullifiers (nawāqiḍ) of Islam have been detailed. They further provide important elucidation particularly in relation to what actually constitutes disbelief (kufr) and polytheism (shirk), which the remainder of this present work is intended to set out. Some of the serious sins (mubiqāt) involve leaving a pillar from amongst the main pillars, such as leaving the prayer, not paying the zakāt, consuming the khums etc. Also within this rubric comes a significant number of matters, such as taking a life that Allah has prohibited without due process of law; consuming the wealth of an orphan, consuming interest (ribā), inappropriately taking public wealth, fleeing from the battlefield and casting malicious unsolicited accusations against chaste believing women. There is also repudiating one's effort after making migration in Allah's cause, thus making a renunciation of one's Islamic citizenship after securing it; disobeying one's parents, providing false witness/testimony and / or perjury. To despair of the hope of Allah or his mercy; to commit adultery, incest or fornication; to repudiate one's pledge of allegiance by raising arms unjustly against the community of Muslims, and to partake in brigandage. There are other sins which fall within the rubric or category of being major sins (kabā'ir); we ask Allah and beseech him for refuge from all of them, including any action that would bring his wrath and result us being considered from amongst the inmates of hell.

Part II.

The Nature of Revelation and the Revealed 'Dhikr' him). The Qur'an remains with us intact unlike other previous revelations which are lost, such as the scriptures of Ibrāhīm (peace be upon him).

Revelation Type (2)

The second type of revelation is broader and more voluminous than the first; although inspired it need not be reported verbally by necessity. In the final revelation, it is the noble Prophetic Sunnah, consisting of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) statements, hadith qudsi, gestures, acts and approvals. Most of the previous scriptures that we have (such as the Old and the New Testament) are essentially of this kind, containing the sayings of the previous Prophets, their acts, what they tacitly approved, biographies and the general condition of their nations at that time. In this sense, the Old and the New Testament are more akin to the books of Seerah (biography) that exist for the Muslims, including that of hadith qudsi; in that sense, it is unlike the glorious Qur'an, except for a few limited paragraphs.

The glorious Qur'an consists of the words of Allah, revealed to Prophet Mu'ammad (peace be upon him) and recorded, as it is written in the pages, as well as being carried by memorisation and recitation from the heart. In the modern age it is carried even further via many different technological platforms. The glorious Qur'an is miraculous in wording, inimitable in its literary style and reciting it is a means of worship. It was transmitted from the Prophet (peace be upon him) both written and orally by tawātur - continuous recurrent transmission from a large number of narrators whose collusion to fabricate a lie is considered impossible. This transmission is in a manner providing productive and definitive knowledge, which is necessary for all mankind, be they Muslim or not. Its transmission was done completely, letter by letter; word by word, as it came to Mu'ammad ibn Abdullah bin Abd'al-Mu'ālib ash-Shāfi'i al-Qurayshi al-Adnāni al-'Arabi, may the peace and blessings of Allah be upon him and his

1 Revelation is both the Qur'an and the Sunnah

Some people might think that the revelation consists only of the glorious Qur'an. Limiting revelation to only Qur'an is a fatal mistake. It is so serious that it has the propensity to land one into serious deviation, ultimately leading to kufr (disbelief), taking a believer out of the fold of Islam. Essentially the truth of this matter is that revelation is of two types.

Revelation Type (1)

The first type of revelation is that which is inspired, orally reported and recited. The glorious Qur'an, the final revelation from Allah sent down to the Prophet Mu'ammad (peace be upon him) epitomises this. In a similar manner, the revelation which Allah wrote for Musa (peace be upon him) in the Tablets also comes under this essential type, as do other books and previous scriptures. Although less voluminous, its standing and substance is paramount. Furthermore, the Qur'an may be recited as a means of worshipping Allah, while other revelations are not. Some of these revelations, in particular the Qur'an, Allah has chosen to preserve, others not; they were memorised by Prophets, priests and the devout, like the scriptures of Musa (peace be upon family.

As for the Prophetic Sunnah, it is the sayings, the verbal pronouncements, including gestures; actions and approvals of the Prophet (peace be upon him). All of which is inspired by Allah and expressed by his Messenger (peace be upon him). It also encompasses articulating meaning, for example, that of a revelation that is sent down from Allah of which the Prophet (peace be upon him) expressed in his own words (or gestures that could be used instead of words) and also expressed in his acts. For Allah protected him from committing, approving or keeping silent in the face of anything reprehensible, whether he saw it directly or was informed thereof, since it would constitute a tacit approval or acquiescence. Should we wish to provide a more precise and accurate formulation, it would be obligatory to state that the Prophets Sunnah is not merely a particular revelation from Allah, rather it is a formulated expression of an infallible Prophetic revelation that has come from Allah. It is not the designated revelation of Allah, like the glorious Qur'an. A more limited expression would be simply to state, as earlier, that the Prophetic Sunnah is also a revelation from Allah. Yet this stricter definition as outlined here, is more precise.

As for the Prophetic sayings relating to conveying the message from Allah, it is unambiguous and forthright as it relates to the message being conveyed from Allah; its manner is that of being declaratory and binding. It is not likely for it to be based upon interpretation (tā'weel) and it is impossible for it to be immediately based upon a mistake or a lie by the necessity of reason, given our dictum: the infallibility of the Prophets as it specifically relates to the reporting from Allah in a manner that is declaratory and binding. If it is not set out in this manner, in essence, Prophethood would lose its meaning. Moreover, it would be impossible to rectify the situation if a Prophet were to state he had erred or made a mistake in delivering the message and reporting from Allah. Thus, it would not be able to conclusively establish the necessary proof that we have been commanded to worship Allah alone. Such line of reasoning would be impossible because the message emanating from Allah must be presented in an unequivocal manner, with respondents not being able to marshal such a charge. No one can therefore seek refuge in such argumentation, given that Allah does not render punishment, whether in this life or the hereafter, unless and until a decisive argument has been presented, leaving no one with any excuse whatsoever. If it was not the case, then the line of argumentation, namely that the message delivered by the Prophet was not declaratory and binding; that it was inconclusive or replete with error and did not purport to what it claimed, would have ground, thereby seeking to render Allah as being manifestly unjust – and he blessed be his names is far above any form of injustice. Allah the exalted has forbidden injustice for himself, he would never be unjust. It would render the very meaning of Prophethood into an absurdity, depriving it of its essential meaning and would bring the notion of Prophetic infallibility in this regard into question, Allah forbid!

Examples of this conveyance of the message that is declaratory and binding, is where he (peace be upon him) says: this is the Qur'an's wording as send down from Allah, to believe in and practice; these are his orders and prohibitions and this is not my wording. Similarly as it would apply to Musa (peace be upon him): this is the tablets that Allah has ordained, outlining his commandments and prohibitions. Or as it would apply to any Prophet from amongst the Prophets which have been sent for them to unequivocally outline, 'Allah ordains this and prohibits that'; 'Allah warns of the punishment of hell for this act', or 'Verily Allah has revealed / inspired to me to inform you regarding x or y.' Hence for that reason it must be that Prophetic statements, conveying the message, which have expressly been authorised and formulated as being a communication from Allah are set forth as such; statements which are of significance and definitive in character. Thus a Prophet presents unequivocal truthful and honest statements relating to reports from Allah, such as saying 'Allah has said' or 'Your lord has obligated this' and containing no mistakes therein. Moreover, a Prophet cannot retort with ‘I forgot to mention this from Allah.’ These points must all be established by absolute rational necessity.

Regarding conveyance of the message, this relates to conveying information accurately and doesn’t by the necessity of reason require the individual to be infallible (ma’soom) per se in all facets. As a principle what is required is that the person is truthful and trustworthy, because it doesn’t entail account or punishment. As an example, one may consider the reports of Yusuf (peace be upon him) as they related to the interpretation of the strange dream that the King of Egypt had.¹ This is of course only if one first accepts that Yusuf (peace be upon him) was specifically delegated as a Prophet prior to this and not sent with a message after this. Secondly, that the interpretation of the Kings dream was inspired by revelation and not as a result of his own endeavour at interpretation (ijtihād).

2 ‘He doesn’t speak of his own desire...’

At this juncture one may ask, what about the sayings of the Prophet (peace be upon him) in which it is not explicitly indicated that it is a revelation emanating from Allah, such as where he is reported to have said: ‘Money paid to a prostitute is khabeeth’ or ‘Hajj is (attendance) at ‘Arafah’ as well as other innumerable sayings, gestures, acts and that which he tacitly approved? Is it an expression indicative of an infallible revelation from Allah? Or is it limited to an expression being made from the viewpoint of the Prophet, indicating his own view or inclination? The truth is that all this concerning our Prophet (peace be upon him), at least, perhaps also of former Prophets, is that it all constitutes an infallible revelation from Allah that contains no lie, mistake or forgetfulness which is proved by the following definite evidence where Allah himself declares:

وَالنَّجْمٌ إِذَا هَوَىٰ ، مَا ضَلَّ صَاحِبُكُمْ وَمَا غَوَىٰ ، وَمَا يَنْطِقُ عَنِ الْهَوَىٰ ، إِنْ هُوَ إِلَّا وَحْيٌ
يُوحَىٰ ، عَلَمٌ شَدِيدُ الْفُوْىٰ

I swear by the star when it goes down. Your companion does not err, nor does he go astray; nor does he speak out of his own desire. It is but revelation that is revealed to him, the Lord of mighty power has taught him.¹

We know as an acknowledged fact that the Prophet (peace be upon him) spoke about many matters concerning religion other than that which is detailed in the glorious Qur'an. If such matters are not a revelation from Allah, then what is detailed here in this Qur'anic verse would be a lie. It follows that it would necessarily be revealed by other than Allah. A matter that is against the established proofs of Prophethood, as we will soon detail, as well as the definite evidence that proves this matter. It is an acknowledged fact that the Qur'an is revealed from Allah, otherwise, Allah would either be lying or in error in this verse which is impossible and Allah is far above any such claim.

Someone may claim that the word to 'speak' or 'utter' in the aforementioned verse relates only to the Qur'an and not to other sayings from the Prophet (peace be upon him). In reply we would say that such an assertion is a lie and a misinterpretation of the Arabic language. The glorious Qur'an is to be 'recited'; the Arabs say 'Mu'ammad recited the Qur'an', 'Mu'ammad came with the Qur'an.' It has never been claimed that 'Mu'ammad spoke or uttered the Qur'an.' The speech mentioned is relating to an absolute form, as is said by the philosophers in their definition of a mankind, man is an animal that speaks; the ability to speak, talk and converse being a characteristic feature. The certainty of this point is developed by the Qur'an itself and the best explainer of the Qur'an is the Qur'an, it is enough in itself to testify to this. Allah blessed be his names says:

فَالْأَنْ بِنْ فَعَلَهُ كَبِيرُهُمْ هَذَا فَاسْأَلُوهُمْ إِنْ كَانُوا يَنْتَطِقُونَ

He said: 'No, it was done by the biggest of them—this one. Ask them, if they can talk.'²

This is indicative of any manner of speech and not related to this speech as set out in the Qur'an or the word of Allah; not recited, not read and not learned. Allah has said:

فَوَرَبِ السَّمَاءِ وَالْأَرْضِ إِنَّهُ لَحَقٌ مِثْلُ مَا أَنَّكُمْ تَنْتَطِقُونَ

And by the Lord of the heavens and the earth! It is most surely the truth, just as you do speak.³

Again, this indicates any manner of speech or appreciation of words that is well known by direct sensory perception and reflection, with the verse directly addressing the obstinate and stubborn. Allah the exalted also says, narrating the words of Sulaymān (peace be upon him):

وَوَرِثَ سُلَيْمَانَ دَاؤُودَ وَقَالَ يَا أَيُّهَا النَّاسُ عَلَيْنَا مَنْطَقَ الطَّيْرِ وَأُوتِينَا مِنْ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ إِنَّ هَذَا لَهُوَ الْفَضْلُ الْمُبِينُ

And Sulaymān was Dāwud's heir, and he said: O men! We have been taught the language of birds, and we have been given all things; most surely this is manifest grace.⁴

Once again the wording is general, indicating the language of any birds and how they express themselves and this is not of the genus (logic) of humans originally. It is nothing to do with the Qur'an as such or the word of Allah absolutely. He blessed and exalted be his names says:

² Qur'an 21: 63

³ Qur'an 51: 23

⁴ Qur'an 27: 16

وَقَالُوا لِجَلُودِهِمْ لَمْ شَهِدْتُمْ عَلَيْنَا قَالُوا أَنْطَقَ اللَّهُ الَّذِي أَنْطَقَ كُلَّ شَيْءٍ وَهُوَ خَلَقْتُمْ أَوْلَ مَرَّةً
وَإِلَيْهِ تُرْجَعُونَ

And they shall say to their skins: Why have you borne witness against us? They shall say: Allah who makes everything speak has made us speak, and He created you at first, and to Him you shall be brought back.⁵

The aforesaid point is exemplified in a many other Qur'anic verses as well; it relates to one sense only, that of speech and speaking, generally. That point would invalidate anyone to claim that the verses cited above from Surah Najm only relate to the Qur'an and not to other sayings from the Prophet (peace be upon him). If it was only intended to relate to the Qur'an and nothing else it would be more correct and appropriate to say 'The lord of mighty power read to him or recited to him' or words similar to this. Yet the Qur'anic text as verbally recited and taught is otherwise, as we find:

عَلَمَهُ شَدِيدُ الْقُوَى

The Lord of mighty power has taught him.⁶

Without doubt that is the Prophet (peace be upon him), he was taught the Qur'an definitely by the lord of power. There is no doubt concerning this and it relates to more than just being in receipt of the Qur'anic letters and sounds only. The word used in the verse [] taught him is not generally specific to his knowledge of the Qur'an, but rather of this and many other things.

Moreover, how does one judge that the word 'Qur'an' itself is not just limited to a particular chapter such as al-Baqarah or al-'Imrān or indeed any other verse and not concerned with the complete contents contained between its two covers? If it is possible that the word 'speak' is only concerned with the act of 'reciting the Qur'an' and it is not to be understood in its full generality. To utter all other matters, in absolute generality and full comprehensive meaning, as it is an acknowledged fact known by necessity from the Arabic language, to argue otherwise would be merely to assert without evidence. So it is logical and correct to also let the word 'Qur'an' be understood in its completeness and not limited to what is between the covers of the well-known book. Otherwise, we would be contradicting ourselves and acting according to desires and choosing that which is false. In a different verse we find Allah stating:

⁶ Qur'an 53: 5

قُلْ إِنَّمَا أَنذِرْكُمْ بِالْوَحْيٍ وَلَا يَسْمَعُ الصُّمُ الدُّعَاءَ إِذَا مَا يُنذَرُونَ

Say: I warn you only by revelation; and the deaf do not hear the call whenever they are warned.⁷

The verse has a linguistic form of restriction (seeghat-hasr) with its opening wording. That is to say, I do not warn except by way of revelation; the warning which is brought forth is a revelation from Allah, the almighty. The Prophet (peace be upon him) used to warn people using a variety of language and not only by way of verses from the Qur'an. He used to warn people with the hellfire for different sins and to warn of the consequences resulting from the abandonment of duties. He used to enact different laws as well as deliver various warnings and proclamations. If all of that is not considered from among revelation that is ultimately being revealed from Allah, then the aforementioned Qur'anic verse would be manifestly wrong – Allah the exalted, blessed be his names is far above any erroneous charge. Furthermore, it would also be in direct conflict with the proofs of Prophecy and those relating to the established proofs that the Qur'an is the final revelation from Allah, as will be detailed in due course.

For anyone to claim that the word 'revelation' mentioned in the previous verse only pertains to the Qur'an, would be asserting a lie. In fact it would be violation of what is true and is at odds with what is proved as an acknowledged fact through history and biographical evidence. Any such claim would be a denial of the Qur'an itself, given that it is the same Qur'an that named what Allah had revealed to Musa and his mother (peace be upon him) as revelation at the same time that we know that this revelation was not considered as the Qur'an or even similar to it in either kind or language. In fact such claims are far worse, for it would mean that Allah is not able to use appropriate and complete expression – yet he is far elevated above all such imperfection. There is nothing in the world that can be easier than saying, 'I warn you solely according to the glorious Qur'an', or 'I warn you solely according to the scripture.' But this verse was not revealed in that manner, so we know for sure that anyone who claims that the word 'revelation' is limited only to the 'Qur'an' is in manifest error. This becomes more evident given that Allah says:

قُلْ أَيُّ شَيْءٍ أَكْبَرُ شَهَادَةً قُلْ اللَّهُ شَهِيدٌ بَيْنِي وَبَيْنَكُمْ وَأُوحِيَ إِلَيَّ هَذَا الْقُرْآنُ لِأُنذِرُكُمْ بِهِ وَمَنْ
بَلَغَ أَنْتُمْ لَتَشْهُدُونَ أَنَّ مَعَ اللَّهِ آلهَةٌ أُخْرَى قُلْ لَا أَشْهُدُ قُلْ إِنَّمَا هُوَ اللَّهُ وَاحِدٌ وَإِنِّي بَرِيءٌ مِّمَّا
تُشْرِكُونَ

Say: What thing is the weightiest in testimony? Say: Allah is witness between you and me; this Qur'an has been revealed to me that with it I may warn you and whomsoever it reaches. Do you really bear witness that there are other gods with Allah? Say: I do not bear witness. Say: He is only one Allah and surely I am clear of that which you set up (with Him).⁸

This verse explicitly mentioned the Qur'an and mentioned that among the purposes for revealing it is to warn people in a method that was not restricted. The Qur'an has other purposes beside giving warnings such as providing glad tidings, reminding people, encouraging / challenging people to think and ponder, etc. Giving warnings may be done through the glorious Qur'an or through means other than it. For instance Imams warn and threaten the congregation during sermons at Friday prayer; poets do the same using their poetry. Such warnings are according to the discretion of scholars and poetry of the poets but they are not revelation. It may be derived from revelation and may be this derivation is right or wrong. Yet the verse under consideration here in this section relates to the final Messenger of Allah, Muhammad (peace be upon him) and Allah elucidated clearly for him and us:

قُلْ إِنَّمَا أُنذِرُكُمْ بِالْوُحْدَى وَلَا يَسْمَعُ الصُّمُ الدُّعَاءَ إِذَا مَا يُنذَرُونَ

Say: I warn you only by revelation; and the deaf do not hear the call whenever they are warned.⁹

⁹ Qur'an 21: 45

3 ‘Whoever obeys the Prophet, indeed obeys Allah’

Allah, glorified and blessed be his names says:

مَنْ يُطِعِ الرَّسُولَ فَقَدْ أَطَاعَ اللَّهَ وَمَنْ تَوَلَّ فَمَا أَرْسَلْنَاكَ عَلَيْهِمْ حَفِظًا

*Whoever obeys the Prophet he indeed obeys Allah, and whoever turns back,
We have not sent you as a keeper over them.¹*

وَمَا أَرْسَلْنَا مِنْ رَسُولٍ إِلَّا لِيُطَاعَ بِذِنِ اللَّهِ وَلَوْ أَتَهُمْ إِذْ ظَلَمُوا أَنفُسَهُمْ جَاءُوكَ فَاسْتَغْفِرُوا اللَّهَ
يٰأَيُّهَا الْكَافِرُونَ إِنَّمَا أَنْتُمْ تَنْهَاةٌ وَاللَّهُ يَعْلَمُ الظُّلْمَاتِ
إِنَّمَا تَنْهَاةُ الظُّلْمَاتِ أَنْ تَرْجِعُوا إِلَيْهِمْ مَا سَرَشُتُمْ
وَمَا تَرْكُتُمْ وَمَنْ يَوْمَ تَوَبَّ إِلَيْهِمْ فَإِنَّمَا يَوْمَ التَّوْبَةِ أَنْ يُغْفِرَ
اللهُ تَعَالَى عَنِ الْمُنْكَرِ وَمَنْ يَتَوَبَّ فَإِنَّمَا يَتَوَبَّ إِلَيْهِمْ be upon him) unconditionally. He declares that obeying His Messenger is a condition for guidance and disobeying him will lead to us going astray. There are also other verses in which Allah threatens whoever disobeys Him or disobeys His Messengers in general, with eternal punishment in the fire of hell. For example, Allah blessed be his names says:

وَمَنْ يَعْصِ اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ وَيَتَعَدَّ حُدُودَهُ يُدْخِلُهُ نَارًا خَالِدًا فِيهَا وَلَهُ عَذَابٌ مُّهِينٌ

And whoever disobeys Allah and His Messenger and goes beyond His limits, He will cause him to enter fire to abide therein, and he shall have an abasing chastisement.³

إِلَّا بَلَاغًا مِنَ اللَّهِ وَرِسَالَاتِهِ وَمَنْ يَعْصِ اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ فَإِنَّ لَهُ نَارًا جَهَنَّمَ خَالِدِينَ فِيهَا أَبَدًا

I only deliver [what I receive] from Allah—only His messages.’ Whoever disobeys God and His Messenger will have Hell’s Fire as his permanent home.⁴

لَيْسَ عَلَى الْأَعْمَى حَرَجٌ وَلَا عَلَى الْمُرِيضِ حَرَجٌ وَمَنْ يُطِعِ اللَّهَ
وَرَسُولَهُ يُدْخِلُهُ جَنَّاتٍ تَجْرِي مِنْ تَحْنَاهَا الْأَنْهَارُ وَمَنْ يَتَوَلَّ يُعَذِّبُهُ عَذَابًا أَلِيمًا

There is no harm in the blind, nor is there any harm in the lame, nor is there any harm in the sick (if they do not go forth); and whoever obeys Allah and His Messenger, He will cause him to enter gardens beneath which rivers flow, and whoever turns back, He will punish him with a painful punishment.⁵

وَمَا كَانَ لِمُؤْمِنٍ وَلَا مُؤْمِنَةٍ إِذَا قَضَى اللَّهُ وَرَسُولُهُ أَمْرًا أَنْ يَكُونَ لَهُمُ الْخِيَرَةُ مِنْ أَمْرِهِمْ وَمَنْ
يَعْصِ اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ فَقَدْ ضَلَّ ضَلَالًا مُّبِينًا

³ Qur’ān 4: 14

⁴ Qur’ān 72: 23

⁵ Qur’ān 48: 17

And it behoves not a believing man and a believing woman that they should have any choice in their matter when Allah and His Messenger have decided a matter; and whoever disobeys Allah and His Messenger, he surely strays off a manifest straying.⁶

يُصلح لَكُمْ أَعْمَالَكُمْ وَيَغْفِر لَكُمْ ذُنُوبَكُمْ وَمَن يُطِعَ اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ فَقَدْ فَازَ فَوْزًا عَظِيمًا

He will put your deeds into a right state for you, and forgive you your faults; and whoever obeys Allah and His Messenger, he indeed achieves a mighty success.⁷

قُلْ أَطِيعُوا اللَّهَ وَأَطِيعُوا الرَّسُولَ فَإِنْ تَوَلُّوْا فَإِنَّمَا عَلَيْهِ مَا حُمِّلَ وَعَلَيْكُمْ مَا حُلِّتُمْ وَإِنْ تُطِيعُوهُ تَهْتَوْا وَمَا عَلَى الرَّسُولِ إِلَّا الْبَلَاغُ الْمُبِينُ

Say: Obey Allah and obey the Messenger; but if you turn back, then on him rests that which is imposed on him and on you rests that which is imposed on you; and if you obey him, you are on the right way; and nothing rests on the Messenger but clear delivery (of the message).⁸

وَأَطِيعُوا اللَّهَ وَأَطِيعُوا الرَّسُولَ وَاحْذَرُوا فَإِنْ تَوَلَّيْتُمْ فَاعْلَمُوا أَنَّمَا عَلَى رَسُولِنَا الْبَلَاغُ الْمُبِينُ

And obey Allah and obey the Messenger and be cautious; but if you turn back, then know that only a clear deliverance of the message is (incumbent) on Our Messenger.⁹

وَأَطِيعُوا اللَّهَ وَأَطِيعُوا الرَّسُولَ فَإِنْ تَوَلَّيْتُمْ فَإِنَّمَا عَلَى رَسُولِنَا الْبَلَاغُ الْمُبِينُ

Messenger devolves only the clear delivery (of the message).¹⁰

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا أَطِيعُوا اللَّهَ وَأَطِيعُوا الرَّسُولَ وَلَا تُبْطِلُوا أَعْمَالَكُمْ

O you who believe! Obey Allah and obey the Messenger, and do not make your deeds of no effect.¹¹

The verse shows that Allah appointed his majestic self as well as his Messenger as the only and absolute point of reference in matters where disputes arise. While Allah and his Messenger are to be obeyed in absolute terms, this is not the case for temporal rulers, as is well established in the famous verse:

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا أَطِيعُوا اللَّهَ وَأَطِيعُوا الرَّسُولَ وَأُولَئِكَ الْأَمْرَ مِنْكُمْ فَإِنْ تَنَازَعْ عَنْهُمْ فِي شَيْءٍ فَرْدُوْهُ إِلَيَّ اللَّهِ وَالرَّسُولِ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ تُؤْمِنُونَ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ ذَلِكَ خَيْرٌ وَأَحْسَنُ تَأْوِيلًا

O you who believe! Obey Allah and obey the Messenger and those in authority from among you; then if you differ about anything, refer it to Allah and the Messenger, if you believe in Allah and the last day; this is better and very good in the end.¹²

In the next verse, Allah distinguished his Messenger by ordering us to obey him without mentioning himself and made this obedience to him a condition in order to gain his divine mercy:

وَأَقِيمُوا الصَّلَاةَ وَآتُوا الزَّكَاةَ وَأَطِيعُوا الرَّسُولَ لَعَلَّكُمْ تُرْحَمُونَ

And keep up prayer and pay zakāt and obey the Messenger so that mercy may

¹⁰ Qur'ān 64: 12

¹¹ Qur'ān 47: 33

¹² Qur'ān 4: 59

*be shown to you.*¹³

Furthermore, Allah has emphasised that obeying his Prophet is a condition for gaining his love, which is without doubt one of the greatest accolades, whilst disobeying him is from amongst the types of disbelief which would earn the removal of his pleasure. Allah says:

قُلْ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ تُحِبُّونَ اللَّهَ فَاتَّبِعُونِي يُحِبُّكُمُ اللَّهُ وَيَغْفِرُ لَكُمْ ذُنُوبَكُمْ وَاللَّهُ عَفُورٌ رَّحِيمٌ ، قُلْ أَطِيعُو
اللَّهَ وَالرَّسُولَ فَإِنْ تَوَلُّوْا إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يُحِبُّ الْكَافِرِينَ

*Say: If you love Allah, then follow me, Allah will love you and forgive you your faults and Allah is forgiving, merciful. Say: Obey Allah and the Messenger; but if they turn back, then surely Allah does not love the kāfīreens.*¹⁴

Allah provides further illustration of this point in the next verse where he says:

وَمَنْ يُطِعِ اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ وَيَخْشَى اللَّهَ وَيَتَّقَهُ فَأُولَئِكَ هُمُ الْفَانِزُونَ

*And he who obeys Allah and His Messenger, fears Allah and is careful of (his duty to) Him, they are the achievers*¹⁵

The verse indicates that fear and being watchful are not complete without obedience to Allah the exalted and his Messenger (peace be upon him). The word ‘Messenger’ has been co-joined to the word ‘Allah’ in a way that indicates that both are equally worthy of being obeyed, although there is a striking infinite difference between Allah,

¹³ Qur'ān 24: 56

¹⁴ Qur'ān 3: 31/32

¹⁵ Qur'ān 24: 52

the ever-living; the self-subsisting; the necessarily-existent and his Messenger (peace be upon him) who is the created, contingent, mortal and finite. Allah the exalted has taken issue with anyone seeking to place a wedge between himself and his Messenger or seek to make differentiation. Worse than this would be for anyone to seek to manoeuvre between them, claiming to believe in some parts while rejecting others. Allah has shut down all avenues towards this by categorically stating:

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ يَكْفُرُونَ بِاللَّهِ وَرَسُولِهِ وَيُرِيدُونَ أَنْ يُفْرِقُوا بَيْنَ اللَّهِ وَرَسُولِهِ وَيَقُولُونَ نُؤْمِنُ بِبَعْضِ
وَنَنْفُرُ بِبَعْضٍ وَيُرِيدُونَ أَنْ يَتَّخِذُوا بَيْنَ ذَلِكَ سَبِيلًا ، أُولَئِكَ هُمُ الْكَافِرُونَ حَقًا وَأَعْذَنَا لِلْكَافِرِينَ
عَذَابًا مُّهِينًا

*Surely those who disbelieve in Allah and His Messengers and desire to make a distinction between Allah and His Messengers by saying: We believe in some and disbelieve in others, and desire to take a course between (this and that). These it is that are truly disbelievers, and We have prepared for the disbelievers a disgraceful chastisement.*¹⁶

Allah showed that Prophets are obeyed by His express divine command and that they are obeyed for His cause. Obedience to the Prophets directly corresponds to obedience to Allah; it constitutes the same level of authoritative command. To reiterate, Allah has refused to accept anyone trying to make a distinction between Him and His Messengers (peace be upon them all). Any attempts of making a distinction or to be crude, driving a wedge between Allah and His Messengers will end in total failure. Evidence has been established from the divine verse to show that any such attempt is truly a manifest and open kufr, which will ultimately result in eternal damnation. Without doubt, based upon the necessity of reason and irrefutable evidence established from the Shari'ah there is a clear distinction between the Prophet (peace be upon him) as a mortal contingent being and Allah, the creator of all existence. The two are separate entities on completely different plains of existence. He (peace be upon him) is not the same as Allah in nature or essence; his will is different from that of the will of Allah.

Messengers have been chosen to convey the wahy and to bolster delivery of this Allah has rendered them infallible – ma'soom - in this aspect. Consequently it is an absolute necessity that the Prophetic Sunnah is an infallible proclamation from Allah. The Prophetic expression and formulation is an infallible revelation which has come from Allah. If it were possible that any such proclamation was based upon the sole desire of the Prophet (peace be upon him) without being based on infallible revelation from Allah, his mission would have lost its significance; it would cease to be considered an authority. If such a proposition were correct, how would Allah establish the proof against those rejecting His law and very existence on the day of judgement? The need for the Shari'ah would be obviated. Making any such claim would be in clear conflict with the mutually supporting Qur'anic verses. As such the glorious Qur'an would be self-contradictory and it should not be considered as having been sent down from Allah - Allah forbid and protect us from such vain and baseless claims.

4 Types of Divine Revelation

A critic may argue that it is feasible that the Prophet (peace be upon him) might have been led to do that certain actions or prohibited matters according to his nature or bodily composure resultant from hereditary qualities. In response, we would submit that this is of no avail. It could not have been possible for the Prophet (peace be upon him) to be of this ‘nature’ in such a manner that his taste does not accept, and that his mind does not settle except with Allah’s will, as it is known in reality with certitude only to Allah himself, except with a prior knowledge, a determined destiny, or a creation, by the will of Allah, and according to his determination. It was the creative will and determination of Allah that resolved that the Prophet (peace be upon him) be created in a certain destined manner. His unique condition conforms to Allah’s legislative will, for the mission of this very specific Prophet (peace be upon him), in such a way that the Prophet (peace be upon him) be created ideally prepared for the infallible conveyance of the last message for mankind. Nobody, whether that be a scholar, a critic or even a heretic should say that neither this nor anything like it can be described as revelation. Moreover as stated earlier, the Prophetic expression and formulation is an infallible revelation which has come from Allah. Allah has said:

وَأَوْحَى رَبُّكَ إِلَى النَّحْلِ أَنِ اتَّخِذِي مِنِ الْجِبَالِ بُيُوتًا وَمِنَ الشَّجَرِ وَمِمَّا يَعْرِشُونَ

And your Lord revealed to the bee saying: make hives in the mountains and in the trees and in what they build.¹

It is well known that that the wahy was granted to the bees by Allah, it is planted in their hereditary stock (chromosomes and genes) and in a particular way that made them use mountains, trees and what they build up in a certain way. Definitely this wahy is not a holy Qur'an that can be recited, nor did it happen by the descent of an angel or by a vision during sleep or the like. From the aforementioned verse we note that wahy can be of several types, ranging from that which is implanted in the genes in the origin of innate character to the glorious Qur'an, which is the divine word, revealed literally and verbally, in its words and letters, miraculous in its composition, whose recitation is a type of worship. In between there are other types, which are expectoration in fear, or an inspiration to a soul without prior knowledge of it, or having a true vision, the appearance of an angelic messenger to the human messenger orally addressing him; the sending down of ready written scriptures and tablets from heaven, etc. All of these are called wahy; all these types of wahy are infallible. Regarding the Prophets they are without any lie, error or forgetfulness in reporting from Allah; otherwise there would be no significance in Prophethood altogether.

5 ‘Whatever the Messenger gives you, take it...’

Allah the almighty blessed be his names has said:

مَا أَفَاءَ اللَّهُ عَلَى رَسُولِهِ مِنْ أَهْلِ الْقُرْبَى فَلَلَّهِ وَلِلرَّسُولِ وَلِذِي الْقُرْبَى وَالْيَتَامَى وَالْمَسَاكِينِ
وَابْنِ السَّبِيلِ كَيْنَ لا يَكُونُ دُولَةً بَيْنَ الْأَغْنِيَاءِ مِنْكُمْ وَمَا آتَكُمُ الرَّسُولُ فَخُذُوهُ وَمَا نَهَاكُمْ عَنْهُ
فَانْتَهُوا وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ إِنَّ اللَّهَ شَدِيدُ الْعِقَابِ

Whatever Allah has restored to His Messenger from the people of the towns, it is for Allah and for the Messenger and for the near of kin, the orphans, the needy and the wayfarer, so that it may not be a thing taken by turns among the rich of you, and whatever the Messenger gives you, take it and from whatever he forbids you abstain; be careful of (your duty to) Allah; surely Allah is severe in retribution.¹

This is a firm command, followed by a confirmed warning that strictly obligates people to accept all the commands of the Prophet (peace be upon him) without any exception. The wording used in the verse, ‘and whatever’ is a general formulation, without limitation or qualification, thus it cannot be construed as being conditional or restrictive. History attests to the fact that the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not come bearing gold or silver. Nor was he a merchant providing markets with goods or a despotic tyrannical king doling out gifts, grants, positions and lands through the bestowal of patronage. Yet by Allah, he brought something of great value - innumerable reports concerning Allah, his angels, books, messengers and the last day. He explained the conditions of the hour of resurrection and its signs; provided news of the previous Prophets and nations. He brought forth lessons to be learnt in different forms, sometimes in the form of speeches, stories and parables, in addition to other forms of lessons. He also brought forth several commands, prohibitions, instructions, advice and guidance. He uttered marvellous wise sayings. All these have been brought forward by the Prophet of Allah (peace be upon him); he accepted them as a necessary religious duty, which is not to be disputed according to the verse of the Qur' n. By virtue of every type, we may list the following:

- To take his reports and believe in them decisively; acknowledging them inwardly and outwardly. Submitting to them thereby fostering 'religiosity,' in other words to draw closer to Allah seeking his pleasure via this submission and belief.
- To take the command and being obedient to it; demonstrating compliance within the limits of what can be done.
- To take what has been prohibited, in other words recognising it as such and abstaining from it, except where the conditions of necessity and duress apply.
- And taking other matters also according to their type. For example, if the Prophet (peace be upon him) granted you a plot of land it is to be taken as a legitimate good possession. If it is given to another, then you would be happy for the lucky person and wish yourself the same but not show envy or rancour at the other, Allah forbid.

All these are truly sent down from Allah. For it is impossible that Allah commands us to believe a false report, or obey a command that he never ordered or prohibit something he did not render impermissible, or accept a gift which we are not entitled to, Allah forbid. As expressed in the verse, Allah blessed be his names says – 'and from whatever he forbids you, abstain' by necessity it includes all that he outlines as forbidden or prohibited. He also says: 'and whatever the Messenger gives you, take it'. It is from the utmost kindness that the particular has been annexed to the general, the part to the whole. Such use of rhetoric has been provided to confirm the legislation with an eloquence of the highest magnitude. Thus it can be established from this verse:

- ✓ The importance of abstaining and being deterred from things the Messenger of Allah, (peace be upon him) prohibited without a stipulation of ability and capability. For abstaining from prohibited things are a negative attitude; i.e. it is a not-to-do action, which is within the remit of all people.
- ✓ Invalidating any possibly confusing matter about the beginning of the verse '...and whatever the Messenger gives you, take it...' that it might refer to things other than reports, commands and prohibitions, or it might refer to glorious Qur' n only. Since prohibitions have been mentioned separately and explicitly, it is necessary that the sentence be inclusive of all prohibitions and that which is similar to it, things that can be described as being brought by a Prophetic deed or saying; i.e., inclusive of all reports and commands, etc.

The sentence 'and whatever the Messenger gives you, take it' is a priori a verse signifying all Qur' nic texts. So if the Messenger (peace be upon him) says, this is Qur' n, then our response should be: we hear and we obey and accept it as the glorious Qur'an and record it in the scripture. If he says this verse that was of the glorious Qur'an has been lifted, abrogated and removed from the scripture and we must not recite it again, our reply should be: at your command. We will do as commanded; such should be our attitude forever. Whatever the Messenger (peace be upon him) brings to us, we should accept, and what he prohibits us, should be abandoned.

6 ‘I only follow what is revealed to me’

Allah the exalted and majestic states in the following verses:

قُلْ لَا أَقُولُ لَكُمْ عِنْدِي حَرَائِنُ اللَّهِ وَلَا أَعْلَمُ الْغَيْبَ وَلَا أَقُولُ لَكُمْ إِنِّي مَلَكٌ إِنْ أَتَّبَعُ إِلَّا مَا يُوحَى
إِلَيَّ قُلْ هُنَّ هُنْ يَسْتَوِي الْأَعْمَى وَالْبَصِيرُ أَفَلَا تَتَفَكَّرُونَ

Say: I do not say to you, I have with me the treasures of Allah, nor do I know the unseen, nor do I say to you that I am an angel; I do not follow anything save that which is revealed to me. Say: Are the blind and the seeing one alike? Do you not then reflect?¹

وَإِذَا تُتْلَى عَلَيْهِمْ آيَاتُنَا بِيَتَاتٍ قَالَ الَّذِينَ لَا يَرْجُونَ لِقَاءَنَا انْتَ بِقُرْآنٍ غَيْرُ هَذَا أَوْ بَدْلَهُ قُلْ مَا
يَكُونُ لِي أَنْ أَبْدَلَهُ مِنْ تِلْفَاعِنَّ نَفْسِي إِنْ أَتَّبَعُ إِلَّا مَا يُوحَى إِلَيَّ إِنِّي أَخَافُ إِنْ عَصَيْتَ رَبَّيْ عَذَابَ
يَوْمٍ عَظِيمٍ

And when Our clear communications are recited to them, those who hope not for Our meeting say: Bring a Qur'an other than this or change it. Say: It does not beseem me that I should change it of myself; I follow naught but what is revealed to me; surely I fear, if I disobey my Lord, the punishment of a mighty

قُلْ مَا كُنْتُ بِدُعَّاً مِنَ الرَّسُولِ وَمَا أُدْرِي مَا يُفْعَلُ بِي وَلَا يَعْلَمُ إِنْ أَتَبْعَ إِلَّا مَا يُوحَى إِلَيَّ وَمَا أَنَا إِلَّا نَذِيرٌ مُبِينٌ

*Say: I am not the first of the Prophets and I do not know what will be done with me or with you: I do not follow anything but that which is revealed to me and I am nothing but a plain warner.*³

The verse has a linguistic form of restriction (seeghat-haṣr), that is to say, he (peace be upon him) does not follow anything but the revelation, whether that be in the form of acts or speech, with the notion of acts being the obvious immediate meaning. One must also note that the Prophet (peace be upon him) used to perform several deeds that were not explicitly mentioned within the corpus of Qur'anic text. For example, he would kiss his wives and consummate marriages; he (peace be upon him) was intimate with his wives during fasting and their menstruation, stopping short of actual intercourse. Regarding his speech, he (peace be upon him) would formulate things in his own manner, quite distinctive from the Qur'anic style. If all these were not considered to be revelation, then the Qur'anic verse would be rendered void. Accordingly, the Qur'an would not be necessarily sent down from Allah. This is in contradistinction to the Prophethood which we know is established beyond doubt by irrefutable striking evidence. Such evidence establishes that the Qur'an is necessarily sent down from Allah. Otherwise, Allah would be lying in this verse which is the height of absurdity as Allah is above all imperfections.

Previously we mentioned that the word wahy (revelation) is not synonymous with the word Qur'an; every revelation is not Qur'an, though the Qur'an is undoubtedly revelation from Allah. What is further noteworthy is that the phrase used in the verse was not formulated as 'I only follow the Qur'an,' () although that would have been easy to express and eloquent in formulation. Thus we know with certainty that his following of revelation as indicated in the Qur'anic sentence is not limited to that of the Qur'an only. Consequently the verse in correct formulation outlines striking evidence of revelation that is not limited to that of the Qur'an in which the Prophet (peace be upon him) is having revealed to him and which he is acting in accordance with.

³ Qur'an 46: 9

قُولَ إِبْرَاهِيمَ لِأَبِيهِ لَا سْتَغْفِرُنَّ لَكَ وَمَا أَمْلَكَ لَكَ مِنَ اللَّهِ مِنْ شَيْءٍ رَبَّنَا عَلَيْكَ تَوْكِنْنَا وَإِلَيْكَ أَنْبَنَا
وَإِلَيْكَ الْمَصِيرُ

Indeed, there is for you a good example in Ibrāhim and those with him when they said to their people: Surely, we are clear of you and of what you serve besides Allah; we declare ourselves to be clear of you and enmity and hatred have appeared between us and you forever until you believe in Allah alone-- but not in what Ibrāhim said to his father: I would certainly ask forgiveness for you, and I do not control for you aught from Allah - our Lord! Upon you do we rely and to you do we turn, and to you is the eventual coming.²

7 Prophet Muḥammad is the ‘Excellent Exemplar’

In chapter thirty-three of the glorious Qur’ān, Allah the exalted furnishes us with the following indisputable statement. He says:

لَقَدْ كَانَ لَكُمْ فِي رَسُولِ اللَّهِ أُسْوَةٌ حَسَنَةٌ لَمَنْ كَانَ يَرْجُو اللَّهَ وَالْيَوْمَ الْآخِرَ وَذَكَرَ اللَّهَ كَثِيرًا

Certainly, you have in the Messenger of Allah an excellent exemplar for him who hopes in Allah and the latter day and remembers Allah much.¹

As demonstrated unequivocally in the verse, the Prophet (peace be upon him) has been described as the ‘ustwatun hasana’, the most perfect and complete exemplar. This absolute general statement has been made without any limitation or qualification. However, in relation to the leader of all pious people, Ibrāhim the friend of Allah (peace and blessings be upon him), Allah has said:

قُدْ كَانَتْ لَكُمْ أُسْوَةٌ حَسَنَةٌ فِي إِبْرَاهِيمَ وَالَّذِينَ مَعَهُ إِذْ قَالُوا لِقَوْمِهِمْ إِنَّا بُرَاءُ مِنْكُمْ وَمَمَّا تَعْبُدُونَ
مِنْ دُونِ اللَّهِ كَفَرْنَا بِكُمْ وَبَدَا بَيْنَنَا وَبَيْنَكُمُ الْعَدَاوَةُ وَالْبُغْضَاءُ أَبْدَى حَتَّىٰ تُؤْمِنُوا بِاللَّهِ وَحْدَهُ إِلَّا

Allah made him a ‘uswatun hasana’ only in the matter of allegiance since he was free and disassociated from his people who insisted on disbelief and were outspoken in their hostility towards him as demonstrated by them attempting to murder him (peace be upon him). Though, Allah mentioned an acceptable excuse for him for asking forgiveness for his father. He also praised him for ceasing to ask forgiveness – after the excuse ceased to exist. Allah, whose names are blessed, says:

وَمَا كَانَ اسْتِغْفَارُ إِبْرَاهِيمَ لِأَبِيهِ إِلَّا عَنْ مَوْعِدٍ وَعَدَهَا إِبَاهُ فَلَمَّا تَبَيَّنَ لَهُ أَنَّهُ عَدُوُ اللَّهِ تَبَرَّأَ مِنْهُ
إِنَّ إِبْرَاهِيمَ لَأَوَّاهُ حَلِيمٌ

And Ibrāhim asking forgiveness for his father was only owing to a promise which he had made to him; but when it became clear to him that he was an enemy of Allah, he declared himself to be clear of him; most surely Ibrāhim was very tender-hearted, forbearing.³

Yet Allah made an exception from the good example and leadership of Ibrāhim (peace be upon him), which is his asking forgiveness for his father, though he was intending only the good and was excused in doing that. By Allah, Ibr him (peace be upon him) did not commit an impermissible deed or a sin. He just did only the less desirable with a good intention and while being dutiful to his father. He asked forgiveness because it was originally permitted and allowed to be done. At that time, he was not ordered otherwise but he abandoned it when Allah prohibited it explicitly.

In contradistinction to the matter of Ibr him (peace be upon him), it was never mentioned in the Qur'an that the leader of Prophets and the master of all sent messengers, the nearest one to the Lord of the worlds, Mu ammad ibn Abdullah (peace be upon him) was excluded from being taken as an example to be necessarily guided. This fact when considered with evidences that following his example is Allah's command, necessarily proves that he is the good and infallible example in all his words and deeds with no exception whatsoever. The verses mentioned above provide compelling evidential basis: as outlined by: 'I do not follow anything but that which is revealed to me' (Surah al-An'am verse 50, Surah Yunus verse 10 and Surah al-Ahqāf verse 9); then with the verse 'Certainly you have in the Messenger of Allah an excellent exemplar for him who hopes in Allah and the latter day and remembers Allah much.' (Surah al-Ah'zāb verse 21) and with the verses: 'Say: If you love Allah, then follow me, Allah will love you and forgive you your faults and Allah is forgiving, merciful. Say: Obey Allah and the Messenger; but if they turn back, then surely Allah does not love the kāfirēn' (Surah al-Imrān verses 32/33). Considering these evidences together we can necessarily conclude that the Prophet's (peace be upon him) deeds are an infallible revelation that can be considered an excellent example without any qualification or limitation.

Another key principle that can be outlined from what has been presented thus far: whatever the Prophet (peace be upon him) did after revelation began can never be prohibited for the rest of his Ummah, unless it has been categorically proven that it relates only to what is specifically legislated for him. Hence his acts can be emulated and followed without fear or hardship. Yet performing mere acts does not make them obligatory or even desirable, except by virtue of clear evidence to that effect. It is inconceivable that the Prophet (peace be upon him) could have performed an undesirable act unless there was a material evidence to show that he performed it only to prove that no one who performs it would be committing something unlawful outright. Though abstaining from performing such a deed would be better. This is partly one of the requirements of being designated as ustwatun hasana. Likewise, abstinence from a certain act would provide striking proof that this deed is not obligatory on the Ummah. Besides, there should be evidence to support the prohibition, the undesirability, or just the permissibility of a deed. It is inconceivable that the Prophet (peace be upon him) would cease to perform a desirable deed, unless he had an evidence showing that he just ceased to perform it to prove that it is not a questionable matter, so as not to burden his Ummah, or for any other reasons that will be discussed in due course.

Again, these are some of the requirements of being designated as ustwatun hasana. It is impossible for the Prophet (peace be upon him) to perform a deed which is prohibited for his Ummah or to leave what is obligatory for his Ummah. Although it is possible that he may perform something that is of a different category than the former, such as abandoning a desirable deed or performing a disliked deed. This would be a 'sin' for want of a better word between himself and Allah, though it is most definitely not a sin when performed by a member of his Ummah.

'That Allah may forgive your previous and future sins'

*He frowned and turned (his) back, because there came to him a blind man.*²

عَفَا اللَّهُ عَنْكَ لَمْ أَدِنْتْ لَهُمْ حَتَّىٰ يَتَبَيَّنَ لَكَ الَّذِينَ صَدَقُوا وَتَعْلَمَ الْكَاذِبُونَ

*Allah pardon you! Why did you give them leave until those who spoke the truth had become manifest to you and you had known the liars?*³

8 ‘That Allah may forgive your previous and future sins’

Given the foregoing discussion, this is the only meaning which is contextually compatible with the previous verses, or with other verses definitely stating that the Prophet’s words and deeds are infallible. The meaning is also relevant to other texts that appeared as ambiguous to some people. At the forefront of these are the following where Allah has said:

لَيَغْفِرَ لَكَ اللَّهُ مَا تَقْدَمَ مِنْ ذَنْبٍ وَمَا تَأْخُرَ وَيُتَمَّ نِعْمَتُهُ عَلَيْكَ وَيَهْدِكَ صِرَاطًا مُسْتَقِيمًا

*That Allah may forgive your previous and future sins and complete His favour to you and keep you on a right way.*¹

As well as the verse where the Prophet (peace be upon him) was chided by Allah for turning away:

In order to place these verses within the context of what has transpired thus far, it is necessary to consider the various ahādīth which are related to these verses. By doing so it will enable clarity to be brought to the notion of what is considered the ‘sins’ of the Prophet (peace be upon him), which are in fact not related to him committing that which is prohibited for his Ummah. Firstly, Imām Muslim recorded the following ḥadīth in his Ṣaḥīḥ:

Ya ya ibn Ya ya, Qutayba ibn Sa’eed and Abu Rabih’ al-‘Ataki narrated to us, all of them from Ammad, Ya ya said Ammad ibn Zayd reported to us from Thabit from Abu Burda from Al-Agharr al-Muzani, who was one amongst the Companions, he reported that Allah’s Messenger (peace be upon him) said: There is (at times) some sort of shade upon my heart and I seek forgiveness from Allah a hundred times a day.

The same narration is reported with authentic and good channels of narration in a large number of hadith collections.⁴ It is also reported in the Sahīh of Ibn Ibbān in two places.⁵ Regarding this Shaykh Shu'ayb al-Arnūt said the isnād of the hadith is Sahīh. Imām Abu Ḥanīfa ibn Ibbān also commented on this by saying:

The statement of the Prophet (peace be upon him) 'Innahu la-yughānū ala' qalbi' refers to the anxious thoughts straining his heart when he is concerned, thinking about some acts of worship or a ruling not known to him before its revelation. As in the case when the Prophet (peace be upon him) was in Mecca. Having no knowledge of the rulings revealed in the chapter of al-Baqarah in Medina, he considered it a sin on him that strained his heart. That is why he used to ask Allah for forgiveness a hundred times each day. It was not that his heart was burdened by a sin which he commits akin to that felt by members of his Ummah when they sin.

In the Mu'jam al-Kabir of Imām Abū Ḥanīfa he has recorded the following narration:

Mu'āmmad ibn Mu'āmmad al-Juzoo'ee the judge narrated to us, he said I heard al-Abbās b. al-Waleed an-Narsee he said I asked Abu 'Ubaidah Ma'mar bin al-Muthanna about the Tafsīr of the statement – 'Innahu la-yughānū ala' qalbi' and he gave no Tafsīr. I asked Al-'Aṣwad about it but he did not give me an explanation either.

I would submit that the word 'ghayn' is the light cloud which shields the figure of the sun without shielding much of its light, in contradistinction to the word 'ghaym', which is the thick dark cloud. So the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) used to ask forgiveness from even the slightest clouding of the heart and it is well known that this is not considered as being a sin in the traditional sense for his Ummah.

As well as this there is an additional narration that is reported in Sunan Abu Dhu'l-Wudū' with an authentic chain of transmission from Abdullāh ibn Umar.

al-Asan bin Ali narrated to us Abu Usayf narrated to us from Mlik bin Mighwal from Muhammad bin Sooqa from Nafi' from Ibn Umar who said: We counted that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) would say a hundred times during a meeting - My Lord, forgive me and pardon me; thou art the pardoning and forgiving one.

Abū Ḥanīfa ibn Ibbān said of this that it was Sahīh. It is well known and reported by several Imāms in their respective collections of hadith. Most of them have reported this hadith from the channel of Nafi' from Ibn Umar and others from the channel of Muj hid or Abu Fa l from Ibn Umar. Im m A mad records similar in his Musnad but on the authority of Abu Hurayrah:

Abdar-Razz q narrated to us, Ma'mar said from az-Zuhri from Abu Salama from Abu Hurayrah from the Messenger (peace be upon him) who said: I ask forgiveness from Allah more than seventy times in a day and repent to him.

Im m A mad also records similarly elsewhere in his Musnad. Alb ni said of this that it was hasan Sahīh. The hadith has also been recorded by Ibn ibb n in his Sahīh;⁶ in the Sunan of Ibn M jah;⁷ in Sunan al-Kubra of Nas 'i⁸ as well as in other noted collections. In Mu'jam as-Sagheer Im m abar ni records the following:

Ibr him bin Mu ammad al-Ghazli al-Ba ri al-Mu'addal narrated to us Khalad bin Aslam al-Marwazi narrated to us an-Na r bin Shumayl narrated to us amm d bin Salama reports from 'A im bin Bahdala from Abu li from Abu Hurayrah he said that Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I seek the forgiveness of Allah and repent to Him one hundred times each day.

⁶ Sahīh Ibn Hibb n Vol. 3 sec. 205, no. 925

⁷ Sunan Ibn M jah Vol. 2 sec. 1,254, no. 3,815

⁸ Sunan al-Kubra Nas 'i Vol. 6 sec. 114, no. 10,265; 10,268 & 10,273 & Vol. 6 sec. 460, no. 11,495

Im m abar ni writes concerning this: 'Nobody related this version on the authority of 'A im except amm d bin Salama and an-Na r was a sole narrator.' I would say in reply that it is of no consequence, given that both are considered trustworthy honest narrators and respected Im m's. It is also found in Sharh Ma'āni al-Athār via the following channel:

Ibn Abi D wud narrated to us he said Kha b bin Uthm n and aywa bin Shuray narrated to us, they said Baqia bin al-Waleed narrated to us from az-Zubaydi from az-Zuhri from Abdal-Malik bin Abi Bakr bin al- rith bin H shim from Abu Hurayrah that he was saying: I heard the Messenger of Allah (say): I repent one-hundred times a day. And he said Anas said that it was seventy-times.

Ibn ibb n records the narration from Anas bin M lik may Allah be pleased with him via an authentic channel in his Sahīh:

Al- asan bin Sufy n reported to us he said Huraym bin Abdal-'Al narrated to us he said Mu'tamir bin Sulaym n narrated to us he said I heard my father say Qat dah narrated to us from Anas he said the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said:

I repent seventy-times a day.

This isnād is authentic according to the conditions of Imām Muslim; it has also been recorded by Imām an-Nas ḫi in his Sunan al-Kubra,⁹ in the Musnad of Abu Ya'la¹⁰ as well as in other collections. The next narration is in the Sunan of Ibn Mājah reported on the authority of Abu Musa al-Aṣḥārī may Allah be pleased with him:

Ali bin Mu'ammad narrated to us Waki' narrated to us from Mughira bin Abul'urr from Sa'eed bin Abi Burda bin Abi Musa from his father from his grandfather who said: The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I seek the forgiveness of Allah and repent to Him seventy times each day.

Imām Ahmad also cites this hadīth in his Musnad.¹¹ I would argue that the isnād is hasan because Mughira bin Abul'urr al-Kindī is truthful (ṣaddiq) however when taken with the supporting narrative as found in the Sunan al-Kubra of an-Nas ḫi it can be regarded as Ṣaḥīḥ.¹² Elsewhere in the Sunan al-Kubra Imām an-Nas ḫi reported the following narratives on the authority of Udhayfah may Allah be pleased with him:

⁹ Nas ḫi Sunan al-Kubra Vol. 6 sec. 114, no. 10,266 / 10,267

¹⁰ Musnad Abu Ya'la Vol. 5 sec. 311, no. 2,934

¹¹ Musnad Ahmad Vol. 4 sec. 410, no. 19,687

Abd'al-Umayd bin Muhammad reported to us Makhlab narrated to us Sufyan narrated to us from Abi Isḥāq from Abu'l Mughira from Udhayfah he said the Prophet (peace be upon him) came and I said to him that I mentioned that I was harsh in the way I spoke to my family, but not to others. He said: What about asking Allah for forgiveness? Verily, I ask Allah for forgiveness a hundred times a day.

Qutayba ibn Sa'eed reported to us Abul' Awa narrated to us from Abi Isḥāq from Abu'l Mughira he said Udhayfah said: I complained to the Prophet (peace be upon him) about the sharpness of my tongue, so he said: Why don't you ask for forgiveness? Verily, every day I ask Allah for forgiveness a hundred times.

The narration is also reported in the Muṣṭanaf of Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba in a number of places as well as in other collections.¹³ The next narration is reported via 'a man from the Anṣār' again as found in the Sunan al-Kubra of Imām an-Nas ḫi:

¹³ Muṣṭanaf Ibn Abi Shayba Vol. 7 sec. 173, no. 35,078 & Vol. 6 sec. 56, no. 29,441

Ibr him bin Ya'qub reported to me he said Abdullah bin Rabih' narrated to me he said 'Abb d bin al-'Aww m reported from Hu ayn from Hil 1 bin Yas f from Z dh n from a man from the An_r whose name he forgot; that he saw the Prophet (peace be upon him) perform two rak'ahs of the forenoon prayer then sat and he heard him say: My Lord, forgive me and pardon me; thou art the pardoning and forgiving one, until he said it a hundred-times.

Im m an-Nas 'i mentions this same narration in another place also in the Sunan al-Kubra. I would submit that Abdullah bin ar-Rabih' al-Khur s ni is Abu Abdar-Ra man Abdullah bin Mu ammad bin ar-Rabih' al-'A izi al-Kirm ni al-Khur s ni, he was stationed in maseesa in the path of Allah. He is considered thiqā and from the tenth of the senior followers.

From all of this we would say that the reports reach the level of tawātur, thus we can affirm beyond any doubt that this demonstrates that the 'sins' of the Prophet (peace be upon him) are not related to him committing that which is prohibited for his Ummah. Yet it could still be considered as a point of contention that he leaves a matter which is considered desirable or recommended for his Ummah; perhaps such a matter would be considered as obliged upon him personally. Or he has committed that which considered as being disliked for his Ummah; perhaps the matter is considered prohibited for him personally. However it is not conceivable that the Prophet (peace be upon him) could have abandoned a deed that was made obligatory on his Ummah or performed a deed prohibited for his Ummah. Hence the notion of his 'sins' are essentially of the former type and not the latter.

9 Regarding the acts of the Prophet – can he forget?

One issue remains, that he (peace be upon him) can perhaps forbid a matter (such as the issue of facing the Qibla while urinating or defecating) then after that, he undertakes the act in question (urinating facing the Qibla with his back to Bayt al-Maqdis, Jerusalem). It has been said by some scholars and specialists in the fundamentals of jurisprudence that the way to explain this can be to interpret the matter as showing that the Prophet (peace be upon him) forgot while doing the act; that it wasn't done deliberately or intentionally in that regard. Although being ma'soom he is not excluded altogether from forgetfulness as people are. Given such circumstances where his act appears to go against a previous verbal prohibition, it is the verbal statement outlining the prohibition which would take precedence.

In reply, I would argue that this line of reasoning contains a number of fundamental errors. To begin, it is not necessary to proceed with that line of reasoning. Where there is a statement and act, it could very well be argued that the subsequent act operates to serve or explain that the previous prohibition that it is not one of being harām per se but rather being a disliked matter. Or it could be considered as being a matter of abrogation (naskh), if it can be established with certainty the latter act clarifies that its not one related to prohibition. This is right ordering, from which we can further state - firstly, that he (peace be upon him) had gumption and was established with fervour of mind and a powerful memory, as is known from the necessity of history, a matter recognised by believer and disbeliever alike. To argue that it may be the case that there is a small percentage chance of him being forgetful in a particular incident or situation would need a proof to establish that conclusively. Just as is the case with narrators that are trustworthy (thiqā); error or forgetfulness shouldn't be attributed to them in their reporting and channels of narration except with a specific proof. As for the objection that it is merely a rational possibility, that isn't permissible since it would disrupt the balance of reporting as the witness of history attests. Secondly, as the glorified and exalted has said:

سَنُقْرِنُكُمْ فَلَا تَنسِي ، إِلَّا مَا شَاءَ اللَّهُ إِنَّهُ يَعْلَمُ الْجَهْرَ وَمَا يَخْفِي

We will make you recite so you shall not forget, except what Allah pleases surely He knows the manifest and what is hidden.¹

He states – except what Allah pleases – thereby the speech shows we will make you recite so you will not forget anything from the Qur'an in an absolute sense, unless that which Allah causes you to forget, that will be abrogation, whereby some words are lifted or raised from the Qur'an. By necessity the abrogation will operate for every wording related to various legal injunctions (ahkām) as well unless otherwise stated with proof. This authenticity is further put into proportion by the statement of Allah where he says:

مَا نَسَخْ مِنْ آيَةٍ أَوْ نُنسِهَا ثُمَّ بَخِيرُ مِنْهَا أَوْ مِثْلُهَا أَمْ تَعْلَمُ أَنَّ اللَّهَ عَلَى كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيرٌ

Whatever communications we abrogate or cause to be forgotten, we bring one

Thirdly, that he (peace be upon him) is but human and like all other human beings prone to forget, except that it is the Prophet that is commissioned to deliver the message. Yet the responsibility for the collection and explanation rests upon Allah, for he exalted be his names has said:

إِنَّ عَلَيْنَا جُمْعُهُ وَقُرْآنَهُ، فَإِذَا قَرَأْنَاهُ فَاتَّبِعْ فُرْقَانَهُ، ثُمَّ أَنَّ عَلَيْنَا بَيَانَهُ

Surely on us (devolves) the collection and its recitation; therefore when we have recited it, follow its recitation. Again upon us (devolves) the explanation of it.⁴

Allah the exalted and majestic has also said:

وَيَوْمَ نَبْعَثُ فِي كُلِّ أُمَّةٍ شَهِيدًا مِنْ أَنفُسِهِمْ وَجِئْنَا بِكَ شَهِيدًا عَلَى هُؤُلَاءِ وَنَزَّلْنَا عَلَيْكَ الْكِتَابَ تَبَيَّنَ لَكُلَّ شَيْءٍ وَهُدًى وَرَحْمَةً وَبُشْرَى لِلْمُسْلِمِينَ

And on the day when We will raise up in every people a witness against them from among themselves and bring you as a witness against these-- and We have revealed the Book to you explaining clearly everything and a guidance and mercy and good news for those who submit.⁵

هَذَا بَيَانٌ لِلنَّاسِ وَهُدًى وَمُوَعِظَةٌ لِلْمُنْتَقَيْنَ

This is a clear statement for men, guidance and an admonition to those who are God-conscious.⁶

Necessity dictates that Allah communicates revelation directly to the Prophet. That extends even to what one might consider a small issue, such as when Jibreel conveyed to him that when one prays and takes off his sandals, he should not harm anyone in that.⁷ Given that he was not informed of this previously, it is Allah who provides this to establish a new ruling. Or the medium can be to inspire an issue in the minds of some of his Companions (or the other issue related to the prayer at noon where he prayed two units of prayer instead of four, thereby enabling the demonstration of how to correct an omission made during the prayer, as well as the matter of where he forgot to pronounce a verse in the prayer and the companions raised the point after it finished). There is also the point of the Prophet (peace be upon him) alerting his Companions to a matter beforehand in a given situation in order to demonstrate a particular ruling, like explaining to them how to correct the Imām in prayer, that the men should exclaim and the women should clap to signify for example where a verse was misread.

⁴ Qur'an 75: 17/19

Interestingly, there is a relevant statement regarding this point that has been reported from Imām Mālik in the Muwatṭā' that the Prophet said: 'I forget or I am made to forget so that I may establish the Sunnah.'⁸ This is one of the few narrations in the Muwatṭā', (four in total), where it has not been able to provide a fully connected channel to the Prophet (peace be upon him) despite intensive research and investigation. It is also plagued by misreading, where most people thought the Prophetic comment relates to a pure error, placing it in the same context as the concurrent well known reports concerning the prostration of forgetfulness.

⁷ See the tradition as reported in the Sunan of Abu Dūwud, book of prayer

⁸ See: Mālik, Muwatṭā' book 4 'forgetfulness in prayer'

10 Enjoining the good, forbidding all evil

The following verses are where Allah answered Musa (peace be upon him) when he apologised for his people and asked for forgiveness and tolerance after being afflicted with the deadly shock upon the mountain. Allah blessed be his names states:

وَأَكْتُبْ لَنَا فِي هَذِهِ الدُّنْيَا حَسَنَةً وَفِي الْآخِرَةِ إِنَّا هُدْنَا إِلَيْكَ قَالَ عَذَابِي أَصِيبُ بِهِ مَنْ أَشَاءَ
وَرَحْمَتِي وَسِعْتُ كُلَّ شَيْءٍ فَسَأَكْتُبُهَا لِلَّذِينَ يَتَقَوَّنُونَ وَيُؤْتُونَ الزَّكَاةَ وَالَّذِينَ هُمْ بِإِيمَانِنَا يُؤْمِنُونَ
الَّذِينَ يَتَبَعُونَ الرَّسُولَ النَّبِيَّ الْأُمَّيَّ الَّذِي يَجْدُونَهُ مَكْتُوبًا عَنْهُمْ فِي التَّوْرَةِ وَالْإِنْجِيلِ يَأْمُرُهُمْ
بِالْمَعْرُوفِ وَيَنْهَاهُمْ عَنِ الْمُنْكَرِ وَيَحِلُّ لَهُمُ الطَّيِّبَاتِ وَيُحَرِّمُ عَلَيْهِمُ الْخَبَاثَ وَيَضْطَعُ عَنْهُمْ
إِصْرُهُمْ وَالْأَغْلَالُ الَّتِي كَانَتْ عَلَيْهِمْ فَالَّذِينَ آمَنُوا بِهِ وَعَزَّزُوهُ وَنَصَرُوهُ وَاتَّبَعُوا النُّورَ الَّذِي
أَنْزَلَ مَعَهُ أُولَئِكَ هُمُ الْمُفْلِحُونَ
قُلْ يَا أَيُّهَا النَّاسُ إِنِّي رَسُولُ اللَّهِ إِلَيْكُمْ جَمِيعًا الَّذِي لَهُ مُلْكُ السَّمَاوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضِ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا هُوَ
يُحْيِي وَيُمِيتُ فَأَمْنِي بِاللَّهِ وَرَسُولِهِ النَّبِيِّ الْأُمَّيِّ الَّذِي يُؤْمِنُ بِاللَّهِ وَكَلِمَاتِهِ وَاتَّبِعُوهُ لَعَلَّكُمْ
تَهْتَدُونَ

And ordain for us good in this world's life and in the hereafter, for surely we turn to Thee. He said: (As for) My chastisement, I will afflict with it whom I please, and My mercy encompasses all things; so I will ordain it (specially) for those who guard (against evil) and pay the poor-rate, and those who believe in Our communications.

Those who follow the Messenger-Prophet, the unlettered, whom they find written down with them in the Torah and the Injeel (who) enjoins upon them good and forbids them evil, and makes lawful to them the good things and makes unlawful to them impure things, and removes from them their burden and the shackles which were upon them; so (as for) those who believe in him and honour him and help him, and follow the light which has been sent down with him, these it is that are the successful.

Say: O people! surely I am the Messenger of Allah to you all, of Him Whose is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth there is no god but He; He brings to life and causes to die therefore believe in Allah and His Messenger, the unlettered Prophet who believes in Allah and His words, and follow him so that you may walk in the right way.¹

The verses are considered as a glad tiding regarding of the advent of the unlettered Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him) who is equal in rank to Musa (if not higher), whom Allah will send to the people of Israel (and others) from among their brethren (i.e. the descendent of Ism 'il the brother of Is q who is the grandfather of the people of Israel) which is still preserved in the Book of Deuteronomy (book 18), one of the books of the Torah. It has been as preserved by divine power from distortion, perversion and forgery to which most former divine books were subject. Verses 15 to 21 are here presented in full:

15. The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken;

16. According to all that thou desires of the Lord thy God in Horeb in the day of the assembly, saying, Let me not hear again the voice of the Lord my God, neither let me see this great fire any more, that I die not.

17. And the Lord said unto me, They have well spoken that which they have spoken.

18. I will raise them up a Prophet from among their brethren, like unto thee, and will put my words in his mouth; and he shall speak unto them all that I shall command him.

19. And it shall come to pass, that whosoever will not hearken unto my words which he shall speak in my name, I will require it of him.

20. But the Prophet, who shall presume to speak a word in my name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or that shall speak in the name of other gods, even that Prophet shall die.

21. And if thou say in your heart, How shall we know the word which the Lord has not spoken?

22. When a Prophet speaks in the name of the Lord, if the thing follows not, nor come to pass, that is the thing which the Lord has not spoken, but the prophet has spoken it presumptuously: thou shalt not be afraid of him.

One should note how Musa (peace be upon him) hoped that Allah bestowed upon Israel a Prophet like him from amongst themselves, as in verse 15 above where he says: ‘The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken.’ But the text further goes on to say, as in verse 18 where Allah said: ‘I will raise them up a Prophet from among their brethren, like unto thee, and will put my words in his mouth; and he shall speak unto them all that I shall command him,’ emphasis being placed upon the Prophet being from among their brethren and not from among themselves!

Returning to the prophecy outlined in Deuteronomy, we have in this great final sealed revelation an explicit verse where Allah has given his final unlettered Prophet (peace be upon him) a distinctive quality in that he ‘...enjoins upon them good and forbids them evil.’ That is, the Prophet (peace be upon him) prohibits all evil regardless of its genus or type. It is therefore necessary that the Prophet (peace be upon him) prohibits decisively any evil that he sees or that he is informed about whether by means of words or through clear gestures. He may prohibit an evil by virtue of a clearly obvious action denoting prohibition. If the Prophet (peace be upon him) approves of a deed, this means that it is not evil nor prohibited. He may then identify the deed as disliked, or purely permissible, desirable or an obligation. This identification is an additional classification of what is already approved of. The deed would therefore definitely not be designated as prohibited. Thus we know for sure that the Prophet (peace be upon him) does not approve of an evil or approve of prohibited deeds and that he acknowledges nothing but true good deeds. Otherwise, the statement of Allah would be false and his promise would be fake – exalted is he above all of that. Allah blessed and exalted further informs us in another verse:

يَا أَيُّهَا الرَّسُولُ بَلْغْ مَا أُنزِلَ إِلَيْكَ مِنْ رَبِّكَ وَإِنْ لَمْ تَفْعُلْ فَمَا بَلَّغْتِ رِسَالَتَهُ وَاللَّهُ يَعْصُمُكَ مِنَ النَّاسِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يَهْدِي الْقَوْمَ الْكَافِرِينَ

O Messenger! Deliver what has been revealed to you from your Lord; and if you do it not, then you have not delivered His message and Allah will protect you from the people; surely Allah will not guide the unbelieving people.²

It has been proven that he (peace be upon him) dismissed all centurions and was not guarded after this verse was revealed. He had no porters till he died and met His Lord. Allah protected him from being harmed by anyone. Hence there cannot be a charge that he (peace be upon him) could not speak against all evil for fear of being harmed. Further elaboration upon this point is provided in a number of ahādīth and accompanying narratives, which we will consider in turn.

As is reported in al-Mustadrak a'la Ṣaḥīḥayn of Al- kim upon the authority of 'Aisha mother of the believers, may Allah be pleased with her:

Abdu - ammad bin Ali al-Bazz z narrated to us in Baghdad, A mad bin Mu ammad bin Esa al-Q i reports, Muslim bin Ibr him narrated to us al- rith bin 'Ubaid narrated to us Ma'bad al-Jariri narrated to us from Abdullah bin Shaqiq from 'Aisha may Allah be pleased with her, she said: the Prophet (peace be upon him) was being guarded until this verse was revealed: Allah will protect you from mankind. So the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) came out from the room and said: O you people! Go, for Allah shall protect me.

Al- kim has said: 'This hadith has an authentic chain of transmission but they (Bukhari and Muslim) did not record it.' In at-Talkees adh-Dhahaby said it is Saḥīḥ; it is as they said, particularly given the various channels from which it comes. It is also reported by at-Tirmidhi in his Sunan.³ Alb ni said of it that it was hasan. Im m Bayhaqy has this in both as-Sunan al-Kubra and Dalā'il an-Nabooowa (signs of Prophethood);⁴ Ibn Abi tim collected this in his Tafsir,⁵ and it is also in at-Ṭabaqāt al-Kubra as well as in other collections. In the Tafsir of the grand Im m a - abari he has the following narration

⁴ Sunan al-Kubra Vol. 9 sec. 8, no. 17,508; Dalā'il an-Nabooowa Vol. 2 sec. 57, no.

which has an authentic channel, though it is mursal, only reaching to Abdullah ibn Shaqeeq:

: { } :

Ya'qub bin Ibr him and Ibn Waki' narrated to me, they said Ibn 'Aliyah narrated to us from al-Jurreeri from Abdullah ibn Shaqeeq that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) was protected from people by his Companions. Then the verse was revealed - Allah will protect you from mankind. He came out and said: 'O people! Leave, for Allah has protected me from the people.

I would submit that the words given by Abdullah bin Shaqeeq in this narration of the incident are the wording as has been reported from 'Aisha (may Allah be pleased with her). Her narration as outlined previously gives the exact wording and context. The narrative coming via Sa'eed bin Iy s provide two independent versions of the event. That perturbed some scholars, as they thought it troublesome in the isnād; for that reason Im m Tirmidhi was astonished that the hadith was marfu' and mutassil (raised and connected), he said: 'This hadith is strange and reported by some this hadith from al-Jariri from ibn Shaqeeq who said the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not mention about the guard as did 'Aisha.' It is not so but this report is an additional report and it is found in the Tārikh Madina - History of Medina in mursal form with an authentic isnād up to that point - abb n bin Hil l narrated to us he said Abdal-'Ala (ibn Abdal-'Ala) as-S mi narrated to us he said Sa'eed al-Jariri narrated to us / till the end.

It has also been reported in the Tafsir of Im m a - abari in mursal form, hasan Sahīh by isnād to Sa'eed ibn Jubayr:

Ya'qub bin Ghayl n narrated to us Abu Kureeb narrated to us from Sa'eed ibn Jubayr: :
He said: "The people of the Book have been given their Book and the people of the Qur'an have been given their Qur'an. If you ask them about their Book, they will tell you the truth. If you ask them about their Qur'an, they will distort it." ()
He said: "The people of the Book have been given their Book and the people of the Qur'an have been given their Qur'an. If you ask them about their Book, they will tell you the truth. If you ask them about their Qur'an, they will distort it." { : }
He said: "The people of the Book have been given their Book and the people of the Qur'an have been given their Qur'an. If you ask them about their Book, they will tell you the truth. If you ask them about their Qur'an, they will distort it." { : }

Hann d and Ibn Waki' narrated to us, they said Jarir narrated to us from Thalabah from Ja'far from Sa'eed bin Jubayr he said when the verse was revealed: O Messenger! Deliver what has been revealed to you from your Lord; and if you do it not, then you have not delivered His message and Allah will protect you from the people the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Don't safeguard me, verily Allah will protect me.

There is also another mursal narration with an authentic isnād to Mu'ammad bin Ka'b al-Qurazhi found in Tārikh Medina:

Uthm n bin Abdal-Wahh b narrated to us he said Marw n bin Mu' wiya narrated to us from 'A im bin Mu ammad bin Zayd from Mu ammad bin Ka'b al-Qurazhi he said: The Prophet (peace be upon him) ordered the (release) of the guard when the verse was revealed: Allah will protect you from the people, (thereafter) the guard left.

Another narration can also be found in abar ni's al-Mu'jam al-Kabir:

Ya'qub bin Ghayl n narrated to us Abu Kureeb narrated to us Abdul- ameed al- im nni narrated to us from an-Na r Abi Umar from 'Ikrimah from Ibn 'Abb s he said: the Prophet (peace be upon him) was guarded by his uncle (Abu lib) who would send men everyday to safeguard him; until that is the verse was revealed: O Messenger! Deliver what has been revealed to you from your Lord to when he said - Allah will protect you from the people so he wanted his uncle to send him his guard thereafter he said: O my uncle, verily Allah the exalted will protect me from men and jinn.

Here Abu lib has been mentioned in the narration however that could be as a result of a slip by the narrator, perhaps an-Naṣr Abu Umar given that he is daef (weak), it is likely that the origin of the story rests with al-‘Abbās or that he has fallen from the channel and sentence ‘Then he was also guarded in the city until it was revealed’ or even the origin of the order as evidenced by the following narrative that is found in abar ni’s Mu’jam al-Awsat as well as in Mu’jam as-Sagheer:

and bin Mu ammad bin amd Abu Na r the scribe narrated to us and said Kurdoos bin Mu ammad al-W si i narrated to us he said Mu'ala bin Abdar-Ra man narrated to us from Fu eel bin Marzooq from 'A iya al-Awfi from Abu Sa'eed al-Khudari he said al-'Abb s said the uncle of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him), was the one who guarded him when this verse was revealed: Allah will protect you from the people, (thereafter) the guard left.

Of this Im m abar ni said 'It's not reported from Fu eel except by al-Mu'ala and not from Abu Sa'eed al-Khudari except by this isnād.' If we accept and bear witness that Mu ammad is the Messenger of Allah established upon truth and honesty then it is necessary that he is not silent in the face of any act or matter that is prohibited, nor does he leave that which is obligatory. There is no denying these matters. What would make him cease to object to an evil deed or approve of a prohibited one, knowing that Allah has made him infallible and has protected him from all creatures, so that none can hurt him? Most people are prevented from obeying what is true, only if they are afraid of being hurt? For that reason, our knowledge and faith increased thereby with certainty that he is not silent in the face of a prohibited act, nor does he leave an obligation.

It is necessary to hasten to clarify that it is only silence upon the 'acts' namely any declaratory voluntary acts which may be designated as prohibited. This is nothing to do with his silence in relation to sayings or utterances that it is impossible to sense and reason be described presently prohibited, but can be described only as a truth, sincerity or lies and falsehood. It is not in a similar manner to silence related to approvals and may not be described as honesty or lies as will be established in its proper place.

11 The Sunnah as an independent source of law

There are many rulings that have been established solely by the Prophetic Sunnah. They are referred to in the glorious Qur' n in other contexts in which they are stated as being part of Allah's law and that they are as binding as the rulings stipulated in the Qur' n. The following are only a few examples of such rulings:

Establishment of the first Qibla

It is known by necessity and historical fact that the first Qibla which was faced towards was that at Jerusalem, Bayt-ul-Maqdis. Significantly though, there is not a single verse in the Qur' n which details this original command. Bayt-ul-Maqdis was a Qibla for all Muslims established solely by virtue of the command rendered from the Prophet (peace be upon him). As it was obligatory to face it in prayer Allah mentioned it within the context of its abrogation, where he ordained facing Masjid al-Haram instead. The verse makes explicit that the first Qibla was being made by Allah. Allah tells us:

وَكُلُّكُمْ أَمَّةٌ وَسَطًا لِتَكُونُوا شُهَدَاءَ عَلَى النَّاسِ وَيَكُونَ الرَّسُولُ عَلَيْكُمْ شَهِيدًا وَمَا

جَعَنَا الْقِبْلَةَ الَّتِي كُنْتُ عَلَيْهَا إِلَّا لِنَعْلَمَ مَنْ يَتَبَعُ الرَّسُولَ مِنْ يَنْقَلِبُ عَلَى عَقْبِيهِ وَإِنْ كَانَتْ كَبِيرَةً إِلَّا عَلَى الدِّينِ هَدَى اللَّهُ وَمَا كَانَ اللَّهُ لِيُضِيعَ إِيمَانَكُمْ إِنَّ اللَّهَ بِالنَّاسِ لَرَءُوفٌ رَّحِيمٌ

And thus We have made you a well-balanced just nation that you may be the bearers of witness to the people and (that) the Messenger may be a bearer of witness to you; and We did not make that which you would have to be the Qibla but that We might distinguish him who follows the Messenger from him who turns back upon his heels, and this was surely hard except for those whom Allah has guided aright; and Allah was not going to make your faith to be fruitless; most surely Allah is affectionate, merciful to the people.¹

The Rebuke of Allah

Allah rebuked the believers for not paying heed to the Prophet (peace be upon him) when he was about to stand to deliver the Friday sermon. This strong reprimand indicated that the believers actions were not permissible, for if it were allowed, they would not have been reprimanded. This means that they must have committed something prohibited. As Allah had not mentioned in the Qur'an anything about the Friday sermon before that, rendering it obligatory or desirable was by virtue of Prophetic tradition not by virtue of a Qur'anic text. It is true that the Qur'an did mention it as an obligatory deed in the same context of reprimanding the believers, but the former definitely came prior to the revelation of the latter.

It is also known that the Adhān was used to call people for Friday prayers as well as other congregational prayers prior to the revelation of such verses. Those verses refer to the Adhān as the established legal way of calling people to prayer. So whenever the call to Friday prayer is heard, it is obligatory on people to rally to perform it and leave any other business as expressed in the following verse:

خَيْرٌ لَّكُمْ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ تَعْلَمُونَ ، فَإِذَا قُضِيَتِ الصَّلَاةُ فَانْتَشِرُوا فِي الْأَرْضِ وَابْتَغُوا مِنْ فَضْلِ اللَّهِ وَإِذْكُرُوا اللَّهَ كَثِيرًا لَّعَلَّكُمْ تُفْلِحُونَ ، وَإِذَا رَأَوْا تِجَارَةً أَوْ لَهُوا انْقَضُوا إِلَيْهَا وَتَرُكُوكَ فَإِنَّمَا فَلَّ مَا عِنْدَ اللَّهِ خَيْرٌ مَّنِ اللَّهُو وَمِنَ التِّجَارَةِ وَاللَّهُ خَيْرُ الرَّازِقِينَ

O you who believe! When the call is made for prayer on Friday, then hasten to the remembrance of Allah and leave off trading; that is better for you, if you know. But when the prayer is ended then disperse about in the land and seek of Allah's grace and remember Allah much, that you may be successful. And when they see merchandise or sport they break up for It and leave you standing. Say: What is with Allah is better than sport and merchandise and Allah is the best of sustainers.²

Battle of Uhud

After the crisis that befell the Muslim army at the battle of Uhud and the withdrawal of the Qurayshi army, Abu Sufyan, the leader of Quraysh, regretted that he withdrew before completely vanquishing the army against him. So he pondered upon attacking them again to root them out. After this crisis the Prophet (peace be upon him) called out all Muslims and despite their injuries and losses, they managed to chase and fight the Qurayshi army covering a considerable distance. The news about their advancement reached Abu Sufyan, whose heart was immediately filled with terror that he preferred to flee back to Mecca. Consequently, the Muslims returned safe without fighting or suffering any new injuries. Allah commended those who responded to the Prophetic summons despite the injuries they suffered. Concerning this incident he said:

يَسْتَبِشُرُونَ بِنِعْمَةِ مَنِ اللَّهُ وَفَضْلٍ وَإِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يُضِيعُ أَجْرَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ ، الَّذِينَ اسْتَجَابُوا لِلَّهِ وَالرَّسُولِ مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا أَصَابَهُمُ الْقَرْحُ لِلَّذِينَ أَحْسَنُوا مِنْهُمْ وَاتَّقُوا أَجْرٌ عَظِيمٌ

They rejoice on account of favour from Allah and (His) grace, and that Allah will not waste the reward of the believers. (As for) those who responded (at Uhud) to the call of Allah and the Prophet after the wound had befallen them, those among them who do good (to others) and guard (against evil) shall have a great reward.³

Thus, some were deemed responsive to Allah and to the Messenger (peace be upon him), although summoning them was made by virtue of the Prophet's decision without a single letter of Qur'anic text being revealed to him.

Distribution of Zakāt

When some of the hypocrites resented the way the Prophet (peace be upon him) distributed the Zakāt they slandered, backbit and censured the Prophet (peace be upon him). Whereupon, Allah disclosed what they did and informs us in the Book of the following:

وَمِنْهُمْ مَنْ يَلْمِزُكَ فِي الصَّدَقَاتِ فَإِنْ أَعْطُوهَا رَضُوا وَإِنْ لَمْ يُعْطُوهَا مِنْهَا إِذَا هُمْ يَسْخَطُونَ،
وَلَوْ أَنَّهُمْ رَضُوا مَا آتَاهُمُ اللَّهُ وَرَسُولُهُ وَقَالُوا حَسِبْنَا اللَّهَ سَيُؤْتِنَا اللَّهُ مِنْ فَضْلِهِ وَرَسُولُهُ إِنَّا
إِلَى اللَّهِ رَاغِبُونَ

And of them there are those who blame you with respect to the alms; so if they are given from it they are pleased and if they are not given from it, lo! They are full of rage. And if they were content with what Allah and His Apostle gave them and had said: Allah is sufficient for us; Allah will soon give us (more) out of His grace and His Messenger too; surely to Allah do we make our petition.⁴

The verse explicitly states that what the Prophet (peace be upon him) distributed to them, whether they received anything or not, was their legitimate right, just as it was the will of Allah the exalted and his gift to them. That is why he said: 'what Allah and his Messenger gave them.' A distribution given by the Prophet is also a distribution of Allah, although we know by necessity that no Qur'anic verse had been previously revealed in this regard. Therefore this gift was based on a revelation other than that of the Qur'an.

⁴ Qur'an 9: 58/59

The 'Secret Talk'

Allah the exalted has said:

وَإِذْ أَسْرَ النَّبِيَّ إِلَى بَعْضِ أَرْوَاجِهِ حَدِيثًا فَلَمَّا نَبَأَتْ بِهِ وَأَظْهَرَهُ اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ عَرَفَ بَعْضَهُ
وَأَغْرَضَ عَنْ بَعْضِ قَلْمَانَاهَا بِهِ قَالَتْ مَنْ أَنْبَأَكَ هَذَا قَالَ نَبَأَنِي الْعَلِيمُ الْخَبِيرُ

And when the Prophet secretly communicated a piece of information to one of his wives - but when she informed (others) of it, and Allah made him to know it, he made known part of it and avoided part; so when he informed her of it, she said: Who informed you of this? He said: The knowing, the aware, informed me.⁵

The Qur'an though does not contain a single letter of this secret private talk, about which Allah informed his Prophet (peace be upon him). Therefore, this provides a conclusive proof that he (peace be upon him) had received a revelation from Allah other than that of the Qur'an even in this private situation.

Early Prayers

Allah blessed and sanctified are his names tells us:

أَرَأَيْتَ الَّذِي يَنْهَى ، عَبْدًا إِذَا صَلَّى ، أَرَأَيْتَ إِنْ كَانَ عَلَى الْهُدَى

⁵ Qur'an 66: 3

Have you seen him who forbids a servant when he prays? Have you considered if he were on the right way?⁶

These are some of the earliest verses revealed in Mecca. Therein it contains conclusive evidence that the Prophet (peace be upon him) was praying in a manner of which a disbelieving leader of the Quraysh disapproved of. By necessity this shows that prayer, the Salāh was already legislated, whether as an obligatory or a recommend act. It was performed in a manner similar to that of the prayers we perform today, or rather in an abrogated manner prior to the revelation above of these verses, which were among the earliest verses revealed. None of the verses prior to this include any reference to prayers. Therefore, Salāh the pillar of the Deen was initially legislated by virtue of the Prophetic command, i.e. a revelation other than that of an explicit verse in the Qur'ān. After that, Qur'ānic verses and hadith recurred stressing that prayers are mandatory and highly glorified, describing its prerequisites and completing its rites.

Pre-Badr Skirmishes

Before the major battle of Badr, Allah commanded his Messenger (peace be upon him) to send out troops to encounter the enemy, though some believers strongly resented the idea and feared the consequences of fighting the powerful tribe of Quraysh, the leaders and ‘bankers’ of Arabia. It was considered the strongest polity in the Arabian Peninsula at that time. Muslims feared fighting them especially after hearing the news about the marching of their army. Then Allah granted them a promise of either seizing the caravans of the Quraysh or vanquishing their army. This came through a revelation other than the Qur'ān, which does not contain a single word of it. Nevertheless, Allah recorded it in the Qur'ān after the end of the battle, as Allah whose attributes are sanctified says:

كَمَا أَخْرَجَكُوكَمِنْ بَيْتِكَبِالْحَقِّوَإِنْ فَرِيقًا مِنَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَلَكَارْهُونَ، يُجَاهِلُونَكَفِيَالْحَقِّ
بَعْدَمَا تَبَيَّنَكُلَّمَا يُسَاقُونَإِلِيَالْمُوتِوَهُمْيَنْظَرُونَ، وَإِذْيَعْدُكُ اللهُإِحْدَى الطَّائِفَتَيْنِأَنَّهَا لَكُمْ
وَتَوَدُّونَأَنْغَيْرَ دَاتِ الشَّوْكَةِتَوْنُلَكُمْوَيْرِدُ اللهُأَنْيُحِقَالْحَقَبِكَلِمَاتِهِوَيَقْطَعَ دَابِرَ
الْكَافِرِينَ

Even as your Lord caused you to go forth from your house with the truth, though a party of the believers were surely averse; they disputed with you about the truth after it had become clear, (and they went forth) as if they were being driven to death while they saw (it).

And when Allah promised you one of the two parties that it shall be yours and you loved that the one not armed should be yours and Allah desired to manifest the truth of what was true by His words and to cut off the root of the unbelievers.⁷

The Command to Fight

The explicit command not to fight was authorised by the Prophet (peace be upon him) to his Companions while still in Mecca. After migration to Medina, this order was rescinded, with the authorisation being explicitly given to fight. As is chronicled in the following verse:

أَلمْ تَرِ إِلَى الَّذِينَ قَبْلَهُمْ كُفُّوا أَيْدِيهِمْ وَأَقْبَلُوا الصَّلَاةَ وَأَتُوا الزَّكَةَ فَلَمَّا كُتِبَ عَلَيْهِمُ القِتَالُ إِذَا
فَرِيقٌ مِنْهُمْ يَخْشَوْنَ النَّاسَ كَخْشِيَّةَ اللهِ أَوْ أَشَدَّ خَشْيَةً وَقَالُوا رَبَّنَا لَمْ كُتِبْتَ عَلَيْنَا الْقِتَالُ لَوْلَا
أَخْرَجْنَا إِلَى أَجَلٍ قَرِيبٍ فَلَمْ تَأْتِ الدُّنْيَا قَبْلَهُ وَالْآخِرَةُ خَيْرٌ مِنْ أَنَّقَى وَلَا نُظْلَمُونَ فَتَبَّأْلَ

Have you not seen those to whom it was said: withhold your hands, and keep up prayer and zakāt; but when fighting is prescribed for them, lo! a party of them fear men as they ought to have feared Allah, or (even) with a greater fear, and say: Our Lord! Why have you ordained fighting for us? Wherefore didst Thou not grant us a delay to a near end? Say: the provision of this world *is short, and the hereafter is better for him who guards (against evil); and you shall not be wronged the husk of a date stone.*⁸

One can clearly discern by the necessity of reason and perception from the aforementioned Qur'anic proofs that have been cited, without recourse to any text from the Sunnah, that they prove decisively that the Prophet (peace be upon him) is ma'soom (infallible) in his conveyance of the divine message from Allah. All his sayings, acts and approvals are considered as being an infallible revelation from Allah. Therefore, it is all an infallible revelation emanating from Allah. Revelation should not therefore only be limited to that of the Qur' n; it also includes that which was revealed to Mu ammad (peace be upon him), namely the Prophetic Sunnah, consisting of the total sum of his words, deeds and acknowledgements or approvals. Taken holistically, the wahy which is the Qur' n and the Prophetic Sunnah is authoritative and binding. Or expressed in another way, the Prophetic Sunnah is not merely a particular revelation from Allah; rather it is a formulated expression of an infallible Prophetic revelation that has come from Allah.

The Qur'anic text itself is an explicit categorical revelation sent down from Allah upon Mu ammad (peace be upon him); whose recitation is considered as worship and its style inimitable. Greater detail upon this will be outlined in a separate section. Suffice is to say that the Qur' n is self-contained, nothing being subtracted or entering into it. Alongside it though is the noble Prophetic Sunnah, revelation other than the Qur' n. All of this is affirmed categorically thus to dispute it would render an individual to exit the fold of Islam completely. That the revelation which descended upon Mu ammad (peace be upon him) is not only limited to text of the glorious Qur' n as found between its pages but also includes the Prophetic Sunnah of Mu ammad (peace be upon him) consisting of the total sum of his words, deeds and acknowledgements or approvals.

In terms of what constitutes or is considered as being ‘revelation’, al-wahy, there is no essential difference between the Qur' n and the Sunnah. Furthermore both are similarly binding and authoritative, as an example Allah the blessed and exalted says: *‘There is no blame on you in seeking bounty from your Lord...*⁹ relating to the authorisation of trading during the Hajj season and where he says: *‘And you shall have half of what your wives leave if they have no child...’*¹⁰ both verses stipulating decisive rulings valid until the day of judgement. Similarly, the Prophet’s (peace be upon him) statements of *‘No bequest must be made to an heir’*¹¹ and *‘One-third, yet even one third is too much’*¹² outlining the maximum limit to bequeath, are equally binding and authoritative until the day of judgement. Even if the first examples are borne of the Qur' n, a revelation by wording which can be recited in prayer; the speech from the necessarily-existent ever-living eternal creator, while the latter examples are the reported Prophetic words from Mu ammad (peace be upon him) who is mortal and finite, both are deemed as revelation being equally binding and authoritative.

Indeed without the slightest doubt the words of the Qur' n are far above the speech of the creation, it is protection from every form of misguidance, a shield from every fitna, for it is the book of Allah the majestic:

لَا يَأْتِيهِ الْبَاطِلُ مِنْ بَيْنِ يَدِيهِ وَلَا مِنْ خَلْفِهِ تَنْزِيلٌ مِنْ حَكِيمٍ حَمِيدٍ

Falsehood shall not come to it from before nor from behind it; a revelation

*from the wise, the praised one.*¹³

Contained within it is news of what came before us, what will come to pass and the rulings between us all for the present. It contains matters of serious import which are not for jest, providing guidance and other innumerable bounties. We cling to the Qur'an because it is rope of Allah, the Dhikr (reminder) and the Hakeem (wisdom); it has manifest light and lays out the steps on the straight path. All of creation has marvelled at it, as Allah details the remarks of the Jinn for us:

... إِنَّا سَمِعْنَا قُرْآنًا عَجَّابًا، يَهُدِي إِلَى الرُّشْدِ فَأَمَّا بِهِ وَلَنْ تُشْرِكْ بِرَبِّنَا أَحَدًا

*....Surely we have heard a wonderful Qur'an! Guiding to the right way, so we believe in it, and we will not set up any partner with our Lord.*¹⁴

Whoever speaks from it assuredly speaks the truth; by acting upon its rulings, justice will prevail. It is a healing and an intercession; those who stick to it shall not fail, nor shall they be swayed or corrupted. Those who recite the Qur'an are rewarded abundantly given that reward has been promised for each letter read as opposed to each word. It is true indeed that the ever-glorious Qur'an is of the greatest worth, the most unique sanctity and is of a rank that the Sunnah does not reach, particularly given that it is the literal revealed speech of Allah, whose recitation is worship and whose style is inimitable, miraculous in nature. Yet it is an independent issue of whether or not the two types of revelation - the Qur'an and the Sunnah - are qualitatively of the same rank in being authoritative and binding. These two issues are independent of whether or not the Qur'an can be abrogated by the Sunnah. All these different contrasting issues are rationally independent. They should not be confused, otherwise the consequences would be extremely serious, in fact it would involve being misled away from the straight path, which is disbelief – Allah, the exalted and glorious, forbid!

¹³ Qur'an 41: 42

To argue that the Qur'an is the only sent-down revelation from Allah is a grave misnomer. Just as it is to say that the Sunnah is not revelation at all, or to be more precise - that the Prophetic expression is not borne of an infallible revelation from Allah and that it is not considered as a binding authority. Such a view and other similar statements are outright disbelief (kufir). Holding such views as doctrinal beliefs would result in a believer exiting the fold of Islam completely, unless that is, it was borne of complete ignorance, under compulsion or with any of the other impediments to the pronouncement of disbelief (takfeer).

12 The Hikmah and Dhikr are also revelation

Textually, Allah revealed to his Prophet (peace be upon him) the wisdom - 'hikmah.' He says:

وَلَوْلَا فَضْلُ اللَّهِ عَلَيْكُمْ وَرَحْمَةُ اللَّهِ لَهُمْ طَاغُونَ مَنْ هُمْ أَنْ يُضْلُلُوكُمْ وَمَا يُضْلُلُونَ إِلَّا أَنفُسُهُمْ وَمَا يَعْرُونَكُمْ مِنْ شَيْءٍ وَأَنْزَنَ اللَّهُ عَلَيْكُمُ الْكِتَابَ وَالْحِكْمَةَ وَعَلِمْتُمُ مَا لَمْ تَكُنْ تَعْلَمُ وَكَانَ فَضْلُ اللَّهِ عَلَيْكُمْ عَظِيمًا

*And were it not for Allah's grace upon you and His mercy a party of them had certainly designed to bring you to perdition and they do not bring (aught) to perdition but their own souls, and they shall not harm you in any way, and Allah has revealed to you the Book and the hikmah and He has taught you what you did not know and Allah's grace on you is very great.*¹

From this, three matters arise. Allah revealed the book to his Prophet; contained within it is wisdom (hikmah) and abundant knowledge, all of which he learned. Here the meaning intended is that of the text of the Qur'an at the very least. And he has also revealed to him the 'hikmah', which is something far broader than the Qur'anic texts. It glitters the concepts that were penned for the Prophetic statements, actions and approvals or acknowledgements, which he was well versed in. Inflection and 'hikmah' upon the book from each pathway on all parts, be it general or specific. It is not the case that the 'hikmah' is the book because to inflect upon the thing is to designate its essence and place and it is not that according to reason, sense or language. Knowledge given by the Lord above regarding a great many things which no one had known, the most important is the book (Qur'an), the hikmah as well as other matters like some tribal dialects, the logic of some of the animals, such as when the camel complained of its owner and many other things which no one knows except Allah the exalted. The hikmah mentioned in the verse definitely relates to the revealed revelation and it is not the Qur'an. By necessity it relates to the noble Prophetic Sunnah as eloquently evidenced by the next following verses which appear in Surah at-Talāq:

أَعَدَ اللَّهُ لَهُمْ عَذَابًا شَدِيدًا فَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ يَا أُولَئِكَ الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا قَدْ أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ إِلَيْكُمْ ذِكْرًا رَسُولًا
يَتْلُو عَلَيْكُمْ آيَاتِ اللَّهِ مُبِينَاتٍ لِيُخْرِجَ الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا وَعَلَيْهِمُ الصَّالِحَاتُ مِنَ الظُّلُمَاتِ إِلَى النُّورِ
وَمَنْ يُؤْمِنْ بِاللَّهِ وَيَعْمَلْ صَالِحًا يُدْخِلُهُ جَنَّاتٍ تَجْرِي مِنْ تَحْتِهَا الْأَنْهَارُ خَالِدِينَ فِيهَا أَبَدًا قَدْ
أَحْسَنَ اللَّهُ لَهُ رِزْقًا

*Allah has prepared for them a severe chastisement, therefore be careful of (your duty to) Allah, O men of understanding who believe! Allah has indeed revealed to you a dhikr, a Messenger who recites to you the clear communications of Allah so that he may bring forth those who believe and do good deeds from darkness into light; and whoever believes in Allah and does good deeds, He will cause him to enter gardens beneath which rivers now, to abide therein forever, Allah has indeed given him a goodly sustenance.*²

More will be said about this blessed verse, by the grace and will of Allah, when the subject turns to that of the Dhikr. Allah the exalted also says:

² Qur'an 65: 10/11

ذُكِرَ مِمَّا أُوحِيَ إِلَيْكَ رَبُّكَ مِنَ الْحِكْمَةِ وَلَا تَجْعَلْ مَعَ اللَّهِ إِلَهًا آخَرَ فَتُنَقَّىٰ فِي جَهَنَّمَ مُلُومًا مَدْحُورًا

This is of what your Lord has revealed to you of hikmah and do not associate any other god with Allah lest you should be thrown into hell, blamed, cast away.³

The text conclusively supports that of the etiquette and comprehensive rulings mentioned before this verse, some of the hikmah as revealed and sent down by Allah through inspiration to Abul'Qsim Mu ammad ibn Abdullah seal of all the Prophets (peace and blessings be upon him). It is from the hikmah and it is as of any book. It is a conclusive indication that some of the book is from al-hikmah, but the whole of the book is considered as being hikmah / wisdom by the legitimate necessity of perception and reason. In another verse Allah says:

الرِّ تِلْكَ آيَاتُ الْكِتَابِ الْحَكِيمِ

Alif Lam Ra; these are the verses of the wise Book.⁴

Allah stresses in the next verse:

يَسِ ، وَالْفُرْقَانُ الْحَكِيمُ

Ya Seen; I swear by the Qur'an full of wisdom.⁵

And that the original / mother of the protected book being full of wisdom:

وَإِنَّهُ فِي أُمِّ الْكِتَابِ لَدِينِنَا لَعِلِّيٌّ حَكِيمٌ

And surely it is in the original of the Book with Us, truly elevated, full of wisdom.⁶

If the totality of the book is considered being from the revealed hikmah then the necessity of perception and reason show that will be the revealed hikmah upon Mu ammad is only the text of the glorious Qur'an. As for what we mentioned previously above, the glorious Qur'an in totality is from the revealed wisdom sent to Mu ammad and it is some of the revealed hikmah with certainty. Not all the hikmah is revealed upon Mu ammad; here other things from al-hikmah have been revealed other than the text of the Qur'an. Allah blessed be his names says:

وَإِذَا طَافَتُمُ النِّسَاءَ فَبَلَغْنَ أَجَلَهُنَّ فَامْسِكُوهُنَّ بِمَعْرُوفٍ أَوْ سَرَّحُوهُنَّ بِمَعْرُوفٍ وَلَا تُمْسِكُوهُنَّ ضِرَارًا لِتَعْذِيْدُوا وَمَنْ يَفْعَلْ ذَلِكَ فَقَدْ ظَلَمَ نَفْسَهُ وَلَا تَتَنَاهُوا آيَاتِ اللَّهِ هُرُوا وَأَنْكُرُوا نِعْمَاتَ اللَّهِ عَلَيْكُمْ وَمَا أَنْزَلَ عَلَيْكُمْ مِنَ الْكِتَابِ وَالْحِكْمَةِ يَعْظُمُ بِهِ وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ وَاعْمُلُوا أَنَّ اللَّهَ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيمٌ

*And when you divorce women and they reach their prescribed time, then either retain them in good fellowship or set them free with liberality, and do not retain them for injury, so that you exceed the limits, and whoever does this, he indeed is unjust to his own soul; and do not take Allah's communications for a mockery, and remember the favour of Allah upon you, and that which He has revealed to you of the book and the hikmah, admonishing you thereby; and be careful (of your duty to) Allah, and know*

⁵ Qur'an 36: 1/2

⁶ Qur'an 43: 4

that Allah is the knower of all things.⁷

The revelation did not descend randomly upon all with immediacy. Rather, it was revealed to Mu ammad (peace be upon him) firstly, then we took it from him, as if it were sent upon us directly. It is all totally binding in nature, the book, the hikmah, namely: the Qur' n and the Sunnah.

The command of Allah to the mothers of the believers was to remain within their homes; to partake in the hijāb and to attend to the study, memorisation and understanding of the verses of Allah. This is in addition to attending to the memorisation of the hikmah which they had learned from the Prophet (peace be upon him), as Allah says in the verse:

وَأَذْكُرْنَ مَا يُتْلَى فِي بُيُوتِكُنَّ مِنْ آيَاتِ اللهِ وَالْحِكْمَةِ إِنَّ اللهَ كَانَ لَطِيفًا خَبِيرًا

*And keep in mind what is recited in your houses of the communications of Allah and the hikmah; surely Allah is knower of subtleties, aware.*⁸

Allah has indeed blessed the believers as he outlines in next three verses and says:

لَقَدْ مِنَ اللهِ عَلَى الْمُؤْمِنِينَ إِذْ بَعَثَ فِيهِمْ رَسُولًا مِنْ أَنفُسِهِمْ يَتْلُو عَلَيْهِمْ آيَاتِهِ وَبِرَّكَيْهِمْ وَيُعَلِّمُهُمُ الْكِتَابَ وَالْحِكْمَةَ وَإِنْ كَانُوا مِنْ قَبْلِ لَفِي ضَلَالٍ مُّبِينٍ

Certainly Allah conferred a benefit upon the believers when He raised among them a Prophet from among themselves, reciting to them His communications and purifying them and teaching them the Book and the hikmah although before that they were surely in manifest error.⁹

⁷ Qur'ān 2: 231

⁸ Qur'ān 33: 34

كَمَا أَرْسَلْنَا فِيهِمْ رَسُولًا مِنْكُمْ يَتْلُو عَلَيْكُمْ آيَاتِنَا وَبِرَّكَيْهِمْ وَيُعَلِّمُهُمُ الْكِتَابَ وَالْحِكْمَةَ وَيُعَلِّمُهُمْ مَا لَمْ تَعْلَمُوا تَعْلَمُونَ

*Even as We have sent among you a Prophet from among you who recites to you Our communications and purifies you and teaches you the Book and the hikmah and teaches you that which you did not know.*¹⁰

هُوَ الَّذِي بَعَثَ فِي الْأَمَمِينَ رَسُولًا مِنْهُمْ يَتْلُو عَلَيْهِمْ آيَاتِهِ وَبِرَّكَيْهِمْ وَيُعَلِّمُهُمُ الْكِتَابَ وَالْحِكْمَةَ وَإِنْ كَانُوا مِنْ قَبْلِ لَفِي ضَلَالٍ مُّبِينٍ

*He it is who raised a Messenger from among themselves, who recites to them his signs and purifies them, and teaches them the Book and the hikmah, although they were before certainly in clear error.*¹¹

Furthermore, he also said the following in relation to the response given, following the call of Ibr him and Ism 'il:

رَبَّنَا وَابْنَنَا فِيهِمْ رَسُولًا مِنْهُمْ يَتْلُو عَلَيْهِمْ آيَاتِكَ وَيُعَلِّمُهُمُ الْكِتَابَ وَالْحِكْمَةَ وَبِرَّكَيْهِمْ إِنَّكَ أَنْتَ الْغَزِيرُ الْحَكِيمُ

*Our Lord! And raise up in them a Prophet from among them who shall recite to them Thy communications and teach them the Book and the hikmah, and purify them; surely Thou art the mighty, the wise.*¹²

It would be wrong to think of the Prophet (peace be upon him) as being as a mere tape recorder or a robotic message carrier, mechanically delivering the signs of Allah. Far greater was his role and mission, for he was a wise sublime educator. He was that teacher for his Ummah of the book and the hikmah. The intended book here is the glorious Qur'an. Perhaps it was also intended to make his Ummah a literary nation; a nation of astute study, science and advanced research. Given that they were previously in dire ignorance and are now being led by truth. Indeed he (peace be upon him) did accomplish that lofty task. The Prophet (peace be upon him) was not a new novelty in relation to the Prophets that preceded him, but he is like the previous Prophets in this regard – Allah provided them with books and hikmah, for he says:

⁹ Qur'ān 3: 164

وَإِذْ أَخَذَ اللَّهُ مِيثَاقَ النَّبِيِّنَ لَمَا آتَيْتُمُّ مِّنْ كِتَابٍ وَحِكْمَةً ثُمَّ جَاءَكُمْ رَسُولٌ مُّصَدِّقٌ لِمَا مَعَكُمْ
لَتُؤْمِنُنَّ بِهِ وَلَتَتَصْرُّفُنَّ قَالَ الْأَفْرَارُ نَمُوذِجُونَ وَأَخْتَنُ عَلَى ذَلِكُمْ إِصْرِي قَالُوا أَفْرَرْنَا قَالَ فَاشْهُدُوْا وَآتَا
مَعْكُمْ مِّنَ الشَّاهِدِينَ

*And when Allah made a covenant through the Prophets: Certainly what I have given you of Book and hikmah-- then a Messenger comes to you verifying that which is with you, you must believe in him and you must aid him. He said: Do you affirm and accept My compact in this (matter)? They said: We do affirm. He said: Then bear witness, and I am of the bearers of witness with you.*¹³

In particular the glorious Qur'an provides further illustration with the example of Esa ibn Maryam (peace be upon him and his mother), mentioning similarly of him in several places:

وَاتَّقُوا يَوْمًا لَا تَجْزِي نَفْسٌ شَيْئًا وَلَا يُقْبَلُ مِنْهَا شَفَاعَةٌ وَلَا يُوْحَدُ مِنْهَا عَدْلٌ وَلَا هُمْ
يُنْصَرُونَ

And be on your guard against a day when one soul shall not avail another in *the least, neither shall intercession on its behalf be accepted, nor shall any compensation be taken from it, nor shall they be helped.*¹⁴

¹³ Qur'an 3: 81

إِذْ قَالَ اللَّهُ يَا عِيسَى ابْنَ مَرْيَمَ اذْكُرْ نِعْمَتِي عَلَيْكَ وَعَلَى وَالدِّيْكَ اذْ اَيَّدْتُكَ بِرُوحِ الْقُدْسِ تَكَلَّمُ
النَّاسَ فِي الْمَهْدِ وَكَهْلًا وَإِذْ عَلَمْتُكَ الْكِتَابَ وَالْحِكْمَةَ وَالْتُّورَاهَ وَالْإِنْجِيلَ وَإِذْ تَخَلَّقُ مِنَ الطَّيْنِ
كَهْيَنَةُ الطَّيْرِ بِإِذْنِي فَتَنْتَخُ فِيهَا فَتَكُونُ طَيْرًا بِإِذْنِي وَتَبَرُّ الْأَكْمَهَ وَالْأَبْرَصَ بِإِذْنِي وَإِذْ تُخْرُجُ
الْمَوْتَى بِإِذْنِي وَإِذْ كَفَّتُ بَنِي إِسْرَائِيلَ عَلَكَ إِذْ جَنَّثْتُهُمْ بِالْبَيْنَاتِ قَالَ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا مِنْهُمْ إِنْ هَذَا
إِلَّا سِحْرٌ مُّبِينٌ

*When Allah will say: O Jesus son of Mary! Remember My favour on you and on your mother, when I strengthened you I with the holy Spirit, you spoke to the people in the cradle and I when of old age and when I taught you the Book and the hikmah and the Torah and the Injeel; and when you determined out of clay a thing like the form of a bird by My permission, then you breathed into it and it became a bird by My permission, and you healed the blind and the leprosy by My permission; and when you brought forth the dead by My permission and when I withheld the Israel from you when you came to them with clear arguments, but those who disbelieved among them said: This is nothing but clear enchantment.*¹⁵

Moreover, the example of Ibrāhim him is also illustrative of this:

أَمْ يَحْسُدُونَ النَّاسَ عَلَى مَا آتَاهُمُ اللَّهُ مِنْ فَضْلِهِ فَقَدْ آتَيْنَا آلَ إِبْرَاهِيمَ الْكِتَابَ وَالْحِكْمَةَ وَآتَيْنَاهُمْ
مُلْكًا عَظِيمًا

*Or do they envy the people for what Allah has given them of His grace? But indeed we have given to Ibrāhim's children the Book and the hikmah and We have given them a grand kingdom.*¹⁶

To conclude we may affirm with certainty without suspicion or doubt that that there is a revealed revelation other than the text of the glorious Qur'an. It is the hikmah and in particular it is the noble Prophetic Sunnah, without any addition or subtraction. That the hikmah is also a binding revelation has been set forth with decisive certain proofs, just like the glorious Qur'an.

¹⁴ Qur'an 3: 48

¹⁵ Qur'an 5: 110

¹⁶ Qur'an 4: 54

13 The meaning of the word 'Dhikr'

The word formulation 'dh/ka/ra' (ذكرا) appears in the glorious Qur'an in quite a large number of places and can bear several intended meanings. The first of which is related to 'the speech about something;' to talk about something and refer or mention something, that being opposed to neglect and reluctance in that context. Its root is 'Dhikr' (ذكرا) and within it is the saying: 'You mentioned so-and-so is fine.' Various Qur'anic verses are demonstrative of this:

وَقَالَ لِلَّذِي ظَنَّ أَنَّهُ نَاجٍ مِّنْهُمَا اذْكُرْنِي عِنْدَ رَبِّكَ فَأَسْأَهُ الشَّيْطَانُ ذِكْرَ رَبِّهِ فَلَبِثَ فِي السِّجْنِ
بِضُعْ سِنِينَ

And he [Yusuf] said to whom he knew would be delivered of the two [prisoners]: Remember me with your lord; but the Shaytan caused him to forget mentioning (it) to his lord, so he remained in the prison a few years.¹

وَجَعَلْنَا عَلَى قُلُوبِهِمْ أَكْنَةً أَن يَفْقَهُوهُ وَفِي آذانِهِمْ وَقُرَاءً وَإِذَا ذَكَرْتَ رَبَّكَ فِي الْفُرْقَانِ وَحْدَهُ وَلَوْا

And We have placed coverings on their hearts and a heaviness in their ears lest they understand it and when you mention your Lord alone in the Qur'an they turn their backs in aversion.²

قَالُوا تَاللَّهِ تَفْتَأِنْكُرْ يُوسُفَ حَتَّىٰ تَكُونَ حَرَضًا أَوْ تَكُونَ مِنَ الْهَالِكِينَ

They said: By Allah! You will not cease to remember Yusuf until you are a prey to constant disease or (until) you are of those who perish.³

قَالُوا سَمِعْنَا فَتَأْنِي يَذْكُرُهُمْ يُقَالُ لَهُ إِبْرَاهِيمُ

They said: We heard a youth called Ibrāhim speak of them.⁴

وَإِذْكُرْ فِي الْكِتَابِ مَرْيَمَ إِذَا انْتَبَثَتْ مِنْ أَهْلِهَا مَكَانًا شَرْقِيًّا

And mention Maryam in the Book when she drew aside from her family to an eastern place.⁵

قَالَ فَإِنِّي اتَّبَعْتُنِي فَلَا تَسْأَلْنِي عَنْ شَيْءٍ حَتَّىٰ أُحِدِّثَ لَكَ مِنْهُ ذِكْرًا

He said: If you would follow me, then do not question me about anything until I mention it to you.⁶

وَيَسْأَلُونَكَ عَنِ ذِي الْقَرْبَنَيْنِ قُلْ سَأَلُوكُمْ عَلَيْكُمْ مِنْهُ ذِكْرًا

And they ask you about Zulqarnayn. Say: I will recite to you an account of him.⁷

Those who believe ask why no chapter (about fighting) has been sent down. Yet when a decisive chapter (that mentions fighting) is sent down, you can see the sick at heart looking at you (Prophet) and visibly fainting at the prospect of death. Woe to them.⁸

From this is the first type, that is mentioning Allah [‘Dhikr Allah’] ()

Those who have been driven unjustly from their homes only for saying, 'Our Lord is Allah.' If Allah did not repel some people by means of others, many monasteries, churches, synagogues, and mosques, where Allah's name is much invoked, would have been destroyed. Allah is sure to help those who help His cause—Allah is strong and mighty.¹¹

وَادْكُرُوا اللَّهَ فِي أَيَّامٍ مَعْدُودَاتٍ فَمَنْ تَعَجَّلَ فِي يَوْمَيْنِ فَلَا إِثْمٌ عَلَيْهِ وَمَنْ تَأَخَّرَ فَلَا إِثْمٌ عَلَيْهِ لِمَنِ اتَّقَىٰ وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ وَاعْلَمُوا أَنَّكُمْ إِلَيْهِ تُحْشَرُونَ

Remember Allah on the appointed days. If anyone is in a hurry to leave after two days, there is no blame on him, nor is there any blame on anyone who stays on, so long as they are mindful of Allah. Be mindful of Allah, and remember that you will be gathered to Him.¹²

يَسْأَلُونَكَ مَاذَا أُحِلَّ لَهُمْ قُلْ أُحِلَّ لَكُمُ الْطَّيَّابَاتُ وَمَا عَلِمْتُمْ مِنَ الْجَوَارِحِ مُكَلِّبِينَ تُعْلِمُونَهُنَّ مِمَّا عَلِمْتُمُ اللَّهُ فَكُلُوا مِمَّا أَمْسَكْنَ عَلَيْكُمْ وَادْكُرُوا اسْمَ اللَّهِ عَلَيْهِ وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهُ إِنَّ اللَّهَ سَرِيعُ الْحِسَابِ

They ask you as to what is lawful for them. Say: The good things are lawful for you and what you have taught the beasts and birds of prey, training them to hunt-- you teach them of what Allah has taught you-- so eat of that which they catch for you and mention the name of Allah over it; and be careful of (your duty to) Allah; surely Allah is swift in reckoning.¹³

فَقَالَ إِنِّي أَحْبَبْتُ حُبَّ الْخَيْرِ عَنْ ذِكْرِ رَبِّي حَتَّىٰ تَوَارَتْ بِالْحِجَابِ

He kept saying, 'My love of fine things is part of my remembering my Lord!' until [the horses] disappeared from sight.¹⁴

Surely the men who submit and the women who submit, and the believing men and the believing women, and the obeying men and the obeying women, and the truthful men and the truthful women, and the patient men and the patient women and the humble men and the humble women, and the almsgiving men and the almsgiving women, and the fasting men and the fasting women, and the men who guard their private parts and the women who guard, and the men who remember Allah much and the women who remember-- Allah has prepared for them forgiveness and a mighty reward.¹⁵

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا إِذَا نُودِي لِلصَّلَاةِ مِنْ يَوْمِ الْجُمُعَةِ فَاسْعُوا إِلَيْ نَذْكُرِ اللَّهِ وَذَرُوا الْبَيْعَ ذَلِكُمْ خَيْرٌ لَكُمْ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ تَتَّقَمُونَ

O you who believe! When the call is made for prayer on Friday, then hasten to the remembrance of Allah and leave off trading; that is better for you, if you know.¹⁶

The second meaning is ‘against forgetfulness’; it is the presence of something in the mind. The root is remind/remember [dhikr] (ذِكْر) or the reminder/remembrance [al-dhikra] (ذِكْرَ) or it can be reflection/recall [tadhakkar] (تَذَكَّرَ). In this regard, it appears as so in the following verses where Allah says:

قَالَ أَرَأَيْتَ إِذْ أَوْيَنَا إِلَى الصَّخْرَةِ فَإِنِّي نَسِيَتُ الْحُوتَ وَمَا أَنْسَانِيهِ إِلَّا الشَّيْطَانُ أَنْ أَذْكُرْهُ وَاتَّخَذَ سَبِيلَهُ فِي الْبَحْرِ عَجَباً

He said: Did you see when we took refuge on the rock then I forgot the fish, and nothing made me forget to speak of it but the Shaytān and it took its way *into the river; what a wonder!*¹⁷

¹⁵ Qur'an 33: 35

¹⁶ Qur'an 62: 9

فَسَتَذَكَّرُونَ مَا أَقْوَلُ لَكُمْ وَأَفْوَضُ أَمْرِي إِلَى اللَّهِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ بَصِيرٌ بِالْعِبَادِ

*So you shall remember what I say to you, and I entrust my affair to Allah, surely Allah sees the servants.*¹⁸

أَوَلَا يَذْكُرُ الْإِنْسَانُ أَنَّا خَلَقْنَاهُ مِنْ قَبْلٍ وَلَمْ يَكُنْ شَيْئًا

وَجِيءُ يَوْمَنِ بِجَهَنَّمَ يَوْمَنِ يَتَذَكَّرُ الْإِنْسَانُ وَأَنَّ لَهُ الذَّكْرَى

*And hell is made to appear on that day. On that day shall man be mindful and what shall being mindful (then) avail him?*²⁰

Thirdly, there is the meaning of memorisation and diligent study, to keep in mind and understand the future implication of something which is in contrast to negligence and the lack of study. Another derived form of dhikr is the word 'memorisation' [madhākara ()] which means to review what has been studied, understand it and retain it in long-term memory. In this sense, it is meant in plural form. Allah mentions as such in the following verses in plural not singular form:

وَأَذْكُرُنَّ مَا يُتَلَى فِي بُيُوتِكُنَّ مِنْ آيَاتِ اللَّهِ وَالْحِكْمَةِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ لَطِيفًا حَبِيرًا

And keep in mind what is recited in your houses of the verses of Allah and the

¹⁷ Qur'ān 18: 63

¹⁸ Qur'ān 40: 44

¹⁹ Qur'ān 18: 67

²⁰ Qur'ān 89: 23

*wisdom; surely Allah is knower of subtleties, aware.*²¹

Meaning, study, understand and memorise. What is recited in houses from the verses of Allah and the wisdom [hikmah ()] and from the Qur'ān and Sunnah, oh wives of the Prophet, may the peace and blessings of Allah be upon them all, then propagate and convey this thereafter to the Ummah so they may understand it.

وَإِذْ أَخْدَنَا مِيَاثِقَكُمْ وَرَفَقْنَا فَوْقَكُمُ الطُّورِ خُذُوا مَا آتَيْنَاكُمْ بِقُوَّةٍ وَادْكُرُوا مَا فِيهِ لَعْنَكُمْ تَتَفَوَّنَ

*And when We took a promise from you and lifted the mountain over you: Take hold of the law We have given you with firmness and bear in mind what is in it, so that you may guard against evil.*²²

وَإِذْ نَتَّقَنَا الْجَبَلَ فَوَقَهُمْ كَانَهُ ظَلَّةً وَظَنُوا أَنَّهُ وَاقِعٌ بِهِمْ خُذُوا مَا آتَيْنَاكُمْ بِقُوَّةٍ وَادْكُرُوا مَا فِيهِ لَعْنَكُمْ تَتَفَوَّنَ

*And when We shook the mountain over them as if it were a covering overhead, and they thought that it was going to fall down upon them: Take hold of what We have given you with firmness, and be mindful of what is in it, so that you may guard (against evil).*²³

Meaning collectively study; understand and memorise what has come to you, to take heed and put it into practice.

وَلَقَدْ يَسَّرَنَا الْقُرْآنَ لِلذِّكْرِ فَهَلْ مِنْ مُذَكَّرٍ

And certainly We have made the Qur'ān easy for remembrance, but is there

²¹ Qur'ān 33: 34

²² Qur'ān 2: 63

²³ Qur'ān 7: 171

*anyone who will mind?*²⁴

Namely, we have made the Qur'an easy for studying, to understand and memorise, will you not therefore partake in this endeavour?

Fourthly, there is the meaning of reputation, goodness, honour and eminence, for the well-known have their names repeated upon the tongues of people and are closer to the minds of others in that regard. The root form here is mention (dhikr) (ذَكْر), concerning this meaning Allah says in the following verses:

وَرَفَعْنَا لَكَ ذِكْرَكَ

*And exalted for you your esteem?*²⁵

وَإِنَّهُ لَذِكْرٌ لَكَ وَلِقَوْمِكَ وَسَوْفَ تُسْأَلُونَ

*And most surely it is a reminder for you and your people, and you shall soon be questioned.*²⁶

When interpreted in such a way, this religion elevated the eminence that was considered benign to you and your nation, after that they were sluggish given that other nations did not care for them.

صَوْلَاقُ الْقُرْآنِ ذِي الذِّكْرِ

*Saad, I swear by the Qur'an, full of admonition.*²⁷

²⁴ Qur'an 54: 17, 22, 32 & 40

²⁵ Qur'an 94: 4

²⁶ Qur'an 43: 44

²⁷ Qur'an 38: 1

Some interpret the verse as meaning, the Qur'an is well known, with a lofty and praiseworthy status, and this is the most fitting of what is said. Others mention that the verse means: I swear by the well recognised and known Qur'an that it has a right to be memorised, studied, and understood. This also an acceptable interpretation.

Fifthly, there is the meaning of the 'revealed reminder' or the 'sent-down reminder', [al-Dhikr al-Munazil (ذِكْرُ الْمُنَازِل)]. It is a type of revelation that has been sent-down by Allah and specifically has the wording dhikr contained within it, because it deserves that specific mention, that which is memorised and studied as well as being held in presence of mind. Moreover, it reminds the people of their relationship with Allah, the reason behind their existence; the afterlife which awaits all of us with its day of reckoning, reward and punishment as well as being filled with the remembrance and praise of Allah contained therein. The root is 'dhikr' (ذَكْر). Above all this is the meaning which is paramount and it has been elucidated in the following Qur'anic verses:

وَمَا أَرْسَلْنَا مِنْ قَبْلِكَ إِلَّا رِجَالًا نُوحِي إِلَيْهِمْ فَاسْأَلُوا أَهْلَ الذِّكْرِ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ لَا تَعْلَمُونَ بِالْبَيِّنَاتِ
وَالْأَزْبَرِ وَأَنْزَلْنَا إِلَيْكَ الذِّكْرَ لِتُبَيِّنَ لِلنَّاسِ مَا تَنْزَلَ إِلَيْهِمْ وَلَعَلَّهُمْ يَتَفَكَّرُونَ

*And We did not send before you any but men to whom We sent revelation-- so ask the followers of the dhikr if you do not know. With clear arguments and scriptures and We have revealed to you the dhikr that you may make clear to men what has been revealed to them and that haply they may reflect.*²⁸

وَمَا أَرْسَلْنَا قَبْلَكَ إِلَّا رِجَالًا نُوحِي إِلَيْهِمْ فَاسْأَلُوا أَهْلَ الذِّكْرِ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ لَا تَعْلَمُونَ

²⁸ Qur'an 16: 43/44

²⁹ Qur'an 21: 7

Which is to ask the Ulema', those intimately acquainted with the sent-down revelation as it is found in the previous books. Originally the people of the book were challenging the veracity of the Prophethood of Mu ammad (peace be upon him) on the basis that he was only mortal. So the people of Islam or the people of the Qur' n are ordered by these verses to ask the people of the earlier books about the former Prophets – were they from the angels or were they mortal as well? The second part of the verse which says: ‘We have revealed to you the Reminder that you may make clear to men what has been revealed to them and that haply they may reflect’ will be discussed in greater detail below, together with the verse where Allah the almighty says:

إِنَّا نَحْنُ نَزَّلْنَا الْذِكْرَ وَإِنَّا لَهُ لَحَافِظُونَ

*Surely We have revealed the dhikr and We will most surely be its guardian.*³⁰

فَالْأُولُو سُبْحَانَكَ مَا كَانَ يَتَبَغِي لَنَا أَن نَّتَخَذَ مِنْ دُونِكَ مِنْ أَوْلَيَاءَ وَلَكِنْ مَتَّعْهُمْ وَآبَاءُهُمْ حَتَّى
نَسُوا الْذِكْرَ وَكَانُوا قَوْمًا بُورًا

*They shall say: Glory be to you; it was not befitting for us that we should take any guardians besides you, but you didn't make them and their fathers to enjoy until they forsook the dhikr, and they were a people in perdition.*³¹

The verse relates to them forgetting the sent-down revelation, they neglected it and turned away from it. The sent-down revelation here is every type which Allah revealed throughout the ages, as dictated by the context and not only what was revealed to Mu ammad (peace be upon him) and therefore by greater reasoning not only the text of the Qur' n.

³⁰ Qur'ān 15: 9
³¹ Qur'ān 25: 18

لَقَدْ أَضْلَلَنِي عَنِ الْذِكْرِ بَعْدَ إِذْ جَاءَنِي وَكَانَ الشَّيْطَانُ لِلنَّاسَ حَذُولًا

*Certainly he led me astray from the dhikr after it had come to me; and the Shaytān fails to aid man.*³²

Like its predecessor, dhikr here means the sent-down revelation upon the Messenger, which was not followed by the wayward deceased individual set out in the verse. In this verse, the individual is described as biting his hand with regret. This is similar to the case of every tyrant who sets himself against the path laid out by the Messenger, not only as it relates to the Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him) and his specific way.

إِنَّمَا تُنذَرُ مَنِ اتَّبَعَ الذِكْرَ وَخَشِيَ الرَّحْمَنَ بِالْغُيْبِ فَبَشِّرْهُ بِمَغْفِرَةٍ وَأَجْرٍ كَرِيمٍ

*You can only warn him who follows the dhikr and fears the beneficent Allah in secret; announce to him forgiveness and an honourable reward.*³³

This also means those who follow its predecessors, the sent-down revelation, but is specific to Mu ammad (peace be upon him) as is shown by the context.

وَلَقَدْ كَتَبْنَا فِي الزَّبُورِ مِنْ بَعْدِ الذِكْرِ أَنَّ الْأَرْضَ يَرِثُهَا عِبَادِي الصَّالِحُونَ

*And certainly We wrote in the Zaboor after the dhikr that (as for) the land, my righteous servants shall inherit it.*³⁴

Hence this al-dhikr referred to relates to something earlier than the Psalms (Zuboor). Most of the mufasireen have interpreted this to mean the preserved tablet (al-Lawh al-Mahfouz), which is a euphemism regarding the knowledge of Allah or his original judgement. It is most possible here that the verse means: 'that (as for) the land, my righteous servants shall inherit it', before we write it in the Psalms or it is possible that the dhikr is a term used for revealed of Esa ibn Maryam peace and blessings be upon him and his mother, is some of what is recited upon you from these signs and some of what these signs are detailed from the wise reminder. It would be adjoined to the recited verses upon al-Dhikr al-Hakeem from the same to the all, adjoining the specific to the general out of respect to those specific verses, raising to its extent for reasons of explanation and rhetoric as well as others, rather than only to say 'that which is recited upon you from the glorious reminder'. The term al-Dhikr al-Hakeem - the glorious reminder - is from amongst the names of the Qur'an with the connotation given by the wording 'recited'. Here the wording will be about the Qur'an only however with that it does not entail that this absolutely necessitates that in each context the mention of the dhikr will refer to the Qur'an only.

³² Qur'ān 25: 29

³³ Qur'ān 36: 11

³⁴ Qur'ān 21: 105

The verses could also mean: some of what is recited upon you from these verses and some of it which we have revealed is al-Dhikr al-Hakeem. Consequently al-Dhikr al-Hakeem overall is the revelation, recited or not recited. Often the presumption is that where the word Dhikr is used it is for the Qur'an, whereas it is used to express the notion of revelation generally. Also, the connotation related to the revelation of these verses was about the debate with the Christians of Najran and the invitation to them for invocation of the curse of Allah upon the liar (mubāhala). It is known by necessity that the Prophet (peace be upon him) debated them with his words and speech. No one argues that the revelation referred to here was only that which was used during the debate. Even if this verse was not peremptory in actuality that the al-Dhikr al-Hakeem is the Qur'an, if this was the preponderant meaning. Yet there is no doubt that the Qur'an is the Dhikr and no doubt that it is Hakeem and that it deserves to be entitled – al-Dhikr al-Hakeem. The salient question therefore being – is al-Dhikr al-Hakeem the Qur'an exclusively, so that other than it may not be called al-Dhikr al-Hakeem?

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا بِالذِّكْرِ لَمَّا جَاءَهُمْ وَإِنَّهُ لَكِتَابٌ عَزِيزٌ

*Surely those who disbelieve in the reminder when it comes to them, most surely it is a mighty book.*³⁷

Contained within this verse the ‘dhikr’ here is either to be considered from amongst the names of the Qur’ān which is also referred to as the ‘mighty book’ (kitābun ‘aziz), but it may be the ‘dhikr’ is the name for all the sent-down revelation in truth is preserved, for indeed it is a ‘mighty book’; no falsehood approaches it between its covers or from behind it. It is revealed from the praised lord. By necessity it is not this book that is the Qur’ān and it is not by necessity that only held within its lofty pages. Allah declares:

أَوْ عَجِبْتُمْ أَنْ جَاءَكُمْ ذِكْرٌ مِّنْ رَّبِّكُمْ عَلَى رَجُلٍ مِّنْكُمْ لِيُنذِرَكُمْ وَلَتَتَّقُوا وَلَعَلَّكُمْ تُرَحَّمُونَ

*What! Do you wonder that a dhikr: has come to you from your Lord through a man from among you, that he might warn you and that you might guard (against evil) and so that mercy may be shown to you?*³⁸

أَوْ عَجِبْتُمْ أَنْ جَاءَكُمْ ذِكْرٌ مِّنْ رَّبِّكُمْ عَلَى رَجُلٍ مِّنْكُمْ لِيُنذِرَكُمْ وَإِذْ جَعَلْنَاكُمْ خُلَفَاءَ مِنْ بَعْدِ قَوْمٍ نُوحٍ وَزَادْنَاكُمْ فِي الْخَلْقِ بَسْطَةً فَادْكُرُوا آلاءَ اللَّهِ لَعَلَّكُمْ تُفْلِحُونَ

*What, do you wonder that a dhikr from your Lord should come to you by the lips of a man from among you? That he may warn you; and remember when He appointed you as successors after the people of Noah, and increased you in stature broadly; remember Allah’s bounties; haply you will prosper.*³⁹

Without doubt as shown by this prudent sentence contained within the verse—‘dhikr from your lord’ which here means the revelation from your lord, or a message from your lord. It doesn’t make the connection to the text of the Qur’ān originally because the wording here is about the nations of Nūḥ and Hūd (peace be upon them both). Allah the exalted also says:

³⁷ Qur’ān 41: 41

³⁸ Qur’ān 7: 63

³⁹ Qur’ān 7: 69

مَا يَأْتِيهِم مِّنْ ذِكْرٍ مِّنْ رَّبِّهِمْ مُّحَمَّدٌ إِلَّا اسْتَمْعُوهُ وَهُمْ يَلْعَبُونَ

*There comes not to them a new dhikr from their Lord but they hear it while they sport.*⁴⁰

وَمَا يَأْتِيهِم مِّنْ ذِكْرٍ مِّنَ الرَّحْمَنِ مُحَمَّدٌ إِلَّا كَانُوا عَنْهُ مُغْرِضِينَ

*And there does not come to them a new dhikr from Allah, ar-Rahmān but they turn aside from it.*⁴¹

By necessity, it is not specifically addressed to the disbelievers of Quraysh and not to the previous nations, the denunciation is upon all of them turning away from the new revelation. This proclamation or revelation may be considered a portion from the Qur’ān, it may be in this manner and all of that ‘a new reminder from the Allah, ar-Rahmān’. For example, the Prophet (peace be upon him) asked after ascending to mount Ḥuḍār – ‘If I were to inform you that an army are proceeding up the side of this mountain, would you believe me?’ or as he also then said: ‘I am a plain warner to all of you of a coming severe punishment.’ Some of the attendees retorted with: ‘May you perish this day! You called us to this?’ turning away and disbelieving. The Seerah is replete with such instances. Allah the majestic says:

⁴⁰ Qur’ān 21: 2

⁴¹ Qur’ān 26: 5

It is nothing but a reminder to all creation;⁴²

It is likely that dhikr refers to the Qur'ān here, due to the fact that the Prophet is being referred to in the previous two verses.

فَإِن يَكُدُ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا لِيُزْلِقُونَكَ بِأَبْصَارِهِمْ لَمَّا سَمِعُوا الذِّكْرَ وَيَقُولُونَ إِنَّهُ لَمَجْنُونٌ ، وَمَا هُوَ إِلَّا ذِكْرٌ لِلْعَالَمِينَ

And those who disbelieve would almost smite you with their eyes when they hear the reminder, and they say: Most surely, he is mad. And it is nothing but a reminder to all creation.⁴³

The reason why the Prophet is accused of being mad here is because he was not only reciting the Qur'ān like a tape recorder.

إِنْ هُوَ إِلَّا ذِكْرٌ لِلْعَالَمِينَ

It is but a reminder for all creation.⁴⁴

Here the context seems to confirm that the reference being made is to the Qur'ān only, since the preceding verses which state:

إِنَّهُ لَقَوْلُ رَسُولٍ كَرِيمٍ ، ذِي قُوَّةٍ عِنْدِ ذِي الْعَرْشِ مَكِينٍ ... وَمَا هُوَ بِقَوْلٍ شَيْطَانٍ رَّجِيمٍ

Most surely it is the word of an honoured messenger, the possessor of strength, having an honourable place with the lord of the dominion....nor is it the word of the cursed Shayṭān.⁴⁵

Without doubt the Qur'ān is a reminder to all of creation. Moreover, there can be no doubt that that the Qur'ān is not singularly al-Dhikr (the reminder) or Dhikr to all creation. The next three verses when taken together say:

وَقَالُوا يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِي نَزَّلَ عَلَيْهِ الذِّكْرُ إِنَّكَ لَمَجْنُونٌ

And they say: O you to whom the Reminder has been revealed! You are most surely insane⁴⁶

خَازِدٌ ثَعَدَ يَفْسُرُ ثَفَّاعٌ أَنْزَلَ عَلَيْهِ الذِّكْرُ مِنْ بَيْنَنَا بَلْ هُمْ فِي شَكٍّ مِنْ ذِكْرِي بَلْ لَمَّا يَذُوقُوا عَذَابًا

⁴² Qur'ān 38: 87

⁴³ Qur'ān 68: 51/52

⁴⁴ Qur'ān 81: 27

everything else, but limiting the verses only to the Qur'an, whereas it should be for all the revelation, would indeed be a lie. Elsewhere Allah the exalted says:

وَمَا عَلِمْنَاهُ الشِّعْرُ وَمَا يَنْبَغِي لَهُ إِنْ هُوَ إِلَّا ذِكْرٌ وَقُرْآنٌ مُّبِينٌ

*And We have not taught him poetry, nor is it befitting for him; it is nothing but a dhikr and a plain Qur'an.*⁴⁹

The verse requires some cause for reflection and detailed consideration, given that the wording expresses: 'it is nothing but a dhikr and a plain Qur'an.' A casual observer may think that the Qur'an in linguistic style is from the genus of poetry. Yet it is not so because Muhammad (peace be upon him) was no poet, nor is it befitting for it to be considered poetry. His lord did not teach him poetry originally. But the dhikr is the revelation in its actual content. The Qur'an as pronounced is eloquent in its formulation. Here the eloquence is about the Qur'an, from the essence of its means and formulation. Potentially that will also be co-joining or adjoining the Qur'an with the dhikr, the specific upon the general in meaning. It wouldn't make sense for the dhikr here as referred to in the verse to also mean the Qur'an, in other words for the two to be the same thing in this specific verse. Muhammad was not a poet nor versed in poetry. But what came to him was revelation as sent from Allah. Some of this revelation that came is this 'Qur'an mubeen', which as the verse says is the miraculous revelation sent-down with its wording. Some people have confused this point thinking that its system being poetic it was a form of poetry. Allah blessed be his names also says:

أَعَدَ اللَّهُ لَهُمْ عَذَابًا شَدِيدًا فَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ يَا أُولَئِكَ الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا قَدْ أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ لَكُمْ ذِكْرًا رَّسُولاً
يَتَّلَقَّ عَلَيْكُمْ آيَاتُ اللَّهِ مُبِينَاتٍ لِّيُخْرُجَ الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا وَعَمِلُوا الصَّالِحَاتِ مِنَ الظُّلُمَاتِ إِلَى النُّورِ

⁴⁹ Qur'an 36: 69

وَمِنْ يُؤْمِنُ بِاللَّهِ وَيَعْمَلُ صَالِحًا يُدْخِلُهُ جَنَّاتٍ تَجْرِي مِنْ تَحْتِهَا الْأَنْهَارُ خَالِدِينَ فِيهَا أَبَدًا فَدْ
أَحْسَنَ اللَّهُ لَهُ رِزْقًا

*Allah has prepared for them severe chastisement, therefore be careful of (your duty to) Allah, O men of understanding who believe! Allah has indeed revealed to you a reminder, a Prophet who recites to you the clear communications of Allah so that he may bring forth those who believe and do good deeds from darkness into light; whoever believes in Allah and does good deeds, He will cause him to enter gardens beneath which rivers now, to abide therein forever, Allah has indeed given him a goodly sustenance.*⁵⁰

Thus, it is significant that the Qur'an explains that the revealed Dhikr is not only the Qur'an. But it is wider, for it is this Prophet who recites the clear signs of Allah. We know by necessity of perception and reason that the Prophet is a creation from earth, in other words, he did not descend from heaven, but is borne of the earth, being made of flesh and blood. Consequently, by necessity it is not the Prophet as an entity that has been 'sent down' given that he is mortal, but it is mentioned in relation to the entity of the Prophet in the form of linguistic expression. That the wahy is not only the recited verses, but it is all of that which descends upon the Prophet, encompassing his very being and expressed via his sayings, actions and what he approves. Hence it necessitates anything from the Prophet that deserves to be properly termed as revealed to, as already mentioned previously in this section in the form of numerous proofs established from the Qur'an itself as well as the sayings, acts and approvals of the Prophet. When understood in a general manner, this categorically affirms without doubt that the word 'dhikr', 'the revealed sent-down dhikr' (each prefixed with the definite article 'al') or 'dhikr sent from Allah' means revelation in general. It is not simply synonymous with the glorious Qur'an only or only a euphemism for the Qur'an, although both al-Dhikr and al-Dhikr al-Hakeem are without doubt from amongst the names and attributes of the Qur'an.

⁵⁰ Qur'an 65: 10/11

For all the aforementioned reasons the false assertions and sophisms of those who call themselves ‘Qur’ nists’, crumble to dust. The assertion that the sent-down revealed and protected dhikr is only the Qur’ n does not withstand any anxious scrutiny. Neither does their conception that the Sunnah is not revelation or not a binding authority as the Qur’ n is. For the sane rational mind their views and judgements concerning revelation are based upon manifest error. Their views seek to forge outright lies against the manifest text of the Qur’ n; they have utter disregard for it, yet they claim they uphold true belief in it. The truth is that ‘Qur’ nists’ are people of whims and desires; some of them are outright people of nifāq (hypocrisy), others outright zandeq (heretics). They are ignorant of the book of Allah and violate its principles, seeking to try and demolish Islam itself throughout their sophistic calls.

14 Testimony of the Sunnah to its proof

As has been demonstrated previously with decisive evidences, the Prophetic Sunnah is an infallible revelation. To be more precise, the Prophetic Sunnah is not merely a particular revelation from Allah rather it is a formulated expression of an infallible Prophetic revelation that has come from Allah. Moreover, as has been proved, the Prophetic Sunnah is of the same class as the Qur’ n, carrying the same level of proof that it has. By the necessity of perception and reason as well as the proofs from the Qur’ n only utilising its texts, the Sunnah is of the same level of authority as it. In order not to fall into contradictions and circulatory what has been detailed from the texts of the Sunnah were not used as primary proof, they were only used by way of further illustration. As demonstrated previously, the Sunnah is an infallible revelation hence generally it should not involve any discrepancies, internal inconsistencies or contradictions. It is a stand-alone proof, being permissible to invoke on its own as an authority. Given its status as being an infallible revelation, it is not permissible for it to be contradictory, it must remain consistent generally, precisely because it is an infallible revelation. Foremost again this rests in particular upon the condition that what is being invoked from the Prophet (peace be upon him) has in fact been ascertained categorically beyond reasonable doubt that it is prophetic.

To consider the specific evidences which have reached us from the Prophetic ahādīth, we begin by citing the following narration reported on the authority of ‘Uqba bin ‘Ammar al-Juhany (may Allah be pleased with him) as it appears in the Mustadrak of al-Kim:

Abu Bakr Ismā‘il bin Muhammad al-Faqeehi reported to me in Rai¹ Abu ‘Uthman ar-Razi narrated to us Abu Ayub Sulayman bin Abdar-Ra‘man ad-Dimishqi narrated to me Abdullah bin Wahb narrated to me Mu‘lik bin Khayr az-Ziyadi narrated to us from Abi Qabeel from ‘Uqba bin ‘Ammaar who said I heard the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) say: The perishing of my Ummah lies in the people of the book and people of milk. ‘Uqba said: What are the people of the book oh Messenger of Allah? He replied: People who learn the book of Allah and use it to argue with the believers. I (‘Uqba) said: And what of the people of milk oh Messenger of Allah? He replied: People who follow desires and waste (away) prayers!

After this citing this hadīth al-Kim said: ‘This hadīth has an authentic channel and they did not record it.’ I would submit it is as he said and it has come more in relation to the ‘people of milk’; people like milk hence they would depart from adherence to the Jamā‘ah (congregation) and leave congregational prayers. Similar was reported by Imām Ahmad in his Musnad with slightly different wording which has: ‘they would love milk to the extent that they would abandon praying in congregation and Friday Prayers and go out to the desert (for milk).’² Imām abu ‘Uthman also records the same with similar wording in his Mu‘jam al-Kabir,³ and Imām Abu Ya‘la also records this in his Musnad.⁴

The hadīth which is authentic and establishes that whoever misinterprets the glorious Qur’ān, using it to argue with the believers will end up in ruin. A correct and sound interpretation of the Qur’ān can only be known with certitude through the Prophet (peace be upon him), conveying that infallible conveyance from Allah, who guaranteed to give a convincing, plausible and binding proclamation. For he whose names are blessed made a true promise when he said:

فَإِذَا قرأْنَاهُ فاتَّقْعُ فِرَانَهُ، ثُمَّ إِنَّ عَلَيْنَا بَيَانَهُ

Therefore when We have recited it, follow its recitation. Again upon Us is its explanation.⁵

وَمَنْ أَوْفَى بِعَهْدِهِ مِنَ اللَّهِ

....and who is more faithful to his covenant than Allah?⁶

Next, Imām Tirmidhi recorded this hadīth in his Sunan on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbās (may Allah be pleased with him):

⁵ Qur’ān 75: 18/19

⁶ Qur’ān 9: 111

Ma'ud bin Ghaylān narrated to us Bishr bin as-Sirri narrated to us Sufyān narrated to us from Abdal-'Alā from Sa'eed bin Jubayr from Ibn 'Abbās who said the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Whoever says (something) about the Qur'ān without knowledge, then let him take his seat in the fire.

Concerning this Abu Esa said that the hadīth was hasan Sahīh. Other notable Imāms included this tradition in their respective collections, amongst them A'mad in his Musnād in more than one place,⁷ Nas'ā'i in his Sunan al-Kubrā,⁸ and other than them. Knowledge attained with certainty regarding the Qur'ān is acquired by way of the Prophet (peace be upon him) as mentioned previously.

Further to this, Imām an-Nas'ā'i recorded the next tradition by way of an authentic channel of transmission in his Sunan:

'Utbah bin Abdullah reported to us he said ibn Mubarak informed from Sufyān from Ja'far bin Muhammad from his father from Jibrīl bin Abdullah who said: In his Khuqbah the

⁷ Musnād A'mad Vol. 1 sec. 233, no. 2,069 and sec. 269, no. 2,429

⁸ Sunan al-Kubrā Vol. 5 sec. 31, no. 8,084 / 8,085

Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) used to praise Allah as He deserves to be praised, then he would say: Whomsoever Allah guides, none can lead him astray, and whomsoever Allah sends astray, none can guide. The truest of word is the book of Allah and best of guidance is the guidance of Muḥammad. The worst of things are those that are newly invented; every newly-invented thing is an innovation and every innovation is misguidance and every misguidance is in the fire. Then he said: The hour and I have been sent like these two. Whenever he mentioned the hour, his cheeks would turn red and he would raise his voice and become angry, as if he were warning of an approaching army and saying: An army is coming to attack you in the morning, or in the evening! (Then he said): Whoever leaves behind wealth, it is for his family and whoever leaves behind a debt or dependents, then these are my responsibility and I am the most entitled to take care of the believers.

Similar narrations have been reported by Imām A'mad⁹ and Nas'ā'i¹⁰ in more than one place. Ibn Khuzayma has this in his *Sahīh*¹¹ and it is found in other collections as well. It has also been reported from the wording of authentic channels back to Abdullāh ibn Ma'sūd. Also it has been reported from al-Ālā ibn Na'eelā (may Allah be pleased with him) who reported:

It was said to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) - O Messenger of Allah! Fix prices for us. He said: Allah will ask me about whatever Sunnah I told you about that He did not order me with. Ask Allah from His favour (instead).

⁹ Musnād A'mad Vol. 3 sec. 311, no. 14,373 and sec. 319, 14,471

¹¹ Sahīh Ibn Khuzayma Vol. 3, sec. 144, no. 1,785

The narration is an authentic hadith that proves what we had mentioned previously, that the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not order or forbid anything from his own self, rather he informs us of what Allah had revealed to him in every matter. This hadith was recorded by Ibn Abi ‘A’im in Al-Aḥād wal-Mathāni, by Bayhaqī in al-Madkhal as well as by abar ni through several channels, Ibn as-Sakan and many others.

‘Aisha, mother of the believers (may Allah be pleased with her) reported from the Prophet (peace be upon him):

(There are) six persons that I cursed and Allah cursed them and every Prophet cursed them. (They are): who denies the Qadr of Allah, who adds to the book of Allah, who owns power and authority using them in humiliating whomever Allah had honoured, who transgresses against my sanctuary, who transgresses against my kinship and who abandons my Sunnah.

The hadith is Sahīh and it is recorded by al-’Kim.¹² Regarding this he said: ‘This hadith is Sahīh and I don’t know of it (being) problematic and they did not record it.’ Adh-Dhahaby wavered over it agreeing with al-’Kim upon its authenticity from one angle, keeping silent about it in another way and objecting to it thirdly. He recorded in his work entitled al-Kabā’ir after he had completed his study of knowledge and his thought and personality had matured, may Allah be merciful to him. He said of it that the isnād was Sahīh and he was correct in this.¹³ It has also been reported from Imām

Zayn al-‘A’ideen from his father from his grandfather (peace be upon him). Al-’Kim reports it in several other places¹⁴ as does Tirmidhi in his Sunan;¹⁵ it also appears in *Sahīh Ibn Ibbān*¹⁶ and abar ni has this in Mu’jam al-Kabir as well as Mu’jam al-Awsat.¹⁷ In one of the narratives found in Mu’jam al-Kabir from ‘Amr bin Sa’wā a seventh person is added namely one who absorbs the Fay’.¹⁸ The hadith is a decisive proof which establishes that abandoning the Sunnah of the Prophet (peace be upon him) is amongst the most grievous of sins. It is on par with adding to the book of Allah and declaring lawful what Allah has prohibited (istiḥlāl). Such matters are in opposition to Islam, ‘Imān and Tawheed.

Abdullah ibn ‘Amr ibn al-‘A’āṣ used to write what the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) was saying in his gatherings. Some men from among the Quraysh scolded him by saying, ‘You are writing what the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) is saying, he is just a human and becomes angry as humans become sometimes angry.’ Abdullah replied, ‘I went to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) and informed him regarding that. He pointed to his lips and said, ‘By him in whose soul my hand rests, all what is coming out from these is true. Write (everything)!’ The report is Sahīh and can be found in the Mustadrak of al-’Kim.¹⁹ Adh-Dhahaby agreed with al-’Kim in relation to the traditions authenticity. Its wording also comes via another channel from Abdal-Wāhid bin Qays from Abdullah bin ‘Amr. There is also a further report via another authentic channel which is reported by Yusuf bin Mūhibb. There are other authentic and good channels where this is reported from other than these two Tābi’een. Hence its conveyance can be regarded as being tawātur (continuously recurrent) from Abdullah ibn ‘Amr ibn al-‘A from the Prophet (peace be upon him). The second way is the same authentic chain which was recorded by A mad in his Musnad. The Prophet (peace be upon him) is infallible. He says the truth during cases of anger and dissatisfaction as well as cases in of seriousness as will now be detailed.

Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him) is reported to have narrated that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: ‘Indeed I do not speak except that which is truth.’ Some of the Šahābah said: O Messenger of Allah! You (sometimes) joke with us? He (peace be upon him) replied with: ‘Indeed I do not speak except that which is truth.’ The hadith is Šahīh and it appears in a number of collections, such as in Musnad A mad,²⁰ Bukh̄rī’s Adab al Mufrad,²¹ the Sunan al-Kubra of Bayhaqī²² and the Sunan of Tirmidhi.²³ Concerning this, Tirmidhi said it was ḥasan Šahīh and in actuality it is.²⁴

Next, Im m Abu D wud records in his Sunan the following tradition upon the authority of ‘Irb bin S rya as-Salami (may Allah be pleased with him), which has a good and strong chain of transmission. It is evidence in itself, and was regarded as authentic by the grand Im m Ali Ibn azm; Alb ni considered it good also. Truly it is Šahīh when considered with all its additions. ‘Irb bin S rya narrates as follows:

:) : (!

We alighted with the Prophet (peace be upon him) at Khaybar, and he had his companions with him. The chief of Khaybar was a defiant and abominable man. He came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and said: Is it proper for you, Mu ammad, that you slaughter our donkeys, eat our fruit, and beat our women? The Prophet (peace be upon him) became angry and said: Ibn ‘Awf, ride your horse, and call loudly: Beware, Paradise is lawful only for a believer, and that they (the people) should gather for prayer. They gathered and the Prophet (peace be upon him) led them in prayer, stood up and said: Does any of you, while reclining on his couch, imagine that Allah has prohibited only that which is to be found in this Qur’ān? By Allah I have preached, commanded and prohibited various matters as numerous as that which is found in the Qur’ān, or more so. Allah has not permitted you to enter the houses of the people of the book without permission, or beat their women, or eat their fruits when they give you that which is imposed on them.

Other hadith collectors cited this tradition in their respective works. To name but a few, abar ni cites this in all three of his major works – *Mu’jam al-Kabir*²⁵, *Musnad ash-Shāmiyān*²⁶ and Mu’jam al-Awsat;²⁷ it is in *Al-Āhād wal-Mathāni*²⁸ of Ibn Abi ‘A im ash-Shayb ni and the

Sunan al-Kubra of Bayhaqy.²⁹

If we consider carefully this honourable hadith which is from amongst the evidences of the Prophethood of Mu ammad (peace be upon him), some key points emerge. Firstly, the Prophet (peace be upon him) started with the saying that paradise is prohibited for the kuffār (disbelievers) and that only believers will enter it, so everyone must beware for himself and check the truth and sincerity of his own faith. Secondly, he called them to perform prayer and when he preached to them, he pointed out that Allah the exalted made some matters lawful or unlawful, warned and forbade matters, through his Prophet (peace be upon him). These matters are not included in the Qur' n and were not mentioned in it. Thus it is definite evidence that the order of command is of the same level as that of the Qur' n as well as the fact that the Prophetic orders are also more numerous. Thirdly, another ruling was detailed, that concerning the Dhimma – non-Muslim citizens under the protection of Islamic rule. As long as the Dhimma submit to the sovereign Islamic authority, paying what is required of them and the like, then the authority must guarantee protection for their wealth, dignity, honour and property. In this regard, they have the same rights as any Muslim. Moreover, the tradition provides an exemplification for the Qur' nic verse where Allah says:

أُوْتُوا الْكِتَابَ حَتَّىٰ يُعْطُوا الْجِزْيَةَ عَنْ يَدِ وَهُمْ صَاغِرُونَ

....out of those who have been given the book, until they pay the tax in acknowledgment of superiority and they are in a state of subjection.³⁰

The verse uses the Arabic word ‘Sāghiroon’ which means to be under subjection. It doesn’t mean in this context - humiliation, degradation

²⁹ Sunan al-Kubra Vol. 9 sec. 204, no. 18,508

³⁰ Qur'ān 9: 29

or the violation of honour and dignity, although the word can encompass this, such as in the following verse:

قَالَ فَاهْبِطْ مِنْهَا فَمَا يَكُونُ لَكَ أَنْ تَكْبِرَ فِيهَا فَلَا خُرْجٌ إِنَّكَ مِنَ الصَّاغَرِينَ

*He said: Then get forth from this (state), for it does not befit you to behave proudly therein. Go forth, therefore, surely you are of the abject ones.*³¹

Some of the major scholars of jurisprudence held this view, notably, Im m Abu anifah. Here it relates to submission, in other words, as long as they have submitted to the rule of Islam and pay what is thereby obligated upon them. If it is not for this infallible and definite explanation, we would had been obliged to understand ‘under subjection’ according to all its possible meanings in Arabic language or to remain in state of confusion about deciding the right meaning - which would no doubt constitute a major problem, one that I do not know how the Qur' nists and rejecters of the Prophetic Sunnah would be able to solve. Furthermore, Abu D wud collected in his Sunan the next narration from Abdullah bin R fih from his father from the Prophet (peace be upon him):

The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Let me not find any one of you reclining on his couch when he hears something regarding me which I have commanded or forbidden and saying: We do not know. What we found in Allah's book we have followed.

³¹ Qur'ān 7: 13

Again, the hadith is Sahīh and several notable collectors cited this in their respective works.³² The hadith is also Sahīh from the channel of Sufyān bin ‘Uyayna, as well as from the channel of Mlik and thirdly via al-Layth ibn Sa‘d. All of these channels are strong and reinforce one-another. Regarding this al-kim said: ‘It is Sahīh according to the conditions of the two Shaykh’s (Bukhari and Muslim) although they did not record it.’ Indeed it is, particularly when considered in tandem with the text of the previous and following narrations. Imām abar ni cites the next hadith in his Mu’jam al-Kabir:

Mahdi Karib he said the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Beware! I have been given the book and something like it, yet the time is coming when a man replete on his couch will say: Keep to the Qur'an; what you find in it to be permissible treat as permissible, and what you find in it to be prohibited treat as prohibited. Beware! The domestic ass, beasts of prey with fangs, a find belonging to a confederate, unless its owner does not want it, are not permissible to you. If anyone comes to some people, they must entertain him, but if they do not, he has a right to mulct them to an amount equivalent to his entertainment.

The same tradition is also reported in the Sunan of Abu Dūwud,³³ the Musnad of Imām A'mad,³⁴ Musnad ash-Shāmiyān of abar ni,³⁵ as well as in other collections. Also in the Mu'jam al-Kabir abar ni has the following hadith, which is good by itself (hasan li'dhātihi), and considered Sahīh when read together with the previously cited narrations.

Al- asan A mad bin Mu ammad bin 'Abdous reported to us

³⁶ Amongst them are the following references: Sahīḥ Ibn Ibb n [Vol. 1 sec. 190 & 212, no. 12], Sunan Abu D wud [Vol. 3 sec. 355, no. 3,804], Sharḥ Ma 'āni al-Athār of Im m a - a wi [Vol. 1 sec. 209, no. 0], Sunan al-Kubra Bayhaqq [Vol. 9 sec. 332, no. 1,925], Sunan D raqu ni [Vol. 4 sec. 287, no. 59], and Mu'jam al-Kabir of a - abar ni [Vol. 20 sec. 282, no. 667].

Uthm n bin Sa'eed ad-D rimi narrated to us Abdullah ibn li narrated to us that Mu' wiya bin li i reported to him and A mad bin Ja'far al-Qa ee'ee reported to us Abdullah bin A mad bin anbal narrated to us (he said) my father narrated to me Abdar-Ra man (and he is) bin Mahdi narrated to us Mu' wiya bin li narrated to us al- asan bin J bir narrated to me that he heard al-Miqd m Ma'd Yakrib al-Kindi companion of the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Lo! Soon a hadith from me will be conveyed to a man, while he is reclining on his couch, and he says: Between us and you is Allah's Book. So whatever we find in it that is lawful, we consider lawful, and whatever we find in it that is unlawful, we consider it unlawful. Indeed, whatever the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) made unlawful, it is the same as what Allah made unlawful!

The hadith is authentic upon the conditions as set out by Im m Muslim. Several collectors cited this tradition in their respective collections.³⁷ Al-Alb ni regarded it as an authentic hadith and mentioned in its chain of transmission via 'Abb s at-Taraquf, listing many good and authentic ways through which it was narrated. Further to this, Abu Hurayrah reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said:

No one from among you would be a true believer if he was informed with my hadith while he is reclining on his couch and says - bring me a proof from the Qur'ān!

³⁷ As found in: Musnad A mad [Vol. 4 sec. 132, no. 17,233], Sunan Tirmidhi [Vol. 5 sec. 38, no. 2,664], Sunan Ibn M jah [Vol. 1 sec. 6, no. 12], Mu'jam al-Kabir abar ni [Vol. 20 sec. 275, no. 649 / 650], Sunan al-Kubra Bayhaqq [Vol. 7 sec. 76, no. 13,220 and Vol. 9 sec. 332, no. 19,252], and Muṣṣanaf Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba [Vol. 1 sec. 153, no. 586].

The hadith is found in the Musnad of Im m A mad with a chain of transmission that contains Im m al-Magh zi Abu Ma'shar as-Sindi who is considered trustworthy (sadooq) but has weakness. Ibn M jah also recorded it in his Sunan through other different and independent channels, but weaker overall as the transmission has some rejected additions. The origin of this hadith may be the one that was narrated by Abu Hurayrah - including this part above - which is a good hadith according to previous evidences, neglecting all other parts that were only recorded by weak channels.

There are also a number of marāseel which have reached us from Abu D wud that are worthy of consideration given the preceding discussion:

: : _____

Abdas-Sal m bin 'Ateeq ad-Dimishqi narrated to us Abu Mushir narrated to us Kh lid bin Zayd narrated to me Hish m bin al-Gh z narrated to me from Mak ul he said the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Allah has inspired to me the Qur'ān and the Hikmah which is similar to it.

'Adi bin amm d narrated to us al-Layth reported to us from ibn Ijl n from Abu Sa'eed mawla of ibn Kareez from al- asan al- Ba ri that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Whoever makes innovation or gives protection to an innovator, there is upon him the curse of Allah the angels and all mankind; it is without justice and not accepted. They said and what is this O Messenger of Allah? He said: Innovation without Sunnah; examples without end taken unjustly without right.

Mu ammad bin al-Muthanna narrated to us Raw bin 'Ub da narrated to us al-Awz 'i narrated to us from ass n bin 'A iya he said: Jibreel (peace be upon him) sent-down upon the Prophet (peace upon him) the Sunnah just as he brought down the Qur' n and he taught him in this just as he taught him the Qur' n.

Ad-D rimi also records this tradition from Mu ammad bin Kathir from al-Awz 'i. Thus in the round, we would say that the reports considered altogether can be considered as tawātur (continuously recurrent) as narrated by 'Irb bin S rya as-Salami, Abu R fi', al-Miqd m bin Mahdi Kareeb al-Kindi and Abu Hurayrah – may Allah be pleased with all of them. All these are demonstrative of the fact that the Prophet (peace be upon him) was given the Qur' n and something other like it. As for some of the wording which comes via various hadith channels further exemplify the point, namely, that 'I have preached, commanded and prohibited various matters as numerous as that which is found in the Qur'ān, or more so'; 'Indeed whatever the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) made unlawful, is the same as what Allah made unlawful'. All of these recurrently reported meanings overlap and match.

In the same context, there is a useful comment which has reached us from al- asan al-Ba ri:

While ‘Imrān bin ‘Uthaymīn (may Allah be pleased with him) was talking about hadith's of the Prophet (peace be upon him), a man came and said: O Abu Najid! Talk to us by the Qur'ān (by mentioning evidences from the Qur'ān). ‘Imrān replied - You and your companions are reciting the Qur'ān; can you tell me about prayer, what is included and its limits? Can you tell me about Zakāt that is imposed in gold, camels, cows and other types of wealth? You were reciting and did not know. Then he said - The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) imposed so and so in Zakāt. The man said, You have revived me, may Allah revive you. Al-‘asan al-Ba’ri - This man died while he was among jurists of Muslims.

The narrative report (athar) is Şahîh and al-im graded it as such in terms of its isnâd in his Mustadrak,³⁸ abar ni also cites this in his Mu'jam al-Kabir.³⁹ Im m Abu D wud reports a similar tradition in his Sunan from an alternate channel, which contains an amusing anecdote:

Mu ammad ibn Bash r narrated to us Mu ammad bin Abdullah al-An ri narrated to me urad bin Abul-Mun zil he said I heard abib al-M liki say: A man said to 'Imr n bin u ain: Abu Najid you narrate to us traditions whose basis we do not find in the Qur' n. Thereupon, 'Imr n got angry and said to the man: Do you find in the Qur' n that one dirham is due on forty dirhams (as Zakāt), and one goat is due on such-and-such number of goats, and one camel will be due on such-and-such number of camels? He replied: No. He said: From whom did you take it? You took it from us, from the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). He mentioned many similar things.

Imām abarī has the next narration in his Mu'jam al-Kabir with good wording:

³⁸ Mustadrak Vol. 1 sec. 192, no. 372.

³⁹ Mu'jam al-Kabir Vol. 18 sec. 166, no. 369.

Ya ya bin Zakariy as-S ji and A mad bin Zuhayr at-Tastari narrated to us, they said Mu ammad bin Bash r narrated to us Mu ammad bin Abdullah al-An ri narrated to us urad bin Abi Mub rak narrated to us, he said I heard abib bin Abi Fa la al-Makki he said: When this masjid, this congregational masjid was built 'Imr n bin u ain was sitting and I brought up the topic of intercession and a man from the people said: Oh Abu Najeed! You narrate statements for which we find no basis in the Qur' n! 'Imr n bin u ain became angry and said to the man: Have you read the Qur' n? Did you find in that the Maghrib prayer was three-rak'ahs and that the Esha prayer was four? To which he responded: No. So how did you get to know about this matter? Didn't you take it from us and we took it from the Messenger of Allah peace and blessings of Allah be upon him? (regarding the matter of zakāt) Did you find in the Qur' n that for every four silver coins, one should be given in charity, and like thereof regarding cattle and such? Didn't you take it from us and we took it from the Messenger of Allah? Did you find it in the Qur' n, to which the man said: No. 'Imr n said: I heard the Messenger of Allah, peace and blessings of Allah be upon him say: There is no 'bringing', no 'avoidance' and no Shighār in Islam. Did you not hear that Allah addressed the following in his book – (regarding the mujrimeen) What has brought you into hell? They shall say – we were not of those who prayed; and we didn't feed the poor, until it was mentioned – so the intercession of intercessors shall not avail them.

I would submit that this is a good comment from Im m al- asan al-Ba ri. Can anyone imagine fiqh (jurisprudence) without the Sunnah of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his guidance? Whoever has any doubt in that let him consider carefully the 'fiqh' of the Khawārij who are renowned for their neglect of the Sunnah. As a sect, they are characterised by severe strictness and spiteful deviation. Whoever wants to know more about that should read opinions of the 'Qur' nists' - those who hold the Qur' n as the sole reference for Islam denying the authority of Sunnah. Such defiance of the Prophetic Sunnah has led them to support ridiculous sayings going above-and-beyond triviality, leaving reason and logic and ending in a cul-de-sac of thought. Sayings which emanate from this group seek to defy the revelation and are more akin to the ramblings of the insane.

In his Mu'jam al-Kabir Im m a - abar ni cites the following tradition:

A mad bin an-Na r al-Askari narrated to us A mad bin an-Nu'm n al-Fir 'a al-Ma ee ee narrated to us Abdar-Ra man bin 'Uthm n al- abi narrated to us from his father from Abdullah bin Mu ammad al-Juhany from Abdullah bin al- asan bin Ali from his father he said: The Prophet (peace be upon him) ascended on the pulpit on the day of the Ghazwa of Tabuk. He glorified Allah, praising him and then said: O people! Verily by Allah whatever I commanded you to is that commanded by Allah. And what I have prohibited you is by the prohibition from Allah. Behave correctly in your endeavours! By him whose hand lies the soul of Abul' Qāsim! If one of you seeks his rizq like he seeks his ajl [lifespan] and it then becomes hard upon him then let him seek it via obedience to Allah, Lord of Majesty and Honour with obedience to Allah the exalted.

In the Sunan al-Kubra of Bayhaqy, he collected the following:

Abu Zakariy bin Abi Is q and Abu Bakr bin al- asan reported to us, they said Abul' Abb s Mu ammad bin Ya'qub narrated to us ar-Rabih' bin Sulaym n reported (from) ash-Sh fi'i reported (from) Abdal-Wahh b ath-Thaqafi he said: I heard Ya ya bin Sa'eed say – Ibn Abi Maleeka narrated to me that Ubaid bin Umayr al-Laythi narrated to him that the Prophet (peace be upon him) commanded Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) to pray with the people, mentioning the hadith except that he said he remained with Allah's messenger (peace be upon him) and sat in the place beside his apartment where he warned of tribulation and said: Verily by Allah I have not withheld anything from the people; I have made lawful save what is made lawful in the book of Allah and prohibited only what is prohibited in the book of Allah.

Also what has been reported in at-Tabaqāt al-Kubra of Mu ammad ibn Sa'd, he records:

Mu ammad ibn Umar reported to us Sulaym n bin Bil l and 'A im bin Umar narrated to me from Ya ya bin Sa'eed from Ibn Abi Maleeka from Ubaid bin Umayr he said the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said in his illness which he died from: O people, by Allah I haven't kept anything from you. Verily I haven't made lawful except what Allah made lawful and I haven't prohibited except what Allah prohibited. O Fātimah daughter of the Prophet, O Safiya aunt of the Prophet. I undertake that set forth by Allah, but verily I cannot avail you at all against Allah.

Also found in at-Tabaqāt al-Kubra is the following narration:

Mu ammad bin Umar reported to us Sulaym n bin Bil l narrated to me from Ya ya bin Sa'eed from al-Q sim bin Mu ammad from Aisha that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said during his illness which he died from: O people! Do not cling to me in isolation, I have not permitted for you except that which Allah permitted, and I have not forbidden anything for you except that which Allah has prohibited.

Next in the Mustadrak a'la Ṣaḥīḥayn of Al- kim records the following:

Abu Bakr bin Isq reported to us A mad bin Ibr him bin Miln reports: Ibn Abi Bukeer narrated to us al-Layth bin Sa'd narrated to me from Khlid bin Yazeed from Sa'eed bin Abi Hil from Sa'eed bin Abi Amiya ath-Thaqafi from Yunus bin Bukeer from Ibn Mas'ud that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: There isn't (any) act that will take you closer to paradise, but that I have commanded you all with. And there is no act that will take you closer to the fire except that I have prohibited you from undertaking it. Do not be impatient to receive your livelihood because certainly Jibreel revealed to me: None of you shall go out of the life of this world before completing their (receipt of) livelihood. Fear Allah O you people, and be moderate in your requests. If any of you are looking forward to receive sustenance that does not demand by disobeying Allah for surely we do not get the favours of Allah by disobeying him.

In the Muṣṭanaf of Imam Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba he cites the following tradition from another alternate channel:

Muhammad ibn Bishr narrated to us he said Isma'il bin Abi Khlid narrated to us from Abdal-Malik bin Umayr he said I was informed that Ibn Mas'ud said that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: O people! Verily, there is not a thing which would bring you closer to paradise and protect you from the fire except that I have commanded you with and there is not a thing which would bring you closer to the fire and shield you from paradise that I have not forbidden to you. The trustworthy spirit has inspired me [with the thought] that no soul will ever die until it will receive its full provision. So fear Allah and be moderate in seeking your livelihood and do not let having to wait for sustenance carry you to seeking what is with Allah by acts of disobedience, for what is with Allah is obtained only through obedience.

Imam al-Baghawi also reports similarly in his Tafsir as well as in Sharḥ as-Sunnah:

Abu Manur Muhammad bin Abdal-Malik al-Mudthafari reported to us Abu Sa'eed Almad bin Muammad bin al-Farid al-Faqih reported to us Abu Na r bin amduwi al-Mu awi'ee reported to us Abul'Muwajjhi Mu ammad bin Amr reported to us 'Abd n reported to us from Abu amza from Ism 'il – who is ibn Abi Kh lid from two men one of which (is) Zubayd al-Y mi from Abdullah ibn Mas'ud from the Prophet (peace be upon him) that he said: O people! There is not a thing which would bring you closer to paradise and protect you from the fire except that I have commanded you with and there is not a thing which would bring you closer to the fire and shield you from paradise that I have not forbidden to you. The trustworthy spirit has inspired me [with the thought] that no soul will ever die until it will receive its full provision. So fear Allah and do not let the provision coming to you slowly let you take it in a way that is disobedient to Allah, for verily Allah does not give what He has except through obedience to Him.

And Hushaym said: from Ism 'il from Zayd al-Y mi who reported it from Ibn Mas'ud.

Finally, we have the following which is reported both in the Musnad of Imām Shāfi'i as well as in what is arguably one of his most famous works, ar-Risāla:

:) : : (

Ash-Sh fi'i may Allah be pleased with him reported to us he said Abdal-Aziz bin Mu ammad (he is: ad-Dar rwardi) reported to us from Amr bin Abi Amr mawla al-Mu alib bin an ab from al-Mu alib bin an ab may Allah be pleased with him that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: I have left nothing concerning which Allah has given you an order without giving you that order; nor have I neglected anything concerning which He has given you a prohibition without giving you that prohibition. The trustworthy spirit has inspired me [with the thought] that no soul will ever die until it will receive its full provision. Be therefore moderate in your request.

The isnād that Imām Shāfi'i provides us with is mursal. Yet when taken together with the other connected traditions cited above, it can also be considered as authentic; it does not substantively conflict with the connected ahādīth already cited. In the round, all of these traditions provide further clarification that all that the Prophet (peace be upon him) only commanded and prohibited that which was emanating from Allah and no other. Within this it is evident that he conveyed the message in its entirety, which is what Allah required. What remains is the good from the wājib or mustahab that he ordered or commanded and the iniquity from the ḥarām that he prohibited us from.

In his Sunan Imam Ibn Mājah recorded what has become quite a well-known hadīth which is reported on the authority of ‘Irbāb bin Sariya:

Abdullah ibn A' mad ibn Basheer ibn Dhakwah ad-Dimishqi narrated to us al-Waleed bin Muslim narrated to us he said

Abdullah bin al-'Ala (that is to say ibn Zabr) narrated to us he said Ya ya bin Abul'Mu' he said I heard 'Irb bin S'riya say: One day, the Messenger of Allah stood up among us and delivered a deeply moving speech to us that melted our hearts and caused our eyes to overflow with tears. It was said to him: O Messenger of Allah, you have delivered a speech of farewell, so enjoin something upon us. He said: I urge you to fear Allah, and to listen and obey, even if (your leader) is an Abyssinian slave. After I am gone, you will see great conflict. I urge you to adhere to my Sunnah and the path of the Rightly-Guided Caliphs and cling stubbornly to it. And beware of newly-invented matters, for every innovation is misguidance.

Elsewhere the narration appears in quite a number of hadith collections, although it is noticeably absent from the respective Sahīh collections of Imam Bukhari and Muslim.⁴⁰ After citing this in the Mustadrak, al-Kim writes:

Indeed, the survey relating to whether this hadith is authentic has been investigated. As for what has been written by the Imam of the scholars of hadith - Shu'ba, in the hadith of Abdullah ibn 'A' from 'Uqba bin 'A'mir as addressed in Bara, Kufa, Medina and Mecca. Then he returned the hadith to Shahr ibn 'Awshab so he left it. Then Shu'ba said because this is like the authentic (report) unto me from the Prophet (peace be upon him). It was dearer to me than my parents and all people together. Indeed, this is an authentic hadith, praise be to Allah and peace and blessings upon Muhammad and all his companions.

Yes indeed - all praise belongs to Allah and blessings are due upon our Prophet Muhammad and his family and noble companions. Without doubt the command to uphold and cling unwaveringly to his Sunnah is established. There is the stern warning upon introducing innovations without legal precedent into this Deen, because that stems from the path of misguidance, landing the innovator into the fire of hell. His Sunnah (peace be upon him) is his reported speech, actions and approvals all of which constitute legal proof and not other than that.

As for what is mentioned concerning the Sunnah of the rightly guided Khulafā, it refers to the general guidance in everything which they established and built upon according to the Qur'an and the Prophetic Sunnah; their overriding commitment to the law of Allah in every matter, be that concerning war and peace; whether in hardship or ease, or whether in wealth or poverty. They were equitable and just as Islam demands; distributing wealth according to its due right; upholding the hudud of Allah both with immediacy and over the duration of their tenure in office, whether towards friend or foe.

Given this, several important points must be noted. Firstly, that of the complete submission that Islam requires of all its adherents and the recognition of the absolute sovereignty of the Shari'ah; sovereignty does not reside within man or the institutions of men. Secondly, authority was legitimated via the mechanism of the bay'ah (pledge of allegiance) from the Muslims by way of their own free choice and to their satisfaction. It was not by way of coup d'état, usurpation, nor for that matter by way of 'divine right', such as is claimed by a hereditary monarchy or even a dictatorship. Thirdly, there was an explicit recognition that the authority rests with the Ummah. The Islamic leadership undertook the management of public affairs only by way of being the representative of the Ummah.

Authority entailed both responsibility and obligation. Indeed it wasn't viewed flippantly, but rather as being a weighty burden which by the help and grace of Allah they would endure. They did not exercise political authority in the same manner as individuals exercise authority over a personal possession, believing that they alone must reap its benefits, treating those subject to their authority as mere chattel. Neither did they cling to power through all manner of Machiavellian machinations together with the most unspeakable levels of violence. Any impartial observer would readily note the stark contrast between the ruling of the rightly guided Khulafā and that of the contemporary rulers found within the lands of Islam - the hereditary monarchs and dictators. Therefore, this is the underlying meaning of adhering to the Sunnah of the rightly guided Khulafā. It is not the Sunnah in the same sense as that of the Sunnah of the Prophet (peace be upon him), as denoted by his reported speech, actions and approvals all of which constitute legal proof. The reason being, is that the Prophet (peace be upon him) is infallible (ma'soom) whereas the rightly guided Khulafā were not. They were human and made mistakes, were liable to forget; they were not immune from sin and they differed in various legal judgements the sum of which cannot all be correct.

As has been reported from some of the Sahābah as well as the major successors (kibār at-Tā'bīeen) which will now be considered, they employed the term – the revealed/sent-down book of Allah (Kitāb Allah al-Munazil). We know categorically with certainty that this term was not employed in relation to the specific text of the Qur'ān, nor did it specifically relate to the previously revealed books. Rather, what was being referred to, was the Prophetic Sunnah. Imam Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba recorded the following narration in his Muṣṣanaf with an authentic isnād:

'Ubaidallah narrated to us from Shaybān from al-'Amash from Salmān bin Abi Ja'd from Abdullah bin 'Amr he said: Indeed, we find in the revealed/sent-down book of Allah two types (of people) in the fire: People who will appear towards the end of time who are beating people with whips that are like the tails of the cow; nothing enters their stomachs except that which is khabeeth, and women that are dressed but naked. They will not enter jannah nor even experience its aroma.

Additionally, this has also been reported by Imam Muslim in his Sahīh in two places but with a connected channel to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him):

Zuhayr bin Arb narrated to me Jarir narrated to us from Suhayl from his father from Abu Hurayrah he said the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Two are the types of the denizens of Hell whom I did not see: people having whips like the tails of the ox with them and they would be beating people, and the women who would be dressed but appear to be naked, who would be inclined (to evil) and make their husbands incline towards it. Their heads would be like the humps of the bukhāt camel inclined to one side. They will not enter Paradise and they would not smell its odour whereas its odour would be smelt from such and such distance.

In Mu'jam al-Awsat A - abar ni cites the following:

Mu ammad bin Ya'qub bin Soorah al-Baghd di Abul' Waleed a - ay lisi narrated to us (hawala) A mad bin Ali al-Ab r al-Baghd di narrated to us Ali bin Uthm n al-L aqi narrated to us, they said Abdullah bin Jubayr al-Qaysi narrated to us from Sayy r ash-Sh mi from Abu Um ma that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: There will come out of this Ummah a people having with them whips like the tails of cows incurring the anger of Allah.

A - abar ni also has a similar narration as found in his Mu'jam al-Kabir:

Mu ammad bin al- ussein bin Makram narrated to us Ibr him bin al-Mustamir al-'Arooqi narrated to us 'Amr bin 'A im narrated to us amm d bin Zayd al-Munqari narrated to us Makhlad bin 'Uqba bin Shura bil narrated to us from Abu Shaqra he said the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: If you see those who are thrown on their heads like the humps of cows, you know that their prayers are not accepted.

In addition to the above, there is also the very long narrative that has been reported in the Mustadrak of al- kim:⁴¹

A mad bin Uthm n al-Muqri and Bakr bin Mu ammad al-Marwazi narrated to us they said Abu Qil ba narrated to us Abdu - ammad bin Abdal-W rith narrated to us my father narrated to us ussain bin Dhakw n the teacher narrated to us Ubaidallah bin Buraida al-Aslami narrated to us that Sul yman bin Rabia' al-'Anzi narrated to him in Hajj during the reign of Mu' wiya and with him al-Munta ir bin al- rith a - abbi in a group of the readers from the people of Ba ra. (The narrator said): when they finished their rituals, they said: by Allah, we won't go back to Ba ra till we meet the men from the companions of Mu ammad peace be upon him, to inform us of numerous hadith, that we may relay these to our companions when we return to them. He said we kept asking till we were told that Abdullah ibn 'Amr ibn al-'A (may Allah be pleased with him) had been accosted by the borders of Mecca. We then approached him and suddenly we found ourselves by a great caravan consisting of three hundred camels. And they were divided into two groups: with a hundred leaving and two hundred remaining. We then wondered for whom did this caravan belong to.

We were told that it belonged to Abdullah ibn 'Amr. Then we asked whether it all belonged to him and we were told that he was the most humble person of that time. Then we were asked: Where are we from? Then we told them that we are from Iraq, then they responded to us saying you are a people of fault oh Iraqi people, as you asked about this caravan, there's one hundred of them that are used to carry brothers on its back, and the other two hundred camels are to be ridden by guests who come to visit him. Then the narrator said: we asked to be guided to where Abdullah ibn 'Amr was. The people told us that he was in the masjid. So we went to seek him out until we found him at the back of the Ka'ba sitting down. He was a short, bald man wearing two garments and a turban, without a shirt, holding his shoes in his left hand.

We said: Oh Abdullah! Indeed, you are a man from the companions of Mu ammad (peace be upon him) so narrate to us a useful report, that Allah the exalted may bless us with it after today. So he said to us: and who are you all? So we said to him, don't ask who we are, narrate to us and may Allah forgive you! But I (cannot) narrate anything to you all until you tell me who you are. We said: And we wished if you just told us about the hadith without asking about our identities. He answered: by Allah I'll never tell you until you tell me from which region you are from. The narrator said: and when we saw him about to leave us we said - we are from Iraq. He said: oh dear! You people of Iraq have been accused of lying and mockery. (The narrator said) when he mentioned this word of mockery we felt an extreme shame and we said: Heaven forbid that we should make fun of one like you, as you said that we are lying - oh Allah, the lies spread among us as well as it spread among others. But we just suspect in case when we listen to a hadith that we didn't listen to it from a trusted narrator previously, and when it comes to your word, no one of the Muslims is able to take the risk of mocking of you; by Allah you are (from among) the Muslims, a master, as we know. You are one of the early migrants and we have been told that you recited the Qur'an in the presence of Mu ammad (peace be upon him), and you were the most curious Qurayshi for his parents, and you had the pretiest eyes among the people.

Then eyes watered because of crying out of the fear of Allah, and that you read all books after the death of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). According to us there is no one better than you regarding this aspect of knowledge and we knew that you are the only remnant Arab who seeks knowledge from the other regional scholars instead of seeking it from the scholars of your own region. So, tell us may Allah forgive you, then he said: I'm not going to talk to you until you give me your oath that you won't accuse me of lies or lie to me, and neither mock me. The narrator said we said: we accept all your conditions and oath. Then he said: Allah's covenant and covenants be upon you not to accuse me of lies or lie to me nor mock (anything) of what I'm going to tell you about. Then we said we will do so, then he said: verily Allah is Sponsor and agent upon you. We said: yes, then he stated: O Allah be witness upon them, thereupon he said: I swear by the lord of the sacred house, and the sacred precincts, and the sacred month, and your sacred sworn oath. Then we said: yes you did your best.

He then continued: That Banu Qanturā bin Kar-Karri who are snub-nosed, with small eyes and their faces look like the hammered shields as what's been mentioned in Allah's revealed book are going to devastate you, coming out across Khuras n and Sijist n, and they are undertaking great violence; wearing sandals that are made of hair, and they are hanging swords over their waists till they reach "Ayalah". He asked what is the area of "Ayalah" to the distance of Ba ra? Then we said four farāsiq, then he said they will tie up a horse in every single palm tree from the palm-trees of the Tigris. Then they'll send a warning to the people of Ba ra to leave it before coming to you, then a group of people will go forward to Jerusalem and some others will go forward to Medina and some others will go forward Mecca and some others will go to live with the Bedouins.

They will stay for a year in Ba ra, then they will send to the people of Kufa that they leave it before coming after you, then the people of Kufa will move in to many places, some of them will go forward to Jerusalem, and some others to Medina, and some others to Mecca and some others are going to live with the Bedouins. Then they will kill and capture anyone among those who perform prayers and they will bring him to trial to judge in his blood in the way they desire. The narrator said: then we left him after feeling upset of what he told us about.

After we left and by a near distance of him, Al-Munta ir bin al-rith a - abbi went back to him and said: O Abdullah ibn 'Amr! Your speech has terrified us, and we don't know whom will be going to witness these horrible events. Tell us, is there any sign regarding this? He replied: Don't hesitate, yes there's a mark for it. Munta ir said: So what is it? Abdullah said: The mark is a sign. Munta ir asked: What is this mark? Abdullah said: It is the government of boys. When (immature) boys become kings, so if you attend one of these boy's coronation, then recognise that it's the time for this matter to take place. And, for your information, it has already happened.

Munta ir left him for a short distance but went back for Abdullah to ask him more about the coming event, then we asked Munta ir (the narrator said): why does he keep bothering that old man of the Prophet (peace be upon him)? He responded by saying: I swear, I won't stop doing that till he explains everything to me, and when he went back to Abdullah he explained everything he needed to understand.

This also is reported by Imam Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba in his Muṣṣanaf with an authentic isnād:

Mu ammad bin Fu eel narrated to us from u ayn from ass n bin Abul'Mukh riq from Abu Abdullah al-Jandali he said: I came to bayt-al-Maqdis (Jerusalem) then 'Ub da bin a - mit, Abdullah bin 'Amr and Ka'b al-A b r conversed therein. 'Ub da said if mankind is gathered on the day of judgement in a plateau and they won't able to see the most far point of their sight, and their voice will be heard from a distance hearing the call of the statement of Allah when he says: *This is the day of decision: We have gathered you and those of yore; so if you have a plan, plan against Me.*⁴² He (also) said – this day there is no survival for the arrogant, stubborn and neither the sick devil before me. Abdullah bin 'Amr said: Indeed, we find in the book, that which comes from the neck of the fire starting quickly in the presence of people. It will say – Oh people! I have been appointed in relation to three; I know them completely, more so than a father has knowledge of his son, and the brother of his own brother. None can prevent or hide them from me, and they are as follows: whoever made another god with Allah and every powerful stubborn one and every serpent supporter of Shayṭān. He said: this neck will hold them and throw them into the hellfire before the day of judgment by forty (u ayn said: either for forty days or forty years). A group of people will hurry on to paradise then the angels will say to them to go and stand for judgment. Then those people will say: oh Allah we had no money and we weren't of wealth. Allah will say: My slaves said the truth and I'm the worthiest one to execute my promise, go to paradise. Abdullah said: they will enter into paradise before the account by way of forty years or days.

It is also to be found in Dar al-Manshoor in the Tafsir bil'Māthur, as reported by Sa'eed bin Man ur, Ibn Abi Shayba and Ibn al-Mundthir from Abu Abdullah al-Jadli. It is also found in the Tafsir of Ibn Abi tim with the channel – Ali bin al-Mundthir a - areefi al-Awdi narrated to us Mu ammad bin Fu eel narrated to us u ayn narrated to us about it except that he said, ‘in the fire before accounting by (a period) of forty years.’

The phrase used in the narrations – ‘neck from the fire’ (unq min an-nār) is undoubtedly not from the text of the Qur’ n nor for that matter amongst any other books of revelation which were prior to that in the hands of the people. This phrase however appears in the noble Prophetic hadith only. Similar is reported in the Musnad of Im m A mad, albeit through a channel that contains ‘A iya bin Sa'd al-Kufi, who is not strong. The channel in full and text is reported as follows:

Mu' wiya bin Hish m narrated to us Shayb n narrated to us from Fir s from ‘A iya bin Sa'd al-Kufi from Abu Sa'eed al-Khudri from the Prophet (peace be upon him) that he said: A neck from the fire will come out on the day of judgement and speak, saying: This day I am charged with three: for every arrogant one and whoever makes another god with Allah also, and whoever is involved in killing a soul. All of them are to be thrown into the throngs of hell.

The totality of established and corroborating evidences thus far mentioned in this regard provides proof to the level of certainty that the noble Prophetic Sunnah is a revelation from Allah and distinguished from the revealed text of the Qur’ n. Denial of this leads one into disbelief and ultimately to exit the fold of Islam completely. Thus, the noble Prophetic Sunnah is an established proof and underpins the essence of the latter half of the testimony of faith – that Mu ammad is the Messenger of Allah, a weighty testimony indeed for the day of judgement. Only the disbeliever, the one cursed would seek to object to this, like the so-called ‘Qur’ nists’ who have no share in Islam and are but stuck in profound ignorance with their absurd claims.

15 Some of what may or may not happen to the Prophets

Based upon the arguments thus far presented, it is perhaps pertinent at this juncture to outline some points in relation to what may or indeed may not happen to the Prophets, and in particular, the Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him). It is important to note that such matters may not be within the purview of natural human limitation. Firstly, like all his previous brethren Prophets and other humans, he (peace be upon him) may have enemies; he may be subjected to harm, humiliation, torture, or even be imprisoned, driven out of his home country, or be at risk of death. Some of these afflictions actually took place, a famous example being the murder of the Prophet Ya ya bin Zakariyy (peace be upon him) who was killed at the behest of a prostitute. Other Prophets were protected from such an afflictions from the outset, such as Musa and his brother H run (peace be upon them both). The Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him) was divinely protected from the actions of others only towards the end of the Medinan period, after which he ordered his guards to disperse. Before that, he was harmed - he was stoned by the mean people of Thaqif until they caused him to bleed, while the fools from among the tribe of Quraysh threw dirt on his honourable back. He sustained a head injury and his teeth were damaged during the battle of U ud and subjected to other kinds of injury until he was divinely protected.

Secondly, like all his previous brethren Prophets and other humans, he (peace be upon him) may suffer physical illness in all its variety, whether major or not, repulsive or not, except for the one whom Allah grants the protection of not being afflicted with such things. For example, Mu ammad (peace be upon him) was safe from being afflicted with pleurisy. In fact, perhaps the purpose of afflicting the Prophets with deadly afflictions and resultant pain is for them to be an example of how to endure this with patience. Nevertheless, in general, Prophets may not suffer from mental or psychological illness, for this type of illness requires being rendered incapacitated, thus the ‘pen would be lifted’; yet Prophethood necessitates the soundness of mind and reporting of speech.

Thirdly, like his previous brethren Prophets, the Prophet (peace be upon him), may be subjected to other universal ordeals like loss of loved ones; financial loss, having to endure the difficulties of lack of sustenance or support and even being let down by people, such as their own family and tribe. It could be argued that such setbacks are more difficult when compared to others, thereby providing a good model of behaviour to emulate.

Fourthly, the Prophet (peace be upon him), like all his former brethren Prophets, may perceive at certain times the perceptible world in a different manner to the reality of the situation, or in terms of how reports are presented; this is distinct from truth in itself. A multiplicity of reasons could exist for this, just as it does for most of mankind, such as:

- Deception of senses, which can occur as a result of magic. Like in the verse where Allah recounts the story of Musa (peace be upon him) and the challenge before the magicians at the Pharonic court:

فَالْيُقْبَلُونَ فَإِذَا حِبَّلُهُمْ وَحِصِّبُهُمْ يُخَيِّلُ إِلَيْهِ مِنْ سِحْرِهِمْ أَنَّهَا تَسْعَىٰ

*He said: Nay cast down! Then lo! Their cords and their rods-- it was imaged to him on account of their magic as if they were running.*¹ or by a physical illness that spoils the taste of food, or the feeling of heat and cold.

- Mistakes made in reporting, either unintentional or deliberate, particularly concerning judicial witnesses appearing before court, lying under oath, forging documentation and the like. The reason may also be a lack of sufficient evidence necessary to prove the truth, though it is established as being the truth before Allah's knowledge.

This is the best of the Prophets of Allah, the seal of all Prophethood who has been protected by Allah, peace and blessings be upon him and his family. He was not protected from being deceived by people lying in court. He would have to issue judgement based upon the given facts and testimony. However, he (peace be upon him) has clarified this matter in the following hadith, where he was reported to have said:

I am only mortal and you people (litigants) come to me with your cases; and it may be that one of you can present his case eloquently in a more convincing way than the other, and I give my verdict according to what I hear. So, if ever I judge and give the right of a brother to another, then he (the latter)

*should not take it, for I am giving him only a piece of fire.*²

Without question the hadith is authentic and has been recorded by many such as Bukhari, Mlik, Ahmad, and Abu Dawud in their respective works. Collectively these chains of transmission provide conclusive evidence. Based upon this, a number of important points can be discerned. Falsehood might be very well presented and substantiated to such an extent, that it can deceive even those that are infallible in revelation, like the Prophet (peace be upon him). If such an eventuality can happen to the Prophet (peace be upon him), then it may also happen more often than not, to others well below his rank. Given the importance of this point, a separate section in this work will explore its consequences.

For that reason, the Prophetic reports about 'worldly affairs', in other words, pertaining to the reality in and of itself as well as the general properties and events are indeed similar to reports of other human beings, in that they may be accurate or inaccurate, especially when they are expressed as opinion. Examples of this are reported in the hadith as cited earlier in part one where the Prophet (peace be upon him) passed comment about the pollination of palm trees. Much of what many people nowadays falsely call 'Prophetic medicine' often falls within this category. Such matters need to be subjected to very careful scrutiny and reservation, so as not attribute a matter to revelation in error since that would be a grave crime.

Fifthly, like his other previous brethren Prophets, the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) may leave the most appropriate among permissible matters (mubahat) for something else, which is likewise also permissible. Amongst the various examples of this are selecting a specific field for battle; choosing a specific method of administration, or using certain equipment instead of others. Experts may be more efficient than others in selecting the most appropriate thing to do, in which case, the Prophet (peace be upon him) would consider their opinion instead. An example of this was the opinion of al-ub b bin al-Mundhir to change the position of the army during the great battle of Badr. Undoubtedly, the Prophet (peace be upon him), like other people of sound mind, exerts his utmost effort and does his best, even more than anyone else to reach the best possible opinion. Some might argue that this ‘opinion’ of the Prophet (peace be upon him) would constitute an ijtihād. It might well be, if taken literally, but it is not of the same concept as that of legal independent reasoning in the terminology of uṣūl. For it does not befit the Prophet (peace be upon him) to say that he exercised independent legal reasoning, as will be outlined in due course.

Sixthly, like his other previous brethren Prophets, the Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him) may perform what is legally deemed to be undesirable (makruh) and he may leave a recommended act (mustahab) with a number of considerations in mind:

- To illustrate the legislative ruling after a prohibition (nahy) has been revealed, to clarify that it is in actuality, undesirable (makruh). To abstain from performing it is rewarded, but undertaking it is not sinful. The same would also apply to the recommended deeds (mustahabāt), all of which being established via the infallible revelation emanating from Allah. Although ultimately only Allah knows best, it may be that this was established in this manner in order to provide concrete practical examples to those who have the tendency for excessiveness in religion (ghuluw fi-deen). Such people may not readily accept such points solely by virtue of verbal pronouncements, except when accompanied by practical example. Moreover, there are certain rulings which have to be fully illustrated in practice and not merely by words.

- To give priority to mercy (rahma). Such as what the Prophet (peace be upon him) did with the prisoners of the battle of Badr.
- To give priority to the call of Islam (dawah) in order that it reaches people of significance, as mentioned in the Qur'anic narrative in Surah 'Abasa.
- Or to give predominance to kindness and gentleness as demonstrated with the companions in the verse of Surah Tawba.³

Together with the aforementioned points b), c) and d), we may also add that He (peace be upon him) might have thought or had the intention of doing something and then not acted upon that. Also, the Prophet (peace be upon him) may raise his hands and invoke Allah against people unintentionally, by mentioning customary Arab phrases like ‘may you be made barren’ or ‘may your mother be bereft of you’ or the like. These are some of the types of deeds for which Allah chided the Prophet (peace be upon him), and which He described as ‘sins’ on the part of his Prophet. Then, Allah granted him a general pardon for all his past and future errors after the treaty of Udaybiyah, he said:

إِنَّا فَهْنَا لَكُمْ فَهْنَا مُبِينًا ، لَيَغْفِرَ لَكُمُ اللَّهُ مَا تَعْدُمْ مِنْ ذَنْبِكُمْ وَمَا تَأْخُرُ وَيَتَمَّ نِعْمَتُهُ عَلَيْكُمْ وَيَهْدِيَكُمْ صِرَاطًا مُسْتَقِيمًا ، وَيَصْرُكُمُ اللَّهُ شَرًّا عَزِيزًا

Surely We have given to you a clear victory; that Allah may forgive your community their past faults and those to follow and complete His favour to you and keep you on a right way, and that Allah might help you with a mighty help.⁴

Many fools, in particular those from the Khawārij, typified by the likes of Dhul-Khuway irah at-Tamimi, held the view that the Prophet (peace be upon him) could commit both major and minor sins. Nothing could be further from the truth in this regard. What the Khawārij and others who followed them failed to acknowledge was the precise nature of the ‘sins’ that were mentioned in the context of the Prophet’s acts (peace be upon him). It is not the same as what constitutes ‘sin’ as it is for the rest of his Ummah. Rather, his (peace be upon him) ‘sin’ related to what he expressed as being lapses of God-consciousness. Furthermore, it would also encompass performing a deed that is undesirable (makruh) and the non-performance of a recommended deed – both of which are not ‘sins’ in the strict sense as it applies to the Ummah generally, given that both do not lead to punishment. Those who argued that the Prophet (peace be upon him) could commit major and minor sins in truth have lesser intellect than donkeys; at least donkeys and other beasts of burden have more consciousness of Allah than to advance such a claim.

Seventh, it is not befitting that the Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him) may commit a prohibited act (harām) be that major or minor. In the same regard, it is also not befitting that he (peace be upon him) would cease to perform any matter that was deemed an obligation (wājib), except where that would be considered to reside within his own specialisation and there is conclusive evidence relating to it as such. In fact, the Prophet (peace be upon him) undertaking the act would be conclusive evidence that it is permissible for his Ummah. Nevertheless, we would need additional evidence in order to determine whether such a deed was undesirable (makruh), recommended (mustahab) or obligatory (wājib). Conversely, if the Prophet (peace be upon him) abandoned a deed this would be clear evidence that it is not an obligation. Again there would need to be an additional evidence to demonstrate that falls into another classification, be that undesirable (makruh), permissible (mubāh), recommended (mustahab) or prohibited (harām). The same line of argument cannot be said however with regards to the earlier Prophets. There is no compelling logical or legal evidence to apply the aforesaid reasoning to them, peace be upon them all. In fact, there is a textual example of the opposite – namely, in the case of the Prophet Yunus (peace be upon him). Thus the case of the final seal of the Prophets, Mu ammad (peace be upon him) is different in this respect to his predecessors. Hence those who would dismiss everything that is found in the old books of revelation regarding the Prophets as a complete lie or fabrication, on the basis that it is contrary to the general infallibility of the Prophets do not have a substantive argument. Whilst we can establish with certainty based upon conclusive proof for the Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him) similar cannot be applied to earlier Prophets in the absence of such evidence.

Eighth, whatever the Prophet (peace be upon him) reports on affairs other than ‘worldly affairs’ is true and correct. His reports pertaining to previous nations and past facts are certainly true revelation sent from Allah, the almighty. The same applies to the Prophet’s reporting on future events whose knowledge is only the preserve of Allah and cannot be known except by his leave. Such reporting cannot be subject to error or mistake lest it would lose its overall significance and not be part of Allah’s establishment of proof to his servants.

Ninth, when the Prophet (peace be upon him) elicits reports which relate to commands and prohibitions, these are from revelation and nothing else. He (peace be upon him) did not speak of his own desire nor did he warn except by way of revelation. If it were possible for him to issue any command or warn against anything from his own desire without being based upon revelation from Allah, then it would be possible that all such commands and warnings were from desire.

Hence, the Prophetic mission would be devoid of significance and it would bring the notion of revelation as a whole into question.

Tenth, it is not befitting for the Prophet (peace be upon him) to remain silent in relation to a munkar (evil, the reprehensible), generally. He is duty-bound to convey the message of Islam and to enjoin all the good and forbid all the evil. For that reason, his silence about any act or specific approval of it, by necessity, denotes that it is not prohibited (harām). Then as mentioned previously, further evidence will be needed to establish whether the matter is undesirable, permissible, recommended or obligatory. Again as noted above, conclusive evidence from revelation or from the necessity and dictates of reason does not enable us to apply this principle to the rest of the Prophets that preceded him (peace be upon him). Although many have argued for this very point, it has not been established with conclusive proofs, thus it cannot be taken further.

Finally, the notion of ijtihād in its specific technical sense – devising a legal provision from the detailed evidences – does not apply to the Prophet (peace be upon him). It cannot apply given that he is the owner of the text, in other words, he is the commissioned Prophet through which revelation is communicated. His speech constitutes text (nass) as does his actions and approvals, for it is the legislation. Through this medium the law is conveyed as it is revealed to him by Allah. He doesn't extrapolate or deduce the law from its sources, for he (peace be upon him) is conveying it by way of revelation. In modern legal parlance, he is a lawgiver, protected by infallibility which Allah conferred upon him in order to convey the revelation. May the mercy and blessings of Allah be conferred upon him, his family and all his noble companions.

16 Deception by false testimony?

Previously we detailed what may or may not happen to the last Messenger, the seal of all the Prophets, Mu ammad (peace be upon him) as well as his former brethren Prophets which preceded him. He (peace be upon him) recognises the reality before him as perceived through the senses or as reported and brought before him, unlike the reality in itself which is in relation to the reporting of a liar and their mistake. Likewise, this can be said to occur within a judicial setting in relation to witness testimony, the falsification of documents; in relation to oaths which are false, and how a litigant presents his case, which may appear to be the truth. It can also extend to a lack of evidence in a case to establish who is right (or not being able to establish the requisite proof itself), that remains within the knowledge of Allah, and other examples like this.

The decisive proof upon this matter which can be upheld with certainty is as follows: that the last final messenger, the seal of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) is rendered infallible (ma'soom) and protected by the directive of Allah. Yet this protection does not extend to being duped by the hypocrisy (nifāq) of the hypocrite (munāfiq), the lie of the liar, or having to make judgment upon the apparent when faced with an unscrupulous witness, or those having a good ability to skilfully argue and present their case. Allah the exalted, blessed be his names has said:

وَلَوْلَا فَضْلُ اللَّهِ عَلَيْكُمْ وَرَحْمَةُ اللَّهِ لَهُمْ أَن يُضْلُلُوكُمْ وَمَا يُضْلِلُونَ إِلَّا أَنفُسُهُمْ وَمَا يَضْرُونَكُم مِنْ شَيْءٍ وَإِنَّ اللَّهَ عَلَيْكُمُ الْحِكْمَةَ وَعَلَمَكُم مَا لَمْ تَكُنْ تَعْلَمُ وَكَانَ فَضْلُ اللَّهِ عَلَيْكُمْ عَظِيمًا

And were it not for Allah's grace upon you and His mercy a party of them had certainly designed to bring you to perdition and they do not bring to perdition but their own souls, and they shall not harm you in any way, and Allah has revealed to you the Book and the wisdom, and He has taught you what you did not know and Allah's grace on you is very great.¹

The background to this verse is the famous story relating to a'mah bin Ubayriq who was a munāfiq from amongst the men of the Anṣar. He was a thief who had stolen some goods; he denied the charges against him and had planted the stolen items with a Jew, whom he subsequently tried to frame with the crime. Allah the majestic exposed the truth of this and the story has thereafter been preserved for posterity. Writing in his Tafsir, the grand Imam a - abari provides a comprehensive account of these events:²

*...that is to say, the exalted explains with his statement: 'Surely We have revealed the Book to you with the truth that you may judge between people by means of that which Allah has taught you; and be not an advocate on behalf of the treacherous.'³ Surely we have revealed to you oh Mu ammad, the book, that is to say the Qur'ān, '...that you may judge between people;' to make decrees between people and determine judgements, disputes between them '...by means of that which Allah has taught you.' That is to say, with what Allah has revealed unto you from his book, '...and be not an advocate on behalf of the treacherous.*' And do not betray a Muslim or a Mu'āhid (an ally, a person who is granted the pledge of protection by the Muslims) in their person or in their wealth; contending in argumentation and quarrels about it, and not to press such demands or requests except by way of right and not betrayal.

² Given the considerable length of the cited narrative from the Tafsir, only the translated English text is presented

'And seek forgiveness from Allah,'⁴ Mu ammad to forgive your sins (and rescind) punishment concerning those who are antagonistic to you, (and) about the treacherous or traitor or other than that; '...surely Allah is forgiving, merciful.'⁵ And he said: Verily Allah forgives the sins of his believing servants by leaving the punishment upon them if they seek forgiveness from him, (he is) merciful (towards) them. So act accordingly, oh Mu ammad; Allah will forgive you regarding this precedent from your opponents about this traitor. It has been said that the Prophet (peace be upon him) was not at odds with the traitor, but it was so. Hence Allah ordered him to seek forgiveness and they to do so similarly. And reminded that the treacherous, those whom Allah admonished and exalted his Prophet in the matter of Banu Ubayriq. And (there is) disagreement amongst the people of interpretation in the matter of treachery, which it was described by Allah. It's been said by some (concerning) the matter of stealing. Those who said as such:

Mu ammad bin 'Amr narrated to me he said Abu 'Aim narrated to us from 'Esa from Ibn Naji from Muj hid in relation to the statement of Allah, 'Surely We have revealed the Book to you with the truth that you may judge between people by means of that which Allah has taught you' to where he says

'...whoever does this seeking Allah's pleasure...'⁶

Al-Muthanna narrated to me he said Abu udhayfah narrated to us he said Shibl narrated to us from Ibn Abi Naji from Muj hid about it.

Al- asan bin A mad bin Abi Shu'ayb Abu Muslim al- ar ni narrated to us he said Mu ammad bin Salama narrated

He said: Banu Ubayriq was saying while we were questioning them amidst their dwellings – 'By Allah! We do not think the one you are looking for is other than Labeed bin Sahl, a man among us who is righteous and accepted Islam.' When Labeed heard that, he brandished his sword and said: I stole? By Allah! Either you prove this theft, or I will take to you with this sword! They said: 'Leave us O men! You are not the one who has it.' So we continued questioning in the dwellings until we had no doubt that they had taken it. My uncle said to me: O my nephew! You should go to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) and tell him about that. Qat dah said: So I went to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) and said: 'A family among us are ill-mannered, and they conspired against my uncle Rif 'ah bin Zayd. They broke into his storage and took his weapons and his food. We want them to return our weapons, but we have no need for the food.' So, the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: I will decide about that. When Banu Ubayriq heard about this, they brought a man from among them named Usayr bin Urwa to talk to him about that, and some people from their houses gathered and said: 'O Messenger of Allah! Qat dah bin an-Nu'm n and his uncle came to a family among us who are a people of Islam and righteousness, accusing them of stealing without proof or (any) confirmation.'

Qat dah said: I went to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) and spoke to him, and he said: You went to a family among them known for their Islam and righteousness, and accused them of stealing without confirmation or proof? He said: So I returned wishing that I had lost some of my wealth, and that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) had not spoken to me about that. My uncle Rif 'ah came to me and said: 'O my nephew! What did you do?' So I told him what the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said to me, so he said: 'It is from Allah whom we seek help!' It was not long before the Qur' n was revealed: 'Surely We have revealed the Book to you with the truth that you may judge between people by means of that which Allah has taught you; and be not an advocate on *behalf of the treacherous.*⁷ That is to say, Banu Ubayriq; ‘And seek forgiveness from Allah,’⁸ (that is to say) from what you said to Qat dah. *And do not plead on behalf of those who act unfaithfully to their souls;*⁹ which is Banu Ubayriq.Surely Allah does not love him who is treacherous, sinful;¹⁰ until his statementthen asks forgiveness of Allah, he shall find Allah forgiving, merciful,¹¹ which is, that they make repentance to Allah and Allah forgave them. *And whoever commits a sin, he only commits it against his own soul; and Allah is knowing, wise,*¹² a manifest sin, their saying about Labeed. *And were it not for Allah's grace upon you and His mercy a party of them had certainly designed to bring you to perdition,*¹³ Usayr and his companions, ...and they do not bring to perdition but their own souls, and they shall not harm you in any way, and Allah has revealed to you the Book and the hikmah...¹⁴ to where he says ... We shall grant him a mighty reward.¹⁵

So when the Qur’ān was revealed, the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) brought the weapon and returned it to Rif’ah. Qat dah said: ‘When the weapon was brought to my uncle - and he was a weak elderly man in Jāhilīyah, and I thought that he merely had entered into Islam (without real sincerity) but when I brought it to him, he said: ‘O my nephew! It is for Allah’s cause.’ So I knew that his Islam was genuine. When the Qur’ān was revealed, Bushayr went with the idolaters; staying with Sul fah bint Sa’d bin Sahl. So Allah revealed: *And whoever acts in hostility to the Prophet after that guidance has become manifest to him, and follows other than the way of the believers,*¹⁶ until where he says ...and whoever

Allah demonstrated his excuse was dishonour; he had pleaded with the Prophet (peace be upon him) and warned him not to advocate on behalf of the treacherous. a’mah bin Ubayriq was a man from the Anṣar then a Bani Dthafr. He stole a shield for his uncle and tried to conceal it by throwing it to a Jew, claiming it to be with him. (The Jew) he was Zayd bin as-Sameen so the Jews came to the Prophet (peace be upon him). He cheered when he saw that his people, Banu Dthafr came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) to seek for their companion to be excused. The Prophet (peace be upon him) was troubled by his alibi, until Allah revealed regarding his dishonour, thus he said: *And do not plead on behalf of those who act unfaithfully to their souls;*²⁰ to where he said: *Behold! a'mah's innocence dissipated. When the matter of Allah exposing the dishonour of a'mah came to pass and his hypocrisy with the mushrikeen of Mecca, Allah revealed regarding this dishonour, in (the verse): *And whoever acts in hostility to the Prophet after that guidance has become manifest to him, and follows other than the way of the believers, we will turn him to that to which he has turned, and make him enter hell, and it is an evil destination.*²³

Yunus narrated to me he said Ibn Wahb reported to us he said Ibn Zayd said in relation to the statement: Surely, We have revealed the Book to you with the truth that you may judge between people by means of that which Allah has taught you. The verse he said was (about) a man who was a thief who stole an iron shield in the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him). He placed the stolen item upon a Jew and said of the Jew, by Allah he has stolen it oh Abul-Q sim! And they said – Oh Messenger of Allah, verily this evil Jew (who) disbelieves in Allah and I came across it (i.e. the stolen item). He said until the wealth came upon the Prophet (peace be upon him) and with some of that speech. Thus, Allah the exalted reproached him in that and thereafter said: Surely We have revealed the Book to you with the truth that you may judge between people by means of that which Allah has taught you; and be not an advocate on behalf of the treacherous. And seek forgiveness

Mu'ammad bin al-Ussain narrated to us he said A'mad bin Mufa' al narrated to us he said Asb' narrated to us from as-Suddi - 'Surely We have revealed the Book to you with the truth that you may judge between people by means of that which Allah has taught you...' He said: As for - 'that which Allah has taught you' what Allah revealed unto you. He said: (the verse) descended in relation to a'mah bin Ubayriq and to deliver the shield to a man from the Jews. So he went out to his home, and then buried it with a Jew. There was disagreement regarding where a'mah had hidden the shield. So he took it. The Jew came to request the shield that he had concealed. So he went to the people of the Jews of his clan and he thus said: they released (it to) me, for indeed I know where the shield has been put. When he knew it was with them, a'mah took the shield and threw it in the house of Abu Muleel al-An'ari. When the Jew came to ask for the shield its presence was there.

a'mah has put the item with him and the people from his people reviled him. And he said: do you wish to betray me? They demanded that it be obtained from his house. Then they proceeded towards the house of Abu Muleel.

a'mah said Abu Muleel took the shield and the An'ir joined in on behalf of a'mah, and he said to them - go forth with me to the Messenger (peace be upon him) and you tell him that I have proof that the Jewish argument is a lie; if I prove (this) lie of the Jew to the people of Medina. People from the An'ir said: Oh Messenger of Allah, we would urge you to support a'mah, since the Jew is lying. The Prophet (peace be upon him) considered doing this, thereafter Allah revealed upon this matter: '...and be not an advocate on behalf of the treacherous. And ask forgiveness of Allah.' Out of what you wanted; '...Surely Allah is forgiving, merciful. And do not plead on behalf of those who act unfaithfully to their souls, verily Allah does not love him who is treacherous, sinful.' Then He mentioned the An'ir and the trouble they caused about it, so saying: 'They hide themselves from men and do not hide themselves from Allah, and He is with them when they meditate by night words which do not please him...' Saying, what they say is not pleasing of speech. 'Behold! You are they who (may) plead for them in the life of this world, but who will plead for them with Allah on the day of judgement?' Then he called (them) to repentance and so said: 'And whoever does evil or acts unjustly to his soul, then asks forgiveness of Allah, he shall find Allah forgiving, merciful.'

Then it was mentioned where he said, take it Abu Muleel, saying: 'And whoever commits a sin, he only commits it against his own soul. And whoever commits a fault or a sin, then accuses someone innocent of it, he indeed takes upon himself the burden of a calumny and a manifest sin.' The great manifest sin. Then he mentioned the An'ir and their arrival and that they were trying to exude on behalf of their companion, arguing for him, thus he says: '...a party of them had certainly designed to bring you to perdition and they do not bring to perdition but their own souls, and they shall not harm you in any way, and Allah has revealed to you the Book and the hikmah...' Saying the Prophecy; then he mentioned the trouble they gave about it, they wanted the lie (perpetuated) about a'mah, so he said: 'There is no good in most of their secret counsels...' except whoever ordered with charity or good or islāh (reform) between the people. When Allah exposed a'mah in Medina by way of the Qur'an, he fled until he came to Mecca. Thus he disbelieved after his Islam and stayed with al-Ajjāj bin 'Ilāt as-Sulami.

Thereafter, he rummaged in the house of al-Ajjāj and wanted to steal from him. Al-Ajjāj heard the rustling in his house and the clutter and skins were with him. So he looked if it was a'mah and thus said - my guest and my cousin that wants to steal from me? So he took him and he died by Bani Sulaym a kāfir (disbeliever). And Allah revealed in relation to this '...and whoever acts in hostility to the Messenger after guidance has become manifest to him and follows other than the way of the believers; we will turn him to that which he *turned himself....and it is an evil resort.*³³

Al-Qasim narrated to us he said al-Ussain narrated to us he said - Ajaj narrated to me from Ibn Jurayj from 'Ikrima he said - A man entrusted from the Anṣar, a'mah bin Ubayriq, he had commandeered the shield and thereafter went absent. A man from the Anṣar then came and opened his apartment and didn't find his shield. He asked a'mah bin Ubayriq regarding it, so he threw it to a man from the Jews and said to him that Zayd bin as-Sameen has it attached to his shield and armour. When he saw that his people came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) they told him to stave off the matter. Thereafter Allah blessed and majestic revealed - 'Surely We have revealed the Book to you with the truth that you may judge between people by means of that which Allah has taught you; and be not an advocate on behalf of the treacherous. And ask forgiveness of Allah; surely Allah is forgiving, merciful. And do not plead on behalf of those who act unfaithfully to their own selves;' that is to say, a'mah bin Ubayriq and his people. 'Behold, you are they who (may) plead for them in this world, but who will plead for them with Allah on the day of judgement, or who shall be their protector?' Mu'ammad (peace be upon him) and the people of a'mah. 'And whoever does evil or acts unjustly to his soul, then asks forgiveness of Allah, he shall find Allah forgiving, merciful.' Mu'ammad, a'mah and his people; he said - 'and whoever commits a sin he only commits it against his own soul.'

The verse about a'mah - 'And whoever commits a fault or a sin, then accuses of it one innocent,' that is to say, Zayd bin as-Sameen, 'he indeed takes upon himself the burden of a calumny and a manifest sin,' (i.e.) a'mah bin Ubayriq. 'And were it not for Allah's grace upon you and his mercy,' Oh Mu'ammad, 'a party of them had certainly designed to bring you to perdition and they do not bring to perdition but their own souls, and they shall not harm you in any way,' the people of a'mah bin Ubayriq. 'And Allah has revealed to you the Book and the hikmah, and He has taught you what you did not know, and Allah's grace on you is very great,' Mu'ammad (peace be upon him). 'There is no good in most of their secret counsels except (in his) who enjoins charity or goodness,' until (it was) completed (with) the verse to the general people, 'And whoever acts in hostility to the Prophet after that guidance has become manifest to him, and follows other than the way of the believers.' (In relation to the verse) he said what is revealed of the Qur'an concerning a'mah bin Ubayriq (that he) ran to the Quraysh and turned upon his religion. Then except upon the compartment of Ajaj bin 'Ilāl-Bahzī, an ally at peace with the Prophet, Abd'ad-Dar. Ibn Jurayj said: Thus this is the verse, all of it in it, revealed to where he said: 'Surely Allah does not forgive that anything should be associated with him, and (he) forgives what is beside that.' It was revealed (concerning) a'mah bin Ubayriq and it is said that he threw the shield in the house of Muleel bin Abdullah al-Khazraji. Therefore the Qur'an descended as he ran to the Quraysh, so it was, what was ordered.

It was narrated from al-Ussain bin al-Faraj he said I heard Abu Mu'adh, 'Ubaid bin Salmān narrated to us he said I heard a - a - k said in relation to the verse - that you may judge between people by means of that which Allah has taught you - he said: what was revealed upon you and taught to you in his book, and revealed this verse in relation to a man from the Anṣar who commandeered the shield from its owner. So the treacherous man from amongst the companions of the Prophet (peace be upon him) (would be) angry with his people. And they came (to the) Prophet (peace be upon him) and they said: our treacherous companion? And (yet) he is a truthful Muslim, oh Prophet excuse him as he has been slandered. So, he stood (before) the Prophet of Allah and lied to him, knowing he was innocent and falsely attributing (the theft) to him. Thus Allah explained (this) and revealed accordingly: Surely We have revealed the Book to you with the truth that you may judge between people by means of that which Allah has taught you, until where he said: or who shall be their protector? So following his betrayal of Allah, he went with the mushrikeen from the people of Mecca and left Islam. So (the following was) revealed – And whoever acts in hostility to the Prophet after that guidance has become manifest to him – unto where he says: and it is (hell) an evil resort.

Abu Ja'far said: and firstly in relation to the interpretation in that with what is indicated by the apparent meaning of the verse, those who said it was treachery which Allah described in this verse, rejection with what's been entrusted; because that is recognised from the meaning of treachery in the language of the Arabs. And this steers the interpretation of the Qur'an gathered from the meaning of the speech of the Arabs, what is found in it primarily.

Despite its considerable length, the extract from the Tafsir of the grand Imām Abu Ja'far Mu'ammad ibn Jarir al-Abārī, provides us with considerable insight and knowledge concerning the ruling on the present topic at hand.

In relation to the above, I would submit firstly that the incident as recorded by Imām al-Abārī depends upon whether it is supported and uninterrupted concerning the channel from 'Aīm bin 'Amr bin Qatādah from his father from his grandfather, Qatādah bin an-Nū'mān, instead of being from amongst the marāseel and munqaṭi'at, and which shows that in reality the crime of theft was committed. That Allah named those people as the treacherous, not because they were solely charged with denial or rejection (jahd), but rather it was because they lied to the Prophet (peace be upon him). For indeed, 'truth is a trust and the lie a betrayal,' just as Abu Bakr al-Adīq (may Allah be pleased with him) said. Lying to the Prophet (peace be upon him) is no doubt from amongst the major destructive sins, the mubiqāt, and is vile and repudiated. The lie was done with intent and was thus a specific repudiation of the compact made with Allah when they bore witness that 'Mu'ammad is the Messenger of Allah,' therefore breaking the compact through this disloyalty and treachery. Regardless of any difference in the specific details of the incident itself, the outcome – with regard to the present theme, that he (peace be upon him) acted according to what he perceived before him and was misled by the allegations made by a hypocrite and had initially defended his position until Allah the majestic intervened and exposed the true nature of events. Thereafter the traitors were exposed and the truth of the matter was fully demonstrated. This wasn't because of the requirements of Prophetic infallibility or related to the requirements of Prophethood and delivery of the message, but outlining what originally occurred in the sequence of events.

To conclude this matter, we make a small commentary footnote to the isnād as relayed by Imām al-Abārī - Al-Asan bin Amād bin Abu Shu'ayb Abu Muslim al-Dirī narrated to us he said Mu'ammad bin Salama narrated to us he said Mu'ammad ibn Isq narrated to us from 'Aīm bin 'Amr bin Qatādah from his father from his grandfather, Qatādah bin an-Nū'mān. Contained within it is Mu'ammad ibn Isq as reporting 'from'. In reality though, this channel is connected and authentic, because Mu'ammad ibn Isq did indeed explicitly hear this from the next individual in the chain of transmission, as is the ruling demonstrated from other related channels.

Al-Kim cited the following narrative in his Mustadrak a'lā Sahīhayn:³⁴

Abul-'Abbās Mu'ammad bin Ya'qub narrated to us Amad bin Abdal-Jabbār narrated to us Yunus bin Bukeer narrated to us Mu'ammad ibn Isq narrated to me 'Aīm 'Amr bin Qatādah from his father from his grandfather Qatādah bin an-Nū'mān may Allah be pleased with him, he said: The sons of Ubayriq were a group from the tribe of Dthafr and they were three men, Basheer, Bashr and Mubashar. Basheer was the agnomen of a'mah's father. He was a poet and a hypocrite. He used to satirize the companions of the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him. Then he used to claim that someone else was expressing satirical poetry against them, but whenever the companions heard it, they would say that it was a lie by an enemy of Allah. He said –

Or whenever the men said a poem * they (companions) say that Ubayriq said it

They sneezed as if I were afraid of them * I wish (that) if Allah blocked their noses.

They were poor and needy in Jāhiliyah and after Islam. My uncle, Rif 'ah bin Zayd was a well-known man who attained Islam. And by Allah, never saw any benefit in his Islam. If he had some money and whenever a caravan passed by him carrying the white flour, he would have bought it for himself, while he would feed his children the barley. Once the caravan of the Nabataeans passed by, carrying flour on the camel's back from both sides. He then bought the camel load from them in the upper part of the house and he had two shields in addition to what suited them in this room. After midnight, Bashir went to the top of the house and took the food and then he took the armour. When my uncle Rif 'ah awoke, he sent for me, then I went to him. He said we have been robbed last night and our food and weaponry are gone. Bashir and his brothers said to him, 'By Allah no one but Labeed bin Sahl stole your possessions.' Labeed was an honourable man. When he heard of these words spoken he went to them and said: 'O sons of the Ubayriq! You claim that I'm the thief? O Allah I will make you taste the blade of my sword or show to you the actual thief.'

In reply, they said: 'Go away, you are innocent of this robbery,' and he said: 'No, and you have claimed (this).' Then we inquired in order to discover the stolen items, until we were told Banu Ubayriq made a fancy dinner that night, what we see only on your goods, we are to remain investigating until we were about to be certain and believe that they are the culprits. I went to the Messenger of Allah pace be upon him and told him about this. They had a cousin whose name was Aseer bin 'Urwa and he gathered his tribesmen and then came to the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him. He said that Rif 'ah bin Zayd and his nephew Qat dah bin an-Nu'man have deliberately insulted one of our household known for their honour and the goodness of their morals and they have accused them of theft without any substantive proof or actual witnesses, putting this before the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him, then leaving. Once I came to the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him and he said harshly: 'What you did is fully wrong; shame on these deeds. You went to a house of honourable people accusing them of theft, without having any proof or clear evidence?'

I heard from the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him, what I never liked to hear from him and I turned away from him. I said, 'By Allah, I wished if I had lost all my money and it would be better than hearing this from him peace be upon him in this matter and I will never go back to him.' Thus, he said by Allah whose help is sought; the Qur'an was revealed: *Indeed, we have revealed the book to you with the truth, that you may judge between people by means of that which Allah has taught you; and be not an advocate on behalf of the treacherous,*³⁵ about a'mah bin Ubayriq. He thus read until he came to: 'then accuses of it one innocent,'³⁶ and this verse referred to Labeed bin Sahl.

Following the revelation of Qur'anic verses, Ibn Ubayriq fled to Mecca. Then the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him sent for him to get the two shields and their coats of armour back; after which he gave them back to Rif 'ah. Qat dah said, when I brought the shields back to Rif 'ah he said: 'oh my nephew! They are alms for the sake of Allah.' Then I wondered if my uncle's Islam had got better. But I was wrong, he wasn't as I had thought. Ibn Ubayriq went out until he encountered Sal mah, the daughter of Sa'd bin Sahl, the sister of Bani 'Amr ibn Auf being with al a bin Abi al a in Mecca. And all of a sudden, he met with the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him and his companions and he insulted them. Then Has n bin Th bit mentioned their fathers and said:

³⁵ Qur'an, 4: 105

³⁶ Qur'an, 4: 112

Oh he who steals the shields, if you want to speak * don't mention the honour of men by your tongue

And the daughter of Sa'd hosted him and became * with the skin of his estrangement and conflict

So your family came to you willingly * unto him and did not want to please him

You thought that you would hide what you have done * and among you a Prophet has revelation and has placed it

Thus if it were not men insulting of your tribe * I would have been overwhelmed

If you remember a heel to what you attributed to * like the rain when it destroys the flour.

When Has n's poem reached her, she departed taking with the luggage and put it on her head, until I threw it down. Then she shaved her hair and made a hole in her ears and she gave an oath that he had to leave the house. I was guided by the poetry that Has n bin Th bit made, what had been good to descend upon me. When she got him out of the house, he went towards 'if. He entered an abandoned house where there was no one. And this house fell upon him (caved in) and it killed him. After this, the Quraysh kept saying: 'Oh Allah, Mu ammad would never leave any one of his good companions away from him.'

Similar has been reported in several collections, such as the following:

- Sunan Tirmidhi [Vol. 5 sec. 247, no. 3036] with the wording and channel of transmission like that of Im m abari: Al- asan bin A mad bin Abi Shu'ayb Abu Muslim al- ar ni narrated to us Mu ammad bin Salama al- ar ni narrated to us Mu ammad ibn Is q narrated to us from 'A im bin Umar bin Qat dah from his father from his grandfather Qat dah bin an-Nu'm n he said: There was a household among us called Banu Ubayriq (et. al).

Allah the exalted, blessed be his names has said:

وَمِنْ حَوْلِكُمْ مَنِ الْأَعْرَابٍ مُنَافِقُونَ وَمِنْ أَهْلِ الْمَدِينَةِ مُرْدُوا عَلَى النَّفَاقِ لَا تَعْلَمُهُمْ تَحْنُنْ
نَعْلَمُهُمْ سُنْعَابُهُمْ مَرَتِينَ ثُمَّ يُرْدُونَ إِلَى عَذَابٍ عَظِيمٍ

Some of the desert Arabs around you are hypocrites, as are some of the people of Medina— they are obstinate in their hypocrisy. You [Prophet] do not know them, but We know them well: We shall punish them twice and then they will be returned to [face] a painful punishment.³⁷

From this verse, we see Allah attesting to the fact that contained within the blessed city of Medina, there were munāfiqeen (hypocrites), indeed, stubborn in hypocrisy. Moreover, the Prophet (peace be upon him) as shown by this verse did not know them. By necessity this requires that he judges all inhabitants – the believers, the truthful and all others – on the basis of the apparent and on their oaths and testimonies, be they ultimately true or false. Allah says:

إِذَا جَاءَكُمُ الْمُنَافِقُونَ قَالُوا نَشْهُدُ إِنَّكُمْ لَرَسُولُ اللَّهِ وَاللَّهُ يَعْلَمُ إِنَّكُمْ لَرَسُولُهُ وَاللَّهُ يَشْهُدُ إِنَّ
الْمُنَافِقِينَ لَكَاذِبُونَ

When the hypocrites come to you, they say: We bear witness that you are most surely Allah's Messenger; and Allah knows that you are most surely His

³⁷ Qur'an 9: 101

*Messenger, and Allah bears witness that the hypocrites are surely liars.*³⁸

We would hasten to add that this does not mean that he did not need to know or that he wasn't informed by revelation in specific instances that certain people were indeed hypocrites, as has also been mentioned by Im m Abu Mu ammad Ali Ibn azm. Moreover, Allah the exalted has explained:

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا إِنْ جَاءَكُمْ فَاسِقٌ بِنَبَأٍ فَتَبَيَّنُوا أَنْ تُصِيبُوا قَوْمًا بِجَهَالَةٍ فَتُصْبِحُوا عَلَى مَا
فَعَلْتُمْ تَادِيْمِينَ

O you who believe! If an evil-doer comes to you with a report, look carefully into it, lest you harm a people in ignorance, then be sorry for what you have done.³⁹

The reason behind the revelation of this verse are mutawātir and famous. There are several channels of transmission which outline the specific details. Amongst them, Im m abar ni records the following long narration in Mu'jam al-Kabir:⁴⁰

Abdullah ibn A mad bin anbal narrated to us Mu ammad bin Abu 'Ut b Abu Bakr al-'Ayn narrated to me (hawala) and Mu ammad bin Abdullah al- a rami narrated to us Abdullah bin al- akam bin Abu Ziy d al-Qa aw ni narrated to us (hawala) and Mu ammad bin A mad al- im l al-A bah ni narrated to us Mu ammad bin Esa az-Zuj j narrated to us; they said Mu ammad bin S biq reported to us Esa bin Din r al-Muwazan narrated to us – my father narrated to me that he heard al- rith bin ir r al-Khuz 'y say: I arrived upon the

⁴⁰ Given the length of the narration, only the English text is presented together with the translated isnād.

Prophet (peace be upon him) the Prophet invited me to Islam and I entered into it and I accepted it. And he invited me to the Zakāt and I accepted that, thereafter I said: O Prophet! I am going back to my people. There, I will call them to Islam and upon their response I will collect the Zakāt from them. O Prophet, please send someone at such and such time so that I will hand over the (collected) Zakāt money to him. (His people) responded to him and al-rith collected the Zakāt in a timely manner and wanted to send that to the Prophet (peace be upon him). He retained it with him for the Prophet to collect. Al-rith thought (given that no one came to collect) that he had in some way, earned the displeasure of Allah and his messenger (peace be upon him). So he summoned his people and said to them: It is time for me to send a messenger to the Prophet (peace be upon him) in relation to the Zakāt which has been collected.

Meanwhile, the Prophet (peace be upon him) had sent Waleed bin ‘Uqba to al-rith to collect the Zakāt. However, when Waleed had travelled half-way there, he returned to the Prophet (peace be upon him). Al-Waleed bin ‘Uqba said: Oh messenger of Allah, indeed al-rith prevented me to collect the Zakāt and wanted to kill me, messenger of Allah - despatch a force to al-rith to strike at him. So a force of companions was despatched to go to al-rith. On route they came across al-rith and he asked, to whom have you been sent? They said: to you! He said, but why? They said: Indeed the Prophet (peace be upon him) despatched al-Waleed bin ‘Uqba and he came back and claimed that you prevented the collection of Zakāt and wanted to kill him. Al-rith said: I swear by the one who raised Mu ammad (peace be upon him) with the truth! I did not see him (Waleed) and he did not come to me, nor did I seek to retain it (Zakāt). Thereafter al-Hujjarāt was revealed - O you who believe! If a fāsiq comes to you with a report, look carefully into it, lest you harm a people in ignorance, then be sorry for what you have done (49: 6) until where it is said - by grace from Allah and as a favour; and Allah is Knowing, Wise (49: 8).

Similar is reported in the Musnad of Im m A mad where he records, ‘Mu ammad bin S biq narrated to us with its full channel and text.’ I would submit that here also is where the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not have foreknowledge of the liar in his midst, namely al-Waleed bin ‘Uqba. He had sent a military expeditionary force which almost resulted in disaster, but for the divine intervention by the blessing of Allah. Next, Bukh ri cited the following narration in his Ṣaḥīḥ, which is exceptionality authentic:

Abul’Yam n narrated to us Shu’ayb reported to us from az-Zuhri, Urwa bin az-Zubayr reported to me that Zaynab the daughter of Abu Salama reported to her from her aunt Umm Salama, she said – the Prophet (peace be upon him) heard the voices of some people quarrelling near his gate, so he went to them and said: I am only mortal and litigants with cases involving disputes come to me, and maybe one of them presents his case eloquently in a more convincing and impressive way than the other, and I give my verdict in his favour thinking he is truthful. If I give a Muslim’s right to another then that is a piece of fire, which is up to him to take it or leave it.

Im m Bukh ri has recorded similarly elsewhere within his Ṣaḥīḥ. It is a tradition which is reported by almost all scholars of note in their respective collections. It appears in several places in Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, as well as in the Sunan collections of Bayhaqy, D raqu ni, Nas ’i, Tirmidhi, Ibn Maj h and Abu D wud. It is also in the Musnad collections such as that of A'mad, Abu Ya'la, and abar ni, in the Muwatṭā' of Mlik, as well as in the various Muṣṣanaf collections like that of Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba. Without any shred of doubt, this narrative that has reached us from the Prophet (peace be upon him) is a decisive proof established with certainty.

Moreover, this hadith confirms several key facts which are of the utmost importance. It provides a dire warning to litigants who may be well-versed in presenting an eloquent case in court, yet behind this their claim is invalid. Such eloquent counsel by itself can even mislead the infallible Prophet (peace be upon him) to the extent that he could rule or judge in their favour, whether the litigation related to wealth, honour or blood. By greater reasoning, it is entirely plausible for the likes of famous companions such as Ibn 'Abbās or indeed other companions, may Allah be please with them all, to fall prey to crafty litigants in court. The noble companions, and indeed every other Islamic scholar or judge, does not receive revelation as the Prophet (peace be upon him) did in the aforementioned examples to expose the true nature of events. All must judge on the apparent and on the basis of evidence which is brought before them, and in this, like the Prophet (peace be upon him), they are not immune from error.

A portion of this chapter was relayed on the internet in response to a debate with an unfortunate idiotic Wahābi donkey from amongst the more 'learned' of the propagandists in the 'Salafi' movement. Despite such efforts, these fell on deaf ears. Indeed, how should one respond when faced with his constructive criticism after perusing this section, he retorts: 'You are (from) the heretics (zanādiqa)!' He continued:

That as long as your (argument stands that the) Prophet is misled by the lie of a liar, why not exclude the stories in relation to the previous nations as they appear in the Qur'an given that all of it can be a deception made by the lie of a liar? As long as he can be misled by the lies of the liars, and that which is falsehood presented before him, why isn't many of the good things that he perceives also be considered a deception?

We would say, what is mentioned by this conceited individual is from the remarks of the heretics (zanādiqa) – and we hope to Allah that we are never from amongst them. Yet it is not new altogether. For indeed, the Quraysh said as such, arguing that they knew human nature and that before his pronouncement (peace be upon him), with that discourse. Similar outrageous comments have been uttered by the Orientalists.

The Prophethood of Mu'ammad (peace be upon him) is established by proven decisive evidences, including this miraculous Qur'an in our present possession. It is unlike the miracles of the previous Prophets which were temporary and demonstrated before a specific people. Many of the Prophetic miracles of Mu'ammad (peace be upon him) are established through tawātūr, continuously recurrent reports. He split the moon; he fed a large number of people from a very small quantity of food, through to predicting the attacks of the Mongols which occurred hundreds of years into the future. He (peace be upon him) used to deliver sermons while standing beside, or leaning against, the trunk of a date palm tree. When he (peace be upon him) used his pulpit instead, the tree began to cry and wail. The entire course of history was changed during the lifetime of the Prophet; he changed the entire Arabian Peninsula in one generation, this was despite losing his uncle and original protector through to the hostility of fifth-columnists which he faced in Medina. All of this and many other decisive evidences pertaining to the fact will be outlined later in the present work.

Mu'ammad (peace be upon him) is the Prophet of Allah, a conveyer of the pronouncement made from Allah and in that, he is infallible, even before he uttered from the glorious Qur'an. Therefore as established with decisive certain evidences by the necessities of perception and reason, as well as by the text of the Qur'ān, that he (peace be upon him) is infallible in his speech, without lie or error. Concerning his acts, he does not commit anything prohibited. It is also further established that the Dhikr was revealed to him – the Dhikr being both the Qur'ān and the Sunnah, both of which is protected by Allah. Consequently, it is an attested and established proof when he (peace be upon him) said:

I am only mortal and litigants with cases involving disputes come to me, and maybe one of them presents his case eloquently in a more convincing and impressive way than the other, and I give my verdict in his favour thinking he is truthful. If I give a Muslim's right to another then that is a piece of fire, which is up to him to take it or leave it.

In reply, we say Allah and His Messenger spoke the truth and that speech in no manner undermines their truthfulness; the Prophet sitting in court before litigants is one of the best displays of this proof, or the fact that a liar may conceal his real motives in testimony. None of that is in conflict with the notion of infallibility in reporting from Allah.

Oh Allah and oh Muslims – when was a person's report as a litigant in a court of judgement concerning the ownership of agricultural land or even a camel or a donkey, a report or pronouncement from Allah via such a person? Moreover, what precisely has a litigant in court presenting his evidence before the Prophet (peace be upon him) got to do with the Prophet's receipt of revelation and conveyance from Allah? Oh Allah and oh Muslims – when was Abul-Qasim, seal of the Prophets, whose infallibility was preserved by Allah, taking reporting about Allah from one amongst the people? Even as originally presented by our questioner when he said: and that which is falsehood presented before him, why isn't many of the good things that he perceives also be considered a deception?

After this the conceited questioner said:

Know that the hadith that you mentioned to prove that the Prophet (peace be upon him) can be deceived by the lies of liars does not mean what you have understood. Nay, this is a special case specific hadith mentioned in the area of judicial ruling and is clearly known. There are clear differences between judicial ruling and informing about Allah regarding legislation or interpretation of the Qur'ān. The statement of Ibn 'Abbās is from this second type. The judge only rules with what results from proof and upon testimony, even if it were contrary to reality, for he is required to act upon what is indicated by proof and testimony. Most of the scholars assert that the judge has to rule according to the proof and testimony even if he knew by himself that the truth is contrary to what he has ruled. For more in this regard, see: Badā'i as-Sanā'i Vol. 7, p. 7; at-Tamheed Vol. 22, p. 219, Rawda at-Tālibīn Vol. 11, p. 156 and al-Mughny Vol. 9, p. 53.

In reply, I submit – mā'shā'Allah; whatever Allah wills, will undoubtedly be. What specific relationship does this originally have to the chapter of judgment or the wider topic at hand? Fundamentally, the issue is whether it is possible that the Prophet can be misled by a litigant persuasively arguing his case in a legal setting, or deliberately being misled by a litigant lying outright to pursue his case; can this happen before an infallible Prophet? Alternatively, is it impossible for this to happen to him because he is an infallible Prophet? The hadith which relate to this area of judicial ruling, makes the matter even worse, being deceived by lies or ornamented false proofs in court is much worse, given that potentially, money, reputation, and lives can be at stake.

The Prophet (peace be upon him) rendered all trusts, conveyed the message, and warned that none after him will be protected or rendered infallible against believing a deceitful litigant, one who can conceal his dishonesty and successfully present his case in court. That also would not be limited to a particular type of litigation, but rather involving all, be that in relation to money, reputation, blood or otherwise. By greater reasoning, others may be misled by litigants in court, but also by other forms of sworn testimony. A notable example which perhaps befell the great trusted Imām, Ibn ‘Abbās concerning the mythical story of al-Lāt, formerly a pious man who served Saweeq for pilgrims. If Ibn ‘Abbās were to enquire of the Arabs of his time to testify to the correctness of this myth, they may have well done so, arguing that it was heard from their forefathers. Yet what can be proven from hearing such testimony of even sworn oath or even other forms of hearsay?

As for the words of the obstinate questioner regarding what majority of scholars, as he would claim, believed in concerning the judge ruling according to proof and testimony, even if he knew that the truth was contrary to what he ruled, this has nothing to do with this subject and there is no gain out of it, notwithstanding its historical controversy. It is more likely that this opinion is wrong, notwithstanding that it would require an exhaustive study. Cases falling under the penal code generally, and especially those of adultery and reputation, are not like a dispute about the ownership of camel or a lot of land. Evidence and proof is not of the same kind or even degree. But to those who are small minded and shallow thinking, like the questioner, they would think it likely to be the case. Such discourse is typical from those who go to extremes in religion, typified by the Wahābi / Salafist sect. Instead of pursuing such line of discourse, it would have benefitted the questioner to seek detailed knowledge and ask a more meaningful question.

The ruling of a judge with his knowledge has no relationship with our subject except if that questioner claimed that the Prophet (peace be upon him) knew that the witnesses lie; if they lied and discovered their falsification but he only ruled with what is apparent and lied and deceived us by saying:

I am only mortal and litigants with cases involving disputes abandonment of the texts of the Sunnah which are not mutawātir. How then would we work with the Qur'an, only on the basis of tawātur? How is the Qur'an operationalised without the Sunnah and how would we determine the precise rulings of many chapters?

Alas, the obstinate questioner finds himself openly contradicting the Ṣahih aḥādīth, while rejecting others, with neither fear of sin or even reason to reign him in; a hallmark of his very madhab (school of thought). That madhab being like that from the Wahābi's, those that would claim they are calling to and followers of the 'Salafiyyah.' If they deny that, they have denied far worse, since they are the most obstinate of innovators. They are characterised by being extremely unprincipled and dishonest; their followers mere hooligans. Agreeing only where the Ṣahih aḥādīth are in conforming to their desires, and readings from that which are mutwātir, when they are in mood, in a manner like a hit and run. Infamous in their use of a martyrdom of words – 'all the scholars' and 'the schools of thought from the majority.' And their saying, 'the righteous predecessors' (as-Salaf aṣ-Ṣāliḥ), suddenly morphs into 'the statement of a companion is a (legal) proof'; not to mention also 'blocking the means', 'consideration of the greatest benefit/interest', as well as other forms of gibberish and nonsense.

17 Silence as a decisive proof?

As previously detailed with decisive evidences, the Prophet's (peace be upon him) infallibility (ma'soom) does not extend to the matter of being covered against a witness presenting a false testimony, or outright lying, within a court or judicial setting. Litigants who present their case in an eloquent and convincing manner before the Prophet (peace be upon him) were forewarned by him that if he rules in their favour, and they are not ultimately in the right, they will be obtaining a piece of hell-fire. Taking this matter one step further, by greater reasoning the Prophet's silence is also not covered by this infallibility, neither is the situation where he does not comment upon a matter. If he (peace be upon him) does not comment in relation to where someone attests to the truth or falsity of something, this is not a proof in itself originally and in principle.

Indeed, if someone utters words or an argument in his presence in opposition to what Allah has commanded and his reporting of the message to people, then without doubt he would be angered and deny that. He would speak against such a matter which in reality is kufr in itself, or maybe it would be excused if it was said in ignorance, or out of forgetfulness or from amongst the other impediments to takfeer; and not only because it is erroneous by its nature, but because blessings and peace be upon him, his mission was as a teacher, calling to the correct faith (al-‘Imān). He (peace be upon him) though was not a teacher of philosophy, history, or the unseen wonders of the present world, if he had come in relation to all of that. Several examples can be presented to fully detail this point, so that it may become clear as crystal to the discerning mind.

In his Sahīh, Imam Muslim records the following hadith which has a particularly strong channel of transmission:

‘Ubaidallah ibn Mu’ādh al-Anbari narrated to us my father narrated to us Shu’ba narrated to us from Sa’d ibn Ibrāhim from Mu’ammad bin Munkadir he said: I saw Jibrīl ibn Abdullāh taking an oath in the name of Allah that it was Ibn ‘Iyād was the Dajjāl. I said: Do you take an oath in the name of Allah? Thereupon he said: I heard ‘Umar taking an oath in the presence of the Messenger of Allah to this effect and he did not disapprove of it.

Similar is reported in the Sunan of Abu Dūwud;¹ Bukhārī records the same in his Sahīh, albeit via the following route, ‘Ammad bin Umayd narrated to us ‘Ubaidallah ibn Mu’ādh al-Anbari etc.,² and others have reported the same tradition in their collections.

From this hadith we learn that Jibrīl ibn Abdullāh heard Umar swear in the presence of the Prophet (peace be upon him) that Abdullāh bin ‘Iyād was the Dajjāl. The Prophet (peace be upon him) did not disapprove of the statement which Umar made. So Jibrīl thought that this is from the genus of approvals, by the fact that it was an ‘act’ done in the presence of the Prophet. Similar is reported from Abdullāh ibn Mas’ud, Abu Sa’eed al-Khudri as well as from others from amongst the Sahābah (may Allah be pleased with them all). It is unfortunate that this error in understanding was bequeathed from some of the Sahābah to the Tābi’een and so on and so forth, to the extent that it continues to bedevil scholars to this day. As a result, such an understanding can in turn lead to other problems in understanding textual evidences and this specific mistake can lead to fundamental contradictions.

² Sahīh Bukhārī Vol. 6 sec. 2,677, no. 6,922

Indeed, one may make the following deduction given the report at the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him), despite the false excuses that they sought to marshal. They asked him to pray for forgiveness for this while some of them knowingly lied and some had even doubted the truth of his message. What the Prophet (peace be upon him) said to one from amongst them to his face, that he had lied.

He was not ordered to dwell into the underlying motivations of people, or to try and open their chests to explore the state of their hearts, nor was he authorised to spy on them; because he (peace be upon him) was a created mortal. He did not have knowledge of matters unseen, bar that which Allah showed to him. Even in that, it was related to the requirement of conveying the message or as a blessing from Allah for him and his Ummah. This, by the praise of Allah is clearly demonstrated as follows from the hadith that has reached us from Abu Namla (may Allah be pleased with him), recorded in the Sahīh of Ibn Ibb n:

: : : : :

Ibn Qutayba reported to us he said armala narrated to us he said Ibn Wahb narrated to us he said Yunus reported to us from Ibn Shih b that Namla bin Abi Namla al-An ri narrated to him that Abu Namla reported to him that while he sat in the presence of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) a Jew was also with him, a funeral passed by him. He (the Jew) asked (Him): Mu ammad, does this funeral speak? The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Allah has more knowledge. The Jew said: I witness that it speaks. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Whatever the people of the Book tell you, do not verify it, nor claim it to be false, but say - we believe in Allah and His Messenger. If it is false, do not confirm it, and if it is right, do not falsify it. And he said: Allah destroy the Jews; indeed, they were given knowledge.

Shaykh Shu'ayb al-Arn 'u said the isnād is strong; the tradition is authentic, Sahīh, particularly when considering the number of routes from which it has been reported, which is quite wide and appears in several collections.⁴ Furthermore, in relation to this story, it has also been reported from 'A mir bin Rabi'ah (may Allah be pleased with him). Al- kim has this in the Mustadrak:

! : : : :

Abu'l Fa al al-Faqihi reported it to us Uthm n bin Sa'eed ad-D rimi narrated to us Abdullah bin Abdal-Jabb r reported to us in im al- rith bin Ubaida narrated to us az-Zuhri narrated to us from S lim from his father from 'A mir bin Rabi'ah he said – was with the Prophet (peace be upon him) – We were with the Prophet (peace be upon him) and a funeral was passing by. A man from amongst the Jews said – O Mu ammad! This funeral (bier) speaks? The Prophet (peace be upon him) remained silent. The Jew further said: I testify that it speaks!

⁴ For example, as found in: Sunan Abu D wud (Vol. 3 sec. 318, no. 3,644), Musnad A mad (Vol. 4 sec. 136, no. 17,264), Al-Āḥād wal-Mathāni of Ibn Abi 'A im ash-Shayb ni [Vol. 4 sec. 142, no. 2,121], Muṣṭanaf Abdar-Razz q [Vol. 6 sec. 111, no. 10,160], Mu'jam al-Kabir of abar ni [Vol. 22 sec. 350, no. 874/879], and Sunan al-Kubra of Im m Bayhaqy [Vol. 2 sec. 10, no. 2,071].

So, the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: If the people of the book narrate to you information then you should say, we believe in Allah, his angels, books and messengers.

After recording this tradition Al-^ع kim said:

This hadith is known with al-^ع rith bin ‘Ubaid ar-Rahwy from az-Zuhri and we wrote it in other copies from Yunus bin Yazeed from az-Zuhri – Abul’Qasim Abdullah ibn Muhammad narrated to us in Nisapur, al-Qasim bin Abdullah bin Mahdi narrated to us my uncle narrated to us a man narrated to us (his name is al-Qasim bin Mabrur) Zayd bin Yunus narrated to us from Yazeed from az-Zuhri he said Salmah said indeed Abdullah bin Umar said – when I put the Janāzah, Rifi’ bin Khadeej mentioned the hadith.

I would submit that al-^ع rith bin ‘Ubaid ar-Rahwy is not strong as a narrator and in the isnād it is regarded as having a lacuna (saqt), because the isnād which we have from ^عabar ni in Musnad Shāmiyān has the following text:

Uthmān bin Khālid bin ‘Amr as-Salafi narrated to us Abdal-Jabbār al-Khabirī narrated to us al-^ع rith bin Ubāida narrated to us Baqiyya bin al-Waleed narrated to us from az-Zubaydi from az-Zuhri from Salmah bin ‘Amr from ‘Ammar bin Rabi’ah and mentioned it.

And also, the isnād which is contained in Ma’rifat as-Sahābah by Abu Nu’aym al-Abari:

Abu Isāq bin Amza narrated to us Amad bin Khalid bin ‘Amr as-Salafi narrated to us his father narrated to us al-^ع rith bin Ubāid narrated to us az-Zubaydi narrated to me from az-Zuhri from Salmah bin Abdullah from his father from ‘Ammar bin Rabi’ah.

So here from these narrations we have the final Prophet of Allah refraining from commenting upon that which was spoken by a Jew in relation to the funeral bier. He did not affirm what was said as truth or claim that it was a lie, stating only that Allah knows best. This was also a guideline provided for the correct approach to be taken, which no Muslim with intellect or any others can ignore – ‘do not verify it, nor claim it to be false, but say in reply, we believe in Allah, his angels, his books and his messengers; if it is false, do not confirm it, and if it is right, do not falsify it’; with a confirmation that they had been given knowledge and an affirmation as such with the exclamation made – ‘Allah destroy the Jews, indeed they were given knowledge.’

18 The ‘Dhikr’ also encompasses the Sunnah

Earlier we detailed the proofs relating to the word the ‘al-Dhikr al-Munazil’, the ‘revealed reminder’ or the ‘sent-down reminder’, that it relates to the totality of the sent-down revelation. The totality of this revelation covers both the glorious Qur’ān as well as the Prophetic Sunnah. Furthermore, the claim that the Dhikr only relates to the glorious Qur’ān is an erroneous claim for it is a mere assertion without either a substantive basis or a sound reading of the texts of revelation. Hence it does not lend itself to being an established proof. Yet the real proof establishes other than this, particularly since ‘the wisdom’, al-Hikmah is another revealed or sent-down book of revelation, as detailed previously with evidences based upon certainty. All of this is summed up in the verse where the exalted and glorious says:

....and We have revealed to you the Dhikr that you may make clear to men what has been revealed to them, and that haply they may reflect.¹

The meaning becomes even clearer when this verse is read in tandem with the following:

إِنَّ عَلَيْنَا جَمْعُهُ وَقُرْآنُهُ، فَإِذَا قَرَأْنَاهُ فَاتَّبِعْ قُرْآنَهُ، ثُمَّ إِنَّ عَلَيْنَا بَيَانَهُ

Surely on Us (devolves) the collecting of it and the reciting of it. Therefore, when We have recited it, follow its recitation. Thereafter upon Us (devolves) the explaining of it.²

It is important to identify the exact meaning of ‘al-Dhikr al-Munazil’ in order to accurately determine its nature and precise import. The first verse is definitive proof that there are two distinct ‘sent-down’ revelations.

- The first revelation relates to an earlier period; what has already been sent-down to the general people. It is in the hands of the people, regardless of how they obtained it.
- The second revelation relates to a later time and is so named, al-Dhikr. This is the sent-down or revealed reminder (al-Dhikr al-Munazil). Moreover, it is that which is specifically revealed to the final Messenger of Allah from the beginning and not to the general public; It doesn’t appear before the people except by way of the conduit, i.e. the Prophet (peace be upon him). It is performed or taken up by the general public thereafter. Based upon this, the Dhikr is protected and infallible (ma’soom). The Prophet (peace be upon him) undertakes the function of illustrating and explaining the Dhikr which has been revealed and sent-down. By itself, the Dhikr is not a bayān (proclamation), rather it is the ‘raw material' which the Messenger uses to undertake the function of illustration and explanation.

But what is meant by the Tanzeel that was formerly sent, described as 'that which was previously revealed to people generally'? What is its precise reality? Indeed, the phrase 'that which was previously revealed to people generally' can be sub-divided or categorised as follows:

- As an infallible, protected revelation from Allah.
- Clarification and illustration is required, either for some, or all of it.
- One of the important functions of this revealed sent-down Dhikr is that it is the second subsequent revelation. It is the 'raw material' which is based upon the Prophet (peace be upon him) in which the clarification is provided. Therefore the first revelation, 'that which was previously revealed to people generally', this may be the Dhikr al-Munazil, having other functions also. In speech it is not regarded as a form of restriction (seeghat-hasr) or what can be construed as such.

The minimum which can be said to explain the phrase which appears in the verse 'make clear to men what has been revealed to them,' is that it seems relates to the glorious Qur' n. By necessity this is what one would assume. Upon first sight, this would appear to be the apparent or literal meaning of the verse. Also because it is primarily intended, it is usually association with the word Tanzeel (revealed) and its associated derivatives. It is also the revealed word and its characteristic. People received this revelation directly from the lips of the Prophet (peace be upon him) by his recitation and expressed in his precise delivery. It is as if he revealed it to them directly and without an intermediary. Or that it is as if it was revealed as written on parchment or engraved in tablets. Therefore there is merit that he said 'revealed to them' as in the verse, unlike the Dhikr which was specifically revealed unto the Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him). Hence the Prophet elicits the bayān or explanation for this, which is making it clear to the people. Had the Prophet not undertaken the explanation of the Dhikr Munazil raw material, when people know the existence of this Dhikr Munzail originally and have witnessed all of it. If so and based upon this minimum approach, there is no doubt then that the great book, or with its precise wording some of which is the glorious Qur' n is required for explanation or elucidation (bayān). This is a constant, not only in this verse, but also by necessity with the statement of the almighty where he has mentioned:

إِنَّ عَلَيْنَا جَمْعُهُ وَقُرْآنَهُ، فَإِذَا قَرَأْنَاهُ فَاتَّبِعْ قُرْآنَهُ، ثُمَّ إِنَّ عَلَيْنَا بَيَانَهُ

Surely on Us (devolves) the collecting of it and the reciting of it. Therefore when We have recited it, follow its recitation. Thereafter upon Us (devolves) the explaining of it.³

The blessed verse is talking exclusively about the glorious Qur' n and nothing but the Qur' n as the usage of the word recital (qur'ānah) beyond doubt proves. The verse is a testimony that Allah has taken it upon himself to conduct the bayān of the Qur' n as and where required or needed. However the explanation is usually after a period of time, as is signified by the word 'thereafter' in the verse: 'Thereafter upon Us (devolves) the explaining of it'. But this explanation is not delayed for the time when it is needed. Otherwise the meaning here would be lost and the promise that Allah has taken upon himself to provided the explanation would be void, and Allah does not state a promise he doesn't keep.

وَالَّذِينَ فِي أُمُوْلِهِمْ حَقٌّ مَعْلُومٌ، لِلسَّائِلِ وَالْمَحْرُومِ

And those in whose wealth there is a fixed portion. For him who begs and for him who is denied.⁴

There is an obligation to spend from fixed earned wealth, and Allah has also said:

وَهُوَ الَّذِي أَنْشَأَ جَنَّاتٍ مَعْرُوشَاتٍ وَغَيْرِ مَعْرُوشَاتٍ وَالنَّخْلَ وَالزَّرْعَ مُخْتَلِفًا أَكْلُهُ وَالزَّيْنُونَ وَالرُّمَانَ مُسْتَنْبِطًا وَغَيْرِ مُسْتَنْبِطًا كُلُّوا مِنْ ثُمَرِهِ إِذَا أَثْرَ وَأَتُوا حَقَّهُ يَوْمَ حَصَادِهِ وَلَا تُسْرِفُوا إِنَّهُ لَا يُحِبُّ الْمُسْرِفِينَ

And He it is who produces gardens (of vine), trellised and untrellised, and palms and seed-produce of which the fruits are of various sorts, and olives and pomegranates, like and unlike; eat of its fruit when it bears fruit, and pay the due of it on the day of its reaping, and do not act extravagantly; surely He does not love the extravagant.⁵

Whilst we can see from the verse that a due must be paid on such produce, the verse doesn't specify exactly when this is to be taken; is it immediately at harvest or is the harvest referred to a daily matter? By greater reasoning, we don't know of the timing and amount which must be levied in relation to funds mentioned for zakāt - all of which is not specified in this particular verse, but requires other explanations and clarification to be given. Allah has also said:

إِنَّمَا الصَّدَقَاتُ لِلْفَقَرَاءِ وَالْمَسَاكِينِ وَالْعَالَمِينَ عَلَيْهَا وَالْمُؤْلَفَةُ قُلُوبُهُمْ وَفِي الرِّقَابِ وَالْغَارِمِينَ وَفِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ وَابْنِ السَّبِيلِ فَرِيضَةٌ مِنَ اللَّهِ وَاللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ حَكِيمٌ

Alms are only for the poor and the needy, and the officials (appointed) over them, and those whose hearts are made to incline (to truth) and the (ransoming of) captives and those in debts and in the way of Allah and the wayfarer; an ordinance from Allah; and Allah is knowing, wise.⁶

We know the classification given by the verse of the categories upon which charity is to be given to from this verse. But we do not know how to distribute them, nor do we know who precisely is to execute this, is it only individuals who are tasked with this? Or is to be done by the state? There is no further verse providing explanation in relation to this contained within the Qur'anic text. Thus by necessity the explanation must come by way of the Prophetic Sunnah. Otherwise, the report where Allah says: 'and We have revealed to you the Dhikr that you may make clear to men what has been revealed to them, and that haply they may reflect,' would in effect be false and his promise - 'Thereafter upon Us (devolves) the explaining of it,' would be void. Yet Allah is far above anything related to lying or providing a false promise.

Allah has ensured that an explanation and clarification is sent-down for the Qur'an after its collection and recitation, when there is a need for such. The word 'thereafter' or 'then' is used in the arrangement of the verse to show this, that the explanation is devolved upon Allah. Moreover, it is necessarily known from history that the Qur'an was sent-down incrementally and followed by the Prophet (peace be upon him). This enabled for it to be memorised, committed to writing and for it to be established with decisive certitude. But it also enables greater clarification of processes that are detailed and need time to set out properly, an obvious example, being that of the ritual observance of prayer (salāh). All these characteristics which exist for the text of the Qur'an is in essence contrasted to the characteristics which accompanied the revealed sent-down Dhikr.

which was revealed to Mu ammad, which was to be the ‘raw material’ that was utilised in relation to the bayān. The two are radically different in that given respect.

1. The majestic Qur’ n requires explanation and clarification, which is usually done where required, as previously stated. But al-Dhikr al-Munazil, it is the raw material sent down upon the Prophet to provide explanation and clarification accompanying that of the Qur’ nic text where necessary and required.
2. The text of the Qur’ n is general revelation direct to mankind so to speak. Indeed it firstly descended upon the Prophet. Thereafter, he expounds that to the people. However the role of the Prophet in the first instance is to pronounce and expound this recitation only. It is then recorded and written down by the people. Yet the al-Dhikr al-Munazil is essentially different in respect of the fact that this is the ‘raw material’ which underpins and informs the Prophetic bayān or explanation via his actions, speech and approvals.

Consequently this is the fundamental difference which distinguishes al-Dhikr al-Munazil to be a raw material that underpins the Prophetic explanation and exposition. Indeed, it is qualitatively different from the text of the glorious Qur’ n and distinguished from it in these very respects.

But al-Dhikr al-Munazil is also another type, from the sent-down revelation emanating from Allah and nothing originally that is rightly to be placed as revelation to be sent down specifically upon the Prophet. Then the people take the explanation regarding it from him, by his statements, acts and approvals, that is the noble Prophetic Sunnah, or to be more precise with wording, the Prophetic Sunnah is a type or kind of explanation (bayān) which comes from the texts of the Qur’ n, which is needed to explain or exemplify it. But the truth is that all of the Prophetic Sunnah is but a bayān with the text of the Qur’ n, because the explanation is not only to specify the general, as well as the absolute and restricted, as well as seeking to provide detailed ruling upon certain areas. No doubt this totally escapes the dysfunctional minds from amongst the Qur’ nists. Yet it is much broader than this, encompassing the Tafsir of it altogether as well; its explanation (bayān) and interpretation. Every Sunnah is but the Tafsir which is being made by Allah, blessed be his names, like where he says in the following Qur’ nic verses:

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا أطِيعُوا اللَّهَ وَأطِيعُوا الرَّسُولَ وَأُولَئِكُمْ مَنْ كُنْتُمْ تَنَازَّعُونَ فِي شَيْءٍ فَرِدُوا إِلَى اللَّهِ وَالرَّسُولِ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ تُؤْمِنُونَ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ ذَلِكَ خَيْرٌ وَأَحْسَنُ تَأْوِيلًا

O you who believe! Obey Allah and obey the Messenger and those in authority among you; if you differ on anything, refer it to Allah and the Messenger, if you believe in Allah and the last day; this is better and very good in the end.⁷

مَا أَفَاءَ اللَّهُ عَلَى رَسُولِهِ مِنْ أَهْلِ الْقُرْبَى فَلَهُ وَلِلرَّسُولِ وَلِذِي الْقُرْبَى وَالْيَتَامَى وَالْمَسَاكِينِ وَابْنِ السَّبِيلِ كُنْ لَا يَكُونُ دُولَةً بَيْنَ الْأَغْنِيَاءِ مِنْكُمْ وَمَا أَتَاكُمُ الرَّسُولُ فَخُذُوهُ وَمَا نَهَاكُمْ عَنْهُ فَانْتَهُوا وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ إِنَّ اللَّهَ شَدِيدُ الْعِقَابِ

Whatever Allah has restored to His Messenger from the people of the towns, it is for Allah and for the Messenger, and for the near of kin and the orphans and the needy and the wayfarer, so that it may not be a thing taken by turns among the rich of you, and whatever the Messenger gives you, accept it, and from whatever he forbids you, keep back, and be careful of (your duty to) Allah; surely Allah is severe in retributing (evil).⁸

وَأَكْتُبْ لَنَا فِي هَذِهِ الدُّنْيَا حَسَنَةً وَفِي الْآخِرَةِ إِنَّا هُدْنَا إِلَيْكَ قَالَ عَذَابِي أُصِيبُ بِهِ مَنْ أَشَاءَ

And ordain for us good in this world's life and in the hereafter, for surely we turn to Thee. He said: (As for) My chastisement, I will afflict with it whom I please, and My mercy encompasses all things; so I will ordain it (specially) for those who guard (against evil) and pay the poor-rate, and those who believe in Our communications.

Those who follow the Messenger-Prophet, the Ummi, whom they find written down with them in the Torah and the Bible (who) enjoins them good and forbids them evil, and makes lawful to them the good things and makes unlawful to them impure things, and removes from them their burden and the shackles which were upon them; so those who believe in him and honour him and help him, and follow the light which has been sent down with him, these it is that are the successful.

Say: O people! Surely I am the Messenger of Allah to you all, of Him Whose is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth there is no god but He; He brings to life and causes to die therefore believe in Allah and His apostle, the Ummi Prophet who believes in Allah and His words, and follow him so that you may walk in the right way.⁹

But the text of the Qur'an upon that great Qur'an is mentioned as well and it is called 'al-Dhikr al-Hakeem.' Other types of revelation are also described as Dhikr. For that reason the wording must be al-Dhikr al-Munazil or al-Dhikr, in place of the wording about the general revelation without specifying the explanation or other than it. A comprehensive or compendium of revelation, and more specifically, the Qur'an and Sunnah; it is not possible that the Dhikr can only be the Qur'an; it must also include revelation other than the Qur'an, as we have previously demonstrated. If it is decisively proved that the Dhikr which is sent-down and revealed is not solely the Qur'an, but it is the Qur'an and Sunnah or to be more accurate with wording: the Qur'an and some Sunnah. But if it was some of the Sunnah that is mentioned therefore all of it is from the Dhikr necessarily, because all of it is an infallible revelation. It is one class, having a single rank in terms of its authenticity and binding status.

But to say the minimum that can be imagined for this - 'that which was previously revealed to people generally,' as already mentioned, because the phrase with 'what was revealed to them' already holds the meaning of all the revelation that was sent down until that particular moment or juncture. It is with that which the explanation is lacking. This original revelation if it is by necessity either of the following:

1. Anything from the glorious Qur'an to get its explanation and has certainly come for a time and to expound upon it, as already outlined.
2. A previous hikmah and Sunan, although still lacking explanation or further explanation. It came for its time and it is with that, the people received it. Thus it is preserved, studied and remembered. Reconciled that said about it, that it is from what is revealed to them, because it has reached them and it is in reality held by them.

It must therefore be a Prophetic explanation for which this relates to, i.e. 'that which was previously revealed to people generally,' in other words, a new revelation to join that which was already revealed previously. There is no essential difference between the Qur'ān or the Sunnah, all of it is a complete self-contained revelation. So, it becomes a complete explanation or exposition. It does not need a new revelation to provide explanation for any part of it. It was completed in full prior to the death of the seal of the Prophets of Allah (peace be upon him), and indeed, all thanks and praise are due to Allah for this.

The Prophetic explanation (bayān) is by necessity comprised of the following:

1. The statements of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and arising from them, his gestures
2. His acts
3. What he approves

All of that comprises the Prophetic Sunnah and nothing less or even above and beyond that. The Prophetic Sunnah is from the revealed Dhikr by necessity. Therefore by any detailed account or hypotheses the revealed sent-down Dhikr (al-Dhikr al-Munazil) is indeed inclusive of the entire Qur'ān and the Sunnah by necessity. It is not possible that it is anything less or even more than that, because the sent-down revelation is only but these two. It must therefore be al-Dhikr al-Munazil and it is precisely the entire revelation, which is the Qur'ān and the Sunnah only and nothing other than it.

Hence the wording al-Dhikr al-Munazil, is what has been elucidated and should be understood and known as such when referring to what has been revealed or revelation. Inevitably such revelation is inclusive of the Sunnah, thus the truth of our manifest statement regarding our statement that the Sunnah is the expounder of the Qur'ān. And we also say that the Qur'ān and Sunnah complement and provide clarification upon each other. We would also submit that al-Dhikr al-Munazil which is the Qur'ān and Sunnah provide that complementary clarification upon each other's contents. It is a sufficient explanation and proclamation which establishes the proof of Allah upon his servants, all the way to the day of judgement. That is the truth of the matter; one entails the other by necessity.

Indeed some of the claims which are made from those who are called the 'Qur'ānists' are that the explanation would only be a new

So Allah the exalted may ensure if the genus of explanation is comprehensive for each of its components that can be imagined from it:

- a. From the text other than the Qur'ān, this can be expounded at a later date. This explanation is a necessary duty for Deen would be incomplete without it.
- b. Or from other revelation, its translation by the Prophet to flesh out this explanation by his actions, statements (and from that his gestures), and his approvals. What this is, is none other than the noble Prophetic Sunnah, which are the actions, statements, gestures and approvals and of the Prophet. By necessity this is a necessary explanation which Deen cannot be considered complete without.
- c. Or even what may emerge in the future, be that from scientific or engineering discoveries, or even from discoveries in archaeology. From all of that, a new explanation may indeed be made to that existing from some of the Qur'ān. By way of a brief example of this can be seen from the statement of Allah where he said: He created mankind from a clot ('alaq).¹¹ As is understood from classical Arabic which the Qur'ān was revealed in, this denotes that mankind was created from nothing or from something which 'clings'. The extent of which the earlier commentators of the Qur'ān could present was that this is similar in some manner to a leech like substance that clings. Yet with the advent of modern scientific techniques, it has provided a further exemplification of the verse, showing that this clinging substance relates to the initial stage of the embryo which clings inside the womb. Without doubt given the advances in the medical sciences, these have provided a verification and fuller explanation of precisely what the verse in question was saying.

The third type of explanation is indeed a bayān, except that it is not considered to be from revelation in itself or the sent-down revealed Dhikr. It is one of thus additional desirable explanations, which not only can provide some additional details of clarification, but also acts as additional proof establishing that the revelation is ultimately from

'Say: bring your proof if you are truthful.'¹³ So the sent-down revealed Dhikr is by necessity of perception and reason and by the witnessing of the Qur'an itself, to include both the Qur'an and the Sunnah with no other addition or subtraction. And we have seen as mentioned earlier that:

1. The infallible revelation is not only the Qur'an; the Sunnah is an infallible revelation also. Alternatively, with a more precise and accurate wording: that the Prophetic Sunnah is not with its specific wording revelation from Allah but that it is a formulation and expression of an infallible Prophetic revelation which came from Allah.
2. And that the sent-down revealed Dhikr is not only the Qur'an, but rather it is the Qur'an and the Sunnah, with the Sunnah being the explainer or expounder of the Qur'an. That is borne out and confirmed by a great number of texts which also establish the proof of the Prophetic Sunnah itself.

What we have mentioned regarding this established proof is not new, except that we have sought to delineate it more precisely, separating out each of the individual points which make up the subject and absorbing what the earlier scholars said regarding this. They had touched upon this, realising it instinctively and witnessed that there was a consensus upon this matter. As it has been presented in the seminal work of the grand Imam and pillar of knowledge, Abu Muhammad Ali Ibn azm, al-Ihkām fi Uṣul al-Aḥkām (Judgement on the Principles of Law):

Ali said: and this is where we take inshā'Allah in the import of proofs upon that relating to khabar al-wāhid, it's rightness and

(that it is) uninterrupted to the Messenger (peace be upon him) in Aḥkām Shari'ah. It engenders knowledge and there shall be no illusion or lie in it. Hence we say, and with Allah the majestic is all success, Allah exalted and majestic said about his Prophet (peace be upon him) '....nor does he speak out of his own desire. It is but revelation that is revealed to him.'¹⁴ And the almighty commanded to His Prophet (peace be upon him) to say: 'Say: I am not the first of the messengers, and I do not know what will be done with me or with you; I do not follow anything but that which is revealed to me, and I am nothing but a plain warner.'¹⁵ And he the almighty said: 'Surely We have revealed the Dhikr and We will most surely be its guardian.'¹⁶ And he (also) said: 'With clear arguments and scriptures and we have revealed to you the Dhikr that you may make clear to men what has been revealed to them and that haply they may reflect.'¹⁷ Thus it is true that the speech of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him), all of it in relation to Deen is revelation emanating from Allah the exalted. No doubt exists in relation to that and no disagreement raised by anyone from the people of language and Shari'ah, that all of it is revealed that has been revealed from Allah the exalted and it is the revealed sent-down Dhikr. The entire revelation, all of it is protected (mahfouz) by Allah; he has protected this with certainty.

Allah ensures the preservation of its contents. Nothing has been neglected from it, nor has anything been ever distorted from it and neither is the accompanying explanation of it invalid. It is not possible that the speech of Allah can be a falsity and it is a specific guarantee to the discerning mind, that which came to us by Muhammad (peace be upon him) is protected; Allah has undertaken to preserve it and its conveyance, all of it that he has ensured until the end of the world. And the exalted said: 'Say: What thing is the weightiest in testimony? Say: Allah is witness between you and me; and

¹⁵ Qur'an 46: 9

¹⁶ Qur'an 15: 9

¹⁷ Qur'an 16: 44

*this Qur'ān has been revealed to me that with it I may warn you and whomsoever it reaches. Do you really bear witness that there are other gods with Allah? Say: I do not bear witness. Say: He is only one Allah, and surely I am clear of that which you set up (with Him).*¹⁸ Therefore, since it also by necessity that we know that there is no issue concerning the loss of something that the Messenger (peace be upon him) said in Deen. There is no way at all that it is mixed up with that which is bātil or fabricated, this is not put forth by anyone amongst the people, with certainty.

And if it were possible that the Dhikr was not protected, then the statement of Allah where he says - ‘Surely We have revealed the Dhikr and We will most surely be its guardian,’¹⁹ would be an untruth and this cannot be said by a Muslim. He who would utter a saying, (is alleging) that the almighty alone preserved the Qur’ān but not other revelation which is not the Qur’ān. We say he has, and with Allah is all success, made a false assertion without proof to seek to specify the Dhikr without requisite evidence; thus it is bātil and devoid of meaning and the almighty says: *And they say: 'None shall enter the garden (or paradise) except he who is a Jew or a Christian. These are their vain desires. Say: Bring your proof if you are truthful.'*²⁰ Indeed the truth that he has no proof upon such a call, and there is no truth in it. The Dhikr, its name in reality is upon all what Allah revealed unto his Prophet (peace be upon him), from the Qur’ān or from the Sunnah, as it is shown by the Qur’ān. Also as Allah says: ‘With clear arguments and scriptures and we have revealed to you the Dhikr that you may make clear to men what has been revealed to them and that haply they may reflect.’²¹ The truth that he (peace be upon him) was one who was put in charge with the explanation of the Qur’ān to the people. And the ambivalent (mujmal) in the Qur’ān are many, like the salāh, zakāt, the hajj and other than it. We don’t know what Allah

¹⁹ Qur’ān 15: 9

²⁰ Qur’ān 2: 111

prescribed in it with wording, except with the explanation as given by the Prophet (peace be upon him).

So, when was his explanation (peace be upon him) altogether for that reason, not mahfouz and not guaranteed? There is nothing from him, nor is there anything beneficial which has been lost from the text of the Qur’ān, so it invalidates the view that many of the laws that are supposed to be incumbent upon us within it are absent. So if no wonder Allah intended from it to be authentic, what mistake is found therein or a lie or even deliberate falsehood; and Allah forbid this. Thus, if we did not know that which was intended by Allah the almighty from it to be Sahīh (authentic), what mistake is found therein or the intentional lie of the liar - and Allah is distant from this. Also, we would say to whoever said that the khabar al-wāhid (single-narrator report) of the just upright ('adl) narrator conveying from its like unto the Prophet (peace be upon him), does not obligate knowledge, given that its content may not have been accurately memorised and may contain within it a lie or an illusion; inform us then: is it possible that a Shari'ah obligation (fard) or prohibition (tahreem) brought by the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him (and he died and these rules still remain necessary by the Muslims; they were never abrogated and after all that) became unknown with certain knowledge to any Muslim from the people of Islam globally ever?

Moreover, according to your imagination, is it possible that a lie, fabrication or an illusion may have been overlooked and has been mixed up with the Aḥkām Shari'ah and this mixture is so perfect that not one of the Muslims in the whole world can recognise it? Or you don’t have any of these faces (outlooks) to (lay) claim (to)? If they say, the two claims can never be aligned, but we already believe in that, then they have arrived at what we have said and been cut-off; namely, that every khabr (report) narrated by the trustworthy narrator (thiqā) from another of its like and connected (musnad) to the Messenger of Allah, peace be upon him in the matter of religion, indeed it is truth. He peace be upon him said it as it is and that it is obliged to (accept) knowledge that we extract by way of that which is authentic. And it is not permissible to mix up with it the fabricated report (khabr mawdu') or that which is illusory, because the Messenger peace be upon him did not say that, such that the truth cannot be properly distinguished from falsehood ever.

Indeed, if they say all of this is quite possible, they would have judged that the Deen, all of the Deen of Islam, to have been corrupted and invalidated. The orders of Allah the almighty would be mixed, that which he ordered and that which he didn't, not ever distinguishing anything of it. They would never know what is the difference between the matters that Allah ordered them with and that which he didn't order them to do. Moreover, they wouldn't know the difference between what was brought by the Messenger peace be upon him and that which was interpolated by imposters and liars, except by way of doubt, guesswork of those who would lie in the hadith, and no harmony from the truth ever. This is secession from Islam, questioning of its laws and destruction of the Deen.

One can clearly discern from the many words as cited here from Im m Abu Mu ammad Ali ibn azm, may Allah have mercy upon him, it is only in regard to the proven established Sunnah which is from amongst the proofs upon which that of the single narrator report – al-khabar al-ahad is built. The Sunnah is by itself revelation and all of the revelation constitutes the revealed Dhikr; it is from the axioms which all the people of language and Shari'ah concur upon. Let us now turn to the issue concerning the protection of the Dhikr, by the blessing of Allah.

19 The ‘Dhikr’: Qur’ān & Sunnah are protected

Previously we had mentioned that the Qur’ān is the revealed word of Allah; sent-down upon Mu ammad (peace be upon him) word-by-word, as it is written in the maṣāḥif and preserved in the breasts of mankind; orally recited, recorded upon tapes and by other means of preservation which are now presently ava mar-3(v)11(i)-4(ous 32. a by)224(l)-4(y) be upon him) brought forth the Qur'an, those who disbelieve in Islam still remain in doubt over whether it ultimately originated with Allah as a whole and what is contained between its covers. It seems they have not seriously pondered over this aspect, considering the knowledge contained therein and that it is free of contradiction, originating from Allah, as he says:

أَفَلَا يَتَدَبَّرُونَ الْقُرْآنَ وَلَوْ كَانَ مِنْ عِنْدٍ غَيْرِ اللَّهِ لَوْجَدُوا فِيهِ اخْتِلَافًا كَثِيرًا

Do they not then ponder on the Qur'an? And if it were from any other than Allah, they would have found in it many a discrepancy.¹

Moreover, if detractors were serious about seeking to mount a challenge to the veracity of the Qur'an, they would have readily taken on its open challenge:

فَلْيَأْتُوا بِحَدِيثٍ مِثْلَهِ إِنْ كَانُوا صَادِقِينَ

Then let them bring an announcement like it if they are truthful!²

وَإِنْ كُنْتُمْ فِي رَيْبٍ مِمَّا نَزَّلْنَا عَلَى عَبْدِنَا فَأْتُوا بِسُورَةٍ مِنْ مِثْلِهِ وَادْعُوا شُهَدَاءَكُمْ مِنْ دُونِ اللَّهِ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ صَادِقِينَ

And if you are in doubt as to that which We have revealed to Our servant, then produce a chapter like it and call on your witnesses besides Allah if you are truthful.³

Given that all have failed to take up this serious challenge, notwithstanding the warning contained from Allah in these verses, we know with certitude that those seeking to challenge the Qur'an's veracity are stubborn, obstinate liars. They have lost objective insight, being blinded by tribalism, partisanship, racism, nationalism, the following of their forbearers; besotted with the love of the world, as well as other desires and interests. Or is it borne of laziness, trading the hereafter for the life of the present? Contained within the present work we have sought to document many of the Prophetic signs and proofs, which are indeed full of guidance and light for mankind. These prophecies establish the truth as brought by Mu ammad ibn Abdullah al-H shimi the unlettered Arab, may the blessings of Allah be showered upon him. A separate chapter has been prepared within this book to detail such proofs establishing that the Mu ammad is the messenger of Allah.

The truth is that the entirety of the Qur'an, all that which is contained therein between its two covers, is with certitude the word of Allah. It is also an established truth that Allah has guaranteed to preserve the entire great book, the Dhikr. He has said, blessed be his names:

إِنَّا نَحْنُ نَزَّلْنَا الْذِكْرَ وَإِنَّا لَهُ لَحَافِظُونَ

Indeed, We have revealed the dhikr and We will surely be its guardian.⁴

Within the Arabic language this is the highest form of confirmation. As for the text of the Qur'an, namely that which we presently possess in our hands and all its contents, and in addition to the aforementioned verse which mentions the word hifz (to preserve, protect, guard) it is decisively proven rationally with substantive evidence that it has reached us by continuous recurrent transmission (tawatur) in its entirety. That is to say, word by word, letter by letter, consonant by consonant. This phenomenon is a matter of decisive certain knowledge, by necessity, that the transmission of the Qur'an was directly from Mu'ammar (peace be upon him) historically, regardless of whether one believes it to ultimately originate with Allah or not. This, the verse of al-Hifz, as previously mentioned, which not only encapsulates the speech of Mu'ammar it is also from Allah and we believe and bear witness that it originates from Allah. Given that there is unequivocal decisive evidence which substantiates the Prophethood of Mu'ammar (peace be upon him), the final seal of all Prophets and Messengers. More upon that very point will be detail later in this present work when considering the proofs of Tawheed.

All but a glimpse of this has been outlined thus far, for it will be spelled out in exhaustive detail later in the present work. Suffice is to say here that by necessity we affirm that the entire Qur'anic text is preserved and protected (mahfouz); not merely some of the text but the text in its entirety. There is no missing section, nor are there any missing verses, words, characters or consonants. Allah has declared by his express statement that he promises to preserve it. For anyone to claim that Allah does not keep his promise or that he has lied in this instance is making a statement of great magnitude which ultimately crumbles to dust.

Yet the matter doesn't end here with the verse of al-Hifz, because Allah has said that he has guaranteed to protect 'al-Dhikr', namely the Dhikr in its entirety. The present work has exhaustively set out the decisive proofs which underpin that, namely that it is the entirety of the Qur'an by itself and that the noble Prophetic Sunnah is in fact a division from amongst the divisions of the Dhikr. The Sunnah is revelation and a proof just as the Qur'an is. Indeed, the Sunnah is more voluminous than the Qur'an, carrying greater clarification and explanation, being a testimony in itself, as we have previously outlined. Foremost the Qur'an is the established proof of the Dhikr and it is an undeniable proof; a testimony to itself. However, it does require detailed explanation and clarification (bayān), again, as we have detailed previously.

By necessity and induction, we know that the noble Prophetic Sunnah is testified to by the Qur'an itself and it provides a greater detailed exposition of many rulings as well as providing specification upon matters which are general, absolute and qualified. If all of this is in fact the case, and with certitude it is, one may legitimately inquire, what is the point of only having the idea of preservation applying solely to the Qur'an? Should it not also apply in principle to the Sunnah? For the Sunnah is the ḥikmah and as a whole, is considered from the protected Dhikr as well. One of the key essential points to reiterate is that the Sunnah is itself revelation (wahy) just as the Qur'an is. Given that they are emanating from Allah and carry the designation of wahy, why would one be preserved and not the other? Allah has provided this protection and preservation to both, not only as a blessing and from his grace, but also to serve as a proof upon his servants.

There is a portion of the noble Prophetic Sunnah which is mutawātir thereby establishing itself with certitude. Although the vast majority of it is textually conveyed by the single-narrator report or transmission (khabar al-wāhid), which by itself doesn't reach the level of certitude in terms of transmission. As for the books of Seerah (biography) they contain many reports which are attributed to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and may not always be to the highest exacting standards that one would expect in terms of transmission, yet no sane person could reasonably claim that all of that in its entirety is fabricated.

One may reasonably ask therefore upon what basis or in what precise sense is the Sunnah protected and preserved (mahfouz)? Is it a rationally tenable position? There is no doubt that the Sunnah, has matters transmitted by continuous recurrent transmission (tawātur), including a portion of Seerah, although it is not transmitted or preserved in exactly the same manner as the Qur'an. Hence it would be a mistake to confuse it with the preservation of the Qur'an arguing that exactly the same method applies to that of the Sunnah. The truth of the matter is that each has been preserved and protected according to its own specific nature.

If it is a necessity to establish that the noble Prophetic Sunnah has been preserved and protected to the level which can be demonstrated with proofs reaching the level of certitude, given that it is part of the Dhikr and preserved in a manner different from that of the Qur'an, then no doubt it will be incumbent to specifically identify this manner and provide a detailed characterisation and description. By necessity it is established through history that the bulk of reporting concerning the Sunnah, excluding the not insignificant portion which is transmitted by tawātur, has been via the single-narrator report. Scholarship in the field of hadith and its sciences has subjected this to the most rigorous scrutiny, even up to the present day. Each and every report is known and nothing has been lost in relation to the entire corpus. Therefore, when mention is made that the noble Prophetic Sunnah is protected and preserved, it is done through this manner by the grace and blessing of Allah, given that it is part of the Dhikr and therefore protected and preserved.

Allah the exalted himself has undertaken the pledge to protect and preserve the Dhikr, the Sunnah being an essential part of that very Dhikr. Given the need for this component of the Dhikr, Allah has ensured nothing from it is lost and as a corpus it is preserved through its transmission. Indeed, Allah has guaranteed to expose all who forge a lie against the Prophet (peace be upon him), even if it is only a single occasion. Various indicators (qarā'in) expose those who may be lying, the unknown or even the untoward within a given channel of transmission, notwithstanding those who are prone to making mistakes and are not from the high level of exactitude required for trustworthy narrators. And it doesn't end there. The anomalous (shadth) is singled out, as is that which contains hidden or less obvious and apparent defects. Rather than simply a process, this is termed the science of 'illal', subjecting each and every report to meticulous scrutiny. All of which has been made possible by the blessing and grace which Allah has bestowed upon the nation of Mu'ammar (peace be upon him).

In tandem with this, there is also the scrutiny given to the actual subject matter or substance which a report carries. Textual criticism uncovers and exposes weak or fabricated reports, such as by way of inspecting such reports against the established Qur'an and Sunnah reported by recurrent transmission (tawātur) as well as the necessities of sense and reason. Scholars of the Muslim Ummah continually partake within this endeavour and it is never a closed door, being always ajar for further study, revision and scrutiny. The reader will no doubt come across some of this methodology even in the present work, where studies are detailed upon various isnād's as well as the individuals contained therein. To the casual reader this may seem at times be hair-splitting, particularly in relation to the criticism of narrators, but it demonstrates the lengths which are required for this field of knowledge.

Through keeping everything protected and preserved commensurate with its given nature, the noble Prophetic Sunnah is no doubt māhfouz, but it is māhfouz in terms of its totality as a corpus until the day of judgement and there are five-aspects to this:

1. Nothing has been lost from the corpus as a whole. If one is not able to find a particular channel (riwayāt) in a particular Musnad or Muṣṭanaf, then it can be found or sought out elsewhere in other books, works and collections.
2. Nothing may enter into the corpus that has never been seen, characterised or identified. More explicitly, if an individual scholar of hadith is taken in by a specific story or channel of transmission which is ultimately void, everyone else will not be. It will ultimately be discovered, highlighted and signposted as a warning by other more diligent and studious scholars.

3. It may not be that all which has been abrogated / repealed (mansukh) has been preserved; or that the ambivalent (mujmal), the general (aā'mm) and the absolute (muṭlaq) is lost, or that the abrogating (nāsikh), clarified (muffasir), specified (mukhaṣiṣ) or the qualified (muqqayad) is altogether neglected.
4. The Sunnah is not confined to the books of Sunan, Musnad or other collections. It is greater than that.
5. The books of Sunnah and Seerah also include the statements made by the scholars (ulemā') and wordings which have fallen upon narrators, and maybe also ahādīth which are mawḍu' (fabricated). Whomsoever were to claim that each and every character found in such-and-such book other than the Qur'ān is ultimately from Allah, would find themselves as a liar or even worse, an accursed kāfir.

Then none should say when the following is said: a trustworthy (thiqā) narrator is not considered to be from the infallible (ma'soom) or protected from the liar, errors and mistakes, therefore, according to the dictates of reason and perception, it can only be that the continuously recurrent narration (mutawātir) that transmission is established and proven. Nobody should utter as such, because Allah has indeed undertaken to protect and preserve the Dhikr by his express command even before a solitary transmission by trustworthy narrators. And this requires by necessity that Allah will guarantee to expose whomsoever lies upon the Prophet (peace be upon him), even in a single instance. Thereby Allah has facilitated the authorities in this field to uncover these lacunas and errors by way of various indicators contained within a channel of narration, as well as those who have made mistakes in hadīth itself, either by way of text or transmission, as we have mentioned previously.

The established proofs of the Qur'ān and the mutawātir Sunnah are decisive and unequivocal upon the existence of reports by a trustworthy individual in pronouncements, oaths, witness testimony and bayān (explanation). Also, this has demonstrated that this is the manner in which testimony and knowledge is received, and it is so by the narration of Sunnah until the day of judgement. The same viewpoint was certainly held by the consensus of the companions (ijmā' aṣ-Ṣaḥābah). Furthermore, it was also held by the scholars of uṣūl in the books of knowledge and Tawheed as well as the scholars of uṣūl al-fiqh and sciences of hadīth. For with that guarantee Allah the majestic has preserved and protected the Sunnah ensuring that by its universal measure those expounders is routed by way of singular channel transmission.

For that reason, it is an obligatory condition to accept what has been reported or narrated by a trustworthy reliable singular narration. From amongst them there are some which are uninterrupted (mutaṣṣil) as well as those which are free from inherent problems or hidden defects (illal), or from the anomalous (shadth), the rejected (munkar) in the isnād or text (matn). These are the reasons behind the detailed principles which underpin this noble branch of knowledge. Thus, one cannot openly challenge an authentic single narrator report (Ṣaḥīḥ khabar al-ahad), except with compelling proof. Whosoever would seek to rebut or challenge a Ṣaḥīḥ khabar al-ahad without a substantive argument and proof then the individual has transgressed into disobedience because of following desires. Taken at its highest, it may even lead to kufr and disavowal from Islam, may Allah forbid that. Consequently, as has been detailed thus far, the Prophetic Sunnah as a corpus is maḥfouz without doubt, expounding upon the bayān. Indeed, the weight of evidence to substantiate this reaches the level of certitude. Other scholars have elaborated at length upon this subject. And it is in the well-established ahādīth that are Ṣaḥīḥ and Hasan, and it is an established decisive proof like the Qur'ān and mutawātir Sunnah and so on and so forth.

Similarly, the Arabic language is maḥfouz and can be considered an important component or necessary adjunct to the Dhikr itself.

Although not wahy (revelation) in itself, in the technical sense or for that matter, the sent-down revealed Dhikr. It is revealed or sent-down in the same sense that the Qur' n and Sunnah has, except that it is a necessary condition for understanding and even accessing the Dhikr itself. Thus the revelatory texts, the Qur' n and Sunnah cannot be understood or truly valued without the medium of the language in which it is conveyed. Given that it is the medium through which the Dhikr is conveyed, it can be stated with certainty that Allah has also preserved and protected the Arabic language as well, both in totality and in terms of its grammar, conjugation, exposition and its beautiful eloquence. History has demonstrated already how it occurred and it is a subject upon which a consensus exists amongst Muslims and other than them. Even the ultra-Orientalists and missionaries such as Goldzeir and Schacht, despite their ridiculous claims that the Prophetic Sunnah was built upon a series of falsehoods, particularly with regards to its detailed laws, even though they gave acceptance to the Seerah and the battle campaigns (maghāzi), they did not say that the Arabic language is not the one spoken by the Arabs at the time of the advent of Islam. Neither did they take up the challenge of Islam to produce the like thereof, even though they were well versed in the language. Instead of recognising the truth as it is, they turned on their heels, making ridiculous sweeping statements alleging that it is all a fabrication.

20 A brief overview of the period of ‘Sunnah recordation’

At this juncture, it is necessary to provide an overview of how the Prophetic Sunnah was recorded and documented. A great many people, including amongst ‘intellectual’ elites are surprisingly unaware of this. What has not helped this situation has been the pseudo-intellectualism of the Orientalists as well as their imitators, such as the ‘Qur’ nists’ – those who would reject the Sunnah in its entirety as a matter of course, arguing that it is completely fabricated. Many of these groups have misconstrued and misunderstood the words and indeed the terminology which appear in the corpus of ahādīth as utilised by the muhadditheen (scholars / collectors of hadīth). Commonly, the terms ‘narrated to us’ and ‘narrated to me’ ( ) have been misunderstood to construe that the Prophetic Sunnah was only reported orally, with no accompanying written record, until the time when Im m M lik composed the Muwattā', thereby ushering in the era which has been termed - ‘documenting the Sunnah.’ In tandem with this, the narrative also notes that this was the time when the two amm d’s; the two Sufy n’s, Sa’eed ibn Abi ‘Aruba, Ma’mar bin R shid and other than them, put their respective Sunan collections into public circulation. All of this was against the backdrop of the insistence from the then ‘Abb si Khaleefah, Abu Ja’far al-Man ur. Most who cite this narrative rely upon the events as detailed in the work of history composed by Im m a - abari.

Yet the difficulty with this narrative and the claims of the Orientalists, is that it is baseless and without substantive foundation. Preservation of the Prophetic Sunnah, in writing specifically, began during the era of the Prophet (peace be upon him). The detailed writings of the Prophet's companions will be considered shortly. Suffice is to say that it is an acknowledged fact that almost all companions had their own manuscripts during the era of the Prophet (peace be upon him). Not only were these in relation to the Qur' n, which was being revealed, but also covered the Prophetic ahādīth, which was preserved by writing. These manuscripts were reviewed, updated and revised as a matter of course during the period of revelation.

As has been reported by al-R̄ūmī in al-Muhadith al-Fāsi, bayn ar-Rāwi wal’Wā’ee, with an isnād that is hasan:

Mu ammad bin Ya ya al-Marwazi narrated to us ‘A im bin Ali narrated to us Is q bin Ya ya bin al a bin ‘Ubaidallah narrated to us from Muj hid from Abdullah bin ‘Amr he said: When the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him), people from his companions and I (were) with them and I, less among the people. So the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Whoever tells lies about me deliberately, let him take his place in hell. When the people came out I told them – how do you narrate from the Messenger (peace be upon him)? Have you heard what he said and you are all insatiable in hadith from the Prophet (peace be upon him)? In reply – they laughed and they said oh son of our brother! All that we have heard from him, it is (taken from) the book.

I would submit - Mu ammad bin Ya ya al-Marwazi is most probably Mu ammad bin Ya ya bin Sulaym n al-Marwazi, Abu Bakr al-Warr q. He resided in Baghdad, being a companion of Abu 'Ubaid. He is trustworthy and studied from scholars of Im m an-Nas 'i. He died in the year 298 AH. Similar is reported in Taqreeb at-Tahzeeb of Ibn ajar.¹

It may also be that Mu'ammad bin Ya'ya bin Khidr al-Marwazi, Abu Ya'ya al-Masha'rni is also thiqā – as per what is in Taqreeb at-Tahzeeb.² But according to the majority, (he is) weak upon the (view of) Isq bin Ya'ya bin al-Bin 'Ubaiddullah at-Taymi. But Imām Bukhārī said: '(he is) a mountain of memorisation; Imām of the world and leader of moderation,' in the book of du'a'fā';³ 'speaks (from his) memorisation; write his hadīth.' And he also says to reiterate – '(There is) concern (about) some things, however he is trustworthy.' And Ya'qub ibn Shayba said: 'There is nothing untoward with him (laba'sa bihi) and his hadīth are very vexatious (muḍtarib).'⁴ Al-Fiz Mu'ammad bin Abdullāh bin 'Amār al-Mawili (Abu Ya'lā) said: 'Righteous, valid (Sāliḥ).'⁵ All of this is from Tahzeeb at-Tahzeeb. Writing in his famous work ath-Thiqāt,⁶ Ibn Ibbān said: 'Mistaken in (some) matters. We may have introduced Isq bin Ya'ya, this in the weak ones (ad-du'a'fā). What was in it or giving the impression that

(he) reported it. If the ijtihād led to leaving him what didn't pursue from him, he is worthy of inclusion in the thiqāt (trustworthy narrators) after that...’

The aforementioned report, appears to have been the motivation behind Abdullah ibn ‘Amr ibn al-‘Aṣ (may Allah be pleased with him) composition of his famous pamphlet which was entitled ‘aṣ-Ṣādiqa.’ This pamphlet included about a thousand ahādīth that he heard directly from the Prophet (peace be upon him). So guarded was this work of Abdullah ibn ‘Amr, he kept it in a closed box which only he accessed. It was only brought forth in order to make revisions and / or to dictate to his students. Indeed, Abdullah ibn ‘Amr utilised the written work during study-circles where he would dictate to his students. Use of the pamphlet was regular, since Abdullah ibn ‘Amr (may Allah be pleased with him) held many scholarly circles. In fact one of his renowned students, Ḥussein bin Shafi’ bin Mūsā al-‘Aṣ in Egypt, copied this work into two books or volumes, one of which was dedicated to the rulings given by the Prophet (peace be upon him). The work was formatted in the manner of ‘Judgements – concerning this and that; and he said this in relation to this matter’ and ‘What events will occur up to the day of judgement.’ His children and grandsons inherited that pamphlet. The Quraysh had previously objected to his writing and his consultation with the Prophet (peace be upon him) over the issue. However, the Prophet approved to him that he can write and record what he hears. A number of proofs exist to substantiate these points. For example, the following has been reported by al-Rāmīnī in al-Muḥādīth al-Fāṣil:

: _____ : _____

Abdullah ibn Ghālib narrated to us Ali bin Ḥakīm narrated h from Muj hid from you wish in this life and near 'if) and as- prophet (peace be upon rite it and have it as a or three channels of note:

be upon him) (who) has more hadith from the Prophet (peace be upon him) except Abdullah bin ‘Amr? Indeed he was writing while I didn’t write.

Mu ammad bin Ya’qub narrated to us Abul-Kha b narrated to us Abdul ‘Al narrated to us Mu ammad bin Is q narrated to us from ‘Amr bin Shu’ayb from al-Mughira bin akeem from Abu Hurayrah he said: I was aware of my heart and he is aware of his heart, and he writes with his hand, that is to say – Abdullah ibn ‘Amr.

The famous litterateur Ibn ‘Abb s (may Allah be pleased with him) was diligent in the recordation of knowledge and its preservation by writing. After the death of the Prophet (peace be upon him) Ibn ‘Abb s made extensive enquires to the companions and wrote a considerable amount of material, to the extent that he had them carried by camel. His books were preserved and it is reliably trustworthy. Confirmation of this written material which Ibn ‘Abb s had, has reached us via several reports. One of which, with an authentic isnād, is contained in at-Tabaqāt al-Kubra of Ibn Sa’d:

A mad bin Abdullah bin Yunus reported to us he said Zuhayr narrated to us he said Musa bin ‘Uqba narrated to us he said, Kurayb (ibn Muslim) deposited with us a camel’s loan of the books of Ibn ‘Abb s. When his own son Ali ibn Abdullah ibn ‘Abb s wanted a book, he wrote to Kurayb saying – search amongst the Sahifa (for) this and this. He said: copy / transcribe it and send to him one of the two copies (i.e. the original or copy).

Similar has also been reported in Tārikh al-Kabir of Ibn Abu Khaythama and Taqayyad al-‘Ilm of Kha eeb Baghdadi, with the following transmission channel – ‘Abul’ asan Mu ammad bin A mad bin Razqwehi reported to us ‘Uthm n bin A mad ad-Daqq q reported to us anbal bin Is q narrated to us A mad bin Yunus narrated to us.’ Im m Bayhaqy also reports this in Sunan al-Kubra via the channel of – ‘Abul’ ussein reported to us Abu ‘Amr reported to us anbal narrated to us A mad bin Yunus narrated to us.’

It is also noteworthy that the book of Abdullah ibn ‘Abb s was well known, copied, put into public circulation and read during his lifetime, as mentioned in the weak tradition recorded in the Sunan of Im m Tirmidhi:

Suwayd bin Na r narrated to us Ali bin al- ussein bin W qid narrated to us from Abu U ama from Yazeed an-Na we from ‘Ikrima: some people from ’if came to Ibn ‘Abb s with books (taken / copied) from his books. When he began to read the books in front of them he would lose his place. So he said – ‘I have been tested with this calamity (short-sightedness or blindness), so read in front of me and my agreeing to what you read is just like my reading it out to you.’

From the above it can be discerned that the books of Abdullah ibn 'Abbās were many. It would be incredulous to claim that these books would be devoid of Prophetic ahādīth. Rather, these must have been the substantive core of the books. Moreover, Abdullah ibn Ma'sud bequeathed written material to his children and students, as reported from Mis'ar from Ma'n who said: 'Go out to Abdar-Ra'mān bin Abdullah bin Mas'ud, I swear that the book is composed by his father's hand.'

Furthermore, there are several pamphlets, which the Prophet (peace be upon him) dictated to more than one of his administrative officials, when appointing them as governors, judges or tax collectors in the remote outer regions of Islamic lands. Usually this included important rulings related to zakāt, as well as matters concerning general behaviour or mannerisms; rulings in relation to blood-money as well as general commands and directives. Some of these include the following:

- ❖ The Sahifa of 'Amr bin al-Azīz al-Anṣāry (may Allah be pleased with him), who was appointed as governor over the people of Najrān
- ❖ The book of al-'Alā'a bin al-Abī Rāmī when he was sent to al-Mundhur bin Sāwī. 'Alā'a said: 'Write for me oh Messenger of Allah a book, I can take with me.' The Prophet (peace be upon him) wrote to him detailing obligations, what can be levied on livestock as well as rulings on gold and silver.
- ❖ The book of Wā'il bin Ujrah bin Sa'eed bin Masrooq, Abu Haneeda al-Abī Rāmī al-Kindī. He was one of the kings of Yemen. The Prophet (peace be upon him) wrote to him for 'the people of Wā'il bin Ujrah in al-Ramawīt.' Contained within this major work, were the parameters of Islam and the details of zakāt; the lawful punishment for zīnā, the prohibition of alcohol and that every intoxicant is prohibited.

- ❖ The Sahifa of Anas ibn Mālik (may Allah be pleased with him) when he was utilised to collect the zakāt from the people of Ba'rā in by the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). This same document was also utilised under the Khilafah of Abu Bakr.
- ❖ A copy of the Sahifa was commissioned by Abu Bakr from the Prophet (peace be upon him) and contained the stamp of the noble Prophetic seal. Many letters and correspondence were also made during this time. There were other books held by Anas ibn Mālik (may Allah be pleased with him), within them ahādīth which he directly wrote from the Prophet (peace be upon him) and confirmed with him. This 'presentation' to the Shaykh is reading, in other words, reading back what he had recorded from these hadīth and confirming them to the Shaykh himself. This was done to ensure the validity and accuracy of what had been dictated.

Next, the following has been reported in Tārikh al-Wāsit with a good isnād:

) : : (: () : _____

Al-'Abīs bin al-Waleed bin Mazeed narrated to us he said Abu Shu'ayb (and he is Mu'ammad bin Shu'ayb bin Shubār ad-Dimishqi) narrated to us he said 'Utba bin Abu al-Akīm narrated to us from Hubayra bin Abdar-Ra'mān (and he is Abu Umar bin Hubayra) he said (once it) occurred that Anas bin Mālik was taking audience and many people came to write from him. Then he said: This is the ahādīth I heard them from the Prophet (peace be upon him) and I wrote them from the Prophet (peace be upon him) and presented them before him.

A shorter version of the aforementioned narration is contained within al-Muḥādīth al-Fāṣl of al-R̄ūmī:

Al-‘ārami narrated to us Mu’ammad bin Anān al-‘Imām i narrated to us Baqīya bin al-Waleed narrated to us from ‘Uqbā bin Abī Ākīm from Hubayra bin Abdar-Rāmān he said – When we used to press much, Anas would take out note-books and say – These are the ahādīth I wrote from the Prophet (peace be upon him).

Imām Bukhārī has substantiated this narration by way of comment on the narrator Hubayra bin Abdar-Rāmān in his al-Tārikh al-Kabīr. He writes: ‘Hubayra bin Abdar-Rāmān said - When we attended upon Anas bin Mālik he delivered to us from a record and said - This is the ahādīth which I wrote from the Messenger (peace be upon him) then I presented them to him.’ Moreover, this is also reported in the Mustadrak of al-‘Imām:

Abūl-‘Abbās Mu’ammad bin Ya’qub narrated to us al-‘Abbās bin al-Waleed bin Mazīd al-Bayrooti reports: Mu’ammad bin Shū’ayb bin Shabūr narrated to us ‘Utbā bin Abī Ākīm narrated to me from Ma’bad bin Hilāl he said: When we used to press much (during attendance) upon Anas bin Mālik (may Allah be pleased with him), he came out to us from an area and he said – this is what I heard from the Prophet (peace be upon him) and I wrote it and presented it to him.

The aforementioned channel comes via Ma’bad bin Hilāl. It may have been that ‘Utbā bin Abī Ākīm heard from both Hubayra bin Abdar-Rāmān and Ma’bad bin Hilāl. In any event, it doesn’t make sense to say as adh-Dhahabi said – ‘hadīth munkar’ after seeking to correct Bukhārī.

To add to the above, there is also the Sahīfa of the Imām of guidance and leader of the believers, namely Ali bin Abī Tālib (may Allah be pleased with him). He guarded and preserved this, keeping it within the sheath of his sword. This particular pamphlet included a number of important rulings, covering issues of zakāt, constitutional rules as well as some of the famous constitutional principles which were extracted from the constitution of Medina. More has been detailed on this point in our specialist work – Obedience to the Rulers: Its Principles and Limits. Furthermore, it also had an important comprehensive corpus concerning charity as has been reported from Ibn ‘Anāfiyya, in other words, Mu’ammad bin Ali bin Abī Tālib; he said: ‘Take this book and go with it to ‘Uthmān, for verily it contains the orders of the Prophet (peace be upon him) with regards to charity (sadaqa).’ That point is also elaborated in our work, Obedience to the Rulers as is the matter of the Constitution of Medina, which is a matter of paramount importance.

When the famous scholar of Islam and its premier narrator Abu Hurayrah Abdur-Rāmān Sakhr (may Allah be pleased with him) returned from Bahrain, where he had been appointed to take care of were other works in existence, other Sahifa's and books, by other companions such as Sa'd bin 'Ub da al-An ḥ ri who had a book or books of hadith taken from the Prophet (peace be upon him), as cited by Im m Bukh ri, which goes on to explain that this Sahifa was a copy of another Sahifa which was held by Abdullah bin Abi 'Aufa. Again he had written these ahādīth by his own hand.

There is also Abu R fi who was the mawla of the Prophet (peace be upon him). People gathered collectively to read upon him from his dictated collections. Within the book was recorded the supplication at the start of the prayer, as well as tribute paid to Abu Bakr bin Abdar-Ra man al- ḥ rith, one of the seven-renowned jurists of Medina. Asm ḥ bint 'Umays had a book which contained within it a collection of some ahādīth. There was also the book found in the sheath of the sword which belonged to Mu ammad bin Maslama al-An ḥ ry when he died; it began 'In the name of Allah ar-Ra man ar-Ra eem, I heard that the Prophet (peace be upon him) saying Verily your Lord in the end of your epoch...' And also there was what was written by Subaya' al-Aslamiya to Abdullah bin 'Utba reporting from the Prophet (peace be upon him) that he ordered her with nikāh shortly after her husband's death after he developed; and a lot other than this.

This is some of what has been written from the corpus of the noble Prophetic ahādīth, immediately during the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him) or within a short period after his passing from this world. These ahādīth being directly taken from the Prophet (peace be upon him) and as has been seen, read-back and confirmed with him. Taken in the round, it is arguable that more than half of the entire corpus of ahādīth which we currently posses today was recorded in this manner as detailed above. Memorisation and oral transmission was dominant at the time of the Companions, and this is the case for those who lived through paganism and Islam and those who missed the honour of companionship, but lived through both the Islamic and pre-Islamic epoch (mukhadra meen). It is the same for the first class of the reporters after the companions; i.e. the great successors (Kibār at- Tābi’een). Many of this class used to deliver their narrations on special occasions as well as providing comment upon great events and delivering legal judgements. In addition to this, they would narrate both from memory and by way of dictation from written material in the many study circles and other gatherings of knowledge, designated to learning and disseminating the Prophet’s aḥādīth, much the same as was done at that earlier stage in the lifetime of the Prophet (peace be upon him).

As has been attested from the writing of Abdullah ibn ‘Amr ibn al-‘Aṣ, the companions took turn in attendance at the Prophet’s ḥalaqa where he would teach. We know of Umar bin al-Khaṭṭab rotating his attendance with that of Abdullah ibn ‘Amr. Some companions would be in attendance in the morning, others would be in attendance to learn later in the day or evening. Each taking it in turn to attend at the classes delivered by the Prophet (peace be upon him). The subsequent ḥalaqa’s of the leading companions such as Abdullah ibn ‘Amr ibn al-‘Aṣ, Ibn Mas’ud, Ibn ‘Abd al-Karīm and others then them continued also in the same vein. Moreover, teaching and delivering knowledge by way of designated ḥalaqa, special seminars, and assemblies dedicated to narrating / dictating aḥādīth, where the teacher would dictate to the students and / or the students would read back to the teacher, was a common feature which the Sahabah bequeathed to subsequent generations. They in turn, continued in this manner. Indeed, every scholar and student of knowledge utilised written manuscripts for the dispensation of knowledge. Sessions were characterised by the dictation from the teacher (Shaykh) to his students; or the reading of a student (who would be an excellent orator and narrator) back to the teacher, while the teacher checks what is being read either by way of memory or against his own manuscript. Each of the other students in attendance would not be sitting idly, but rather also dictating what is being read. Transmission of aḥādīth took this format and was a noted feature amongst the senior and junior Tābi’een.

An illustrative example of this is that of the great scholar of ḥadīth, Imam Mu’ammād ibn Shihāb az-Zuhri. He had a large personal library that was transported on camels for him. Az-Zuhri was one of the class of the junior Tābi’een (which is the class that learned from some of the companions, who lived longer and died latest). He always used to revise his books whenever he was alone, to the extent that his wife became bored with that, and made a statement to the effect that those books were harder on her than her co-wives!

Another example which can be gleaned is that of the major figure of ḥadīth, Abdal-Aziz bin Marwān, as reported by Ibn Sa’d in at-Tabaqāt al-Kubra:

a comprehensive manner; this was formally done given his status as ruler of Islamic lands. Specifically, he reported the hadith of Amra' bin Abdal-Ra man which was the channel of narration to the mother of the believers, 'Aisha (may Allah be pleased with her). He ordered the judge of Medina, Abu Bakr bin Mu ammad bin Amr bin azm (who was the grandson of the aforementioned Amr bin azm, governor of the Prophet for the region of Najr n) to undertake this mission. Abu Bakr was from amongst the prominent Tābi'een, being an Im m of jurisprudence (fiqh) as well as hadith and established as a thiqā (trustworthy) narrator himself. It is arguable he had inherited his father's collection and manuscripts. All of this took place roughly around the year 100 AH.

The following generations of major, middle and lower-order Tābi'een, continued with this method, progressing to the point where they made the narration of ahādīth into an actual academic subject or as some would say, a science. Gatherings dedicated to narrating and dictating ahādīth had their own particular etiquettes, procedures, and even records of attendance. These can still be accessed in the (former) great centres of Islamic learning. The notion of 'spontaneous narration' waned considerably. The idea that hadith were simply narrated by wise old men, story-tellers and preachers at Friday prayers are something of a misnomer; in fact the stringent protocols underpinning the science of hadith, made such instances incredibly rare.

Given what has been expounded on this topic thus far, one may credibly ask, what the actual meaning of the term – 'Asr at-Tadween (Era of documentation of the Sunnah) – refers to? Discerning the meaning of this can be made easier by replacing this with its correct terminology, which is the 'the Era of Publication' or 'Asr an-Nashr wal-Warrāqeen. To clarify the matter further, we would say that by the end of the first-Islamic century and at the beginning of the second, paper had become more widespread and available. The industry in paper in the Muslim world emanated from Samarkand in Central Asia, in turn, originating from China.

By the middle of the second Islamic century and the consolidation of 'Abb sid rule, the paper industry grew considerably, spreading throughout the Muslim world. High quality paper was for the first time available at reasonably low prices. Publishing books became much easier and with this grew the sale of books, which the mass public began to consume. Books of poetry, literature and Arabic language spread widely, as did the writings of Ibn Al-Muqaffa', the translations of Kaleela and Dimnah, and many other literary works from Persia and as far afield as India. Therefore, the profession of publishing appeared. The publisher, utilising this material either by reading or by presenting them to their qualified teachers. I would submit that history has shown that the Ameer al-Mu'mineen Abu Ja'far was correct in his policy. The rigorous discipline of hadith narration and transmission, with its associated dedicated gatherings continued for several centuries and was not undermined by the widespread dissemination of books. Indeed, in actuality, it worked in tandem with it. In the first wave of publication, came the Muwatṭā' of Imām Mūlik, the works of the two Sufyāns – Sufyān ath-Thawrī and Sufyān ibn 'Uyayna. There was also the works of the two ammāds, ammād ibn Zayd and ammād ibn Salamah and that of Sa'eed ibn Abi Aruba. All of these works were compiled and put into public circulation by around 145 AH. Following this, we may note a further three distinct ‘waves’ of publication:

- Second wave - saw the publication of the Muṣṣanaf of Abdar-Razzāq; Sunan umaydi, the Musnad of Ayyālī, the works of al-Waqidi and many others. We may posit a nominal date-marker for the second wave as being 190 AH.
- Third wave – included all the famous books carrying the titles of Musnad and Al-Jāmi, such as the Musnad of Amād bin Anbal; Musnad Isāq bin Rāhawayh; Muṣṣanaf Ibn Abī Shayba, Sunan Sa'eed bin Manār, the Tabaqāt of Ibn Sa'd, the Sunan of ad-Darimi and many others. Again, the nominal date-marker for this wave is 220 AH.
- Fourth wave – the nominal date-marker for this wave is 250 AH. Within this phase came the blessed books of Sahīh by Imām Bukhārī and Muslim. With them, albeit slightly after, were the famous Sunan works from Abu Dūwud, Tirmidhi and Ibn Mājah. There was also the Musnad of Baqī bin Makhlaq in Spain; the Musnad of Abu Ya'la and al-Bazzār as well as the Sunan of Imām Nasīrī. By this juncture, the collection and compilation of the Prophetic hadith was by and large assembled and disseminated.

- Fifth wave – what was left over from the preceding compilations became featured in later works. During this era, the large collections of abārūni appeared; there was also the Sahīh of Ibn Ibbān, Sunan Dāraqūni, and the Mustadrak of al-Kim. Another feature were books about narrators, which also contained full channels of narration and isnād, such as Al-Kāmil fi ad-Du'a'fā' (compendium of weak narrators) and that of Ibn 'Ady as well as others. Most of these books and compilations became widespread. Any mistakes made by scribes and copyists which were contained therein were not of any major import, any attempts at deliberate falsification were thus detected. It would be absurd to suggest that widespread and deliberate forgeries could easily creep into this corpus.

Notwithstanding the above, a very small number of ahādīth and a minority of alternate channels for better known hadith could be identified in books of fiqh (jurisprudence), uṣūl (foundational methodology and principles), as well as in books of history and works dedicated to profiling hadith narrators. Arguably some of the most important of these were as-Sunan al-Kubra by Imām Bayhaqī; al-Iḥkām fi Uṣūl al-İḥkām (Judgement on the Principles of Law) and al-Muḥalla bil Athār (The Adorned Treatise) by Imām Abu Muammād Ali ibn azm, and Tārikh Baghdād (History of Baghdad) by the grand Imām al-Khaṣab Baghdaði. The nominal date-marker for these works where completed by is 450 AH.

Despite this, narrating and dictating ahādīth has remained within the Islamic world. Whether that be in the far west in Morocco or in the east in the Indian sub-continent, scholars and students of knowledge have continued to receive hadith in the ‘traditional manner’, namely by attendance in the audience of the Shaykh, dictating and reading back to him. With the advances made in modern technology and computers, valuable books are being digitised at an incredible rate. One could argue that this is a new method of preservation. Although admittedly, there are some texts that are not as reliable as first thought, since they are not based upon the best manuscripts. However, a large number of researchers, scholars and students of knowledge are seeking to correct this, by the grace and mercy of Allah.

What has been said thus far regarding ahādīth is also applicable to the Prophetic Seerah (life and biography), particularly for the period post-migration in Medina which also covers the great battles, contrary to those who are ignorant of this. Compilation within this field began many years earlier than that of the Sunan or Musnad collections and were prepared under the title of al-Maghāzi (the battles or conquests). Such works were published and well received amongst the Muslim masses. This is a historical fact and it is of no surprise it was well received, given that the vast majority of people can readily digest biographies, stories and history in general, as opposed to turgid rigorous style employed within the Sunan or Musnad collections. In fact, public sessions or recitals were held on the topic of al-Maghāzi during wh f7 0 -14()TJ /F6blcTD .109 a-3() n1 a-3(t)-5.1 Tw (aco)9(ut)-4 destruction and it was lost to posterity; there is no power or might save in Allah! Without doubt many other writers compiled works of al-Maghāzi, such as Im m Mu ammad ibn Shih b az-Zuhri. Directly following such works were that produced by the Im m Maghāzi and Seerah - Mu ammad ibn Is q ibn Yas r who died in the year 150 AH. He produced a huge comprehensive biography but a lot of doubtful information was enclosed. Much of it was re-worked and edited by Im m Ibn Hish m and thereafter became known as the Seerah of Ibn Hish m – which became a landmark work, some would say the standard for biographical works about the Prophet (peace be upon him). Work has continued upon the Seerah even up to the present, Shaykh afi-ur-Ra man al-Mub rakpuri, with his monumental work ar-Raheeq al-Makhtum (the Sealed Nectar); may Allah reward him abundantly for his effort. Mub rakpuri’s work has received international acclaim, being translated into numerous languages.

People have queried why such biographical works are not used in determining matters of general legislation and rulings, or aqeedah, given that they generally are taken from the historical background. The reason for this is that the authors of such historical works have tended to drop the channels of transmission in general as well as putting narratives together to make a coherent readily accessible narrative. Whilst this does provide an accurate picture of historical events overall, it does not produce legal certainty to the requisite standard which can be used as proof in matters of Deen. It shouldn’t therefore be of great surprise that scholars of hadīth, applying strict principles have regarded such works in general as having no substantive basis to them. That is not to say that they are works of fabrication, but that they do not meet the required legal standards to be utilised for matters of creed and legislation. One could liken this form of reporting to be akin to that found in contemporary journalism as found in newspapers, the radio and television. Although a generic picture is provided of actual events, such manner of reporting is not generally viewed as being admissible evidence in a judicial capacity.

There has to be physical evidence, witness statements, official documentation and the like which can withstand rigorous and detailed cross-examination. Matters related to Deen, be they creedal or legislative, without doubt rank highly thus requiring the rigorous methodologies which have accompanied them to date.

The work as detailed here is but a brief overview. To do real justice to the subject as a whole would inevitably require a separate volume altogether. Such works are being produced and are dealing a death-blow to the claims of the Orientalists. One notable work in this regard, is that submitted originally as a PhD thesis at Cambridge University by the renowned Shaykh Dr Mu ammad Mu afa al-Azami;⁷ may Allah reward him abundantly for his noble distinguished work. His work has fundamentally deconstructed the theories which the Orientalists have held sacrosanct for over a century and he has, by the grace of Allah, demonstrated that they are utterly false. Given the ground-breaking nature of the Shaykh's work, all those who had a semblance of intellectual honesty from amongst the Orientalists have thus abandoned the bizarre opinions of the likes of Goldzieher and Schacht. Work is ongoing within this field and many are being published which have only further entrenched the strength of the Prophetic Sunnah, providing even further substantiation to its truthfulness, underpinned with a sound rigorous academic approach.⁸ Taken in the round, all such works provide yet further evidence to the truthfulness which Allah himself attests will be established, step-by-step, in the glorious Qur'ān:

شَيْءٍ شَهِيدٌ، لَا إِنَّهُمْ فِي مِرْيَةٍ مِّنْ لِقَاءِ رَبِّهِمْ أَلَا إِنَّهُ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ مُّحِيطٌ

We will soon show them our signs in the universe and in their own souls, until it will become quite clear to them that it is the truth. Is it not sufficient as regards your Lord that He is a witness over all things? Now surely they are in doubt as to the meeting of their Lord; surely He encompasses all things.⁹

Just as this occurred at the very dawn of Islam and was witnessed by the Quraysh, it is constantly recurring throughout the ages, including our present time and indeed, will continue until the day of judgement.

أَوْلَمْ يَكُفِّ بِرَبِّكَ أَنَّهُ عَلَىٰ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ شَهِيدٌ

Is it not sufficient as regards your Lord that He is a witness over all things?

Part III.

Fundamental Issues of Uṣul and ‘Aqeedah

1 The Seal of Prophethood

The principle that Mu ammad (peace be upon him) is the ‘Seal of the Prophets’ is confirmed in the Qur’anic verse by which it is established as a central tenet of the Islamic faith:

مَا كَانَ مُحَمَّدًا أَبَا أَحَدٍ مِنْ رِجَالِكُمْ وَلَكِنْ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ وَخَاتَمَ النَّبِيِّنَ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيمًا

Muhammad is not the father of any of your men, but he is the Messenger of Allah and the Seal of the Prophets; and Allah is cognisant of all things.¹

The verse is unequivocal in meaning, beaming as clear as the brightest sun. In the Tafsir of this verse, the grand Imam a - abari has written the following:

Concerning the interpretation of the verse - Muhammad is not the father of any of your men, but he is the Messenger of Allah and the Seal of the Prophets; and Allah is cognisant of all things - Allah mentions that O mankind! Mu ammad is not the father of Zayd ibn ritha nor is he the father of anyone of your men, (none of whom gave birth to Mu ammad), which would prohibit him from marrying his wife if he separated from her. However, he is the Messenger of Allah and the Seal of the Prophets by which Prophethood has ended. Consequently, he has been made the stamp of Prophethood, which no one will reopen after him until the establishment of the final hour. And Allah knows all things pertaining to your actions; your words and other than these. He is the possessor of omnipotent knowledge and nothing is hidden from Him. It is in the manner in which we have cited here that the people of interpretation have (sought to expound) the meaning of this verse. Among those who narrated Prophetic traditions regarding the meaning of the above verse (we have) the following:

Bishr narrated to us he said Yazeed narrated to us he said Sa'eed narrated to us from Qat dah regarding his words: Muhammad is not the father of any of your men was revealed regarding Zayd, that he was not his son. I swear by my age that he did give birth to male children for he was the father of Abu'l-Q sim, Ibr him, a - ayyib and al-Muahir. The meaning of His words: 'However, he is the Messenger of Allah and the Seal of the Prophets', means that he is the last of them: 'And Allah knows all things.'

Mu ammad ibn 'Amm ra narrated to me he said Ali bin Q dim narrated to us he said Sufy n narrated to us from Nasser bin Dhu'luluq from Ali bin al- ussain regarding His words: 'Muhammad is not the father of any of your men'; this verse was revealed regarding Zayd ibn ritha. The phrase: 'the Messenger of Allah, may Allah bless him and grant him peace, is placed in the accusative case, which gives it the meaning of reiteration of the phrase.

However, it did not occur to the mind of Im m a - abari, nor indeed the mind of any other classical scholar that there would emerge a controversy surrounding the meaning of the expression khātim - 'seal', or Khātam an-Nabi'een 'Seal of the Prophets' because during that time there was only one meaning of the phrase, which included: 'stamping; closure; shutting; completion,' and the like of what can be advanced to embrace the affairs in their finality or in their end. The Arabs had no other explanation of the meaning of this phrase other than that. The stipulation of the expression 'seal' has three distinct connotations, which is utilised in seven other places within the Qur' n; which I will narrate consecutively as they appear in the noble book:

خَتَمَ اللَّهُ عَلَى قُلُوبِهِمْ وَعَلَى سَمْعِهِمْ وَعَلَى أَبْصَارِهِمْ غِشَاوَةٌ وَلَهُمْ عَذَابٌ عَظِيمٌ

Allah has set a seal upon their hearts and their hearing; there is a covering over their eyes, and there's great punishment for them.²

قُلْ أَرَيْتُمْ إِنْ أَخْدَ اللَّهُ سَمْعَكُمْ وَأَبْصَارَكُمْ وَخَتَمَ عَلَى قُلُوبِكُمْ مِنْ إِلَهٍ غَيْرِ اللَّهِ يَأْتِيُكُمْ بِهِ انْظُرْ كُلُّ نُصَرَّفُ الْآيَاتِ ثُمَّ هُنْ يَصْدِفُونَ

Say: Have you considered that if Allah takes away your hearing and your sight and sets a seal on your hearts, who is the god besides Allah that can bring it to you? See how we repeat the communications, yet they turn away.³

الْيَوْمَ نَخْتَمُ عَلَى أَفْوَاهِهِمْ وَتُكَلِّمُنَا أَيْدِيهِمْ وَتَشْهُدُ أَرْجُلُهُمْ بِمَا كَانُوا يَكْسِبُونَ

On that day, We will set a seal upon their mouths, and their hands shall speak to Us, and their feet shall bear witness of what they earned.⁴

أَمْ يَقُولُونَ افْتَرَى عَلَى اللَّهِ كَذِبًا فَإِنْ يَشَاءُ اللَّهُ يَخْتَمُ عَلَى قُلُوبِكُمْ وَيَمْحُ اللَّهُ الْبَاطِلَ وَيُحَقِّ الْحَقَّ بِكَلِمَاتِهِ إِنَّهُ عَلِيمٌ بِدُورَاتِ الصُّدُورِ

Or do they say: He has forged a lie against Allah? But if Allah pleased, He would seal your heart; and Allah will blot out the falsehood and confirm the truth with His words; surely, He is cognisant of what is in the breasts.⁵

أَفَرَأَيْتَ مَنِ اتَّخَذَ إِلَهًا هَوَاهُ وَأَصْنَلَهُ اللَّهُ عَلَى عِلْمٍ وَخَتَمَ عَلَى سَمْعِهِ وَقَبْلِهِ وَجَعَلَ عَلَى بَصَرِهِ
خِشَاوَةً فَمَنْ يَهْدِيهِ مِنْ بَعْدِ اللَّهِ أَفَلَا تَنْكِرُونَ

Have you then considered him who takes his low desire for his god, and Allah has made him err having knowledge and has set a seal upon his ear and his heart and put a covering upon his eye. Who can then guide him after Allah?

Will you not then be mindful?⁶

يُسْقَوْنَ مِنْ رَحِيقٍ مَخْتُومٍ ، خَاتَمُهُ مَسْكٌ وَفِي ذَلِكَ فَلَيْتَنَافَسُ الْمُتَنَافِسُونَ

They will be served a sealed nectar, its seal [perfumed with] a fragrant musk, let those who strive, strive for this.⁷

Im m a - abari is widely acknowledged as being an established proof concerning matters of Arabic language and linguistics. This is in tandem with the fact that he was a major Im m in a number of Islamic sciences such as the Qur' n, Tafsir and hadith; regarded across the spectrum as being a mujtahid muṭlaq. He further elaborated on the controversies of the expression: ‘seal’, when he first presented its appearances in the consecutive order as they appear in the Qur' n. He mentioned the unique linguistic meanings in an abridged manner, then proceeded to elaborate on its diverse issues covering the points of ‘guidance and error’; ‘the flooding of sins over the heart,’ and others.

With reference to the first verse (al-Baqara verse 7) regarding the Tafsir of His words: ‘Allah has placed a seal on their hearts and their hearing’, a - abari writes:

⁵ Qur'ān 42: 21

⁷ Qur'ān 83: 25/26

The etymological root of the word ‘seal’ is ‘imprint’; for the ‘signet’ it is a ‘stamp’ which is usually utilised when one says: ‘I have sealed the book’ following an impression being made. For when someone says to us: ‘How does He seal the hearts?’ The expression ‘seal’ here means an impression which is made upon the containers, the receptacles or the encasements, because it is said that the hearts of the servants are the containers which comprise sciences; and the receptacles in which (they) are placed the realisation of matters. Thus the meaning of placing a seal upon their hearts and upon their hearing by which they comprehend what is heard, is that before them a barrier is placed which prevents the heart and hearing from attaining (the) realisation of the truths of news of the unseen. Thus, the analogous meaning of the expression ‘seal’ carries with it the same meaning of an imprint that is made upon any container or receptacle. If it is asked - is this an attribute from its attributes by which we can better comprehend it? Is it the same as the seal which is known and is apparent to sight, or is it something different? It is said that the people of Qur'nic Tafsir differ (regarding) the descriptions of this seal. We will discuss the description of the seal after discussing some of the words of the interpreters:

Esa bin Uthmān bin Esa ar-Ramli narrated to me he said Ya ya bin Esa narrated to us from al-'Amash he said: Muj hid showed us his hand, and said: ‘They used to show me that the heart was no larger than this, (meaning by that the palm). When a servant commits a sin, it encloses upon like this, (and he then closed his small finger upon his palm). When he commits another sin, it encloses upon it like this, (he then closed the next finger upon his palm). When he commits another sin, it encloses upon it like this, (he then closed his middle finger upon his palm).’ He did this until all of his fingers had closed upon his palm and said: ‘Then the heart is imprinted upon with an impression’. Muj hid said: ‘They used to show me that this closing on the heart was doubt which overcomes it.’

Abu Kareeb narrated to us he said Waki' narrated to us from al-'Amash from Muj hid, he said: ‘The heart is like the palm of the hand; and when a sin is committed the fingers grasp down upon it until all the fingers enclose upon it. Our companions used to show us that this encompassment is a kind of doubt that overwhelms the heart.'

Al-Q sim ibn al- asan narrated to us he said al- ussain bin D wud narrated to us he said ajjaj narrated to me he said Ibn Jurayj narrated to us he said that Muj hid said: 'I was informed that sins encircle the heart with what it has been forbidden it until eventually the heart becomes accustomed to it and thus, sins become firmly imprinted upon it. This impression is the seal.' Ibn Jurayj said: 'This seal is the sealing of the heart and the hearing.'

Al-Q sim narrated to us he said al- ussain narrated to us ajjaj narrated to me from Ibn Jurayj, he said Abdullah bin Kathir narrated to me that he heard Muj hid say: 'This encompassing doubt is easier than, the impression upon the heart. The impressions made upon the heart are easier than the heart being completely locked. The heart being completely locked is the severest of them all.'

Concerning the second, verse 46 of Surah al-An'ām, a - abari comments as follows:

Here Allah the exalted says to His Prophet Mu ammad may Allah bless him and grant him peace: 'Say O Mu ammad to those who turn away from Me deviating with the idols and false deities and who deny you: 'Have you who associate deities besides Allah not seen, that if Allah desired to make you deaf by seizing your hearing; your actions; seizes your sight and places a seal over your hearts; stamping it so that you are unable to comprehend words, or have insight into clear evidence, or have clear understanding of anything; is there a deity besides Allah that you can bring that is worshipped by all those who worship; who can return what Allah has seized of your hearing, sight and understanding?' In this verse, you can see that the expression 'seal' was only utilised in the middle of the sentence which suffices as a proof in its interpretation that it is a synonym of the expression 'to make an imprint.'

In relation to verse 65 of Surah Ya Seen, a - abari writes:

(Regarding the) interpretation of His words: 'This day have We placed a seal over their mouths and their hands will speak out,' what Allah the exalted means when He states as such, is that 'this day have We stamped over the mouths of those who associate deities besides Allah.' The expression 'this day' refers to the day of judgement. The meaning of His words: 'and their hands will speak out,' means that they will speak out regarding what they did in this life from disobedience of Allah. The meaning of His words: '...and their feet will testify against them,' in summation has the same meaning as what preceded.

Concerning verse 42 of Surah ash-Shoora, a - abari writes:

(Regarding the) interpretation of His words, here Allah the exalted mentions that do those who associate deities besides Allah say that Mu ammad has invented a lie against Allah, while he brings revelation which is in opposition to anything which can be construed to come from his own whims. If Allah willed O Mu ammad, He could imprint over your heart causing you to forget this Qur' n which has been revealed to you.

Regarding the fifth verse mentioned, which is verse 23 of Surah Jāthiya a - abari writes:

The meaning of His words: 'places a seal on his hearing and his heart'; means that He imprints over their hearing where they are unable to hear the admonitions of Allah and the verses of His Book, where they can reflect, be attentive, consider or apprehend what is in it of light, clarity and guidance. The meaning of His words: 'his heart' is that it too is imprinted upon where it is unable to conceive or grasp anything of the truth.

With regard to the remaining sixth and seventh verses quote above, verses 25/26 in Surah Al-Mutaffifin, Im m a - abari comments at length regarding them, in particular, noting the differing opinions that have been held amongst the scholars regarding their precise meaning:

The meaning of His words: 'They will be given to drink from exquisite sealed nectar,' is that these righteous people will be given to drink a pure wine which is not diluted by anything. Based upon what we have received from the people of Qur'nic interpretation from chains of authorities which amount to almost ten, all of which agree that the 'sealed nectar' is wine. The meaning of His words: 'Its seal will be musk,' is that the people of Qur'nic interpretation differ regarding its meaning. Some of them say that it means that it will be blended, mixed or intermixed with musk. Those who interpret it in that fashion base their opinions on the following narrations:

Ibn umayd narrated to us he said Mihr n narrated to us from Sufy n from Ash'ath bin Abi ash-Sha'sh ' from Yazeed bin Mu' wiya and 'Alqama from Abdullah ibn Mas'ud that the meaning of His words: 'Its seal will be musk,' does not mean that it is sealed literally, but that it is intermixed with musk.

Ibn Bish r narrated to us he said Ya ya bin Sa'eed and Abdar-Ra man narrated to us, they said, Sufy n narrated to us from Ash'ath bin Sulaym from Yazeed bin Mu' wiya from 'Alqama from Abdullah ibn Mas'ud who said regarding the meaning of His words: 'Its seal will be musk,' the expression 'seal' does not mean the kind of seal that closes a thing. Have you not heard one of your women say: 'So-and-so perfume was intermixed with musk'?

Mu ammad bin 'Ubaid al-Ma rabi narrated to us he said Ayub narrated to us from Ash'ath bin Abi ash-Sha'sh ' what he narrated on the authority of 'Alqama regarding His words: 'Its seal will be musk,' means that it will be intermixed with musk.

Abu Kareeb narrated to us he said Waki' narrated to us from al-'Amash from Abdullah bin Murra from Masrooq from Abdullah that the meaning of: 'Its seal' is that its seal will be intermixed with musk; which means that its taste and fragrance will be mixed with it.

Waki` narrated to us from his father from ibn Abi ash-Sha'sh ' from Yazeed bin Mu' wiya from 'Alqama that the meaning of: 'Its seal will be musk,' is that its taste and fragrance will be that of musk. Others said that its meaning is that the last of their drink will be sealed with musk which will be placed in it. Those who hold this opinion base their evidence on the following traditions:

Ali narrated to me he said Abu li narrated to us he said Mu' wiya narrated to me from Ali from Ibn 'Abb s who said regarding His words: 'Its seal will be musk,' means that it will be wine whose seal will be made with musk.

Mu ammad bin Sa'd narrated to me he said my father narrated to me, my uncle narrated to me, he said my father narrated to me from his father from Ibn 'Abb s that the meaning of His words: 'Its seal will be musk,' means that Allah will indulge them with wine and it will be the last thing until it will be sealed with musk.

Bishr narrated to us he said Yazeed narrated to us he said Sa'eed narrated to us from Qat dah that the meaning of: 'Its seal will be musk,' is that its final consequence will be that of musk, in that their wine will be first intermixed with camphor and then sealed with musk.

Ibn Abdal' al-'Al narrated to us he said Ibn Thawr narrated to us from Ma'mar from Qat dah that the meaning of: 'Its seal will be musk' is that its final outcome me will be with musk.

I narrated from al-Ussain he said I heard Abu Mu'adh say: 'Ubaid narrated to us, he said I heard a - a - k say regarding His words: 'Its seal will be musk'; means that Allah will indulge them with wine; and they will find that in the last of it will be the fragrance of musk.'

Abdal' al-'Al narrated to us he said 'Amr bin Ward narrated to us he said Abu Amza narrated to us from Ibrāhim and al-Asan regarding the meaning of this verse: 'Its seal will be musk' is that its result or final outcome will be musk.

Ibn Umayd narrated to us he said Ya'ya bin Wā'i narrated to us he said Abu Amza narrated to us from Jibrīl from Abdarrārahman bin Sibā' from Abu Dardā' that the meaning of His words: 'Its seal will be musk' is that it is a beverage which is as bright as silver with which those who will be given it to drink will seal their drinking. Even if a man from this life were to enter one of his fingers in it and then take it out, the fragrance of it would remain with him even after his spirit has been taken.

Other scholars said that the meaning of His words: 'Its seal will be musk' is that it will be sealed with a clay covering made from musk. Those who hold to this opinion take their evidence from the following traditions:

Mu'ammad ibn 'Amr narrated to me he said Abu 'Aim narrated to us he said Esa narrated to us and al-Aarith narrated to me he said al-Asan narrated to us he said Waraq (narrating to) all of us from Ibn Abi Najeeb from Mujahid, he said: 'The meaning of His words: Its seal will be musk means that its seal will be sealed with a clay covering made from musk.'

Yunus narrated to us he said Ibn Wahb reported to us he said that Ibn Zayd said regarding His words: 'Its seal will be musk means that the wine will be sealed musk.

Therefore with Allah its seal will be musk, while today in this life wine is sealed with clay. The foremost of the opinions which is most correct with us in what we related above is the opinion of those who said its meaning is: 'Its last or final outcome will be musk.' That is to say that it will be the fragrance of its perfume, in that the fragrance at the end of its drinking will give off the fragrance of musk. We say that this opinion is foremost in soundness of the preceding opinions because in the language of the Arabs there is no other linguistic meaning to the expression 'seal' other than 'an imprint' and 'completion' like their saying: 'So and so sealed the Qur'an, when they mean that he came to its ending.'

Since the meaning of 'stamp' when referring to the drink of the people of paradise has a finite meaning, it is understood that their drink flows like the flowing of the water in a river and does not ripen or age like the wine of this world's life which would require it to be closed and sealed. Thus the concept of 'sealing' here is specific and the soundest opinion would mean that it applies to the final outcome of the drink by which it is sealed. As for the expression of 'seal' with the meaning of 'intermixing', we do not know this to be heard from the language of the Arabs.

One can see how Imām abū Ḥāfiẓ likes to digress and elaborate when given the chance and in spite of that he only discovered in the expression of 'seal' the meanings of 'to imprint upon', 'to close', 'to end' or 'to complete'. And he discovered no other meaning in the language of the Arabs beside these. The preponderate meaning of the final verse: 'Its seal will be musk' is that its final outcome and completion will become like the perfumed fragrance of musk. Unlike the fragrance of the wine of this world's like which diffuses a foul odour from the mouth of its drinker. This is the meaning that al-Yatim gave and it is exclusively mentioned by the author of the Mukhtār as-Sīḥāḥ. In this work under the section of the letter arrangement (سِيَّن) it is stated:

The expression ‘to seal a thing’ is to be taken as illustration for something that is ‘closed’ (makhtoom) and ‘shut’ (mukhattam) when it is intensified to express amplification; like the expressions: ‘Allah sealed it with good’; and ‘He sealed the Qur’ān’ meaning that he reached its ending. Thus, the conclusion of a thing is the opposite of its beginning. The expressions [] (with the letter ta inflexed with the fat’ha); (with the letter ta inflexed with the kasra); []; and [] all have one meaning. And its plural form is []. The expression [] means to wear a ring while the expression: [] (‘to seal a thing’) means its ending. Thus, Mu‘ammad, may Allah bless him and grant him peace is the Seal of the Prophets, upon them be blessings and peace. The expression [] (sealing wax) is clay used to seal a thing, thus the meaning in Allah ta‘ala’s words: ‘Its seal will be musk'; i.e. it’s ending will be with musk, since the last fragrance which will exude from the wine or its drinker will be the fragrance of musk.

Indeed, here the expression ‘takhatm’ which means to wear a ring, but the original meaning of the word ‘ring’ (khātim) is so named because initially the ring was used to seal envelopes and letters which were officially sent by kingdoms, where the messages were secured with red wax and then stamped with the ring. Thus the envelopes or messages could not be opened except by breaking the seal. Consequently, it was impossible to tamper or interfere with the letter and its contents without it being apparent and obvious. Thereafter rings became a sought of adornment which were worn upon the fingers and in some cases, were still utilised in many regions for its original purpose of sealing messages and closing envelopes, such as in the Arabian Peninsula.

In addition to this, there is the interpretation of the ‘Ru‘ū -Allah and His word’, the Messiah, Esa ibn Maryam, peace be upon him and his mother, when he will say on the Day of Judgement: ‘Have you not seen how when a container which has goods inside of it has a seal upon it that it is impossible to access what is in it until the seal is broken?’ It will be said: ‘No’ He will say: ‘Likewise, Mu‘ammad, may Allah bless him and grant him peace is the Seal of the Prophets.’ This was as the Messenger of Allah Mu‘ammad, the Seal of the Prophets, informed us, upon him and his family blessings and peace. This has reached us with the soundest chain of authority in the Musnad of Imām A‘mad bin Ḥanbal.⁸

‘Affān narrated to us ‘Amr ibn Salama narrated to us Thabit narrated to us from Anas that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: The day of judgement will be elongated for its people to the extent that some of the people will say to others: ‘Let’s go to Adam the father of mankind so that he can intercede for us with our Lord; and he can inform us of what will happen with us.’ They will then go to Adam and say: ‘O Adam you are the one whom Allah created with His Hand and caused to live in His Paradise, so intercede for us with your Lord, and inform us what will become of us.’ He will say: ‘I am unable to bring you relief, however go to Nūh who is the head of the Prophets.’ They will then proceed to him and say: ‘O Nūh intercede for us with your Lord, and inform us what will befall us.’ He will say: ‘I am unable to bring relief for you, however go to Ibrāhīm, the intimate friend of Allah azza wa jalla’. They will then proceed to him and say: ‘O Ibrāhīm intercede for us with your Lord and inform us what will become of us.’ He will say: ‘I am unable to bring you relief, however go to Musa, whom Allah azza wa jalla chose for His Message and Speech’. They will then proceed to him and say: ‘O Musa intercede for us with your Lord azza wa jalla, and inform us what will become of us.’ He will say: ‘I am unable to bring you relief, however go to Esa, the Spirit belonging to Allah and His Word’.

They will then proceed to Esa and say: ‘O Esa intercede for us with your Lord and inform us what will become of us.’ He will say: ‘I am unable to bring relief to you, however go to Mu‘ammad, may Allah bless him and grant him peace, for he is the Seal of the Prophets. This Day he is present and his sins of the past and the future have been forgiven.' He (Esa) will then say: 'Have you not seen how when a container which has goods inside of it has a seal upon it that it is impossible to access what is in it until the seal is broken? It will be said: 'No' He will say: Likewise, Muhammad may Allah bless him and grant him peace is the Seal of the Prophets''

The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) then said: 'They will then come to me and say: 'O Muhammad intercede for us with your Lord and inform us of what will befall us.' I will say: 'Yes'. I will then go to the door of Paradise and take hold of door handle in order to open It. Then a voice will be heard: 'Who are you?' I will say: 'Muhammad'. Then the door will be opened for me, and I will then fall into prostration and give praises to my Lord, azza wa jalla, with a praise that no being before or after me will ever praise Him with. He will then say to me: 'Lift your head! Speak and I will listen! Ask and I will give you! Intercede and I will accept your intercession!' I will say: 'Indeed O Lord, my Ummah! My Ummah!' He, Allah will then say: 'Go and take out those in whose hearts is the weight of a barley seed of faith'. I will then take them out and then go and fall into prostration and give praises to my Lord, azza wa jalla, with a praise that no being before or after me will ever praise Him with. He, Allah will then say: 'Lift your head! Ask and I will give you! Intercede and I will accept your intercession!'

I will say: 'Indeed O Lord, my Ummah! My Ummah!' Allah will then say: 'Go and take out those in whose hearts is the weight of a fruit seed of faith'. I will then take them out and then go and fall into prostration and say what I said before. He, Allah will then say what He said before and then say: 'Go and take out those in whose hearts is the weight of an atom of faith'. I will then take them out.

Al-'Abbās bin al-Fātīma narrated to us 'Amr b. Thereafter continuing with the wording of the previous chain) *Go to Esa for he will intercede with your lord. And who is more unjust than he who forges a lie against Allah, or says: It has been revealed to me; while nothing has been revealed to him, and he who says: I can reveal the like of what Allah has revealed? And if you had seen when the unjust shall be in the agonies of death and the angels shall spread forth their hands: Give up your souls; today shall you be recompensed with an ignominious chastisement because you spoke against Allah other than the truth and you showed pride against His communications.¹⁰

From this it is clear without doubt that the expression ‘the Seal of the Prophets’ can only mean that he is the last of them. Yet its meaning is stronger than that, because Prophethood is like a container which is closed and has a stamp upon it, from which nothing can exit or enter until the great establishment of the hour. Thus, the Prophethood of the foregoing Prophets is well established and cannot be repealed. It is inconceivable for this description to be repealed and that Mu ammad is the last of them, and this description also can never be repealed from him. For there will be no new Prophet after him. This does not mean he is merely a witness for their Prophethood and a means to measure it only, although he is a witness for them. Nor does it mean that he is merely the certifier of them, although he does certify them. Nor does it mean that he is merely their nobility, although he does enoble them. This is because the expression ‘seal’ does not comprise any of the above meanings in Arabic; although these meanings have been established for him, upon him and his family be blessings and peace as in other texts.

In the aforementioned verse its definition provides a definitive certain proof, which only a kāfir denies, that Mu ammad (peace be upon him) is the last of the Prophets and their seal. There will be no Prophet or Messenger after him. Whosoever claims that there is one after him is without doubt a liar. There is no difference between such liars whether past or present, be they: Musaylama al-anafi al-Arabi al-Adn ni the liar; or al-Aswad al-‘Ansi al-Arabi al-Qa ni the liar; or al-Bahai the lying Persian; or Ghulam A mad al-Qadi ni al-Hindi the liar; or anyone else. This includes the ‘false messiah’, namely al-Masīḥ ad-Dajjāl, who has been foretold to appear before the end of time. All of them have lied; or will invent lies against Allah. Each of them are the enemies of Allah and each of them have been cursed and have earned the anger of Allah.

As for a previous Prophet, namely Esa ibn Maryam (peace be upon him), he was commissioned as a Prophet prior to Prophethood being sealed and locked. He is a Prophet now and will be so when he returns to this world. Upon his return, his Prophethood will not be a new dispensation, since all of the laws that were previously brought have been abrogated and their communities as they have been described in the previous scriptures have ceased. Therefore upon his return, Esa ibn Maryam (peace be upon him) will be considered as part of the final Ummah of Mu ammad, adhering to his message and following the final law that he brought. It is not permissible to deny this essential truth for those who truly believe in Allah and the last day. Whoever denies this then Allah is independent of the entire world. Allah, may His omnipotence be majestic, knows that there are those who dispute and deny the finality of the Prophethood of Mu ammad ibn Abdullah al-H shimi al-‘Arabi (peace be upon him). Thus He makes clear in undisputed, unambiguous expressions on the tongue of His Prophet, evidence which further proves the above.

Among them are his words:

- There is to be no Prophet after me
- Verily I am the seal of the Prophets and there will be no prophet after me
- There will be no Prophet after me and there will be no religious community after you
- I am the seal of the Prophets and you are the last of the religious communities
- I am the subsequent one (which is the one after whom there will be no prophet)
- I am the last of the Prophets and my masjid is the last of masjid's
- I have been sent and the hour is at hand

The Prophetic traditions narrated regarding the ‘great intercession’ establish this. The words of the Messiah on the day of judgement were previously mentioned where mankind will say: ‘O Mu ammad you are the Messenger of Allah and the Seal of the Prophets whom Allah has forgiven for what has passed and what is to come; so intercede on our behalf to your Lord! Do you not see our condition? Do you not see what has befallen us?’¹¹ As well as in the Prophetic tradition narrated regarding the house whose construction was complete with the exception of one brick; about which the people asked him and he said: ‘I am that brick and I am the seal of the Prophets.’¹² All the Prophetic traditions verify that Prophethood has ceased and that there only remains ‘glad tidings’ which are true dreams as he, upon him be blessings and peace said: ‘Nothing remains of Prophethood except

¹¹ The hadith is also collected by Bukh ri and Muslim

*glad tidings.*¹³

Additionally there are a very large number of Prophetic traditions other than these with established sound chains of authorities from narrators such as Abu Hurayrah, Sa`d ibn Abi Waqq s, Asm bint ‘Umaysh, the mother of the believers Umm Salama, Abdullah ibn Umar ibn al-Kha b, Ali ibn Abi lib, Thawb n, udhayfah ibn al-Yaman, F ima bint Qays, Abi Um ma al-Bahili, Abdullah ibn ‘Amr ibn al-‘A , Jubayr ibn Ma `am, Anas ibn M lik, Ibn ‘Abb s, Abu’ ufayl, the mother of the believers ‘Aisha, Umm Karaz al-Ka`biya, Abdullah ibn Abi Awfa, Abdullah ibn Mas`ud, al-‘Irb ibn Sariya as-Salami, ‘Uqba ibn ‘A mir, and J bir ibn Abdullah - may the pleasure and peace of Allah be upon all of them. All of these narrations have been transmitted with the soundest chains of authorities, where each chain stands as a legal proof by itself, not to speak of when they are joined together. The veracity of this principle has also been established by others such as Sahl ibn Sa`d, Mu ammad ibn ‘Adi ibn Ka`b and an-Nu`m n ibn Bashir. Each of these Prophetic traditions and narratives are congruent, unambiguous and diverse, which makes it impossible for an intelligent person to entertain misgivings about their veracity. These narrations are the strongest unbroken and clear transmission in the world. No one doubts this except the one upon whom the pen has been lifted and he is unfortunately included among the idiotic madmen.

The consensus of the companions (Ijmā’ as-Šāhabah) confers upon the finality of Prophethood, that Mu ammad (peace be upon him) is the last of the Prophets and Messengers; no Prophet or messenger will come after him. The companions fought anyone who would claim Prophethood after he (peace be upon him) departed this world. History has also attested to this fact and known by Muslims and non-Muslims alike. Every imposter claiming Prophethood has failed to establish that claim and been exposed as a liar. In fact, the consensus upon this issue is greater even than the Ijmā' aṣ-Ṣahabah, because it has been recurrently transmitted from the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him) until now, every Muslim carrying that message and being part of this consensus; all safe in the knowledge of the certainty of this point without having the need to consult the book or examine chains of transmission.

Each of these Prophetic traditions and narratives are congruent, unambiguous and diverse, which makes it impossible for an intelligent person to entertain misgivings about their veracity. These narrations are the strongest unbroken and clearest recurrent transmission in the world (tawātur). No one doubts this except the one upon whom the pen has been lifted and he is unfortunately included among the idiotic madmen. In the following chapters, I will dh 1estu1J 16.908 0 T09(t)-usm3(t)10(

2 An excellence that exceeds all others

Allah the exalted conferred enormous favour upon his unlettered messenger, Mu ammad the last and the seal of Prophets, over all previous Prophets. Allah favoured him with unique qualities that were not granted to any predecessor. These are numerous with each one containing special significance:

- ❖ Allah ended Prophethood with him; no Prophet or messenger will be sent after him until the day of judgement.
- ❖ The entire earth was made a means of purification and a place of prayer for him. Whenever the time of prayer becomes due on any of his servants, he can purify himself and pray. The previous nations used to offer their prayers only in temples, hermitages, churches or synagogues built for that purpose.
- ❖ He (peace be upon him) was made victorious over his enemies by means of awe and fear, despite presiding at great distance and a whole months travelling.

- ❖ His nation still enjoys the fruits of this advantage, even during its weakest eras; fear and terror still fill the hearts of heavily-armed armies who possess nuclear weapons, when they meet some of the so-called ‘terrorists’ on the battlefield, although Muslims may possess nothing but light weapons.
- ❖ Allah made the spoils of war lawful to him and to his Ummah with which they may supply and strengthen themselves, while previous nations used to offer them as sacrifices and burn them.
- ❖ Allah distinguished his last Prophet (peace be upon him) with intercession for all human beings and raised him to a station praised by earlier generations.
- ❖ The banner of Al-Hamd (praising Allah) will be given to him on the day of judgement under which all the Prophets since the time of Adam (peace be upon him) will be.
- ❖ He (peace be upon him) was granted the gift of the answered supplication, which he chose to make as intercession for his Ummah on the day of judgement, while all the previous Prophets (peace be upon them all) chose to have their supplication answered during their earthly lives.
- ❖ He (peace be upon him) was also granted 'Jawāmi' al-Kalim' the shortest expression with the widest meaning, being able to utilise single sentences that bore wide meanings and contain deep wisdom. Although his speech was concise, it conveyed the exact meaning, which prevented irrelevancy and idle talk.
- ❖ He (peace be upon him) was sent to all human beings, or rather to all mankind as well as the jinn, while the Prophets before him were sent to their own nations or specific locales.

Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him) had many other great privileges, lofty positions and the most honourable of status, which has made him the Im m of all Prophets and the best of all Messengers; may the peace and blessings of Allah be upon him and his family. As for the fact that the Prophet (peace be upon him) was sent from Allah to all mankind, it is an acknowledged undoubted truth, supported by many conclusive evidences. Allah has said:

قُلْ يَا أَيُّهَا النَّاسُ إِنِّي رَسُولُ اللَّهِ إِلَيْكُمْ جَمِيعًا الَّذِي لَهُ مُلْكُ السَّمَاوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضِ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا هُوَ يُحْيِي وَيُمِيتُ فَإِنَّمَا بِاللَّهِ وَرَسُولِهِ النَّبِيِّ الْأَمِينِ الَّذِي يُؤْمِنُ بِاللَّهِ وَكَلِمَاتِهِ وَاتَّبَعَهُ لَعَلَّكُمْ تَهْتَدُونَ

*Say: O people! Surely I am the Messenger of Allah to you all - of Him whose is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth, there is no god but He; He brings to life and causes to die therefore believe in Allah and His Messenger, the unlettered Prophet who believes in Allah and His words, and follow him so that you may walk in the right way.*¹

وَمَا أَرْسَلْنَاكَ إِلَّا كَافَةً لِلنَّاسِ بِشِيرًا وَنَذِيرًا وَلَكِنَّ أَكْثَرَ النَّاسِ لَا يَعْلَمُونَ

*And We have not sent you but to all mankind as a bearer of good news and as a warner, but most men do not know.*²

Regarding this subject, Im m Bukh ri records the following hadith in al-Jāmi as-Sahīh al-Mukhtaṣr with one of the strongest channels of narration:

Abdullah narrated to us Sulaym n bin Abdar-Ra man and Musa bin H run narrated to us, they said, Al-Waleed bin Muslim narrated to us Abdullah bin al-'Ala bin Zubr narrated to us Bisr bin 'Ubaidallah narrated to me Abu Idrees al-Khawl ni narrated to me, he said I heard Abu Dard ' say: There was a dispute between Abu Bakr and Umar, and Abu Bakr made Umar angry, so he left angrily. Abu Bakr followed him, requesting him to ask forgiveness for him, but Umar refused to do so and closed his door in Abu Bakr's face. So Abu Bakr went to Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) while we were with him. Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) said: This friend of yours must have quarrelled (with somebody). In the meantime Umar repented and felt sorry for what he had done so he came and greeted (those who were present) and sat with the Prophet (peace be upon him) and related the story to him. Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) became angry and Abu Bakr started saying – 'O Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him)! By Allah, I was more at fault (than Umar).' Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) said: Are you (people) leaving for me my companion? (Abu Bakr), are you (people) leaving for me my companion? When I said: O people I am sent to you all as the Messenger of Allah you said I told a lie, while Abu Bakr said you have spoken the truth.

The hadith is reported widely; Bukh ri has it in another part of his Sahīḥ;³ Abdullah ibn A mad bin anbal records it in Faḍā'il aṣ-Saḥābah (virtues of the companions);⁴ abar ni in the Musnad ash-Shāmiyān as well as in the Mu'jam al-Kabir,⁵ and Bayhaqy has this in the Sunan al-Kubra.⁶ Without question the matter is known from amongst the certainties of religion. Even most of the non-Muslims attest to the fact that he (peace be upon him) acted according to the message he bore. He (peace be upon him) sent messages to kings and tyrants inviting them to follow and obey him. This is a clear truth or rather an established historical fact beyond all doubt and if we attempt to elucidate every proof for this, volumes could be written.

Some may argue that perhaps number of evidences which establish this point is staggering. Aside from that which will be presented as quotations from the famous Qur'an interpreters (a - abari and Ibn Kathir), a selection of the various aḥādīth (which is over twenty) will be cited to demonstrate this, together with comments in relation to the transmission and narrators where applicable.

Im m a - abari writes in his Tafsir regarding the interpretation of the following verse:

تِلْكَ الرُّسُلُ فَصَلَّنَا بِنَصْرِهِمْ عَلَى بَعْضِ مَنْهُمْ مَنْ كَلَّمَ اللَّهُ وَرَفَعَ بَعْضَهُمْ دَرَجَاتٍ وَآتَيْنَا عِيسَى
ابْنَ مَرِيمَ الْبَيْنَاتَ وَآتَيْنَاهُ بُرُوجَ الْقُدُسِ وَلَوْ شَاءَ اللَّهُ مَا أَفْتَنَ الَّذِينَ مِنْ بَعْدِهِمْ مَمَا
جَاءُتْهُمُ الْبَيْنَاتُ وَلَكِنْ اخْتَلَفُوا فِيهِنُمْ مَمَّا آتَنَا وَلَوْ شَاءَ اللَّهُ مَا أَفْتَنُوا وَلَكِنْ
اللَّهُ يَفْعُلُ مَا يُرِيدُ

We have made some of these Messengers to excel the others among them are they to whom Allah spoke, and some of them He exalted by rank; and We gave clear miracles to Jesus son of Mary and strengthened him with the holy spirit.

*And if Allah had pleased, those after them would not have fought one with another after clear arguments had come to them, but they disagreed; so there were some of them who believed and others who denied; and if Allah had pleased they would not have fought one with another, but Allah brings about what He intends.*⁷

By saying 'these messengers,' Allah means all of them whose stories were mentioned in this Chapter. Among them are Musa bin 'Imrān, Ibrāhim, Ismā'īl, Isāq, Ya'qub, Samuel, Dūwud and all other Prophets mentioned in this chapter. The meaning of Allah's words is, they are My Messengers and I preferred some of them over the others. I spoke to some of them like Musa and I raised the ranks of some of them over the others with high and honourable positions.

Mu'ammad bin 'Amr narrated to me he said Abu 'Aim narrated to us he said Esa narrated to us from Ibn Abi Najee from Mujahid regarding the words of the exalted: 'Allah spoke to some of them and raised others in ranks' He spoke to Musa and sent Mu'ammad to all of mankind.

Al-Muthanna narrated to me he said Abu Udhayfah narrated to us he said Shubal narrated to us from Ibn Abi Najee from Mujahid about this (and he reports) among that which proves the validity of what we are saying is the hadīth of the Prophet (peace be upon him) in which he said: I have been granted five (things) which were not granted to anyone before me (and these are): I have been sent to all the red and the black (i.e., to the different races of humanity). I have been made victorious by awe, for the enemy gets frightened of me from a distance of a one-month journey. The earth has been made a place of prayer and a means of purification (i.e., through dry ablution) for me. The spoils of war have been made lawful for me, while they were never made lawful to anyone before me. It was said to me, 'Ask (for anything) and you will be granted it.' So, I made it an intercession for my nation, which will be granted to my nation for he who does not associate anything with Allah.

Commenting on the previous verse, a - abari says:

In relation to the interpretation of the verse: 'Say: O people! Surely I am the Messenger of Allah to you all - of Him whose is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth, there is no god but He; He brings to life and causes to die therefore believe in Allah and His Messenger, the unlettered Prophet who believes in Allah and His words, and follow him so that you may walk in the right way.'⁸ Allah is saying to His Prophet (peace be upon him) to say to all of mankind that he is the Messenger of Allah to all of them, not to some of them and not the other, as it was the case with the previous Messengers before him. They used to be sent to some people and not all. If they were sent like that, my message is not concerned with some among you and not the others; it is for all of you.

⁸ Qur'ān 7: 158

And in relation to the verse that he (peace be upon him) is sent to all mankind as a bearer of glad tidings and with a warning, a - abari says:

In relation to the interpretation of the verse: ‘And We have not sent you but to all mankind as a bearer of good news and as a Warner, but most men do not know.’⁹ Allah says that He did not send Mu ammad, especially to those who disbelieved among his nation, but He sent him to all people whether they were Arab or foreigners, whether they have red or black skin. You were sent in order to preach with good omen those who obeyed you and to threaten those who disobeyed, but the majority of people do not know that Allah sent you to all mankind. People who interpreted this verse said the same as we have mentioned.

Bishr narrated to us he said Yazeed narrated to us he said Sa’eed narrated to us from Qat dah who said [sic. regarding the verse] Allah sent Mu ammad to Arabs and foreigners. The most beloved among them is the one who obeys Allah most. It was mentioned that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ‘I am the one who will precede Arabs (i.e. first to enter Paradise). Suhayb will precede Byzantium. Bilāl will precede the Ethiopians. And Salmān will precede Persians.’

Im m Bukh ri records the following hadith in al-Jāmi as-Šahīh al-Mukhtaṣr:

⁹ Qur ’ān 34: 28

: () :

Mu ammad bin Sin n narrated to us he said Hushaym narrated to us (ḥawala) he said and Sa’eed bin an-Na r narrated to me he said Hushaym reported to us he said Say r reported to us he said Yazeed, who is ibn uhayb al-Faqeer, narrated to us he said J bir ibn Abdullah reported to us that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five things which were not given to anyone else before me: Allah made me victorious by awe, for a distance of one month's journey; the earth has been made for me (and for my followers) a masjid and ritually pure therefore anyone of my followers can pray wherever the time of a prayer is due. The booty has been made lawful for me yet it was not lawful for anyone else before me. I have been given the right of intercession. Every Prophet used to be sent to his nation only, but I have been sent to all mankind.

Muslim has the same narration albeit with slightly variant wording:

Ya ya bin Ya ya narrated to us Hushaym reported to us from Say r from Yazeed al-Faqeer from J bir ibn Abdullah al-An ri who said that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: I have been conferred upon five (things) which were not granted to anyone before me (these are): Every Messenger was sent particularly to his own people, whereas I have been sent to all the red and the black, the spoils of war have been made lawful for me and these were never made lawful to anyone before me; the earth has been made sacred and pure and a mosque for me, so whenever the time of prayer comes for any one of you he should pray wherever he is, and I have been supported by awe from the distance (which one takes) one month to cover and I have been granted intercession.

The narration of J bir (may Allah be pleased with him) is recorded in most hadith collections, be they Sahīh, Musnad, Sunan or otherwise. It has one of the most authentic channels of transmission. Similarly, Im m Muslim records another hadith this time on the authority of Abu Hurayrah:

Ya ya ibn Ayub, Qutayba ibn Sa'eed and Ali ibn ujr narrated to us, they said Ism 'il, and he is ibn Ja'far narrated to us from al-'Al ' from his father from Abu Hurayrah that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I have been given superiority over the other Prophets in six respects: I have been given words which are concise but comprehensive in meaning; I have been helped by terror (in the hearts of enemies); spoils have been made lawful to me; the earth has been made for me clean and a place of worship; I have been sent to all mankind and the line of prophets is closed with me.

Again, this narration has one of the most authentic channels of transmission and is found in most hadith collections, be they Sahīh, Musnad, Sunan or otherwise. There is another narrative that is recorded in Musnad al-Bazz r with some additions:

(It was) written upon amza bin M lik, (being) reported that his uncle, Sufy n bin amza narrated to him from Kathir bin Ziad from al-Waleed bin Rab from Abu Hurayrah from the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: I have been given superiority over the other prophets in six respects which were not given to anyone else before me: my past and present sins were forgiven, the spoils of war have been made lawful for me, and these were never made lawful to anyone before me, my nation was made the best among other nations, the earth has been made sacred and pure and a mosque for me, I was given Al-Kawthar and I have been supported by awe. By He in whose hands my soul is! Your Companion (the Prophet) is the one who will hold the flag of praise during the day of judgement, followed by Adam (peace be upon him) and whoever came after him.

Writing in Mu'jama' az-Zawā'id, al-Haythamy cited the narration as being from al-Bazz r and said that the isnād was good. I would submit that when searched it can also be found within the wording of Musnad Sirāj, with the channel as: Mu ammad ibn Ism 'il al-Bukh ri narrated to us Ism 'il bin Abi Awais narrated to us my brother narrated to me from Sulaym n from Kathir bin Ziad from al-Waleed bin Rab from Abu Hurayrah. It is also in the Explanation of the Principles of Aqeedah of Ahl-as-Sunnah wal-Jamā'h by Abu Qasim al-Lilaluk 'i with an intersected channel - Esa bin Ali reported to us Abdullah bin Mu ammad al-Baghawi reported to us he said azma bin M lik al-Aslami narrated to us he said my uncle Esa bin Sufy n bin azma narrated to us from (hawala) and 'Ubaiddallah bin A mad and Mu ammad bin al- ussein al-F risi reported to us they said: al- ussein bin Ism 'il reported to us he said azma bin M lik narrated to us he said my uncle narrated to us he said Kathir, that is to say, Ibn Zayd narrated to us from al-Waleed, he is Ibn Rab from Abu Hurayrah. I would submit that this is a very good isnād and authentic by the standards of Im m Bukh ri, as per the narration from the Prophet (peace be upon him) that says: 'Indeed a woman grants (assurances of protection) to the Muslims.' Concerning this Im m Tirmidhi said: 'I asked Mu ammad and he said: 'This hadith is Sahīh. Kathir bin Ziad heard from Al-Walid bin Rabah, and Al-Walid bin Rabah heard from Abu Hurayrah, and he is muqārib (average) in hadith.'¹⁰ In the Sahīh of Ibn ibb n he records as follows:

Is q ibn Ibr him reported to us in Bust; amm d bin Ya ya bin amm d narrated to us in Ba ra, his father narrated to us

¹⁰ See Sunan Tirmidhi, book of military expeditions, chapter entitled: 'what has been related about the assurance of protection granted by a woman and a slave.'

Abu 'Aw na narrated to us from Sulaym n from Muj hid from 'Ubaiddallah bin 'Umair from Abu Dharr who said the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five things which were not given to anyone else before me. I have been sent to the red and the black, the spoils of war have been made lawful for me and these were never made lawful to anyone before me, Allah made me victorious by awe, for a distance of one month's journey, the earth has been made ritually pure for me and a masjid and it was said to me ask and you will be answered. I saved my (supplication) as an intercession (on the day of judgement) for my Ummah. It is guaranteed to whoever does not associate anything with Allah.

Shaykh Shu'ayb al-Arn 'u said the hadith is Sahīh. In a slightly longer narrative Al- kim has the following in the Mustadrak:

Abu Bakr A mad bin K mil bin Khalf al-Q i narrated to us Mu ammad bin Jarir al-Faqihi narrated to us Abu Kareeb narrated to us – he heard Abu Salama and asked his (view) regarding what Allah the exalted said (in the verse): 'And We have not sent you but to all mankind as a bearer of good news and as a Warner, but most men do not know', so he said al-'Amash narrated to us from Muj hid from 'Ubaidd bin 'Umair from Abu Dharr who said: I sought the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) one night and he found him standing performing prayer. He (peace be upon him) prolonged the prayer and then said: I had been given this night five matters which (tt)s 1 □(h6oh)-5(s)- ngiven ابن عباس روى أن النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم قال: أنا أعلمكم بـ (n)2(hg)I(luū)(is)983 ussein bin Mu ammad narrated to us Isr 'il narrated to us from Abu Is q from Abi Burda from Abu Musa who said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five things. I have been sent to the red and the black, the earth has been made ritually pure for me and a masjid, the spoils of war have been made lawful for me and these were never made lawful to anyone before me, Allah made me victorious by awe, (by His frightening my enemies) for a distance of one month's journey, and I have been given the right of intercession. Every Prophet asked Allah for an intercession and I saved my intercession (on the day of judgement) for whoever died from among my nation that does not associate anything with Allah.

Regarding this, a-Haythami said: 'A mad recorded it mutassil (connected / uninterrupted) and mursal (loose); abar ni (said) its men are the men of Šaḥīḥ.' In relation to the isnād it is an authentic channel of transmission. Im m Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba records the same in his Muṣṣanaf.¹⁵ Im m A mad records another tradition in his Musnad on the authority of Abu Um mah:

: : ()

Mu ammad bin Abi 'Adi narrated to us from Sulaym n – that is to say – at-Taymi from Say r from Abu Um mah that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Allah distinguished me above the Prophets (peace be upon them) [the narrator had doubted that he said on the nations] with four matters. I have been sent to all mankind, the earth has been made all for me (and for my nation) the earth has been made ritually pure for me and a masjid, therefore anyone of my nation can pray wherever the time of a prayer is due; he has his place of prayer and what he will use in ablution, I have been helped by terror (in the hearts of enemies) for a distance of one month's journey and the booty has been made lawful for me.

The narration is also reported by Bayhaqy in the Sunan al-Kubra,¹⁶ and abar ni in his Mu'jam al-Kabir,¹⁷ in more than one place. Im m A mad again records similarly but this is via Ibn 'Abb s:

Abdu - amad narrated to us Abdal-Aziz bin Muslim narrated to us Yazeed narrated to us from Miqsam from Ibn 'Abb s that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five things which were not given to anyone else before me and I did not say that out of pride. I have been sent to all of mankind – the red and the black; Allah made me victorious by awe, (by His frightening my enemies) for a distance of one month's journey. The booty has been made lawful for me yet it was not lawful for anyone else before me. The earth has been made ritually pure for me and a masjid. I have been given intercession and I saved it for my Ummah (on the day of judgement). It is guaranteed to whoever does not associate anything with Allah.

Im m A mad also has the following:

Ali bin 'A im narrated to us from Yazeed bin Abi Ziy d from Miqsam and Muj hid from Ibn 'Abb s that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five things which were not given to anyone else before me and I did not say that out of pride. I have been sent to everyone red and black; it is not red nor black that enters in my Ummah except that they are a part of it. And the earth is made a masjid for me.

Again this particular narration is reported in other places, such as being cited by Im m Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba in his Muṣṣanaf,¹⁸ and by 'Abd bin ameed in his Musnad.¹⁹ Contained within this chain is Yazeed bin Abi Ziy d who is considered as having slight weakness. Im m A mad records many ahādīth from him. Various other authorities and Im m's regarded him as tolerable, such as al-Haythamy. In Mu'jama' az-Zawā'id he said: 'The men A mad (narrated from) are men of Sahīh except for Yazeed ibn Abi Ziy d, he has ḥasan hadīth.' Ibn Kathir regarded this chain of transmission as a good chain in his Tafsīr; the rest of his narrators are strong so it may be reach the level of the hasan Ṣahīḥ, which can be regarded as relied upon proofs, particularly when considered against other narrations as provided from Ibn ‘Abbās. In mā abar ni has the next two narrations contained within his Mu’jam al-Kabir:

‘Abd n bin A mad narrated to us Abdullah bin amm d bin Numayr narrated to us Hu ein bin Numayr narrated to us Ibn Abi Layla narrated to us from al- akam from Muj hid from Ibn ‘Abb s that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: I have been sent to the red and the black; previous Prophet’s were sent to specific (people); I have been helped by terror (in the hearts of enemies) by a journey’s distance of one or two months. The booty has been made lawful for me yet it was not lawful for anyone else before me. The earth has been made ritually pure for me and a masjid. I have been given intercession and I saved it for my Ummah (on the day of judgement). It is guaranteed to whoever does not associate anything with Allah.

Salama bin Ibr him bin Ya ya bin Salama bin Kuhayl narrated to us my father narrated to me from his father from his grandfather from Salama bin Kuhayl from Muj hid from Ibn ‘Abb s that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five things that no Prophet before me had: I am sent to all people, to the red and the black, previous Prophets peace be upon them were sent to their own nation; I have been helped by terror (in the hearts of enemies) by a journey’s distance of one month. I have been permitted the booty; I have been given the earth as a masjid and of ritual purity and the last being intercession for my Ummah on the day of judgement.

Bayhaqī has recorded similarly in his Sunan al-Kubra:

Abu Bakr A mad bin al- asan al-Q i reports: Abul' 'Abb s Mu ammad bin Ya'qub narrated to us al- asan bin Ali bin 'Af n narrated to us 'Ubaiddallah bin Musa narrated to us S lim Abu amm d narrated to us from as-Suddi from 'Ikrima from Ibn 'Abb s that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five things which were not given to any Prophet before me. The earth has been made for ritually pure and a masjid, while there is no one among the Prophets was allowed to perform prayer till he reaches his sanctuary (mihrāb). I have been supported by awe, for a distance of one month's journey between me and the disbelievers, Allah throws awe in their hearts, all Prophets were sent to their own nations and I was sent to jinn and mankind, the Prophets used to separate one fifth (of the booty) and set it on fire, I was ordered to divide it and give it to the poor ones of my Ummah, and every Prophet was answered for his request, while I saved my (supplication) as an intercession (on the day of judgement) for my Ummah.

Imāma-abarī has the next narration in Mu'jam al-Kabir

Mu ammad bin Abdullah al- a rami narrated to us Abdar-Ra man bin al-Fa il bin Muwafiq narrated to us my father narrated to us Ism 'il bin Ibr him narrated to us from Muj hid from Ibn 'Abb s who said that the Prophet (peace be upon him) was supported by awe for a distance of one month's journey.

In the Mustadrak, al-kim has the following athar (narrative) against from Ibn ‘Abbās:

Abu Zakariy Ya ya bin Mu ammad al-Anbari reported to us Mu ammad bin Abd as-Sal m narrated to us Is q bin Ibr him narrated to us Yazeed bin Abi akeem reports: al- akam bin ‘Ab n narrated to us he said: I heard ‘Ikrima who said – Ibn ‘Abb s said – ‘Verily Allah favoured Mu ammad (peace be upon him) above the inhabitants of heaven and those of earth.’ They said: O Ibn ‘Abb s, Allah favoured him above the inhabitants of heaven? He said ‘Allah has declared: *And whoever of them should say – Surely I am a god besides him, such a one do we recompense with hell; thus do we recompense the unjust.*²⁰ And in relation to Mu ammad (peace be upon him): *Surely we have given to you a clear victory. That Allah may forgive your community their past faults and those to follow and complete his favour to you and keep you on a right way.*²¹ The verse, they said (showing) Allah’s favour above the inhabitants of the earth? (Ibn ‘Abb s said) ‘Allah the exalted has said: *And we did not send any Prophet but with the language of his people.*²² And the verse for Mu ammad (peace be upon him): *And we have not sent you but to all mankind as a bearer of good news and as a Warner;*²³ He was sent to mankind and the iinn.’

Thereafter al-¹ kim commented saying: ‘This hadith is Sahīh; regarding the isnād al-² akam bin Ab³ n is accepted by the majority of the scholars of Islam, but not recorded by the two Shaykh’s.’ This particular narration is also reported by Abu Ya’la in his Musnad,²⁴ as well as in the Musnad of D²⁵ rimi. Qutayba bin Sa'eed narrated to us Bakr bin Mu'ar narrated to us from ibn al-H d from 'Amr bin Shuayb from his father from his grandfather that the Prophet (peace be upon him) during the year of the battle of Tabuk was standing performing prayer during the night. Some of his Companions gathered behind him in order to guard him till he finished his prayer and said to them: I had been given this night five matters which were not given to any one before me. I have been sent to all mankind while whoever was before me used to be sent to his nation, Allah made me victorious by awe, (by His frightening my enemies) for a distance of one month's journey, the booty has been made lawful to me to consume while those who were before me used to burn it, the earth has been made a masjid for me and ritually pure whenever it is a time of prayer I wipe and pray while those who were before me were forbade to do so, they used to pray in their churches and the fifth is what it is. It was said to me ask as every Prophet asked (for something). I saved my supplication (as an intercession) on the day of judgement. It is guaranteed to you and to whoever believes that there is no god but Allah.

²⁶ Sunan al-Kubra Vol. 1 sec. 223, no. 1,000

In az-Zawā'id another similar hadith is recorded, this time on the authority of Abu Sa'eed al-Khudri:

From Abu Sa'eed who said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five things which were not given to any prophet before me. I have been sent to the red and the black while every messenger was sent particularly to his own people. Allah made me victorious by awe, (by His frightening my enemies) for a distance of one month's journey. The booty has been made lawful for me yet it was not lawful for anyone else before me. The earth has been made for me a thing to perform Tayammum and a place for praying, and every prophet was guaranteed the answer of a supplication and they asked for it. I saved my supplication as an intercession (on the day of judgement) for my Ummah. It is guaranteed to whoever dies and does not associate anything with Allah.

Al-Haythamy said that abar ni reports this in al-Awsat and the isnād is hasan. The complete isnād as it is in abar ni's Mu'jam al-Awsat is: Mu ammad bin 'Ab n narrated to us Ibr him bin Suwayd al-Jadthou'ee reported to us 'A mir bin Mudrak narrated to us Fu eel bin Marzooq narrated to us from 'A iya from Abu Sa'eed.²⁷ In Sahīh Ibn Ibb n we have the following narrated by 'Auf ibn M lik:

²⁷ Mu'jam al-Awsat Vol. 7 sec. 257, no. 7,439

Abu Ya'la reported to us H run bin Abdullah al- im 1 narrated to us Ibn Abi Fudeek narrated to us from 'Ubaidallah bin Abdar-Ra man bin Mawhib from 'Abb s bin Abdar-Ra man bin Mayn ' al-Ashshaji from 'Auf bin M lik that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: I have been given four things which were not given to any other else before me, and I asked my Lord for the fifth and He answered it for me: any messenger used to be sent to his own people and didn't beyond it while I was sent to all people. Our enemy was frightened from us for a distance of one month's journey, the earth has been made for me a thing to perform Tayammum and a place for praying, the one fifth of the booty was made lawful for me while it was not lawful for anyone else before me, and I asked Allah for the fifth. I asked Him that there will be no one among my nation that meets Him, while he believes in His unity, except he will enter him in paradise, and Allah answered it for me.

'Ubaidallah bin Abdar-Ra man bin Mawhib who narrates on the authority 'Abb s bin Abdar-Ra man bin Mayn ' al-Ashshaji is not a strong narrator. Al- fiz (ibn ajar) said of him 'maqbool' (acceptable) only! It is also narrated from S 'ib ibn Yazeed in Mu'jam al-Kabir:

Al- asan bin Is q at-Tastari narrated to us Hish m bin 'A mar narrated to us Ya ya bin amza narrated to us Is q bin Abdullah bin Abi Farwa narrated to us from Yazeed bin Kha eefa that he narrated from S 'ib bin Yazeed who said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I have been preferred to all Prophets by five matters: I have been sent to all people, I saved my (supplication as) an intercession (on the day of judgement) for my Ummah, I was supported by awe for a distance of one month's journey forward and backward, the earth was made a masjid for me and ritually pure, and the booty was made lawful to me while it was not lawful for anyone else before me.

Although the reported text is not at great variance with what has been reported thus far, I would submit that Is q bin Abdullah bin Abi Farwa is matrook (rejected) and accused. Amongst the authorities in Tafsir, this matter did not go unnoticed or unreported. For example, in the Tafsir of Ibn Kathir he writes:

It was recorded in Sahih Bukh ri and Muslim that J bir ibn Abdullah (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five things which were not given to any prophet else before me. Allah made me victorious by awe, (by His frightening my enemies) for a distance of one month's journey, the earth has been made for me a masjid and ritually pure, the booty has been made lawful for me, I was given the right to intercede, every messenger was sent particularly to his own people while I have been sent to all people.

Im m A mad said: Mu ammad bin Abi 'Adi narrated to us from Sulaym n at-Taymi from Say r from Abu Um mah the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Allah distinguished me above the Prophets (peace be upon them) [the narrator had doubted that he said on the nations] with four matters. I have been sent to all mankind, the earth has been made all for me (and for my nation) the earth has been made ritually pure for me and a masjid, therefore anyone of my nation can pray wherever the time of a prayer is due; he has his place of prayer and what he will use in ablution, I have been helped by terror (in the hearts of enemies) for a distance of one month's journey and the booty has been made lawful for me.

At-Tirmidhi recorded the hadith from Sulaym n at-Taymi from Say r al-Quraishi al-Amwa'i their mawla of Damascus resident in Ba ra from Abu Um mah the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). Regarding this he said it was hasan Ṣāḥīḥ. Sa'eed bin Man ur said: Ibn Wahb reported (that) Amr bin al- rith reported to us that Abu Yunus narrated to him from Abu Hurayrah that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: 'I have been helped by terror (placed in the heart of the enemy)', as reported by Muslim from the hadith of Ibn Wahb.

Im m A mad said: ussein bin Mu ammad narrated to us Isr 'il narrated to us from Abu Is q from Abu Burda from his father from Abu Musa who said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: 'I have been given five things. I have been sent to the red and the black, the earth has been made a masjid – a place for praying and ritually pure; the booty has been made lawful for me yet it was not lawful for anyone else before me, Allah made me victorious by awe, (by His frightening my enemies) for a distance of one month's journey, and I was given the right to intercede. Every Prophet asked for intercession and I saved my right to intercede (on the day of judgement) for whoever died and did not associate anything with Allah.' This was narrated by A mad alone.

Al-'Aufi reports from Ibn 'Abb s that he said regarding the verse: *Soon We shall cast terror into the hearts of those who have disbelieved*²⁸, Allah threw fright in the heart of Abu Sufy n, so he returned to Mecca. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said – 'Verily! Abu Sufyān had attacked some among you and Allah throws terror in his heart.' Ibn Abi tim recorded it.

In addition to the above, Ibn Kathir also writes in his Tafsir:

Concerning the statement of Allah where he says: *And say to those who have been given the scripture and to the unlettered: Do you submit yourselves? Then if they submit, they are then certainly guided; but if they turn back, then upon you is only the delivery.*²⁹ There are several verses mentioned in relation to this subject as well as numerous aḥādīth. It is known as an acknowledged fact that the Prophet (peace be upon him) was sent to all mankind.

Al-Bukh ri recorded concerning the interpretation of this verse: Abdullah narrated to us Sulaym n bin Abdar-Ra man and Musa bin H run narrated to us, they said Al-Waleed bin Muslim narrated to us Abdullah bin al-'Ala' bin Zubr narrated to me Bisr bin 'Ubaidallah narrated to me from Abu Idrees al-Khawl ni who said I heard Abu Dard ' say: There was a dispute between Abu Bakr and Umar, and Abu Bakr made Umar angry, so he left angrily. Abu Bakr followed him, requesting him to ask forgiveness for him, but Umar refused to do so and closed his door in Abu Bakr's face. So Abu Bakr went to Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) while we were with him. Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) said: This friend of yours must have quarrelled (with somebody). In the meantime Umar repented and felt sorry for what he had done so he came and greeted (those who were present) and sat with the Prophet (peace be upon him) and related the story to him.

²⁹ Qur 'ān 3: 20

Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) became angry and Abu Bakr started saying – ‘O Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him)! By Allah, I was more at fault (than Umar).’ Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) said: Are you (people) leaving for me my companion? (Abu Bakr), are you (people) leaving for me my companion? When I said O people I am sent to you all as the Messenger of Allah you said I told a lie, while Abu Bakr said you have spoken the truth.

This was recorded only by Al-Bukhari. Imam Ahmad records: Abdur-Rahman narrated to us Abdal-Aziz bin Muslim narrated to us Yazid narrated to us from Miqdad from Ibn 'Abbas that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five things which were not given to anyone else before me and I did not say that out of pride. I have been sent to all of mankind – the red and the black; Allah made me victorious by awe, (by His frightening my enemies) for a distance of one month's journey. The booty has been made lawful for me yet it was not lawful for anyone else before me. The earth has been made ritually pure for me and a masjid. I have been given intercession and I saved it for my Ummah (on the day of judgement). It is guaranteed to whoever does not associate anything with Allah.

Additionally Imam Ahmad also records: Qutayba ibn Sa'eed narrated to us Bakr bin Mu'ar narrated to us from Ibn al-Harith from 'Amr bin Shu'ayb from his father from his grandfather that the Prophet (peace be upon him) during the year of the battle of Tabuk was standing performing prayer during the night. Some of his Companions gathered behind him in order to guard him till he finished his prayer and said to them: I had been given this night five matters which were not given to any one before me. I have been sent to all mankind while whoever was before me used to be sent to his nation, Allah made me victorious by awe, (by His frightening my enemies) for a distance of one month's journey, the booty has been made lawful to me to consume while those who were before me used to burn it, the earth has been made a masjid for me and ritually pure whenever it is a time of prayer I wipe and pray while those who were before me were forbade to do so, they used to pray in their churches and the fifth is what it is. It was said to me ask as every prophet asked (for something). I saved my supplication (as an intercession) on the day of judgement. It is guaranteed to you and to whoever believes that there is no god but Allah.

Its isnād is good and it is a strong channel of transmission. Imam Ahmad also cites: Muhammad bin Ja'far narrated to us Shu'ayb narrated to us from Abi Bishr from Sa'eed bin Jubayr from Abu Musa al-Ash'ari from the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) that he said: 'Whoever hears about me from among my nation or the Jews and Christians and did not believe in me he will not enter Paradise.' This hadith is also in Muslim albeit with slightly different wording: 'By him in whose hand my life is! He who amongst the community of Jews or Christians hears about me, and does not believe in me, he will be in the fire.'

Imam Ahmad records: Hasan narrated to us Ibn Lahiya' narrated to us Abu Yunus narrated to us and he is Sulayman bin Jubayr from Abu Hurayrah from the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) that he said: 'By him in whose hand my life is! He who amongst the community of Jews or Christians hears about me and does not believe in that with which I have been sent with and dies in this state (of disbelief), he shall be but one of the denizens of the fire.' This was recorded by Ahmad only. Imam Ahmad also has: Hussein bin Muhammad narrated to us Isra'il narrated to us from Abu Isa'q from Abi Burda from Abu Musa who said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: 'I have been given five things. I have been sent to the red and the black, the earth has been made ritually pure for me and a masjid, the spoils of war have been made lawful for me and these were never made lawful to anyone before me, Allah made me victorious by awe, (by His frightening my enemies) for a distance of one month's journey, and I have been given the right of intercession. Every Prophet asked Allah for an intercession and I saved my intercession (on the day of judgement) for whoever died from among my nation that does not associate anything with Allah.'

The hadith has an authentic chain of transmission, but they did not record it. Imām Aḥmad also recorded similarly from Ibn Umar with a good isnād and it is also recorded in the two Sahīh's. He further recorded another narrative from Jibrīl bin Abdullāh who narrated that the Messenger of Allāh (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five things which were not given to any prophet else before me. Allah made me victorious by awe, (by His frightening my enemies) for a distance of one month's journey, the earth has been made for me a masjid and ritually pure, the booty has been made lawful for me, I was given the right to intercede, every messenger was sent particularly to his own people while I have been sent to all people.

Ibn Kathir also writes in his Tafsīr:

From 'Ikrima from Ibn 'Abbās who said that Allāh preferred Mu'ammad (peace be upon him) to the people of the heaven and to the Prophets. It was said: 'Ibn 'Abbās! In what did Allāh prefer him to the Prophets?' He said: 'Allāh the exalted says - *'And We did not send any messenger but in the language of his people, that he may make clear to them.'*³⁰ And He says to His Prophet (peace be upon him): 'And We have not sent you....except to all mankind.'³¹ Allāh had sent him to the jinn and mankind.'

The saying of Ibn 'Abbās was recorded in Bukhāri and Muslim on the authority of Jibrīl (may Allāh be pleased with him) who narrated that the Messenger of Allāh (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five things which were not given to anyone else among Prophets before me. Allah made me victorious by awe, (by His frightening my enemies) for a distance of one month's journey. The earth has been made for me (and for my followers) a masjid and ritually pure, therefore anyone of my followers can pray wherever the time of a prayer is due. The booty has been made lawful for me yet it was not lawful for anyone else before me. I have been given the right of intercession (on the Day of Resurrection). Every Prophet used to be sent to his nation only but I have been sent to all mankind.'

And it was recorded in the Sahīh that the Messenger of Allāh (peace be upon him) said: 'I have been sent to the red and the black.' Mujāhid said that he meant jinn and mankind while others said that he meant the Arabs and the non-Arabs - and both of them are right.

Indeed all of these are authentic chains of transmission narrated on the authority of a large number of companions: Jibrīl bin Abdullāh, Abu Hurayrah, Abu Dharr Al-Ghifārī the most truthful from among creation, the trustworthy Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās; Abdullāh ibn 'Amr ibn al-'Āṣ who wrote the honourable words of the Messenger (peace be upon him), Abu Musā al-Ash'arī and Abu Umārah - may Allāh be pleased with all of them. These ahādīth were recorded in books of Sahīh, Sunan, Musnād, Muṣanaf and Mu'jam and even in books of Tafsīr, literature and Arabic language. As a collective they are taken as definite evidence, whosoever denies this collective body is a kāfir. There are also other a large amount of other narrations from other companions that prove that the Messenger of Allāh (peace be upon him) was sent to all mankind and that he was preferred and distinguished by that; every Prophet and Messenger was just sent to his own nation or locale. However this would require a separate volume to list all of them.

Undoubtedly Allāh has bestowed great virtue upon Mu'ammad (peace be upon him). Notwithstanding this though, the fundamental point which is to be taken forward is that the aforementioned matters are established principles of the Islamic doctrine and creed; it is mandatory to believe in them and denial would take one outside the fold of Islam.

3 All previous Prophetic laws are abrogated

It was proved by overwhelming evidence, the denial of which is kufir (disbelief), that the previous Prophets and Messengers were just sent to their own specific tribes, peoples, locales or nations. Similarly, it was also proved that unlike previous Prophets and Messengers the Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him) was sent to all of mankind. To argue that the previous nations or peoples still exist presently seems incredulous. By the passage of time they have perished; long ceasing to be considered as distinct nations addressed by a particular Prophet or Messenger. In fact, they are now considered as a part of Mu ammad's (peace be upon him) nation. That is to say, each previous nation lost its description as a specific nation as well as its independent identity and became just individuals, groups, tribes, or peoples included in the nation of Mu ammad (peace be upon him).

The call of previous Prophets now has no legal significance, because the law they were sent with would address those who are no longer existent. Nobody in the present world is ordered to follow the law which was brought by Musa (Moses, peace be upon him), although there are existing individuals and tribes descended from Bani Israel. However, the nation of Musa (peace be upon him), described once as a nation of divine message, is gone, it has vanished through the passage of time. In a similar manner, nobody is required to follow the specific laws which were brought by Esa (Jesus, peace be upon him).

One can reasonably ask, so what has happened to those previous messages? Have the commands and prohibitions that Allah gave to those previous peoples evaporated entirely? Allah forbid! What has happened is that these specific laws and injunctions were abrogated in totality by him, exalted be his names. The precise moment of abrogation was the moment revelation descended upon the final messenger sent to all of mankind, namely Mu ammad (peace be upon him). By Allah saying that he has sent Mu ammad (peace be upon him) as a Prophet and Messenger to all of mankind, by necessity, he has thereby abrogated all the previous messages, since the people they specifically addressed no longer exist. All the laws and detailed rulings that were applicable to the previous nations via their Prophets and Messengers have been abrogated totally. Every injunction that applied previously whether that be an obligation or prohibition, no longer applies anymore. Yet it is more than this – it is not merely the fact that they no longer apply, but it is prohibited to seek to apply them now following the advent of Mu ammad (peace be upon him).

Each of the previous Prophets and Messengers were not sent to us, nor have they addressed us in any manner, thus it is inconceivable that the specific laws that they brought could in some manner now apply to us. Following an abrogated religion and leaving the abrogating one is a major crime, it constitutes an annulment of the commands of Allah and rebellion against his sovereignty. Those that would purport to argue for the dictum of ‘the law of the previous Prophets is our law too’¹ are presiding over an absurdity. Whatever may appear to be similar in our present divine law brought by Mu ammad (peace be upon him) to that brought by previous Prophets or Messengers should not be construed as being in any way an affirmation or continuance of that legislation. How could it be the case that Allah abrogated all of the previous divine laws and at the same time re-legislated them as being ‘Islamic laws’ now?

The incredulity of the saying ‘the law of the previous Prophets is our law too’ should be evident by the fact that Mu ammad (peace be upon him) was sent to all mankind and even the jinn. His followers from amongst mankind are considered as being one Ummah subsuming all different races, tribes and nations on earth. As it is described as one nation, it therefore has only one creed and one law. While each one of the previous Prophets used to be sent to specific peoples, locales or nations, each of whom had a law and a method that differed from the others, even if they were under the same rule. Whoever claims that these laws are ours, he must do the following:

- ❖ Implement all of these laws at the same time from the same view and consideration; that is, to gather between opposing contrasts; which is an impossible matter to occur from both the reasonable and legal point of view.
- ❖ Make every law connected with a specific nation that would be followed by this Ummah only and not by any other nation from among mankind. If applied, by rights, anyone from the Far East – for example Japan, would be able to argue that this is the law sent to Israel – it cannot be obligatory now since I was not addressed with it originally. Even if present at the time of Musa (peace be upon him) it wouldn’t have been obligatory to follow as he wasn’t sent to the Japanese! Consequently, how could it ever apply now after the advent of Mu ammad (peace be upon him)?

From the Islamic legal point of view, this is impossible, as it contradicts the universality of the Mu ammad’s message (peace be upon him) and the unity of his Ummah, whereas both matters were proved through definite and absolute proofs. Common people and scholars, Muslims and mushrikeen (polytheists) know these two

...for every one of you did We appoint a law and a way....³

A mad ibn Mu ammad ibn al-Jasour narrated to us Wahb ibn Massara narrated to us Mu ammad ibn Wa ⁴ narrated to us Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba narrated to us Hushaym reported to us from Sayy r from Yazid al-Faqir he reported to us from J bir ibn Abdullah that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I have been given five (things) that have not been given to anybody before me: I have been supported with horror for a distance of one month; the whole earth has been made a masjid and tahir (purified / clean) for me anyone from my Ummah, man or woman, can pray wherever they are; the spoils of war have been permitted to me whereas they were not for previous nations; I have been given the intercession, and every previous Prophet has been sent to his own people whereas I have been sent to all of mankind.

Since these messengers have been sent to their own specific people they are not addressing us – so how can their Shari'ah apply or even be obligatory upon us? What makes our current Shari'ah applicable is that we have been addressed with it. Whoever denies this, would therefore deny this hadith and the special fadheelah (virtues) that has been given to Mu ammad (peace be upon him). Whoever says that the laws of the previous Prophets apply to us now given the advent of the Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him) who is sent to all of mankind is lying. And with Allah is all success.

Hats off to Ibn azm for furnishing us with this deep, thoughtful analysis! We also formally adopt this viewpoint and to it add the following dictum:

³ Qur'an 5: 48

⁴ Up to that point is Ibn azm's isnād to Im m Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba

- ❖ All previous divine laws were abrogated with the advent of the last Prophet, who was sent to all of mankind, namely Muhammed ibn Abdullah (peace be upon him). The abrogation was absolute. Hence that is why is it unlawful to try and implement or follow a previous Shari'ah to begin with.

All rulings sent to us after the revelation of the first word of the Qur' n word - Iqra' (read!) ⁵ is a new law even if it appears to be similar to that previously issued or even if it is identical. Without doubt the reality of the matter is that it is new, so is absolutely unlawful to say that it is an acknowledgment of a previous law, as that which is abrogated becomes necessarily void and non-existent. Its return is the establishment of a new law not a confirmation of a previous one that still exists and applies. The glorious Qur' n and the honourable Sunnah are full of proofs which confirm this reasoning, for the words of Allah and that revealed to his Messenger (peace be upon him) are never in contradiction to one another.

أَفَلَا يَتَبَرَّوْنَ الْقُرْآنَ وَلَوْ كَانَ مِنْ عِنْدِ غَيْرِ اللَّهِ لَوْجَدُوا فِيهِ اخْتِلَافًا كَثِيرًا

Do they not then contemplate over the Qur'ān? If it were from any other than Allah, they would have found in it much discrepancy / contradiction.⁶

Allah the exalted and majestic says:

وَأَنْزَلْنَا إِلَيْكُمْ أَكْتَابًا بِالْحَقِّ مُصَدِّقًا لِمَا بَيْنَ يَدَيْهِ مِنَ الْكِتَابِ وَمُهَمِّمًا عَلَيْهِ فَاحْكُمْ بَيْنَهُمْ بِمَا أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ وَلَا تَتَبَيَّنُ أَهْوَاءُهُمْ عَمَّا جَاءَكُمْ مِنَ الْحَقِّ لَكُلُّ جَعَلَنَا مِنْكُمْ شِرْعَةً وَمِنْهَاجًا وَلَوْ شَاءَ اللَّهُ لَجَعَلَكُمْ أُمَّةً وَاحِدَةً وَلَكِنَّ لَيْسَ لَكُمْ فِي مَا آتَاكُمْ فَاسْتَبِقُوا الْخَيْرَاتِ إِلَى اللَّهِ مَرْجِعُكُمْ جَمِيعًا فَيَنْبَغِي لَكُمْ بِمَا كُنْتُمْ فِيهِ تَخْتِلُفُونَ

⁶ Qur'an 4: 82

And We have revealed to you the Book with the truth, verifying what is before it of the Book and a guardian over it, therefore judge between them by what Allah has revealed, and do not follow their low desires (to turn away) from the truth that has come to you; for every one of you did We appoint a law and a way, and if Allah had pleased He would have made you (all) a single people, but that He might try you in what He gave you, therefore strive with one another to hasten to virtuous deeds; to Allah is your return, of all (of you), so He will let you know that in which you differed.⁷

Contained within the aforementioned verse is the Arabic word ‘muhaymin’ [مُهَمَّنْ] which is one of the ninety-nine names of Allah and is often translated as ‘The Protector’. Many interpretations have been given to this word including: ‘the witness and trustworthy, the faithful, the vigilant guardian’. But the foremost interpretation seems to be on two distinct levels, firstly, meaning the dominated controller who has the power over everything and whose commands are decisively accomplished; secondly this word refers to one who undertakes the responsibility of ruler and disposes all affairs. In Fath al-Bāri Al-fiz (Ibn ajar) tried to summarise these interpretations and said the following:

They said regarding the word ‘muhaymin’ that the Qur’ān is trusted over all the books that preceded it. As cited by Abu Ḥanīfah from the channel of Ali bin Abi Ḥālī from Ibn ‘Abbās in relation to the statement of Allah ‘and muhaymin over it’ he said the Qur’ān is trusted over all the books that preceded it. Furthermore as reported by Abd’ bin ‘Umayd from the channel of Arbada at-Tamimi from Ibn ‘Abbās in relation to the statement of Allah ‘and muhaymin over it’ he said ‘entrusted over it’. Ibn Qutayba and others followed by the majority said: knowing it is trusted.

Some postulate it as being mu’aymin, the ha () being read as a hamza (); mu’aymin means the one who offers peace and security. That is rejected because that is not the preponderant meaning, given that it is from amongst the names of Allah the exalted and not simply reduced to that. The truth is that its root has the meaning that he is superseded by something. Al-Haymanah to protect and watch over, that is why it is said when a man watches over something and protects it he has ‘haymanah’ over it. (Or) a man dominates a man if he becomes his watcher, hence he is muhaymin. Abu ‘Ubaida said: it didn’t come in the speech of the Arabs on this construction except four words: mubaytar, musayfir, muhaymin and mubayqar.

On the same subject in Fath al-Bāri, Al-fiz (Ibn ajar) continues:

Al-Bayhaqī mentioned, ‘This explanation of the scholars of Tafsīr with regard to the term ‘al-muhaymin’ is that it means ‘supervisor’. He then cites a narration from at-Taymi on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbās in reference to the verse, ‘(he is) muhaymin over it.’ Ibn ‘Abbās states that it means ‘protector’; in another narration from Ali bin Abi al-Ḥālī, Ibn ‘Abbās is reported to say that ‘al-Muhaymin’ means ‘supervisor’. In yet another narration from Mujaḥid, Ibn ‘Abbās is reported to say, ‘al-Muhaymin’ means the witness. It is said that ‘al-Muhaymin’ means the observer over an object and guardian of it. It is also said that al-haymanah is to be in authority over something as a poet once said:

‘Is it not that the best of the people after their Prophet is their next muhaymin guiding them towards the good and the bad? The one in authority over the people wants to protect them even after his time has passed.’

It is therefore correct that this poetry implies that he wants security for them and what has been mentioned is in accordance with this.’

I would submit that Bayhaqī struck the point in his interpretation of the word ‘al-muhaymin’ with it being based upon the ‘people care for them.’ Not taken advantage of the poetic lines which is mentioned, the understanding of the sense of ‘al-hākim’ the ruler and ‘al-musayfir’ the dominant. While the meanings of witness and trustee are there they are not derived from the word itself. From the requirements of the Shari’ meaning it can be discerned to encompass that the trusted ruler watching over affairs, or else failing in that would be considered treacherous or even criminal. This is similar to what has come in Lisān al-Arab: ‘In the hadīth of ‘Ikrima – I know Ali peace be upon him was from amongst the ‘muhaymināt’; any issues of dominance, which is the thing to do, to make her act is headed to matters such custodians.’ As for Imām a-abari although he provides a lengthy and beautiful comment, he doesn’t necessarily approach the intended meaning with his interpretation.

Imām Ibn Kathir was closer to the mark in seeking to flesh out the meaning of the word muhaymin in his Tafsīr. He writes:

The statement of Allah ‘muhaymin over it’: Sufyān ath-Thawrī and other than him said: from Ibn Isāq from at-Tamīmī from Ibn ‘Abbās (who said) entrusted over it. And it’s said from Ali bin Abī al-As from Ibn ‘Abbās – al-muhaymin is the trustworthy, the Qur’ān is trusted over all the books that preceded it. As well it has been reported from ‘Ikrima, Sa’eed bin Jubayr, Mujāhid, Mu’ammad bin Ka'b, ‘Ayyāsh, al-Asānī, Qatādah, ‘Ayyāsh al-Khurasanī, as-Suddī and Ibn Zayd about this. Ibn Jarīr (Imām a-abari) said: the Qur’ān is trustworthy over the books that preceded it. Therefore, whatever disagrees with the Qur’ān is false. Al-Walībī said that Ibn ‘Abbās said that muhaymināt means ‘witness.’ Similar was said by Mujāhid, Qatādah and as-Suddī. Al-‘Awfī said that Ibn ‘Abbās said that muhaymināt means dominant over the previous scriptures. These meanings are similar, as the word muhaymin includes them all. Consequently, the Qur’ān is trustworthy, a witness and dominant over every scripture / book that preceded it. This glorious book which Allah revealed as the last and final book of all times. The Qur’ān includes all the good aspects of previous scriptures and even more, which no previous scripture ever contained. This is why Allah made it trustworthy, a witness and dominant over them. Allah promised that he will protect the Qur’ān and swore by his most honourable self when doing so. Verily Allah the exalted says: *Surely we have revealed the Dhikr and we will most surely be its guardian.*⁸

The comments from Ibn Kathir are good indeed. But it’s unfortunate that the majority of exegetes simply regurgitated the interpretation of Ibn ‘Abbās regarding word al-muhaymin as being a witness, then a trustee or entrusted which only slightly fits into the overall context unlike the ruling concerning it. Ultimately this is due to taqlīd (imitation), laziness about being diligent and having independent thought. We have found in the book of history written by Imām a-abari,⁹ regarding the death of Abu Shurayh, some lines of poetry which serve to provide some elaboration upon the linguistic meaning of this word:

[Al-Walīd] wrote to Uthmān about [these young men] and he wrote back to put them to death. Thus, [Al-Walīd] executed them at the gate of the Official Palace [al-qasr] in the square [al-rahabah]. Concerning this [event] 'Amr b. 'Uthmān Tamīmī said:

Never feed on your neighbours immoderately, O dissolute men, in the reign [mulk] of Ibn 'Affān

For Ibn 'Affān, whom you have put to the test, has cut off thieves by the well-established law of [our] salvation

⁸ Qur'ān 15: 9

⁹ a-abari History of Prophets and Kings, Vol. 2 p. 439 (Arabic); the English is taken from the translation and is at Vol. 15, The Crisis of the Early Caliphate, p. 46

Without fail he acts in accordance with the Book, keeping close watch over every neck and fingertip among them.

It would appear from these verses that the meaning relates to control. But control and dominance appears in the word of ‘muhaymin’, as stated in al-Isāba fi Tamiyiz as-Šahāba by al- fiz Ibn ajar; during the biography of al-Fāri‘ah bin Abi al-‘Aṣlām may Allah be pleased with her, sister of Umayyah bin Abi al-‘Aṣlām, the famous poet. The following stanzas are from his qasīdah:

To you is all praise, all blessings, all favours, our Lord. There is nothing higher than you at all, neither is there a more absolute muhaymin or majestic king upon the throne of the heavens. Your power humbles masses and causes them to prostrate.

In my opinion, there is no meaning for muhaymin here except that it means the one who decrees and controls, who possesses absolute authority, and who is in ultimate disposal of all affairs. And this is what circulated among the tongues of the people from all levels in the later centuries. Therefore, if it is said *al-Haymanah al-'Ajnabiyyah*¹⁰ then all listeners understand this term as ‘dominance, control, or foreign occupation’ and nothing else – this is the correct opinion alhamdulillah. This is what Allah has meant by the term - that muhaymin means the one who decrees and controls, who possesses absolute authority, and who is in ultimate disposal of all affairs - nothing else is meant by it.

It is not that the Qur'an is muhaymin, hākim, controlling or dominating the previous books except if it is abrogating them, it cannot imitate them rationally or legally in terms of what Allah has commanded or prohibited. This is because essentially they are of one rank, originating ultimately from the same source, namely Allah the exalted. Thus it is not an issue of the last revelation dominating or controlling those previous to it. It is nāsikh (abrogating) and that is mansookh (abrogated) by necessity. This will not be its condition or place. It cannot be imagined except as this. Yet it is another proof concerning the matter of the previous laws being abrogated in totality and that we are not originally addressed by them. To reiterate again, the argument that the ‘law of the previous Prophet’s is our law too’ is invalid and a great lie. Should one realize the ramifications of such a statement and still adhere to it, one would fall into kufr (disbelief).

ثُمَّ جَعَلْنَاكُمْ عَلَى شَرِيعَةٍ مِّنَ الْأُمُورِ فَتَبَعُوهَا وَلَا تَتَبَعُ أَهْوَاءَ الَّذِينَ لَا يَعْلَمُونَ

Then we have made you follow a course in the affair, therefore follow it, and do not follow the low desires of those who do not know.¹¹

The Prophet (peace be upon him) had his own independent specific law that differs from other previous ones. This law was revealed to him from the very beginning of his call, when he was at Mecca, as attested by the aforementioned verse, which is Meccan in origin according to the majority of scholars. That was why he did not ask any of the people of the book about any of their rules or judgments. In fact, this was forbidden, as it will be mentioned soon. Perhaps some people hated that, in particular the Jews, but Allah let them know after a while when they were at Medina that his steady, stable tradition was to make a specific law for every nation. Every such law is a law of Allah, in its time and for its nation among which it was legislated; applying it at its time is considered an act of obedience to Allah. The important point is to rush headlong toward good deeds and strive like in a race towards all virtues, rather than becoming bogged down in the technicalities of the specific law. If a certain divine law is abrogated, the new one will also be a law of Allah; obeying it is an obligation, while disobeying it is prohibited. Allah the exalted and glorious outlines this meaning when he says:

وَأَنْزَلْنَا إِلَيْكُمُ الْكِتَابَ بِالْحَقِّ مُصَدِّقًا لِمَا بَيْنَ يَدَيْهِ مِنَ الْكِتَابِ وَمُهَيْمِنًا عَلَيْهِ فَاحْكُمْ بِمَا مِنْكُمْ يَعْلَمُ
أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ وَلَا تَنْسِي أَهْوَاءَهُمْ عَمَّا جَاءَكُمْ مِنَ الْحَقِّ لَكُلُّ جُنُونٍ مِنْنُّمْ شُرْعَةٌ وَمِنْهَا جَأَ وَلَوْ شَاءَ
اللَّهُ لَجَعَلَكُمْ أُمَّةً وَاحِدَةً وَلَكُنْ لَيْلَوْكُمْ فِي مَا تَأْتُمْ فَاسْتَبِقُوا الْخَيْرَاتِ إِلَى اللَّهِ مَرْجِعُكُمْ جَمِيعًا
فَيَنْبَغِي كُمْ بِمَا كُنْتُمْ فِيهِ تَخْلِفُونَ

And We have revealed to you the Book with the truth, verifying what is before it of the Book and a guardian over it, therefore judge between them by what Allah has revealed, and do not follow their low desires (to turn away) from the truth that has come to you; for every one of you did We appoint a law and a way, and if Allah had pleased He would have made you (all) a single people, but that He might try you in what He gave you, therefore strive with one another to hasten to virtuous deeds; to Allah is your return, of all (of you), so He will let you know that in which you differed.¹²

According to the majority this Surah, al-Mā'ida, was revealed in Medina. A large number of hadith exist also to corroborate the points that we have made thus far, that the argument of the law of the previous Prophets being part of our present law is totally invalid. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ‘If Musa were alive among you today and you followed him, leaving me, you would have gone astray.’ Musa (peace be upon him) was a Prophet and an infallible Messenger who did not disobey Allah’s orders. If alive today, he would have no other choice than to follow Mu ammad (peace be upon him), otherwise he would be acting in disobedience to Allah. It is known by necessity that the law of Musa has now been totally abrogated, so if he was to be resurrected now it would be impermissible for him to follow any other than Mu ammad (peace be upon him); to do so would make him sinful, Allah forbid! This hadith is yet another evidence that proves all the previous religions and laws have been totally abrogated; we are not addressed by them at all. Hence the statement, ‘the law of the previous Prophets is our law too’ is not simply false or an absurdity, it stands in open opposition to the express statement of Mu ammad (peace be upon him).

One individual tried belatedly to conclusively address this problem. He was the Imam Abul'Farj Nur-ad-Deen ibn Burhan ad-Deen Ali bin Ibrahim Al-mad al-alabi (died 1044 AH). His solution though, wasn’t much of a solution. Writing in the Seerah of Halab fi Seerah al-Ameen al-Mā'moon he said:

You should know that he (peace be upon him) sender of all Prophet’s and their nations to appreciate his presence in their time. Because Allah the exalted took along them and upon their nations confirmed on faith with him and supported him to be on the messengership and message to the nations. Prophethood and his message are more inclusive, and to be his law in those times for those nations that came by their Prophets, because the provisions and laws vary according to the people and the times. As-Subki said: all the Prophets and their nations from among his nation, peace be upon him, He (peace be upon him) said to Umar bin al-Khattab – ‘By him in whose hand my soul rests, if Musa peace be upon him were alive he would follow me.’

Another demonstrable proof is the fact that the Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him) led in prayer all the other Prophets in his night journey to Bait al-Maqdis. The previous Prophets were resurrected for him, they moved one another to lead the prayer, then they made him at the front or Jibreel (Gabriel, peace be upon him) did so. Thus, Mu ammad (peace be upon him) led them in the prayer, which proved that their manner of prayer was abrogated, as they prayed according to his prayer. Prayer is considered the main pillar of religion; other previous acts of worship were abrogated a fortiori. This is the fifth piece of evidence, which proves that all previous laws and religions have been abrogated, and that we are not addressed by them at all. Yet again it shows the absurdity of the statement ‘the law of the previous Prophets is our law too’; it is false statement and its use is forbidden. The primacy of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his law can also be ascertained from a number of narratives that have reached us. As recorded by Imām Muslim:

And Zuhayr bin arb narrated to me Ujeen bin al-Muthanna narrated to us Abdal-Aziz and he is ibn Abi Salama narrated to us from Abdullah bin al-Fa'l from Abu Salama bin Abdar-Ra'man from Abu Hurayrah who said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I found myself in Hira and the Quraysh were asking me about my night journey. I was asked about things pertaining to Bait-ul-Maqdis which I could not preserve (in my mind). I was very much vexed, so vexed as I had never been before. Then Allah raised it (Bait al-Maqdis) before my eyes. I looked towards it, and I gave them the information about whatever they questioned me. I also saw myself among the group of Messengers. I saw Moses saying prayer and found him to be a well-built man as if he was a man of the tribe of Shanu'a. I saw Jesus son of Mary (peace be upon him) offering prayer, of all men he had the closest resemblance with 'Urwa bin Mas'ud ath-Thaqafi. I saw Ibrāhim (peace be upon him) offering prayer; he had the closest resemblance with your companion (the Prophet) amongst people. When the time of prayer came I led them. When I completed the prayer, someone said: Here is Mālik, the keeper of the Hell; pay him salutations. I turned to him, but he preceded me in salutation.

The narration is also in Sunan al-Kubra of Imām Nas'i, the chain though is slightly different, reported as: Mu'ammad ibn Rāfi' reported to us he said Ubayn bin al-Muthanna narrated to us Abdul-Aziz ibn Abi Salama narrated to us the specific channel and text to its end. In the Sunan of an-Nas'i there is the following as part of a long hadith:

'Amr bin Hishām reported to us he said Makhlad narrated to us from Sa'eed bin Abdal-Aziz he said Yazeed bin Abi Mlik narrated to us he said Anas bin Mlik narrated to us that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: I was brought an animal that was larger than a donkey and smaller than a mule, whose stride could reach as far as it could see. I mounted it, and Jibreel was with me, and I set off [until when he said]. Then I entered Bait Al-Maqdis (Jerusalem) where the Prophets peace be upon them were assembled for me, and Jibreel brought me forward to lead them in prayer. Then I was taken up to the first heaven....(etc).

I would submit that Ibn Abi Layla is Mu ammad bin Abdar-Ra man bin Abi Layla has weakness of memory; it is with this, mursal. In az-Zawā'id ‘the report of a - abar ni in al-Awsat’ is mursal. We don’t know of this report except from this isnād by Ibn Abi Layla with irsāl in it; Mu ammad bin Abdar-Ra man bin Abi Layla and he is daef (weak).’ However, as it appears in Fath al-Bāri Sharḥ Ṣaḥīḥ al-Bukhārī, an alternate channel is mentioned: ‘and in the hadith of Abi Am ma when in a - abar ni in al-Awsat then he mentioned prayer until the coming of Mu ammad.’ It also appears in ad-Dar al-Manshoor of Im m Suyu i, he writes: ‘And as reported by a - abar ni in al-Awsat, Ibn Mardawayh from the channel of Mu ammad bin Abdar-Ra man bin Abi Layla from his brother Esa from his father Abdar-Ra man from his father Abi Layla that Jibreel...’ Perhaps it is connected (mawṣul) via Ibn Mardawayh and Allah knows best.

On a final note to conclude this matter, the Arabs of Najd and ij z, who were mostly Adn ni, they were upon the law of Ism ’il albeit with many distortions prior to the advent of the Prophet (peace be upon him). With the advent of the new law which he (peace be upon him) brought, that which was being followed by the Arabs was repealed one by one. For example, a girl being owned by her father and married off, this was repealed; the idea that women were not allowed to inherit, was repealed and many more like this. It is noteworthy that many of the great Im m’s of fiqh missed these points.

4 ‘If my companion Moses was alive, he would be following me’

The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ‘If Musa were alive among you today, then if you followed him and left me, you would have gone astray.’ Several narrations have been reported to establish this. Abdullah ibn Thabit and others have narrated that Umar once came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and said:

O Messenger of Allah, I have passed by a fellow brother of mine from the people of Quraytha. He wrote short rich expressions for me from the Torah in Arabic, so that we can learn more knowledge to ours. I would like to show them to you. Thereupon, the Messenger’s face changed and he became so angry that his eyes were red. He (the narrator) said I then said to ‘Umar: ‘may Allah distort your mind! Cannot you see what has occurred to the face of the Messenger of Allah?’ and Abu Bakr said: ‘May the bereft be bereaved of you! Can’t you see what has occurred to the face of the Messenger of Allah? And the Al-Anṣar said: ‘O people of the Anṣar, you must get ready with your weapons at once, for your Prophet (peace be upon him) is angry.’ Thereupon, they came all over until they surrounded the pulpit of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). Then Umar said: I am pleased with Allah as My Lord, with Islam as my religion and with Muhammad (peace be upon him) as a Messenger and a Prophet.

He (the narrator) said he then cheered up, and then he said: O the son of al-Khaṭṭāb are you confused about it? By the one in whose hand is my life, I have been given pithy expressions and their seals, speech has been abbreviated for me and I have brought it to you pure and sound. Therefore, do not be confused, and do not be deceived by the confused! Do not ask people of the book about anything, for they will never guide you while they have gone astray. Thus, either you would believe in falsehood or belie a truth. By the one in whom my soul rests, if Musa (peace be upon him) was alive, he could not do anything but follow me. I am your share of the Prophets, and you are my share of the nations.’ Then he got down from the pulpit.

The authenticity of this long hadith is established.¹ Statements like ‘Do not ask the people of the book about anything’ and ‘Neither believe nor belie what the people of the book report to you,’ have been established from other transmissions on the authority of Ibn Mas’ud and other companions.² One of these versions was reported on the authority of Abu Namla al-Anṣari, as collected in Ṣaḥīḥ Ibn Ibb n:

Ibn Qutayba reported to us he said Ḥarmala narrated to us he said Ibn Wahb narrated to us he said Yunus reported to us from Ibn Shih b that Namla bin Abi Namla al-Anṣari narrated to him that his father Abu Namla narrated to him that when he was sitting with the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) and a Jew was also with him, a funeral passed by him. He asked - Mu’ammad, does this funeral speak? The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Allah knows best. The Jew said: I bear witness it speaks. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Whatever the people of the book tell you, do not verify them, nor falsify them, but say: We believe in Allah and His Messenger. If it is false, do not confirm it and if it is right, do not falsify it.

¹ The Arabic edition contains an appendix with the full discussion of the channels of reporting for this hadith. For the sake of brevity here, it is reported in Musnad's of Aṣmad, al-Bazzār, Abu Ya'la and others.

Shaykh Shu’ayb al-Arnūt said the isnād is strong. It is also reported quite widely such as by Abu Dūwud in his Sunan,³ Musnad Aṣmad,⁴ Ibn Abi ‘Aṣim ‘Amr ash-Shaybāni in al-Āḥād wal Mathāni,⁵ by Abdar-Razzāq in his Muṣṭanaf,⁶ a - abar ni has it in Mu'jam al-Kabir,⁷ Bayhaqī in his *Sunan al-Kubra*⁸ and in other places with several chains of transmission. In the Mustadrak a'la Ṣaḥīḥayn of Al-Kim we also have:

Thereupon a Jew said - O Muhammad, can this funeral (i.e., deceased) speak? The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) was silent. Then the Jew said: I bear witness that it can speak. Thereupon the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: When people of the book convey any report to you, you should say - we believe in Allah, His Angels, His Books and His Messengers.

Despite this, I would say that alrith bin ‘Ubaida ar-Rah wi is not strong in this narration and is most probably fallen as a narrator. A - abar ni records an isnād for this in the Musnad ash-Shāmiayn: ‘Uthm n bin Kh lid bin Umar as-Salafi narrated to us Abdal-Jabb r al-Khab ’iri narrated to us al- rith bin ‘Ubaida narrated to us Baqia bin al-Waleed narrated to us from Zubaydi from az-Zuhri from S lim bin Umar from ‘A mir bin Rabi’ about it.

As for the wording: 'report from Bani Israel and there is no harm / objection' which has often been misunderstood, it has been reported on the authority of many companions with the best chain of transmissions. One of them is what has been reported on the authority of Abdullah ibn 'Amr ibn al-'A in the following authentic channel as recorded by Imam Ahmad in his Musnad:

'If my companion Moses was alive, he would be following me'

Abul-Mughira al-Awz'i narrated to us as-Sanbin 'Aiyah narrated to me he said Abu Kabsha as-Saluli accepted and we were in the masjid and stood to him. Makoul and Ibn Abi Zakariyyah and Abu Bara'ya (were there) so he said: I heard Abdullah ibn 'Amr say – I heard the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) say: Convey (my teachings) from me to the people even if it were a verse and tell others the stories of Bani Israel, for it is not sinful to do so. And whoever tells a lie about me intentionally, will surely take his place in the (Hell) Fire.

Without question the hadith is authentic and has a consecutive succession of transmitters concurring upon its report, from one another (musalsal). Imam Ahmad records it also from other authentic channels, as have many other collectors amongst them Bukhari, Ibn Ibban, ad-Drimi, al-Tabari, Umaydi and others. We also have similar from Abu Sa'eed al-Khudri as it appears in Sunan al-Kubra:

al-Fa 1 al-‘Abb s bin Ibr him reports, he said ‘Aff n narrated to us he said Hamm m narrated to us he said Zayd bin Aslam narrated to us from ‘A bin Yass r from Abu Sa’eed al-Khudri from the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: Report about Bani Israel and there is no objection and report from me but never attribute lies to me.

The hadith is very authentic, it is also found in the Musnad of Imām Ahmad from other authentic channels. Abu Dawud has collected similarly in his Sunan with a good isnād according to the conditions of Imām Muslim:

Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba narrated to us Ali bin Mushir narrated to us from Mu ammad bin Umar from Abi Salama from Abu Hurayrah who said: the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Relate traditions from Bani Israel there is no harm in it.

The same is also reported by Im m A mad in his Musnad,⁹ in the Musnad of umaydi,¹⁰ in the Muṣannaf of Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba,¹¹ and many others. In addition to this, similar has been reported from J bir ibn Abdullah, as it appears in the Musnad of 'Abd ibn ameed:

Ibn Abi Shayba narrated to me Waki' narrated to us from ar-Rabia' bin Sa'eed from ibn S bi from J bir who said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Narrate about Bani Israel for there used to be wonders about them. Thereafter he narrated the following: A group of them went out to one of their cemeteries. Then they said - Let us perform two rak'ahs and then supplicate to Allah the exalted to resurrect some of the dead people to tell us about death. They did so, and during their performance, the head of a man rose out of a grave. Between his eyes there was the trace of prostration. Thereupon he said - O you people, what do you want from me? For by Allah, I have died a hundred years ago and the heat (pain) of death has not cooled down upon me until now. So please supplicate Allah to return me to my previous state.

The same also appears in the Muṣannaf of Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba, albeit abridged without the mention of this additional story.¹² The longer version is also found in Fawā'id Tamām from an alternate channel to that of Ibn Abi Shayba,¹³ and also at the end of Tārikh Baghdād from different channels to both of these.¹⁴ Concerning the isnād from the Musnad of 'Abd ibn umayd it is authentic and its narrators are the men of Sahīh except for what has been said in relation to ar-Rabia' bin Sa'eed al-Jufi; the majority view is that he is not, however he is thiqā for those who have known him, such as Ya ya ibn Ma'een (in Tārikh ibn Ma'een Riwaya ad-Douri), Ya'qub bin Sufy n (Marifa wa-Tārikh) and Ibn ibb n. Abu tim said that there is nothing wrong with him (lā bā'sa bihi). As for the mutā'akhireen al-Haythami was candid and Ibn Kathir inclusively. As for adh-Dhahabi and al- fiz saying he was unknown (majhoul) this is detailed elsewhere.¹⁵

Much confusion surrounds the issue of how these ahādīth are to be understood as well as that about the precise status of the reports which come from Bani Israel. Many of the previous Im m's provided very useful comments on this subject, which we will consider in detail. On this subject al- fiz's comments are instructive. Writing in Fath al-Bārī he said:

¹⁵ The appendix to the Arabic edition discusses this in further detail

It is clear that the undesirability of this deed is one of disapproval not prohibition. It is better in this matter to differentiate between the person who has not become well grounded in knowledge and firm in belief, as it is not allowed for such person to study anything of the knowledge of the people of the book. On the other hand, the one who possesses firm knowledge and belief is allowed, especially in terms of responding to opposing ideas. This has been proved by the reference of previous and modern Imams to the Torah in order to make the Jews believe in Muhammad (peace be upon him). If they had not been convinced of the permissibility to study previous creeds and laws they would not have done so.

As for the inferred prohibition, due to the signs of anger appearing and the allegation that if it had not been a sin, he would not have been angry about it, we say that he could be angry about an undesirable deed or by committing the less worthier, if it has occurred from someone for whom it was not proper to do so. For example, he (peace be upon him) was angry with Mu'adh for making the dawn prayer longer by reading (a longer chapter of Qur'an). He could also be angry with someone who failed to understand clear matters, just like the one who asked about finding stray camels. This has been mentioned in the book of knowledge, concerning anger in exhortation and also in the book of good manners, concerning what is permissible while being angry.

Additionally in another place and concerning the same subject he writes:

The Prophet's statement 'and report about Bani Israel and there is no objection', i.e. there is no trouble at all for you in reporting from them, for he (peace be upon him) had previously prevented Muslims from learning from them and studying their books. After that the matter became more flexible, as if the prohibition occurred before the stability of Islamic Judgments and religious principles for fear of the occurrence of affliction. Therefore, when this danger disappeared permission was given concerning listening to stories from Jews and Christians, so that Muslims may learn lessons. It has also been said that the meaning of the Arabic word 'Lā Ḥaraj' is that there should not be any trace of anger in your heart due to what you hear from them as wonders, for that used to happen to them many times. Another interpretation is that there is no objection in not reporting from them, for the first statement 'Report' is an imperative, which entails an obligation. Therefore, he meant to convey something other than an obligation and that it is the permission by saying that there is no objection; i.e. there is no objection in leaving reporting from them. Another interpretation of the statement is that the narrator of such reports should not feel annoyed due to what is often found in their stories as offensive words, like their statement – 'Go you and your Lord and fight you two,' and their statement – 'Make a god for us.' Another interpretation of the statement is that it concerns Bani Israel itself and the (personage) of Ya'qub (peace be upon him). Therefore what is meant is report from them, concerning their story with their brother Yusuf (Joseph), but this is the most unlikely view.

According to Malik, it is permissible to report from them what is known to be good. As for what is known to be false, it is impermissible to be reported. Another interpretation is, '*Report from them concerning what came in the Glorious Qur'an and the authentic hadith.*' A third one is the permission to report from them in any way of reporting whether through continuance or discontinuance of narrators, due to the impossibility of continuity in reporting from them. On the contrary, the basis of reporting Islamic Judgments is continuity, but that is possible due to recency of time.

According to ash-Shafi'i, it is a well-known fact that the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not allow telling lies. Therefore the statement means report from Bani Israel concerning what you do not know to be falsehood. As for what you permit, you have no objection to report it of them. This is equivalent to his statement, 'When people of the book report to you, do not believe or belie them.' However, no permission or prohibition has been stated about reporting what is absolutely true.

May Allah have mercy upon al-fiz. He has mixed this matter up. The judgment of the three different issues has been confusing for him and for many other scholars, but he made them one matter. In actuality, the matter can be explained as follows:

First issue: asking people of the Book

Asking the people of the book or other disbelievers about something concerning 'religion' in order to seek knowledge and guidance (note Umar's statement – 'So that we can learn more knowledge to ours.') this is an absolutely prohibited matter, without any doubt. He (peace be upon him) became so angry that his eyes became red due to Umar's act, until Abdullah bin Thabit said: 'May Allah distort your mind! Can't you see what has occurred to the face of the Messenger of Allah?' and Abu Bakr shouted 'May the bereft be bereaved of you! Can't you see what has occurred to the face of the Messenger of Allah?' The Ansar even summoned each other to prepare their weapons. This cannot happen except if it is considered a great matter. The Prophet (peace be upon him) justified asking the people of the book or disbelievers about matters in their religion in several things different in rank according to their importance.

The reason is that whatever the people of the book possess as books and stories have been distorted. Many words have been changed or even added. Therefore truth and falsehood are mixed in them to the extent that it is impossible to differentiate assuredly between its parts at all. These books are even incomplete due to the deliberate deletion or loss of some sections. So what they have in their hands is dark and impure. It cannot be considered as an authority or source of evidence. On the other hand, that which Muhammad (peace be upon him) brought is forever luminous, pure, conclusive and adequate. One should take note of his statement – 'I have been given pithy expressions and their seals, speech has been abbreviated for me and I have brought it to you pure and sound.' Allah the exalted has guaranteed its preservation, in the sense that it will remain pure until the day of judgement. It is definitely an authority, which can be used as evidence. Therefore how can an intelligent person who is seeking the truth leave the pure source and turn to what is mixed with impurity? It is true that the person who has not found except the impure, can be excused if he drinks from it being obliged to do so, like the state of the believers in the previous books before Muhammad's mission (peace be upon him), but never after his mission.

Secondly, we have previously mentioned that the previous divine books have been distorted by people of the book and parts of them have been lost. Transgression and hypocrisy spread among their rabbis, clergymen and monks who displaced true right words from their places and they 'interpreted' their books in astounding ways. They also make the books into paper sheets, disclosing some of it and concealing much. They kept it in dead languages, which the majority of people do not know, in order to monopolise its interpretation and have a dominant influence over the common people with its knowledge; it was used to flatter rulers and devour people's property with falsehood. Due to all these reasons, they are far astray from the true guidance. Whoever is misguided, it will not be wise to expect from him to guide others and it is impermissible to trust his legal opinions or even consider his suggestions. As for the knowledge of 'religion' it must be learned only from guided righteous people and not from those who have gone astray, as the Prophet (peace be upon him) explained 'For they will never guide you while they have gone astray.'

Thirdly, there is another serious point to be considered: if we assume that the previous books were preserved word-by-word and sound-by-sound, like the preservation of the Qur'an and if we assume that those who knew them like clergymen, rabbis and monks were trustworthy and did not displace words from its correct places and did not conceal anything that Allah has revealed, and that they convey about Allah, without fearing anyone but Allah, that they are really the heirs of the Prophets, they would not still be considered as a source of guidance any longer. This is because all of these books have been abrogated from beginning to end, whether they were big or small. If Musa (peace be upon him), who is one of the greatest of the previous Messengers of Allah and the one with much legislation, was revived today, he would be obliged to follow Prophet Mu'ammad (peace be upon him) unreservedly. Musa (peace be upon him) is the Messenger of Allah. He was an infallible Prophet who is not allowed to disobey Allah in any of his previous revealed orders and prohibitions. It is known by necessity that all that which is revealed to him is abrogated the moment Mu'ammad (peace be upon him) was sent. If the people followed Musa and left Mu'ammad, they would have been misguided; they will be disbelievers. The moment these verses were revealed, all previous creeds were abrogated:

أَفْرُوا بِاسْمِ رَبِّكُمُ الَّذِي خَلَقَ ، خَلَقَ إِنْسَانًا مِّنْ عَلَقٍ

*Read in the name of your Lord who created; created man from a clot.*¹⁶

قُلْ يَا أَيُّهَا النَّاسُ إِنِّي رَسُولُ اللَّهِ إِلَيْكُمْ جَمِيعاً

*Say: O people! Surely I am the Messenger of Allah to you all.*¹⁷

Things thus revert back to the state when Allah said to Adam and his wife:

¹⁶ Qur'an 96: 1/2

¹⁷ Qur'an 7: 158

وَلَا تَقْرُبَا هَذِهِ الشَّجَرَةِ

*Do not go near this tree.*¹⁸

Things went back to there state even before this order came to them. Neither were there any prescribed prayers, charity or fasting. There were no orders till this one came, this means that the law of previous nations and Prophets is not our law, as we have previously proven with supporting evidences. Some scholars contradicted this saying but this is a grievous error on their behalf. We ask Allah to forgive them and we seek refuge with Allah from such erring.

When al-fiz Ibn ajar considered the strong anger of the Prophet (peace be upon him) as just dislike (of a matter), it was strange. It is one of the faults of scholars. We seek refuge with Allah from such evils. What is stranger than that is Ibn ajar's comparison drawn from the incident of the Prophet's reproaching Mu'adh for prolonging the prayer. It would have been better if he considered prolonging the prayer by the Imam as a prohibited act - which is the truth - instead of making the case an easy one. Verily, when the Prophet (peace be upon him) was angry with the man asking about the lost camels, the preferable opinion is that he felt in the man's question an attempt to make lawful talking or riding them. It is very clear in the wordings of the hadith. He was not very angry because of the question, but he was angry with the evil intentions of the man. It was an evil forbidden intention whose owner deserved dispraise, reproach and scolding.

Second issue: People of the book reporting about 'religion'

The second issue is different from the first case and is its opposite. It is related to the people of the Book telling us about some matters of ‘religion’ like those of the unseen, of the day of judgement and of the attributes and names of Allah. It is when they tell us voluntarily without our asking them, for asking them about such matters is prohibited as we said before. In such cases proper rationality dictates to reject any statement that is ookMcuppontatsl-27.1oskskts bengs81(Ev1(r)3(wi)150 hoof hiatf esa1(r)(t)-4((i),15(t)-4o)1satratouts this examination was supported by studying their monuments and ruins and what other historians have said about them and all the other methodologies of research. It is known for sure – as we have said before - that it is not permissible to accept their narrations and take them for granted. They must be subjected to careful scrutiny. If anything is proven from this, it would be permissible to discuss it, so as to learn important lesson about the pitfalls which they fell into.

¹⁸ Qur'an 2: 35

There have been some inaccurate interpretations over the ages in relation to the aforementioned ahādīth. When great scholarly figures like Ibn ajar err, it can cause the matter to become confused in many other minds. We cannot now find a Muslim who asks the people of the book, seeking guidance but everyone now seeks it from the books of philosophers. Those are worse than the people of the book and they are the farthest from guidance and inspiration. People think that such books are but the product of reasonable research, neglecting the Qur’ n and Sunnah. These books are not better than those of the people of Israel because they are full of imaginary, hypothetical assertions and fantastical points. Believing in stories relayed from the people of the book and taking them for granted has become widespread, particularly in the field of Tafsīr. Some people even tried to interpret the verses of the Qur’ n in a way that agrees with these fables. Praise be to Allah for that is a great injustice done to Islam.

On the other hand, objective research aimed at refuting their books substantively decreased across Islamic history. Im m Abu Mu ammad Ali ibn azm from Andalusia arguably made the first research study in the history of humanity, dealing with the books of Christians and Jews with the groundbreaking work of al-Fiṣal bayn al-Milal wa'an-Nihāl.¹⁹ Unfortunately the majority of Muslim scholarship did not follow his lead but neglected the subject altogether, except that is for Im m Ibn Taymiyya who provided a useful contribution with the work entitled al-Jawāb as-Ṣaḥīḥ li man Baddala

¹⁹ The work is usually rendered (loosely) into English as: ‘The Separator Concerning Religions, Heresies and Sects.’

*Deen al-Masih.*²⁰ Other efforts in this field regrettably fall too far short of even these works. There is neither might nor power, save in Allah.

What has been mentioned thus far is established as truth with evidences. It is not correct to argue that it is a new matter that has been introduced without legal precedent (bidāh). Notable personalities have held the same position. In al-Jāmi aṣ-Ṣaḥīḥ al-Mukhtaṣar Imām Bukhārī recorded the following on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbās:

Ali bin Abdullah narrated to us Ḥamīd bin Ward narrated to us Ayub narrated to us from ‘Ikrima from Ibn ‘Abbās, he said: How can you ask the people of the scriptures about their books while you have Allah's book (the Qur'ān) which is the most recent of the books revealed by Allah and you read it in its pure undistorted form?

Bukhārī also recorded another tradition again from Ibn ‘Abbās with slightly different wording and reported via ‘Ubaidallah bin Abdullah:

⋮
⋮

Musa bin Ismā‘il narrated to us Ibrāhīm narrated to us Ibn Shihāb reported to us from ‘Ubaidallah that Ibn ‘Abbās said: Why do you ask the people of the scripture about anything while your book (Qur'ān) which has been revealed to Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) is newer and the latest? You read it pure, undistorted and unchanged, and Allah has told you that the people of the scripture (Jews and Christians) changed their scripture and distorted it and wrote the scripture with their own hands and said, 'It is from Allah,' to sell it for a little gain. Does not the knowledge which has come to you prevent you from asking them about anything? No, by Allah, we have never seen any man from them asking you regarding what has been revealed to you!

Imām Bukhārī has similar reports also collected within his Ṣaḥīḥ on this.²¹ Others have reported similarly, such as al-‘Āṣim in the *Mustadrak*²² and Bayhaqī in Sunan al-Kubrā.²³ Overall these traditions provide some additional clarity to this matter of querying matters of religion with the people of the book.

To further clarify the status of this verse, it is important to consider the various points raised by the classical scholars of Tafsir. Writing in his Tafsir Im m a - abari said:

5 Prohibition relating to excessive questioning

There is a misconception which is held in many quarters, that during the time of revelation the Prophet (peace be upon him) was being inundated with questions regarding matters of law by his companions. Rather the opposite is the case. It is noteworthy to consider this point in substantive detail as it forms a prelude to a wider and far-reaching principle of law that is very often overlooked. Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him) stressed the prohibition of asking too many questions. There is no difference here between the question posed by the man - 'Who is my father?' and the question of the foolish Bedouin about Hajj, asking whether it should be performed annually. This matter has been established by way of absolute proof as demonstrated by the following verse and accompanying ahādīth which we will examine in detail in this section. Allah unequivocally stated:

إِنَّمَا يَنْهَا عَنِ الْمُسْكِنِ

Concerning the interpretation of the verse, it means, O you who believe! Do not ask about matters which if disclosed to you may distress you. And if you ask about them during the revelation of the Qur'ān, they will be disclosed to you. Allah passes over this, for Allah is most forgiving, most forbearing. It was revealed to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) because of the questions that were asked to him by some people, sometimes (seeking to) examine him and sometimes to mock him. One said to him: 'Who is my father?' Another said when his camel was lost, 'Where is my camel?' and Abdullah bin Udhayfah asked him about his father. That was why Allah addressed people commanding them not to ask about such matters. Allah is saying to them do not ask about things which if made plain to you, may cause you trouble. Many Companions of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) interpreted the verse as such.

Following on from this, Im m a - abari mentions ten narratives, most of which are authentic bearing the above meaning. Thereafter he states: 'Others said that this verse was revealed to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) because of a question he was asked about Hajj.' Yet again he mentions several narrations which further establish this point, most of which are authentic. He then provides two narratives in relation to those who have said as much to support the following view: '....it was revealed because they asked the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) about al-Bahira, as-Sā'iba, al-Waseela and al-Hāmi.² Thereafter he says:

The most correct amongst the sayings concerning this subject is the saying of those who said that it was revealed because of the many questioners who used to ask the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) about various matters, like the one (asked by) ibn udhayfah about his father; the one about Hajj and the like. All these narrations are reported by companions, successors and the majority of exegetes. The saying of Muj hid on the authority of Ibn ‘Abbās is not far from rightness; what was reported by the companions and successors disagreed with it and that is only why we do not prefer it. Still, this question about al-Bahira, as-Sā’iba, al-Waseela and al-Hāmi could be among the questions the Prophet (peace be upon him) was asked and Allah hated; like for example, when He hated the question about Hajj; is it annually or just once and as He hated the question about the father of Abdullah ibn udhayfah.

That was why the verse was revealed, placing a prohibition on people posing such questions. Each one of these questioners was as part of the reasoning for the revelation of this verse, including what concerned him and what concerned others. I think that this saying is the most valid one about the verse, as the sources of these different accounts mentioned are authentic, and it is more proper to know the most correct from these existing accounts than just to be existent while they are not correct.

Ibn Kathir argued along the same lines in his Tafsir, although he does provide some additional comments that are noteworthy:

Allah the exalted forbade believers in this glorious verse to ask the Prophet (peace be upon him) too many questions about matters not yet revealed. That is to say, if you ask about details after its revelation, it will be revealed to you, but do not ask about the matter before its revelation, as it may become forbidden just because of this question. It was recorded in the Sahīh that Sa’d ibn Abi Waqqās (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ‘The most sinful person among the Muslims is the one who asked about something which had not been prohibited, but was prohibited because of his asking.’ When the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) was asked about the case of a man who found another man with his wife: if this man (i.e., the husband) talks, he will talk with a great matter, and if he keeps silent he will keep silent with the same.

² See Qur’ān chapter 5, verse 103

The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) hated such questions and criticised them. After that, Allah revealed the ruling of Li’ān. In Sahīh Bukhārī and Muslim it is recorded that al-Mughira bin Shu’bah (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) used to forbid Qeel and Qāl (idle useless talk or talking too much about others), asking too many questions and wasting one’s wealth extravagantly.

It was also recorded in Sahīh Muslim that Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: ‘Leave me what I have left to you. Verily, the people before you went to their doom because of putting too many questions to their Prophets and disagreeing with them. So avoid that which I forbid you to do and do that which I command you to do, to the best of your capacity.’ This was said by the Prophet (peace be upon him) after saying: ‘O people! Allah has made Hajj obligatory for you; so perform Hajj.’ Thereupon, a person said - O Messenger of Allah, (is it to be performed) every year? He (the Prophet) kept quiet, and he repeated this three-times thereafter the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: ‘If I were to say yes it would have become obligatory (for you to perform it every year) and you would not be able to do it.' Then he said, 'Leave me as I leave you.' That was why Anas bin Mlik (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated: 'We were forbidden to ask anything (without the genuine need) from the Prophet (peace be upon him). It therefore pleased us that an intelligent person from the dwellers of the desert should come and ask him while we listen to it.' Regarding the same, al-fiz Abu Ya'la al-Mawily mentioned in his Musnad: Abu Kareeb reported to us Isq bin Sulaym n reported to us from Abi Sin n from Abi Isq from al-Bar' bin A'zib who said: 'A whole year would pass while I want to ask the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) about a matter. But I was afraid from him and we used to wish that some Bedouin will come and ask him.'

Al-Bazzar said: Mu ammad bin al-Muthanna reported to us Ibn Fu'eel reported to us from 'Abd bin as-S'ib from Sa'eed bin Jubayr from Ibn 'Abb s who said: I did not see a nation better than the Companions of Mu ammad (peace be upon him); they only asked him about twelve issues all of which are in the Qur'an: They ask you about the intoxicants and games of chance,³ They ask you concerning the Sacred Month and fighting in it,⁴ They ask you about the orphans.⁵ And others like them. Allah says: *Do you desire to question your Messenger as Musa was questioned previously?*⁶ 'Do you' here means that they really wanted to ask him, but it is a reproving interrogation for all: believers and mushrikeen (polytheists). Mu ammad (peace be upon him) is the Messenger of Allah to all. Allah also says: *The People of the Scripture ask of you that you should bring down to them a scripture from above; but they have indeed asked of Musa a bigger thing than that, when they said: show us Allah openly. Then rumbling overtook them for their wrongdoing.*⁷

Explaining the occasion of the revelation - Mu ammad ibn Isq q said: Mu ammad bin Abi Mu ammad narrated to me from 'Ikrima or Sa'eed from Ibn 'Abb s who said: Rifi' bin uraymila or Wahb bin Zayd said - (this means) O Muhammad! Bring a book to us from heaven that we can read. Gush forth to us rivers in order so that we would follow and believe you. Hence Allah revealed this verse. Abu Ja'far ar-Razi said from ar-Rabih' bin Anas from Abul'Aliya concerning this verse (*Do you desire to question your Messenger as was questioned Musa in the past?*⁸), that a man said to the Prophet (peace be upon him), O Messenger of Allah! (I wish that) our expiations are like the expiations of Bani Israel! The Prophet (peace be upon him) said three-times: 'O Allah! We do not want to.' Then he said 'What Allah gave you is better than what He had given Bani Israel. Whoever did a sin from among them found it written on his door with its expiation. If he expiated, it used to be disgrace during his lifetime and if he did not, it would be disgrace in his hereafter. Whatever Allah gave you is better than what He had given Bani Israel.' Then he recited the following verse: *But whoever does evil or does injustice to his soul, then asks forgiveness of Allah, he will find Allah most forgiving, most rewarding.*⁹

The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: 'The five prayers and from one Friday prayer to the next, is an expiation (of the sins committed in between their intervals).' Additionally ibn 'Abb s (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: 'If someone intends to do a bad deed and he does not do it, Allah will not write it (in his account) with Him. And if he does it (the bad deed), Allah will write one bad deed (in his account). And if he intends to do a good deed and he does not do it, Allah will write for him a full good deed (in his account with Him); and if he does it, Allah will write for him (in his account) with Him (a reward equal) from ten to seven hundred times, to many more times. Verily,

⁹ Qur'an 4: 110

Allah does not put to destruction anyone except he who is doomed to destruction.' Then Allah revealed the verse (2:108).

Muj hid said that the occasion of revelation of this verse is that the Quraysh asked Mu ammad (peace be upon him) to turn the mountain of Ṣāfa into gold. He said: 'Yes, and it would be to you like the table to Bani Israel.' They refused and retracted. As-Suddi and Qat dah said the same occasion. What is meant here is that Allah blamed whoever asked the Messenger (peace be upon him) about any matter while meaning obstinacy and suggestion. Exactly like Bani Israel, when they asked Musa (Moses, peace be upon him) out of their obstinacy and disbelief. Allah says: Do you desire to question your Messenger as was questioned Musa in the past? Whoever prefers disbelief and abandons faith has left the right path and is heading toward ignorance and deception. This was the case of those who refused to believe, follow and obey prophets, preferring instead to disobey, accuse their prophets of lying, and ask them questions without real need out of their obstinacy and disbelief. As Allah says: *Do you not see those who have exchanged Allah's favour with kufr and have made their people alight in the abode of perdition? (Into hell) they shall enter it and an evil place it is to reside in.*¹⁰

From what has been presented thus far by the exegete's a - abari and Ibn Kathir, we can reasonably conclude that the meaning of the verse is general and concerned all questions. In this regard there is essentially no difference here between the obdurate question 'who is my father' or 'where is my father – in paradise or hell' and the question from the ignorant Bedouin who asked whether Hajj had to be performed annually. In order to complete the definite evidence concerning the meaning of the verse and to explain the subject from all its aspects, we will mention the most important and authentic accounts regarding this with their chains of transmission, beginning with hadith narrated by Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him) as recorded by Im m Muslim in his Sahīh:

armala ibn Ya ya at-Tajeebe narrated to me Ibn Wahb reported to us Yunus reported to me from Ibn Shih b, Abu Salamah ibn Abdar-Ra man and Sa'eed ibn Musayib reported to me, they said Abu Hurayrah narrated that he heard the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) say: Avoid that which I forbid you to do and do that which I command you to do to the best of your capacity. Verily the people before you went to their doom because they had put too many questions to their Prophets and then disagreed with their teachings.

The narration is well known and can be found in almost all the major hadith collections via authentic chains of transmission. In al-Jāmi as-Sahīh al-Mukhtaṣr Im m Bukh ri recorded:

Ism 'il narrated to us M lik narrated to me from Abi Zin d from al-'Araj from Abu Hurayrah from the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: Leave me as I leave you for the people who were before you were ruined because of their questions and their differences over their Prophets. So, if I forbid you to do something, then keep away from it. And if I order you to do something, then do of it as much as you can.

Without doubt this isnād is authentic as the brightest sun; it is considered the ‘golden chain’ from Abu Hurayrah as is commonly said, although we believe that Ibn Shih b az-Zuhri from Abu Salamah ibn Abdar-Raman and Sa’eed ibn Musayib from Abu Hurayrah is just as authentic and indeed stronger. Again, Muslim has another version of this albeit with the additional contextual backdrop:

And Zuhayr bin arb narrated to me Yazeed bin run narrated to us ar-Rabih' bin Muslim al-Qurayshi reported to us from Mu ammad bin Ziy d from Abu Hurayrah who said: Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) addressed us and said: O people, Allah has made Hajj obligatory for you; so perform Hajj. Thereupon a person said: Messenger of Allah, (is it to be performed) every year? He (the Prophet) kept quiet, and he repeated (these words) thrice, whereupon Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) said: If I were to say yes, it would become obligatory (for you to perform it every year) and you would not be able to do it. Then he said: Leave me with what I have left to you, for those who were before you were destroyed because of excessive questioning, and their opposition to their apostles. So when I command you to do anything, do it as much as it lies in your power and when I forbid you to do anything, then abandon it.

There is a good useful addition which is mentioned in Sahīh Ibn ibb n with a strong chain of transmission accompanied with a useful comment made by Im m Abu tim Ibn ibb n al-Bus’ty:

Umar bin Mu ammad al-Hamdi reported to us he said Abdal-Malik bin Shu’ayb al-Layth bin Sa’d narrated to us he said my father narrated to me from my grandfather from Mu ammad bin ‘Ajl n: Zayd bin Aslam narrated to me from Abi li from Abu Hurayrah from the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him): Whatever matter I informed you of, undoubtedly it is from Allah.

Abu tim ibn ibb n may Allah be pleased with him said:

This hadith includes a clear statement: the prohibited matters forbade by the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) are all definite and obligatory until evidence proves it is not. In addition, the Prophet's orders are obligatory, depending on one's capacity, until evidence proves it is not. Allah the exalted says ‘and whatever the Messenger gives you, take it and whatever he forbids you then abstain’¹¹ and ‘But no, by your Lord they do not believe until they appoint you a judge in all what is in dispute between them, then they do not find in their souls any objection on what you have decided, and they submit with an entire submission.’¹²

Shaykh Shu'ayb al-Arn 'u said the isnād is strong according to the conditions of Muslim. Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him) was not the only one who narrated that meaning, as Sa'd bin Abi Waqqās (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated similarly in the same subject but from a different view. In al-Jāmi' as-Sahīh al-Mukhtaṣr, Imam Bukhari recorded the following:

Abdullah bin Yazeed al-Muqrā' narrated to us Sa'eed narrated to us 'Uqayl narrated to me from Ibn Shihāb from 'Amir bin Sa'd bin Abi Waqqās from his father that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: The most sinful person among the Muslims is the one who asked about something which had not been prohibited, but was prohibited because of his asking.

Imam Muslim also records this narration with a slight variant wording:

And Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba and Ibn Abi Umar narrated it to us, they said Sufyān bin Uyayna narrated to us from az-Zuhri and Muhammad bin 'Abd narrated to us Sufyān narrated to us he said: I saved and memorised in the name of Allah ar-

Rahmān, ar-Raheem az-Zuhri from 'Amir bin Sa'd from his father who said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: The greatest sinner of the Muslims amongst Muslims is one who asked about a certain thing which had not been prohibited and it was prohibited because of his asking about it

Further to the above, the next hadith which is also authentic and is recorded on the authority of an-Nawwās ibn Samān provides even greater clarity upon the issue at hand; as collected by Muslim:

Hurayr bin Sa'eed al-Ayli narrated to me Abdullah bin Wahb narrated to us Mu'wiya – that is to say - Ibn 'Umar narrated to us from Abdar-Raman bin Jubayr bin Nufayr from his father from Nawwās ibn Samān who said: I stayed with Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) for one year. What obstructed me to migrate was (nothing) but (persistent) inquiries from him (about Islam). It was a common observation that when anyone of us migrated (to Medina) he ceased to ask (questions) from Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him). So I asked him about virtue and vice. Thereupon Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) said: Virtue is a kind disposition and vice is what rankles in your mind and that you disapprove of its being known to the people.

Moreover, there is also the hadith that has been narrated upon the authority of Abu Thalaba al-Khushani. The narration is authentic and relates to the same subject; this has been cited by Ibn azm, who also judged it as authentic in his seminal work al-Ihkām fi Uṣūl al-Aḥkām (Judgement on the Principles of Law):

A mad ibn Q sim narrated to us Abu Q sim ibn Mu ammad ibn Q sim narrated to us my grandfather Q sim ibn A bagh narrated to us Bakr ibn amm d reported to us af ibn Ghay th reported to us from D wud ibn Abi Hind from Mak oul from Abu Thalabah al-Khushani who said: the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Allah, the Exalted, has laid down certain duties which you should not neglect, and has put certain limits which you should not transgress, and has kept silent about other matters out of forgiveness for you and not out of forgetfulness, so do not seek to investigate them.

Im m Bayhaqy recorded similarly in his Sunan al-Kubra,¹³ via af bin Ghay th albeit in mawquf (halted) form which is admittedly weak. The correct reporting for this narration should not be halted at af bin Ghay th; that is mistaken. Al- kim also collected this narration and authenticated it in al-Mustadrak a'la Ṣaḥīḥayn with a slight variation in wording:

Ali bin Esa narrated to me Mu ammad ibn 'Amr al- arshi narrated to us al-Qa'nabi narrated to us Ali bin Mashour narrated to us from D wud ibn Abi Hind from Mak oul from Abu Thalabah al-Khushani who said: the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Verily, Allah has set some limits, so do not trespass them and He has ordained some obligations, so do not neglect them; He has sanctified some things so do not violate them; and He has refrained from mentioning other matters not (out of) forgetfulness, but as a way of being merciful to you, so accept (that) and do not look for them!

The narration is also recorded by D raqu ni in his Sunan,¹⁴ in a marfu' (elevated) form via the channel of Is q al-Azraq; a - abar ni has this in Mu'jam al-Kabir,¹⁵ Ibn 'As kir has this in his collection¹⁶ via the channel of Yazeed bin H run; Ibn azm has it in the *Ihkām*¹⁷ in another place in marfu' (elevated) form via the channel of Mu ammad bin Fa eel. It is also in *Faqih al-Mutafaqih*¹⁸ of al-Kha ib al-Baghd di via the channel of Zuhayr bin Is q, again marfu'. It is arguable that Im m D raqu ni fell prey to this as a result of irsāl when recording his tradition. As for those who would argue that Im m Mak oul did not hear from Abu Thalabah al-Khushani, we categorically assert that this Makoul was a great successor, may Allah be pleased with him.¹⁹ The next narration to be taken into account is that which is found in Al-kim's al-Mustadrak a'la Ṣahīḥayn, recorded on the authority of Abu Dard';

Abu Ja'far Mu ammad bin Ali ash-Shayb ni reported to us A mad bin zim al-Ghaf ri narrated to us Abu Nu'aym narrated to us 'A im bin Raj bin aywa narrated to us from his father from Abu Dard ' who raised the hadith and said: Whatever was considered lawful by Allah in His Book is lawful and whatever was considered unlawful is unlawful and He has refrained from mentioning other matters so it is forgiveness from Him. Accept from Allah His Forgiveness, as Allah never forgets anything, (then he mentioned this verse): *And we do not descend but by the command of your Lord; to Him belongs whatever is before us and behind us and whatever in between, and your Lord is not forgetful.*²⁰

Al-kim said that the narration is authentic, but they (Bukhari and Muslim) did not record it; ath-Dhababi concurred with him in this. It has also been reported in a number of other places, such as in the Sunan of Daraqunni;²¹ the Sunan al-Kubra of Bayhaqi,²² by abu Ishaq al-

¹⁹ The Arabic edition contains the full appendix which discusses Makoul as a narrator and dispels several criticisms levelled against his reporting from previous scholars, which as it transpires, were based upon a mistaken understanding of his life chronology.

²⁰ Qur'an 19: 64

in the *Musnad ash-Shāmiayn*²³ and in a number of other places. Al-fiz (Ibn ajar) attributed it to al-Bazz r and al- kim in Fath al-Bāri with different wording and some additions. He said al-Bazz r recorded the following hadith with a valid chain of transmission and al- kim regarded it as authentic. I would submit that it is hasan (good) and reasonable on the basis of ‘A im bin Raj bin aywa; hence the narration is hasan Sahīh.²⁴ A similar version of this hadith was narrated by ‘Umair bin Qat da al-Janda’y al-Laythi through a reasonable chain of transmission which doesn’t have serious objections raised about it; it is recorded in Al- kim’s al-Mustadrak a’la Sahīhayn:

Ya ya ibn Uthm n ibn li narrated to us 'Amr bin Kh lid al-i8 sion wh ated to us 'AmMtI4(t)6 aTJ m9(bi)-7(ad8()76(Kh)5 w)5 am0(e)-3(

'Ubaid bin 'Umair from his father from his grandfather who said: There was a question inside me and I was sad that I had not asked the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) about it nor heard anyone asking him about it. I was waiting for the proper time for it. Then I entered upon him once while he was performing ablution. I found him in the two moods I loved to find him; I found him unoccupied and at peace. So I said - O Messenger of Allah! Can I have your permission to ask you? He said: Yes, ask about whatever concerns you. I said: O Messenger of Allah! What is faith? He said: leniency and patience. I said: Who has the best faith among believers? He said: Whoever has the best manners. I said: Who is the best Muslim among Muslims? He said: The one who avoids harming Muslims with his tongue and hands. I said: What (kind) of fighting in the cause of Allah is the best? He bowed his head and kept silent for a long time, such that I feared I troubled him and wished that I did not ask him, as I heard him saying the day before - The most sinful person among the Muslims is the one who asked about something which had not been prohibited, but was prohibited to people because of his asking. So I said: I seek refuge with Allah from the anger of Allah and the anger of His Messenger (peace be upon him). He raised his head and said: What did you say (ask)? I said - what is the best among Jihād? He said: The best Jihād is (to speak) a word of justice to an oppressive ruler.

Hats off to 'Umair bin Qat dah for these great and productive questions! How fortunate was he to have enjoyed hearing the perfect statements directly from the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) directly without recourse to an intermediary. Similarly, this also has reached us from Salm n al-F rsi as recorded by Im m Tirmidhi in his Sunan:

Ism 'il bin Musa al-Fuz ri narrated to us Sayf bin H run al-Burjumi narrated to us from Sulaym n at-Taymi from Abi 'Uthm n from Salm n who said: The Messenger of Allah was asked about fat, cheese, and furs, so he said: The lawful is what Allah made lawful in His Book, the unlawful is what Allah made unlawful in his Book, and what He was silent about; then it is among that for which He has pardoned.

After citing this narration Tirmidhi comments as follows:

There is something on this topic from Al-Mughirah, and this hadith is ghareeb (strange), we do not know of it being marfu' (raised / elevated) except from this route. Sufy n and others reported it from Sulaym n at-Taymi from Abu Uthm n from Salm n as his own saying. It is as if the mawquf' (halted) narration is more correct. I asked Al-Bukh ri about this hadith and he said: 'I do not think it is preserved. Sufy n reported it from Sulaym n at-Taymi from Abu Uthm n from Salm n in mawquf' form.' Al-Bukh ri (also) said: 'Sayf bin H run is muqārib (average) in hadith and as for Sayf bin Mu ammad from 'A im his narrations are left.'

The narration is also found in several places, such as in Sunan Ibn Mājah,²⁵ al- kim's Mustadrak,²⁶ abar ni's *Mu'jam al-Kabir*²⁷ and in the Sunan al-Kubra of Bayhaqy.²⁸ I would argue that Sayf bin H run is thiqā aā'bid. Mistaking him for being weak is a quite grave. The Im m and established authority, Sufy n ibn 'Uyayna raised his

Ali bin Mu ammad bin Du aym ash-Shayb ni reported to me in Kufa, A mad bin zim al-Ghaf ri narrated to us Abu Nu'aym narrated to us Mu ammad bin Shareek al-Makki narrated to us from Amr bin Din r from Abu ash-Sha'sh from Ibn 'Abb s who said: The people of pre-Islamic times used to eat some things and leave others alone, considering them unclean. Then Allah sent His Prophet (peace be upon him) and sent down His Book, marking some things lawful and others unlawful; so what He made lawful is lawful, what he made unlawful is unlawful, and what he said nothing about is pardoned. And he recited: *Say: I do not find in that which has been revealed to me anything forbidden for an eater to eat of except that it be what has died of itself, or blood poured forth, or flesh of swine-- for that surely is unclean-- or that which is a transgression, other than (the name of) Allah having been invoked on it; but whoever is driven to necessity, not desiring nor exceeding the limit, then surely your Lord is forgiving, merciful.*³⁰

²⁹ The appendix to the Arabic edition has greater detail concerning this and the narrator in question

³⁰ Qur'an 6: 145

It is also reported by Abu D wud in his Sunan,³¹ al- kim said that the isnād is authentic, but they (Bukh ri and Muslim) did not record it; I would submit that it is well established and authentic. Moreover, this also comes to us via a major successor, namely 'Ubaid bin 'Umair, as cited by Abdar-Razz q in his Muṣṣanaf with an authentic isnād:

Abdar-Razz q from ibn 'Uyayna from Amr bin Din r that he heard 'Ubaid bin 'Umair say: Allah has outlined the halāl and the haram, other than the halāl and the haram that upon which there is silence it is regarded as forgiven.

It is also recorded in the Tafsir of Im m a - abari in two places with an authentic isnād's:

ann d narrated to us he said Ibn Abi Z ida narrated to us Ibn Jurayj reported to us from 'A who said 'Ubaid bin 'Umair he said: Verily Allah the exalted (clarified) the halāl and the haram; as for the halāl he has legislated as such and refrain from what is haram. Leave the matters which have not been detailed as halāl and haram - that has been pardoned from the mercy of Allah. (Then he recited): O you who believe! Do not ask questions about things which if declared to you may trouble

*you.*³²

Ibn Muthanna narrated to us he said ad- a k narrated to us he said Ibn Jurayj reported to us he said ‘A reporeeted to me from ‘Ubaid bin ‘Umair that he was saying Allah has forbidden and permitted, therefore he mentioned about it.

The last of the Prophets sent to mankind, Mu ammad (peace be upon him) used to become very angry with whoever asked him such questions, as is demonstrated in the hadith which is narrated upon the authority of Abu Qat dah al-An ri (may Allah be pleased him) as collected by Im m Muslim:

Mu ammad ibn Muthanna and Mu ammad bin Bash r narrated

to us – and this is the wording of ibn Muthanna – they said Mu ammad bin Ja’far narrated to us Shu’ba narrated to us from Ghayl n bin Jarir who heard Abdullah bin Ma’bad az-Zam ni from Abu Qat dah al-An ri that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) was asked about his fasting. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) felt annoyed. Thereupon ‘Umar (Allah be pleased with him) said: We are pleased with Allah as the Lord, with Islam as our Code of Life, with Mu ammad as the Messenger and with our pledge (to you for willing and cheerful submission) as a (sacred) commitment! He was then asked about perpetual fasting, whereupon he said: He neither fasted nor did he break it, or he did not fast and he did not break it. He was then asked about fasting for two days and breaking one day. He (the Prophet) said: And who has strength enough to do it? He was asked about fasting for a day and breaking for two days, whereupon he said: May Allah bestow upon us strength to do it. He was then asked about fasting for a day and breaking on the other, whereupon he said: That is the fasting of my brother Dāwud (David, peace be upon him). He was then asked about fasting on Monday, whereupon he said: It was the day on which I was born, on which I was commissioned with Prophethood or revelation was sent to me, (and he further) said: Three days' fasting every month and of the whole of Ramadan every year is a perpetual fast. He was asked about fasting on the day of ‘Arafa whereupon he said: It expiates the sins of the preceding year and the coming year. He was asked about fasting on the day of ‘Ashura whereupon he said: It expiates the sins of the preceding year.

Muslim records this through various authentic channels of transmission in his Sahīh. It is also recorded widely by many authorities of hadith in their collections: Mujtabi min as-Sunan and Sunan al-Kubra of Im m an-Nas ’i; Musnad A mad, Sahīh Ibn Khuzayma, Al- kim’s al-Mustadrak a’la Ṣahīhayn and many others. The isānd’s for this hadith are authentic and well established. Bayhaqy has this in Sunan al-Kubra via the following isnād which doesn't contain Shu'ba:

Abu Bakr bin Mu ammad bin al- asan bin Fawrak reported to us Abdullah ibn Ja'far reports, Yunus bin abeeb narrated to us Abu D wud narrated to us amm d bin Zayd, Hish m and Mahdi narrated to us he said amm d and Mahdi from Ghayl n bin Jarir and he said Hish m from Qat dah from Ghayl n bin Jarir from Abdullah Ma'bad az-Zam ni from Abu Qat dah al-An ri, from him that he narrated that a Bedouin asked the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) about his fast. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) became angry until it was shown in his face. Thereupon, 'Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) stood up and said - We are satisfied with Allah as our Lord, with Islam as our religion, and with you as our Prophet. We seek refuge with Allah from the anger of Allah and that of His Messenger! 'Umar kept on repeating these words until his (the Prophet's) anger calmed down. The rest of the hadith is recorded similar to the hadith of Im m Muslim.

Regarding this, Bayhaqy said: 'Muslim recorded it in his Sahīh from Ya ya bin Ya ya and other than him from amm d bin Zayd and from other channels from Mahdi bin Maymoon.' The same is also reported by Abu D wud in his Sunan.³³ Ibn ibb n records this narration in his Sahīh with the following isnād with an additional insightful comment:

Abu Ya'la reported to us Khalf bin Hish m al-Bazz r narrated to us amm d bin Zayd narrated to us from Ghayl n bin Jarir from Abdullah ibn Ma'bad from Abu Qat dah al-An ri in a long narrative (as above) till he said: I wished that I could bear that.

Abu tim said: The Prophet (peace be upon him) was not angry because of this question asking about the fast but he (peace be upon him) was angry because the person asked him - 'O Messenger of Allah! How do you fast?' The Prophet (peace be upon him) hated this question about his own way of fasting because he feared that if he tells the questioner he will not bare such kind of fasting or he feared for the questioner and all of his Ummah that if he tells them it may be imposed upon them and they will fail to perform it.

Regarding this, Shaykh Shu'ayb al-Arn 'u said: 'It has a good chain of transmission according to the conditions of Muslim.' As already mentioned earlier as part of the long quote from Ibn Kathir, al- fiz Abu Ya'la al-Maw ily mentioned in his Musnad:

Abu Kareeb reported to us Is q bin Sulaym n reported to us from Abi Sin n from Abi Is q from al-Bar ' bin A 'zib who said: A whole year would pass while I wanted to ask the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) about a matter. But I was afraid from him and we used to wish that some Bedouin will come and ask him.

Qutayba narrated to us he said al-Layth narrated to us from Ja'far bin Rabih' from Bakr bin Sawda from Muslim bin Makhshi from Ibn al-Firsi that al-Firsi said to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him): May I ask, Messenger of Allah?³⁴ The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: No, but if there is no escape from it, ask the righteous (aṣ-Ṣāliheen).

Imām an-Nas ḫi has this in both his Sunan and *Sunan al-Kubra*³⁵ with the only difference in terms of narration being 'Qutayba reported to us' instead of 'Qutayba narrated to us' as above. Imām Abdullah bin Amād bin Anbal has this narration albeit with slight variation regarding the channel of transmission and how it was reported.³⁶ abar ni has this in Mu'jam al-Kabir and he narrates as follows:

Mu'ālib ibn Shu'ayb al-Azdi narrated to us Abdullah bin Ḫi

³⁴ In the standard English translation of this ḥadīth this is rendered as 'May I beg?', which doesn't give the reader the full context and is slightly misleading

³⁵ Nas ḫi, Sunan, Vol. 5 sec. 95, no. 2,587; Sunan al-Kubra, Vol. 2 sec. 50, no. 2,368

³⁶ Vol. 4 sec. 334, no. 18,965

narrated to us al-Layth narrated to me from Ja'far bin Rabih' from Bakr bin Sawda from Muslim bin Makhshi from Ibn al-Firsi that his father al-Firsi said: O Messenger of Allah, can I ask? He replied: No, but if there is no escape from it, ask the righteous.

The same is also in Tahzeeb al-Kāmil with the addition in transmission being clarification of Muslim bin Makhshi as being Muslim bin Makhshi al-Mudalja, Abu Mu'wiya al-Ma'ri from the channel of abar ni. Bayhaqī has this in Sunan al-Kubra from an alternate way:

And Abu Ḥir al-Faqihi reported to us Ali bin Ibrāhim bin Mu'wiya an-Nisiburi reports, Mu'ammad bin Muslim bin Warā narrated to us Mu'ammad bin Musa bin 'Ayn narrated to me he said: I found in the book of my father from Amr bin al-Rith from Bakr from Muslim bin Makhshi that al-Firsi's father told him about it.

Al-Fiz (Ibn 'Ajjār) summarised most of the accounts mentioned about this subject Fath al-Bāri, he writes:

The chapter of the disapproval of asking too many questions, interfering in what is not our concern and the saying of Allah – 'O you who believe! Do not ask questions about things which if declared to you may trouble you'. As if he mentioned this verse to be evidence that establishes the disapproval, which indicates that he approved some of what was mentioned in explaining this verse. We had mentioned the difference in opinion concerning the occasions of its revelation within the Tafsir of Surah al-Mā'ida. Ibn al-Muneer felt that it is about asking too many questions both in the past and at the present. And the saying of al-Bukhari showed his approval and the hadith's which he mentioned in the chapter, supported his view. While a group among the jurists including the judge - Abu Bakr bin al-'Araby denied it. He said that some ignorant people believed that this verse prohibited asking about matters concerned with disasters till it really happened, while it is not; the verse cleared that what is prohibited is asking questions that may cause hardship and difficulty to the Muslims while questions about disasters are not like that. The matter is exactly as he said, because this verse suggests that it is concerned with the time of revelation. Included in the hadith of Sa'd which he mentioned at the beginning of al-Muṣṣanaf in the chapter of whoever asks about something which had not been prohibited, but was prohibited to people because of his asking - approved that.

Like that could happen and was included in the meaning of the hadith of Sa'd. Al-Bazzar recorded the following hadith with a valid chain of transmission and Al-kim regarded it as an authentic hadith that Abu Dard ' (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: 'Whatever was considered lawful by Allah in His Book is lawful and whatever was considered unlawful is unlawful and He has refrained from mentioning other matters so it is forgiveness from Him. Accept from Allah His forgiveness, as Allah never forgets anything.' Daraquni recorded that Abu Thalabah narrated that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: 'Verily, Allah has ordained some obligations, so do not neglect them; He has set some limits, so do not cross them; He has refrained from mentioning other matters not (out of) forgetfulness, do not look for them.' It has a support narrated by Salmān as recorded by Tirmidhi and another narrated by Ibn 'Abbās and recorded by Abu Dawud. Muslim also recorded what was mentioned originally by al-Bukhari as it was mentioned above in the book of knowledge on the authority of Anas (may Allah be pleased with him) that he narrated: 'We were forbidden to ask anything (without the genuine need) from the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). It, therefore, pleased us that an intelligent person from the dwellers of the desert should come and asked him (the Prophet) while we listen to it.'

He went on mentioning the story of the oath of condemnation in hadith narrated by 'Umar and how the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) hated the questions and criticised them. Muslim recorded that Nawwās ibn Samān (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated that he stayed with the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) for one year at Medina. Nothing obstructed me to migrate but inquiries to him (about Islam). It was a common observation that when anyone of us migrated (to Medina) he ceased to ask (too many questions) the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). He meant here that he came to Medina as a newcomer but did not emigrate to it and he remained in that state for one year in order not to lose his right to ask questions. This hadith indicates that the prohibition of asking too many questions is addressing those people other than Bedouins whether they are newcomers or others. A mad recorded that Abu Umāma (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated: 'When this verse was revealed in which Allah says Do not ask about matters..... we used not to ask him (peace be upon him).' So we went to a Bedouin and gave him a garment as a bribe and said to him - ask the Prophet (peace be upon him). Furthermore, Abu Ya'la recorded that al-Bar ' (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated: 'A whole year would pass while I want to ask the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) about a matter. But I was afraid from him and we used to wish that some Bedouin (will come and ask him).' They wished that a Bedouin may come and ask him while they are listening and benefit from such questions.

The ahādīth that are mentioned in this section are all proven and definite containing no doubts. By combining them with the verse (5:

101) and with the narrations that have been reported via Ibn ‘Abbās and others in explaining this verse, clarity can be brought to the subject. The primary point is that Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him) severely prohibited asking too many questions; arguing and disagreeing with the Prophet (peace be upon him); indulging in too many details, hair-splitting and dialectics. Even asking about matters that had not yet been raised or addressed by the revelation was also covered by this, notwithstanding the type of matters which people did ask the Prophet (peace be upon him), as noted earlier on. All of this has been demonstrated beyond any doubt by definite evidence, which has the effect of reaching certitude. For anyone to deny this would be clear kufr (disbelief). Thus, it is well established as a basic rule that other secondary issues can be built upon. All praise is to Allah for protecting the Dhikr – the Qur’ān and Sunnah.

One issue though remains, namely how do we interpret the narrations which we find in the reliable books of hadīth, such as in Bukhārī, that indicate some of companions in fact did ask the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) direct questions? Would the existence of these questions contradict what we have previously mentioned above concerning the prohibition of asking too many questions? In short, it is not a disaster that this in fact did occur. Nobody claims that the companions – may Allah be pleased with them all – were infallible or that they were above committing mistakes. If we go through Bukhārī we will find also several narrations that includes the punishment of adulterers, thieves, slanderers, and the Prophet (peace be upon him) scolding whoever indulged in backbiting. And we mentioned previously that the Prophet (peace be upon him) became angry concerning some questions and he reproved them and that the above verse was revealed concerning one of those incidents.

Secondly, most direct questions were in fact asked by Bedouins, people who were not living in Medina, those living outside the sacred precincts and by people from among delegations which were given a clear legal right to ask, as the Prophet (peace be upon him) used to ask them when they were about to leave - Do you have anything left (want to ask about it)? or words to that effect. This of course includes asking about whatever is not known by them or obscure in their minds. Thirdly, the severe prohibition is concerned with asking about matters that were not prohibited; that there is no text which was revealed talking about a particular matter. Pursuing the aforementioned line of argumentation seems to indicate that whoever takes issue with this is in fact displaying an underlying mistrust of Allah or having some kind of doubt that maybe Allah forgets some matters, misses things or that his Prophet (peace be upon him) hid something or neglected some matter. All of this is impossible and constitutes clear kufr (disbelief). Such mistrust may lead to the revelation of a judgment that prohibits a matter that was not prohibited before as a punishment for the whole nation. Asking about details of any judgment that was already revealed, seeking explanation of some small matters that were already legislated, details of any act of worship, or about rites that were legislated previously, this is not considered as being part of the prohibited questioning.

One can therefore discern that taken in the round, the cumulative legal effect of all these evidences establishes clearly that the basic ruling was one of permissibility. Put another way, the companions did not hesitate in carrying on with their normal lives and actions; when a commandment was revealed they put it into effect, when a matter was declared prohibited, they avoided the prohibition. Where the text was silent upon a matter, they implicitly understood that this was by default falling within the realm of permissibility.

6 Permissibility is the original or default ruling

Thus far we have exhaustively shown with compelling evidence, reaching the level of certitude, the following key principles:

- ❖ We are not originally addressed with the laws of the previous Prophets (peace and blessings upon all of them). These laws have been totally abrogated from beginning to end, an immediate and total abrogation, once the revelation descended to Mu ammad (peace be upon him), the last of the Prophets.
- ❖ We are certain that the Prophet (peace be upon him) received revelation and laws throughout his tenure as a Prophet over twenty-three years. No complete book was sent to him from the outset; the Qur' n and Sunnah being revealed in stages.
- ❖ A severe prohibition was placed upon seeking to question the Prophet (peace be upon him); from arguing and disputing with him and indulging in all manner of disputation.

- ❖ The companions did not hesitate in carrying on with their normal lives and actions during the period of revelation. They did this without asking or waiting for a revelation to be sent.

What was the original ruling concerning acts, speech and objects / things, was it prohibition or permissibility (ibāḥa)? What did the Muslims do during the period of revelation regarding these matters that had no text yet to classify them? There are two fundamental phases which must be considered. Firstly, prior to the advent of the Prophetic mission - there is no specific judgment before laws were sent down. The ruling in relation to acts, speech and objects / things is not permissibility as some might think. Permissibility (ibāḥa) is a legal judgment only specified by a statement from the law-maker. How can there be a judgment before there was such a statement - this is impossible. People did what they wished according to their own whims and interests till the message of Allah comes to them. This is a case of applying non-divine laws and not a divine permissibility. There is a great and fundamental difference between the two states. They are as far from each other as heaven and earth and it is an obvious matter to any reasonable person.

The second phase is what occurs during the period of revelation. Once the message has been sent everyone is obliged to believe in it and then follow it, for people were only created to worship Allah. They are ordered to listen to and obey all commandments and orders, to abstain from all matters prohibited. Submission to Allah means: surrendering, obeying and yielding to Him with love and respect. It is not just a mere collection of acts and rituals, be that bowing, prostrating or otherwise. The question that is raised now, is there a general ruling to which we refer in all things and actions till it is abrogated or altered? Or does such a ruling even exist?

The answer to this can be deduced from the plethora of evidence mentioned in the previous chapter on the prohibition relating to excessive questioning. These evidences establish the prohibition of asking too many questions. Further to this, the Prophet (peace be upon him) clearly stated: 'Leave me as I leave you.' Such a statement is not ambiguous and can have only one meaning. It meant - do whatever you wish and say whatever you wish, and believe whatever you choose to believe, for it is lawful for you; make use of all things, for they were created pure, lawful and blessed for you to use it in every possible way; fulfil your contracts, meet your promises, keep on doing your customs and continue on following your prevailing systems regarding marriage and inheritance etc. All of this can be carried out till the specifications regarding what is obligatory, recommended, disliked and prohibited has been detailed by revelation. This must be the meaning and implication of the phrase - 'Leave me as I leave you'. To argue otherwise would be tantamount to saying that the Prophet (peace be upon him) would be allowing people to do prohibited acts, to leave obligations and to go on with their evil contracting system. He would no longer be a Messenger of Allah, commanding the good and forbidding the evil; this would be the qualities of a false imposter not a true prophet. Allah forbid that Abul-Qasim (Muhammad, peace be upon him) the last of the Prophets should be thought of in that manner. Arguably this principle ought to be known by the necessity of perception and reason, as well as by the necessities of the Shari'ah, as it has been made explicit by several texts, in brief:

- ❖ Abu Dard' (may Allah be pleased with him) who narrated that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Whatever was considered lawful by Allah in His Book is lawful and whatever was considered unlawful is unlawful and He has refrained from mentioning other matters so it is forgiveness from Him. Accept from Allah His Forgiveness, as Allah never forgets anything, (then he mentioned this verse): '....and your Lord is not forgetful.'¹

- ❖ There is also the hadith of Abu Thalabah al-Khushani who said, the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: '....and has kept silent about other matters out of forgiveness for you and not out of forgetfulness, so do not seek to investigate them.' The word 'forgiveness' mentioned here is the forgiveness granted after the revelation of the laws; it is called absolute permissibility and not 'forgiveness' before the revelation of a law, which is called 'absence of divine law'; no account or punishment follows it for they are only applied after laws are established and proven.
- ❖ The Prophet (peace be upon him) said: 'The most sinful Muslim is the one who asked about something which had not been prohibited, but was prohibited because of his asking.' This means that the thing asked about was originally lawful before the question posed resulted in its prohibition. This necessitates in the absence of a legal text denoting a prohibition (or an obligation) the matter is lawful and within the realm of permissibility. For it to be otherwise is impossible. There is no more 'absence of divine law' after the revelation of the verse of the Qur'an: 'Read! In the name of your Lord...'² It is almost as if Allah said to people then: 'Do whatever you wish, for I have forgiven you all things and have given you my permission in all actions until I specify for you what is prohibited, what is obligatory and till I show you what is desirable and what is disliked. Until that time everything is lawful and is forgiven, out of my gentleness and mercy not out of negligence or forgetfulness. So, do not ask your Prophet frequently, do not ask too many questions and argue or you will taste the calamity of your affairs.' Put another way – continue, as what you are doing is considered lawful until further notice and clarification.

- ❖ Lastly, what has been transmitted to us from history and biographies has established that the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his companions undertook transactions, various professions, marriages, travel, underwent medical treatment and practiced all of life's affairs without asking or waiting for a revelation to be sent except in very limited instances. Necessity dictates that they implicitly knew that permissibility was the original ruling regarding all things and actions and that it is the general default position.

Some may deny this, postulating an extreme example, such as what if an owner of a brothel continued in this iniquitous practice, living off its profits; surely this would invalidate this principle? In response, we would argue, so what if that was the case! Such practices would be considered lawful until revelation comes to specify that it is prohibited. Shocking as it may seem that is how it is. Some may even argue that this goes against the thinking of ‘sound minds’ and reason. In response, we would argue that the matter cannot be judged by a reasoning that is flawed. He that created the mind and reason is more knowledgeable of them; such matters should be left to him. If he wishes he shall put this into consideration out of his leniency and mercy and if he wishes, he shall neglect it out of being from matters of worship. What you should do is to accept the reason for which you were created, that is exclusively to worship Allah making your devotion sincere and turning to him in repentance; not to argue with the orders of the Lord or put yourself forward before his Messenger (peace be upon him). In any event the jurists of Islam have concurred that lawfulness is the default ruling regarding things / objects, as Allah says:

هُوَ الَّذِي خَلَقَ لَكُمْ مَا فِي الْأَرْضِ جَمِيعًا ثُمَّ أَسْتَوَى إِلَى السَّمَاءِ فَسَوَّاهُنَّ سَبْعَ سَمَاوَاتٍ وَهُوَ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيمٌ

It is He who created all that is on the earth for you, then turned to the sky and made the seven heavens; it is He who has knowledge of all things.³

There are many verses mentioning the gifts which Allah conferred upon mankind. Such gifts out of his bounty would not be true gifts unless all these things and utilities were lawful except that which was prohibited. All things must have been pure in origin except that which was ordained impure. This is an admissible and decisive proof and here are some additional proofs - everything that was created in this universe from among things, entities in themselves, and their utilities are:

-Permissible for humans

-Pure from the religious ritual point of view

There is no difference between gases (like air and vapour), liquids (like water, juice and milk), and solid entities (like iron, copper, dust and rocks). There is no difference between simple compounds like water and air and complex mixtures like clay and soil. There is no difference between inanimate objects (like rocks and mountains) and living beings (like cattle and birds). All of these things are among the items which Allah has placed in this universe and they are pure and permissible for a human being to utilise. The utilisation can mean terminating them like slaughtering a sheep, eating a loaf of bread, and making use of one of its utilities such as riding animals, smelling roses, and looking at the beautiful sights of mountains and plains. All of this is permissible except for that which is excluded by a legal text specifying its prohibition, its impurity or both. Permissibility and purity are two separate things. Being prohibited does not entail being impure and vice versa.

Indeed, a minority of Islamic scholars argued that the original principle concerning acts is different from that concerning things / objects. According to this view, man and his actions do not fall under the previous discussion, for Allah favoured man by granting him the right to utilise all other creatures. We know by the necessity of perception and reason that the one favoured (mankind) is different from the favoured thing itself which is the rest of things in the universe. Thus, the previous evidences supporting the permissibility and purity of things does not entail that permissibility is the original ruling regarding man's actions. Mankind was only created to worship Allah, to obey his orders and abstain from his prohibitions. Consequently, man cannot do or intend to do any action without the express permission of Allah. In response, we would submit that this is a good point that draws a clear distinction between actions - man's voluntary actions which is the only thing taken into account here - and all things created in the universe other than man. The one certain truth is that man is only created to worship Allah, as clearly established in the verse:

وَمَا خَلَقْتُ الْجِنَّ وَالْإِنْسَ إِلَّا لِيَعْبُدُونَ

And I have only created man and jinn so that they should worship me.⁴

Submission to Allah means to yield, surrender and obey with love and honour. It is not a simple collection of rituals that involve bowing or prostrating. Worship is obedience, based on love and sanctification as will be discussed elsewhere. All of that has nothing to do with the fact that permissibility is the default ruling regarding neither all things nor all actions, for permissibility is a legal judgment. Obeying Allah in that which he has designated permissible is not different from obeying him in adhering to duties and abstaining from prohibitions. When Allah ordains that permissibility is the default ruling regarding things, this is his judgment that cannot be refused. This is the meaning of submission to Allah which is the reason behind the creation of mankind. If he ordained things to be prohibited, this is his judgment that cannot be neglected and that must be obeyed.

فَمَن يَعْمَلْ مِثْقَلَ ذَرَّةٍ خَيْرًا يَرَهُ ، وَمَن يَعْمَلْ مِثْقَلَ ذَرَّةٍ شَرًّا يَرَهُ

Hence he who has done an atom's weight of good shall see it and he who has done an atom's weight of evil shall see it.⁵

The aforementioned verse and those of similar import are not directly relevant to the present discussion; it is just an indication to the comprehensive account and reward or punishment for each deed no matter how minute it is. Good is what Allah has classified as good and evil is what Allah has dispraised and called evil and nothing else. What is the relationship between that and the original judgment regarding actions and things? There is no relationship whatsoever, for we only seek the judgment of Allah. We wish to submit to Allah surrendering to his judgment and nothing else, regardless of the nature of that judgment. It might be prohibiting drinking camel's milk in the same matter that it was prohibited to the people of Israel or making it lawful as ordained in our last and final law. Thus, there is no other choice than discussing this matter from such an angle.

The statement that permissibility is the original or default ruling on all things / objects unless a textual proof denotes otherwise, necessarily requires that all acts that are related to these things are permissible as well. Otherwise that notion of permissibility would lose its meaning and become absurd. To say that a ewe is lawful, means that it is permissible to slaughter it, skin it, tan its skin, sell it, buy it, bury it or dissolve its fat and benefit from that fat or manufacture soap from it. In this way from what cannot be counted concerning human actions that are related to the ewe itself or its utility. This is a big part of human behaviour that has necessarily been basically permissible, unless a textual proof denotes otherwise; an example of this being the textual proof that outlaws torturing animals or branding them with fire on their faces.

Allah has bestowed great favour upon mankind giving us the senses, the heart, the soul and the mind. Mankind has been created with the best stature. Together with the texts already cited, necessity dictates that all actions proceeding from this form are basically permissible, unless a textual proof denotes otherwise. To elaborate this point with a simple example, all manner of expression from the lips and tongue is permissible, including speaking, whistling, humming, mumbling, crying, weeping, lamentation, wailing, articulation and speech and various sounds etc. Allah has said:

مَا يَلْفِظُ مِنْ قَوْلٍ إِلَّا لَدِيْهِ رَقِيبٌ عَتِيدٌ

He utters not a word but there is by him a watcher at hand.⁶

The stressed prohibition in the Qur'anic verse of asking ‘questions about things which if declared to you may trouble you’ requires the necessity of permitting all things and all actions, unless textual evidence denotes otherwise. A human being can never be void of activities in the course of life. Given that the verse says not to ask until the legislator provides detailed explanation, the meaning of the verse is evidently established: do as you will, for it is permissible unless the legislator specifies otherwise. As previously mentioned, the Prophet (peace be upon him) clearly said: ‘Leave me as I leave you for the people who were before you were ruined because of their questions and their differences over their Prophets. So, if I forbid you to do something, then keep away from it. And if I order you to do something, then do of it as much as you can.’ Is it therefore conceivable that someone who has been made infallible by Allah and who conveys the most perfect conveyance about him, commands people to leave him until it is he who specifies otherwise; would he be leaving them to commit matters unlawful and not establish obligations? Allah forbid!

The Prophet (peace be upon him) also said: ‘The most sinful Muslim is the one who asked about something which had not been prohibited, but was prohibited because of his asking.’ Yet again the hadith provides definite evidence that the thing asked wrongly, affectedly and unjustly, was permissible before the question, which then led to a prohibition. The word ‘things’ here in its lexical meaning includes everything: genus, qualities and actions. Furthermore, he (peace be upon him) clearly said: ‘Verily, Allah has ordained some obligations, so do not neglect them; He has set some limits, so do not trespass them; He has refrained from mentioning other matters not (out of) forgetfulness, so do not look for them. It is mercy from Allah, so accept it.’ Can the matter be any clear than this? In a separate Qur'anic verse Allah has said that he has explained to us in detail what has been forbidden:

وَمَا أَكْمَمْ أَلَا تَأْكُلُوا مِمَّا ذَكَرَ اسْمُ اللَّهِ عَلَيْهِ وَقَدْ فَصَلَ لَكُمْ مَا حَرَمَ عَلَيْكُمْ إِلَّا مَا اضْطَرَرْتُمْ إِلَيْهِ
وَإِنَّ كَثِيرًا لَيُضْلُلُونَ بِأَهْوَانِهِمْ بِغَيْرِ عِلْمٍ إِنَّ رَبَّكَ هُوَ أَعْلَمُ بِالْمُعْذَنِينَ

And what reason have you that you should not eat of that on which Allah's name has been mentioned, and He has already made plain to you what He has forbidden to you - excepting what you are compelled to; and most surely many would lead (people) astray by their low desires out of ignorance; surely your Lord - He best knows those who exceed the limits.⁷

Matters prohibited have all been explained, declared and clarified in detail. The same thing has been applied to the religious obligations, for abandoning them is a sin and prohibited. Allah has blamed, scolded and condemned in this verse, whosoever abstained from some food, lest that he falls into a forbidden thing which has not been detailed. This has been a proof that all things, whether properties and actions, are lawful unless there is an explicit detailed statement to prohibit or make something an obligation. J bir ibn Abdullah as well as many other comps anihaille lah he (3(op))5(l)-a(s sosoe)d wsombith th4(hem)1a for J bir made it clear that it happened during the lifetime of the Prophet (peace be upon him). Several methods have been reported proving that he saw it. Now what is apparent to me is that the person who deduced that, be it J bir or Sufy n, the person meant by the revelation of the Qur' n, that what is read is more general than what worship is done by reciting it, or other than that, from that which is revealed to the Prophet (peace be upon him). It is as if he says, we have done it at the time of legislation. And had it been unlawful, we would not have been approved to it. In relation to this, the statement of Ibn 'Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) provides for the following: 'During the lifetime of the Prophet we used to avoid chatting leisurely and freely with our wives lest some divine inspiration might be revealed concerning us. But when the Prophet had died, we started chatting leisurely and freely (with them).' Recorded by al-Bukh ri]

I would argue that the statement of those who said: 'Jābir's inference of the establishment from Allah is strange,' means nothing. But what is truly astonishing is how al- fiz (may Allah have mercy upon him) commented. That is what is truly strange. Does Allah not surround all things by his knowledge? And was the statement of the Prophet (peace be upon him) from himself and not revelation? Allah forbid! This is not what happened but it is from Allah and it is Allah who guarantees both the protection and explanation of the Dhikr - as he has already confirmed to us: *Therefore it is upon us (rests) its explanation.*¹⁰

As for the hadith of Ibn 'Umar (may Allah be pleased with him), it is in conformity with that reported from J bir and confirms the notion of permissibility being the underlying or default ruling. The full narration as recorded in Bukh ri is as follows:

Abu Nu'aym narrated to us Sufy n narrated to us from Abdullah bin Din r from Ibn Umar who said: During the lifetime of the Prophet (peace be upon him) we used to avoid chatting leisurely and freely with our wives lest some divine inspiration might be revealed concerning us. But when the Prophet (peace be upon him) had died, we started chatting leisurely and freely (with them).¹¹

Arguably this is from amongst the most authentic chains of transmission. Ibn M jah recorded this but with the following channel to Sufy n: 'Mu ammad bin Bash r narrated to us Abdar-Ra man bin Mahdi reported to us Sufy n narrated to us'. Im m A mad also reports this in Musnad with the channel: Abdar-Ra man narrated to us Sufy n narrated to us (et al).

In addition to the above we may add to these points the various narratives where the Prophet (peace be upon him) used to inform his companions about matters that they were completely unaware of; he (peace be upon him) only knew them via revelation. An example of this is the advice given to the delegation of 'Abdul-Qais not to make nabeeth in certain containers which were like 'hollowed stumps,' vessels smeared with pitch, pumpkins, and green jars. They were astonished that he knew some of them, though they are unknown to the people of Mecca and Medina; only the people of Al-Yam ma knew about them. As recorded and authenticated by Im m Muslim:

¹¹ The standard rendering of this narration into English is that wording. What Ibn Umar is referring to by this 'leisurely talk' is intimate sexual talk between spouses.

Mu ammad bin Bakk r al-Ba ri narrated to me Abu 'A im narrated to us from ibn Jurayj (hawala) and Mu ammad bin R fi'h narrated to me and it's his wording – Abdar-Razz q narrated to us Ibn Jurayj reported to us he said Abu Qaza'ah reported to me that Abu Na ra reported and told him that Abu Sa'eed al-Khudri informed him that when the delegation of the tribe of Abdul-Qais came to the Prophet of Allah (peace be upon him) (its members) said: Messenger of Allah, may God enable us to lay down our lives for you, which beverage is good for us? He (the Prophet) said: Not to speak of beverages, I would lay stress that you should not drink in the wine jars. They said: Apostle of Allah, may God enable us to lay down our lives for you, do you know what al-naqir is? He (the Prophet) replied: Yes, it is a stump which you hollow out in the middle, and added: Do not use gourd or receptacle (for drink). Use water-skin the mouth of which is tied with a thong (for this purpose).

It is also recorded in the Musnad of Im m A mad¹² with essentially the same isnād: 'Abdar-Razz q narrated to us and he reports, they said Ibn Jurayj narrated to us Abu Qaza'ah reported to me with it, before my presence.' I would submit that this is very authentic and well established particularly given the wording from Ibn Jurayj. The words, 'and good, told them' it is inverse wording and authentic; and he reported well. In any event, it is a good report from Abu Qaza'ah as is evident from the channel. In Sharḥ al-Ma'ani al-Athār its reported as: Ali narrated to us he said ajj j narrated to us from Ibn

¹² Musnad A mad Vol. 3 sec. 57, no. 11,561

Jurayj he said Abu Qaza'ah reported to me that Abu Na'ra reported to him that Abu Sa'eed al-Khudri narrated to them, as follows. In a lengthy hadith recorded and authenticated by Imam Muslim we have the following:

Ya ya bin Ayub narrated to us ibn 'Aliya narrated to us Sa'eed bin Abi Aruba narrated to us from Qat dah who said: (It was) narrated to us from among the delegates of the 'Abd al-Qais tribe narrated this tradition to him. Sa'id said that Qat dah had mentioned the name of Abu Na ra on the authority of Abu Sa'eed al-Khudri who narrated this tradition: That people from the tribe of 'Abd al-Qais came to the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) and said: Messenger of Allah, we belong to the tribe of Rabi'a and there live between you and us the unbelievers of the Mudar tribe and we find it impossible to come to you except in the sacred months; direct us to a deed which we must communicate to those who have been left behind us and by doing which we may enter heaven. Upon this the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I enjoin upon you four (things) and forbid you to do four (things): worship Allah and associate none with Him, establish prayer, pay zakāt, and observe the fast of Ramadān, and pay the fifth part out of the booty. And I prohibit you from four (things): dry gourds, green-coloured jars, hollowed stumps of palm-trees, and receptacles.

They (the members of the delegation) said: Do you know what al-naqir is? He replied: Yes, it is a stump which you hollow out and in which you throw small dates. Sa'eed said: He (the Prophet) used the word tamar (dates). (The Prophet then added): Then you sprinkle water over it and when its ebullition subsides, you drink it (and you are so intoxicated) that one amongst you, or one amongst them strikes his cousin with the sword. He (the narrator) said: There was a man amongst us who had sustained injury on this very account due to (intoxication), and he said that he tried to conceal it out of shame before the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him). I, however, inquired from the Messenger of Allah (it we discard those utensils which you have forbidden us to use), then what type of vessels should be used for drink? He replied: In the waterskin the mouths of which are tied (with a string). They (again) said: Prophet of Allah, our land abounds in rats and water-skins cannot remain preserved. The Prophet of Allah (peace be upon him) said: (Drink in water-skins) even if these are nibbled by rats. And then (addressing) al-Ashajj of 'Abd al-Qais he said: Verily, you possess two such qualities which Allah loves: insight and deliberateness.

After this Imam Muslim said: 'Muhammad bin al-Muthanna and Ibn Bishr narrated to us, they said Ibn Abi 'Adi narrated to us from Sa'eed from Qatibah who said: it was narrated to me from among the delegates of the 'Abd al-Qais tribe, that they came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) with the likeness of this hadith of ibn ‘Aliya, that in it he referred to hollowed stumps of palm-trees and receptacles or dates and water, but didn’t say Sa’eed said or he said from dates.’ This narration is also found in the Musnad of Im m A mad¹³ with the channel – Ya ya ibn Sa’eed narrated to us from Ibn Abi ‘Aruba, Qat dah narrated to us, who met with the delegation and he mentioned Abu Na ra from Abu Sa’eed about it. The reference to ‘al-nafeer’ was known in Al-Yam ma only and unknown to the people of ij z as outlined by al-Bayhaqy in Sunan al-Kubra:

Abu Bakr bin Fawrak narrated to us Adallah bin Ja’far reports, Yunus bin abeeb narrated to us Abu D wud narrated to us ‘Uyayna bin Abdar-Ra man bin Jawshan narrated to us my father narrated to me he said: Wine used to be made for Abu Bakrah in a jar. And then one day, Abu Barzah came from a long absence. He stayed at Abu Bakrah’s house before he went to his own house. He mentioned the hadith regarding the prohibited of wine for him, and his statement to his wife - I would like you to put it in water skin. When Abu Bakrah came, he said: we have known what we have been forbidden from. We have been forbidden from dry gourds, receptacles, hollowed stumps of palm-trees and green-coloured jars. As for the dry gourds, we the people from the tribe of Thaqeef in ‘if, used to take dry gourds, and mix clusters of grapes in them, and then bury them till they simmer and die. As for hollowed stumps of palm-trees, they are jars that wine used to be transported to us in them. As for green-coloured jars, they are these vessels that contain this pitch.

¹³ Musnad A mad Vol. 3 sec. 23, no. 11,191

Abu D wud a - ay lisi also reported similarly in his Musnad.¹⁴ Regarding this al-Bayhaqy commented as follows:

This is the way it has been reported about Abu Bakrah. According to a group of scholars, what is meant by prohibition from making wine in these vessels is that when malmsey is put in them, it quickly becomes so strong that it becomes intoxicating, whereas in water skins, it is unlikely to become so. And then, permission was granted regarding all sorts of vessels, as long as they do not drink intoxicants. And only Allah knows best.

The Prophet (peace be upon him) once surprised the companions on another occasion and without prior notice, when an embarrassing matter arose. Im m A mad records this incident in the Musnad:

¹⁴ Musnad Abu D wud a - ay lisi Vol. 1 sec. 120, no. 882

Abd a - ammad narrated to us he said af as-Sir j narrated to us he said I heard Shahr saying Asm bint Yazeed narrated to me - she was once at the mosque of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him), and men and women were sitting there. All of a sudden, he said: It may be that some men of you talk about what they do with their wives, and it may be that some women talk about what they have done with their husbands? Thereupon, people became shocked, and then I said – Yes! By Allah, O Messenger of Allah, they (women) do say such things regarding what they do! He said: You should not do that, for that is like the he-devil who met a she-devil in a street, and slept with her while people were looking (at them)!

The narration is also recorded by a - abar ni in Mu'jam al-Kabir.¹⁵ The report is authentic; I would submit that Shahr ibn awshab is thiqā and ṣadūq (trustworthy and truthful). Though at times some reports appear incomplete with some illusionary points; al- fiz (Ibn ajar) said regarding him in at-Taqreeb: ‘ṣadūq (trustworthy) but he has a lot of irsāl and illusions.’ Yet the narration he has reported here has been delivered well and he is known for narrating from Asm bint Yazeed. Therefore, this chain of transmission is good on its own virtue, without doubt. It is witnessed, for he has memorised here the following hadith from a completely independent chain away from Abu Hurayrah. It is inconceivable that there is a connivance of falsehood or the occurrence of error by chance.

Ism 'il bin Ibr him narrated to us from Sa'eed al-Juriri from Abi Na ra from a man from al- uf wa who said: I once happened to be a guest of Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him). I did not find any one among the companions of the Prophet (peace be upon him) more devoted to worship and more hospitable than him. One day I was with him when he was sitting on his bed. He had a bag which contained pebbles or kernels. A black slave girl of his was sitting below. He was saying: Glory be to Allah, Glory be to Allah (with the pebbles or kernels). When the pebbles or the kernels in the bag came to the end, he would make her collect them and put them back into the bag, and then she would give them to him. After a while, he said to me ‘Should I tell you about the Messenger of Allah and me? I said, Yes. He said, Once while I was suffering from fever in the mosque of Medina, the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) suddenly came and entered the mosque, and then asked: Who saw the youth of Ad-Daus? Who saw the youth of Ad-Daus? A man replied to him, O Messenger of Allah, there he is, suffering from fever in the corner of the mosque as you can see. He came over, put his hand on me and had a kind talk with me, and I rose. He then began to walk till he reached the place where he used to perform his prayer. On that day, there were two rows of men and one row of women, or two rows of women and one row of men (the narrator is doubtful). He turned to them and then said: If Satan makes me forget anything during the prayer, the men should say - Glory be to Allah, and the women should clap their hands. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) then performed the prayer and he did not forget anything during the prayer.

When he ended the prayer by pronouncing the final salutation he turned immediately to them with his face and then said: (please) stay at your places: Is there any man among you who approaches his wife, closes the door, covers himself with a curtain, and then come out and says, I have done such and such with my wife? They all kept silent. He then turned to the women and said (to them): Is there any woman among you who narrates it? Thereupon, a young busty girl knelt on one of her knees and raised her head so that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) could see her and hear her talk. She said - Yes, by Allah! They talk (about secrets of intercourse), they really talk about it! He then said: Do you know the likeness of the one who does that? Certainly, the likeness of this act is the likeness of a male devil and a female devil who met each other in the street, and he fulfilled his desire with her while people are looking at him. Then he said: Beware! No man should sleep in the same bed under the same cover while another man is sleeping therein, and no woman should sleep in the same bed under the same cover while another woman is sleeping therein, unless the other party, man or woman, is either an offspring or a parent. He (the narrator) said, he mentioned a third one but I have forgotten. Certainly, the perfume of men is that whose scent can be scented and its colour does not appear (like rose water), and the perfume of women is that whose colour can be seen, but its scent cannot be scented (like henna).

The narrative is reported quite widely, such as in the Sunan of Abu D wud,¹⁶ in Bayhaqy's Sunan al-Kubra,¹⁷ in the Muṣṣanaf of Ibn Abi Shayba¹⁸ as well as in other places. Alb ni said that the narration was weak in his commentary on the Sunan of Abu D wud. I would concur to a degree given the presence of an unknown man from uf wa. Indeed, it is not from a companion but there is no fear of ikhtilāt (confusion/mixing up) regarding al-Juriri; yet there are a multiplicity of the narrations from him – Ism 'il bin Ibr him (Ibn 'Ulaya), Bishr and amm d bin Zayd as well as Yazeed bin Zureeh'. Besides, Bayhaqy said: 'All of them are established Im m's and from them he heard from al-Juriri before his ikhtilāt.' To reiterate, admittedly the chain of transmission contains an unknown man from al- uf wa, but the rest are well known and trustworthy; the girl is certainly Asm bint Yazeed bin as-Sakan (may Allah be pleased with her), the narrator of the previous hadith. That hadith of hers has certainly established the sincerity and accuracy of the man of uf wa (may Allah have mercy upon him) is made evident. Therefore, all praise and thanks is only to Allah, the lord of all the worlds.

We have no doubt that anyone who examines the collections of Sunan, the person would find a greater number of narratives are like this; i.e. where the Prophet (peace be upon him) explained things which were happening even though none of the companions had formally raised it. It may be without an occasion that requires that or without the Prophet (peace be upon him) being previously informed about anything concerning them; just by a revelation that might suddenly be revealed to him by Allah. This is what we really mean by the following statement: 'the approval of the Qur'ān concerning what happened at the time of the revelation, is like the approval of the Prophet (peace be upon him) regarding what he saw and heard and there is no difference.' What is more, the first one is stronger and higher in rank, which is the origin and it is more general and more numerous. Nonetheless, we do not mind the statement where it was said: 'Had it been something to be prohibited, the Qur'an would have stated so', because in actuality, it is the truth with its previously cited proofs. But as for his statement: 'while the Qur'an was being revealed', it means the importance of the time of the revelation, without any difference between the Qur'an and the Sunnah, as previously mentioned and as it is evident like the way the sun is evident to us, regarding our previous evidences concerning the authenticity of Sunnah, and that it is a revelation and part of the protected Dhikr.

The point is also clearly established by the tradition reported from Ibn Umar regarding the 'leisurely talk'. We know for a fact that the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not discuss this with their wives, nor did he used to spy on private matters that occurred in their bedrooms to see what they did or hear what they talk about. With the death of the Prophet (peace be upon him) we know with certitude that revelation came to an end, the Deen was completed; prior to that all commands and prohibitions which Allah decided upon were outlined completely with detail where necessary. As the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: 'I have left you on a straightforward path as clear as the day and night and no one would go astray therefore except he who is doomed to be a looser.' Allah protected the Dhikr in its totality – the Qur'an and the Sunnah; he protected the Arabic language as it is necessary for the Dhikr and will not be understood except by this medium until the day of judgement, because the Prophet (peace be upon him) is the seal and last of all the Prophets and Messengers. There is neither a Prophet nor any message after him. There can be neither abrogation nor a new creed after him except for those who changed his creed, exchanging his favour with unbelief and thereby going astray.

Now that the Prophet (peace be upon him) is no longer with us it becomes the responsibility and duty of people in general, including the scholars, to exert themselves in returning to the divine legal texts only in order to extract guidance from them; to maintain diligence in following the authentic aḥādīth and form true conclusive judgments. In other words, in our era questioning does become necessary in the sense that we must acquaint ourselves with the ruling of Allah in every matter. The Deen in totality contains no gaps, nor is there a matter which exists that is not covered by the revelation. But those who seek to clarify matters pertaining to religion now should be asking the right question, namely asking about the evidence that proves a matter to be obligatory, prohibited, desired or undesired. Questions should not be framed in the manner of 'is this matter permissible (mubāh)?' since it is the general default position, as established by the exhaustive evidence already cited. Stated differently questions that are framed as - 'what is the evidence for the permissibility of so and so?' become an absurdity given that permissibility is the default ruling. It is legal texts which raise a matter to being an obligation or a prohibition.

We said that the right question is the one which is asking about the evidence that proves a matter to be obligatory or prohibited; desired or undesired in itself. The use of 'in itself' is but precautionary, because man can be rewarded for doing matters that are permissible if he intends to do it in order to help him in doing some obligations and desirable matters or in order to accustom himself to keep away from doing undesirable and prohibited matters. People can be undertaking matters with a consciousness, while intending to do a particular deed assured that Allah permitted it as such, thereby rendering to the judgement of Allah, content in the knowledge that he has allowed the matter. Reward is not given according to the naked deed in and of itself as such, but rather according to the intention whether it is to help him in doing other obligatory or desirable acts or because of consciousness and remembrance of Allah or any other considerations than that which are more than doing the deed in itself as a mere deed. It is inaccurate to say then that the permissible was turned into desirable because it is not desirable in itself, and reward is to be given according to other aspects and matters that accompanied it.

It is not appropriate to mix them, otherwise measures of Shari'ah will be disturbed and truth will mix with falsehood. That is why, both the matter which is desirable in itself, that whoever did it will be rewarded and whoever did not will not be punished and the matter which is undesirable in itself, that whoever did not do it will be rewarded and whoever did it will not be punished, need an independent evidence because they are not like the original absolute permissibility. Whatever was not like it needs evidence, otherwise it would be a saying about Allah without knowledge and a judgment that Allah did not permit. That is to say, it would be innovation in the religion and this is exactly the way that leads to misguidance and ultimately to disbelief.

The subject of intention and its influence on both reward and punishment is considered in a separate section entitled ‘the reward of deeds rests upon intention and everybody will be rewarded according to what he/she has intended.’ All of the forgoing discussion is not an aberration, nor is it a matter that has just been introduced. As already referred to, many famous Imāms adopted the same view, from the classical period of Islam up to the present, although, some of them did not always apply this diligently when it came to matters of fīqh (jurisprudence). To take just one example, we provide a long quote here from al-Iḥkām fi Uṣūl al-Aḥkām (Judgement on the Principles of Law) by Imām Abu Mu'mmad Ali Ibn azm (may Allah be merciful to him):

If they said that they want to see evidence for all incidents we should say that if we failed to do such a thing, our failure is not evidence to be taken, neither against Allah nor His Messenger (peace be upon him). We did not claim that we are Allah; Allah alone knows about all these incidents. It is enough that we are sure that Allah, the exalted explained to us whatever happened or will happen from among the judgments of the religion till the day of judgement. We present to you one text that included every incident that happened or will happen till the day of judgement; it is the same hadīth which we mentioned above. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: ‘Leave me with what I have left to you. Verily the people before you went to their doom because they had put too many questions to their Prophets and then disagreed with their teachings. So do that which I command you to do to the best of your capacity and avoid that which I forbid you to do.’

According to this text it is legal that whatever was not mentioned by the Prophet (peace be upon him) is neither an obligation as he did not command us with that, nor forbidden as he did not forbade us to do it. What is left from that is therefore permissible. Whoever claimed that it is forbidden must bring the evidence that the Prophet (peace be upon him) forbade us from doing it and when he brings it, we will listen and obey, otherwise his claim is null and void. Whoever claimed that it is obligatory must bring the evidence that the Prophet (peace be upon him) commanded us with and when he brings it we will listen and obey, but if he did not, his saying will be null and void. It was proved by this text that whatever the Prophet (peace be upon him) commanded us with is an obligation except that what we were not able to do and whatever he forbade us from doing is a forbidden matter except what he explained to be undesirable or desirable. There is no judgment in religion that was left without being mentioned here.'

What then has been left after all of this? Was there any incident in the world that would not be included in the saying of whoever claims something to be obligatory and we say to him that if you bring a text from the Qur'an or an authentic text narrated by the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) or consensus that proves what you said, we will listen and obey and it will be obligatory and whosoever then denies its obligation, will be a kāfir (disbeliever). However, if he did not bring a text or a consensus, he is a liar and this matter is not an obligation. Whoever claims that something is forbidden, we should answer that, if you bring a text or a consensus that proves its illegality, it will be forbidden and we will listen and obey and whoever wants to violate it then will be sinner but if he did not bring a text or consensus, he is liar and this thing is not forbidden. Is there any judgment in the whole world that is not included in this? Then it is true that the text includes every judgment that has happened or will happen till the day of judgement and there is no way that any incident is not included in these three judgments.

Hadith's of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) showed the same that were indicated in these verses. Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: 'Leave me with what I have left to you, Verily the people before you went to their doom because they had put too many questions to their Prophets and then disagreed with their teachings. So avoid that which I forbid you to do and do that which I command you to do to the best of your capacity.' Abu Mu ammad (Ibn azm) said: This hadith includes all what we have mentioned. The Prophet (peace be upon him) explained that if he forbade us to do anything, it is our duty to avoid it and if he commanded us with something it is also our duty to do it according to our capacity. Whatever he forbade or commanded us, it is our duty not to search for it during his lifetime and if the matter is like that, so it was imposed that every Muslim should neither forbid nor obligate it. If it is neither forbidden nor obligatory, it is then permissible as there is no other branch other than these three divisions. If two of them are null, then the third is obligatory. This is the case according to this text, to listening and to mind not to understand other than it except an unacceptable induction conducted by way of that Qiyās (analogy), they see that the expiation for intentionally having food during a day of Rama n is the same expiation for intentionally having intercourse with one's spouse. Likewise, they have defined the minimum value of stolen properties incurring the amputation of the thief's hand to be like that of the conventional minimum value of a dowry.

Then we should ask the same question of them. If you claimed that there are some incidents that have neither judgment in the Qur' n nor in the Sunnah, so say to us what do you use to do with them? As it is according to you obligatory but not to us as it is null and not existing. So tell us if you really found these incidents, do you neglect its judgment while this is not your opinion or you will judge them while there is no other branch but these three divisions. If you judge them, tell us about your judgment; did you judge them according to Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him) and if you said yes, so you have contradicted yourselves as you already said that there is no text that proves them either from Allah or from His Messenger (peace be upon him). Your next saying proves the untruth of your previous saying. And if you said that you judged not according to judgment of Allah or His Messenger (peace be upon him), we seek refuge with Allah from every judgment in religion that is not legislated by Allah, the exalted. This is enough for whoever has a mind. All matters are clear and others are null. Praise be to Allah!

(Numerous) ahādīth prove this matter. Sa'd bin Abi Waqq s (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: 'The most sinful person among the Muslims is the one who asked about something which had not been prohibited, but was prohibited because of his asking.' The Prophet (peace be upon him) is saying that whatever was not prohibited by Allah is not prohibited. And the Prophet (peace be upon him) also said the same about the obligatory matters. Abu Hurayrah (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) gave them a sermon and said – 'O people! Allah has made Hajj obligatory for you; so perform Hajj.' Thereupon a person said: O Messenger of Allah, (is it to be performed) every year? He (the Prophet) kept quiet and he repeated (these words) thrice, whereupon Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: 'If I were to say yes, it would become obligatory (for you to perform it every year) and you would not be able to do it.' Then he said: 'Leave me with what I have left to you. Verily the people before you went to their doom because they had put too many *questions to their Prophets and then disagreed with their teachings. So do that which I command you to do to the best of your capacity and avoid that which I forbid you to do.’ Abu Mu ammad said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said that whatever he did not set as obligatory is not obligatory and whatever he said to be obligatory is obligatory according to one’s capability and that which he did not forbid is lawful and that which he forbade is unlawful. So Qiyās (analogy) has nothing to do with it. Texts (have) covered everything people disagreed about and every incident that will happen till the day of judgement. Allah says:*

أَمْ لَهُمْ شُرَكَاءُ شَرَّعُوا لَهُم مَا لَمْ يَأْذِنْ بِهِ اللَّهُ وَلَوْلَا كَلِمَةُ الْفَصْلِ
لَقُضِيَ بَيْنَهُمْ وَإِنَّ الظَّالِمِينَ لَهُمْ عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ

Or have they associates who have prescribed for them any religion that Allah does not sanction? And were it not for the word of judgment, decision would have certainly been given between them; and surely the unjust shall have a painful punishment.¹⁹

One should seriously ponder over the comments that Imam Abu Mu ammad Ali Ibn azm (may Allah be merciful to him) has furnished us with. Our viewpoint regarding the original / default ruling being one of permissibility can be summed up as the following dictum:

- ❖ The original ruling of all things (or objects), acts / actions and sayings is permissibility. The original ruling in contracts and conditions is permissibility and correctness. Thus fulfilling contracts, which were correctly concluded, is an obligation and conditions that were agreed about are also obligatory as they were correctly agreed upon.

We would also stress that this rule entails by necessity, that the original ruling of all things and entities in the universe is (ritual) purity. By way of greater clarity, our statement concerning the original ruling of permissibility required that such things are clear in their origin from any ‘positive’ rules (ahkām wadiya). Nothing among them should be: cause, condition, license etc. to other thing, or other among ‘positive’ rules except through some piece of evidence. The same is to be applied to incidents that happened in the universe such as the rising of the sun, rain, eclipses etc., until text establishes other than that.

7 What is the original ruling concerning worship?

Many hold the view that while the original ruling concerning matters is permissibility, this does not hold true for matters that directly pertain to worship ('ibādah). Hence the saying – 'the original ruling concerning all ‘acts of worship’ is prohibition until evidence stipulates otherwise' which is almost common parlance. Given what we have presented in the previous chapters, we argue that this statement is futile. The sentence 'the original ruling concerning all “acts of worship” is prohibition until evidence stipulates otherwise' is meaningless. Whoever said as much has presumed that there are acts that deserve to be called 'worship' in-and-of-itself. Holding a view like this is a terrible mistake which leads to many other greater mistakes. Such matters will be considered in greater detail in the other sections of the present work.

Historically, the idea of a collection of rituals or rites being termed as 'worship' relates to acts that are done with the express purpose of gaining closeness to a divinity or divine entity. Worship is thus understood in this manner. Essentially it is the performance of certain actions and / or rituals as a means of approach or sanctification towards a divine or God-like entity. The 'worshipper' therefore utilises these rituals to get closer to that divine being; seeking its contentment and love; avoiding its wrath or punishment and seeking to obtain mercy and benefits, worldly or otherwise. Consequently, the performer of these rituals undertakes them in the belief that the particular divine being loves them to be performed and / or has obligated them.

After the message of Mu ammad (peace be upon him) any judgment that was proved to be desirable or obligatory means that this judgment is different from the definite and original permissibility, a matter that is not established except by way of evidence. In actuality, the truth concerning this matter is that Allah is only 'worshipped' by what he himself has judged as obligatory or desirable. Put another way – Allah is only to be worshipped in the manner through which he has legislated. This maxim is not altogether new, rather it is a consequence of our previous statement – 'the original ruling of all things (or objects), acts / actions and sayings is permissibility.' The original ruling in contracts and conditions is permissibility and correctness. Fulfilling contracts, which were correctly concluded, is an obligation and conditions that were agreed about are also obligatory as they were correctly agreed upon. The original ruling of all things and entities in the universe is (ritual) purity. All definite evidence is based upon this, so whoever believes in Allah and the final day is not allowed to believe in other than this or to act according to other than it and whomsoever disbelieves, Allah is self-sufficient and free of all needs.

8 A ‘Sunnah Tarkiyah’?

Previously we detailed the authentic statements that have reached us from the Prophet (peace be upon him) where he was reported to have said:¹

- ❖ Leave me as I leave you for the people who were before you were ruined because of their questions and their differences over their Prophets. So, if I forbid you to do something, then keep away from it. And if I order you to do something, then do of it as much as you can.
- ❖ Leave me with what I have left to you, for those who were before you were destroyed because of excessive questioning, and their opposition to their Prophets. So when I command you to do anything, do it as much as it lies in your power and when I forbid you to do anything, then abandon it.

¹ See chapter five entitled for the full isnād and wording for each of the six ahādīth that are listed here.

- ❖ Whatever matter I informed you of, undoubtedly it is from Allah.
- ❖ Verily, Allah has set some limits, so do not trespass them and He has ordained some obligations, so do not neglect them; He has sanctified some things so do not violate them; and He has refrained from mentioning other matters not (out of) forgetfulness, but as a way of being merciful to you, so accept (that) and do not look for them!
- ❖ The most sinful person among the Muslims is the one who asked about something which had not been prohibited, but was prohibited because of his asking.
- ❖ Whatever was considered lawful by Allah in His Book is lawful and whatever was considered unlawful is unlawful and He has refrained from mentioning other matters so it is forgiveness from Him.

Undoubtedly the Prophetic words (peace and blessings be upon him) are invaluable as are the following points which we may take directly from these ahādīth:

1. That he, may the peace and blessings of Allah be upon him, was indeed an eloquent Arab; protected with infallibility by Allah in delivering the message and gifted with ‘Jawāmi’ al-Kalim’, the shortest expression with the widest meaning, being able to utilise single-sentences that bore wide meanings and contain deep wisdom. Given this, there was nothing preventing him from saying or expressing – ‘whatever I have left, you all must leave.’ On the contrary though he said: ‘...and

He has refrained from mentioning other matters not (out of) forgetfulness, but as a way of being merciful to you, so accept (that) and do not look for them!' Some though have insisted upon not accepting the express wording that has been authentically reported. Instead, they have devoted copious pages and volumes trying to resist it.

2. That the notion of 'Tark'² is a purely abstract matter which doesn't fit into the argument for something. Also, the notion of 'tark' doesn't denote any connotation as it is not relating to a specific act or action. Literally, it is nothingness, thus not an evidence for anything. Therefore, there is nothing in the world that can be titled as 'Sunnah Tarkiyah', in other words, the Sunnah of leaving, abandonment and non-performance, originally.
3. The notion of 'Tark' as an abstraction can be considered the opposite to an abstraction regarding acts. Previously we noted that of the certain indicators relating to the acts of the Prophet (peace be upon him), such as the indicators which provide definitive conclusive proof that whatever he undertook is not prohibited for the rest of his Ummah, unless that is, he has specified that what he is undertaking is specific to him. Therefore, there must be independent indicators or connotations to demonstrate that the act is to be considered as obligatory (wājib), recommended (mustahab) or disliked (makruh). So this must by necessity show according to the dictates of reason and implications, that 'tark' (non-performance) as an abstract proof can only demonstrate that what he (peace be upon him) forsakes is not to be considered as obligatory (wājib), unless he has outlined that it relates to his own specialities. Consequently, there must be indicators or connotations which demonstrate that to forsake a matter as it is prohibited (harām), disliked (makruh), recommended (mustahab) or falls within the general ambit of permissibility (mubāh). As was mentioned in the previous chapter,³ which related to the study of the requirements relating to the textual designation of the Prophet (peace be upon him) as 'Uswatun Ḥasana' – the best example or exemplar, he will never perform a matter prohibited for his Ummah and neither will he leave that which has been made obligatory either.

4. The notion of 'Tark' as an abstraction, in essence relates to the non-performance of an act. It is closer and more like that of the abstraction of 'iqrār' (approval, endorsement), which is a left-speech. And recognising the consequent judgment of absolute permissibility likened to that speech, as given by the necessity of reason. This is what the Shari'ah evidences indicate as mentioned above. Although some may claim that they are the people of consideration, insight, measurement and balance; deriding those who would reject Qiyās (analogy). But they might fall headlong towards innovation in seeking how to justify the notion of Tark as an abstraction constituting some form of undesirability of prohibition.
5. That the Prophet (peace be upon him) might leave some deliberately recommend actions intentionally, for some other considerations, which can be outlined in considerable detail.

³ See Part II, chapter 7

First Consideration

One of the first considerations is that the Prophet (peace be upon him) may leave some of the devotional recommended rites in order not to impose a burden upon people. As has been referred to by Imām Ibn Khuzaymah in his Sahīh under the chapter heading of:

'What has been mentioned regarding the Prophet (peace be upon him) abandoning some devotional and supererogatory practices, even though he urged people to perform them, lest they become obligatory or recommended upon them desirably; although the Prophet (peace be upon him) never ceased to undertake matters obligatory.'

This point is borne out by some of the most authentic ahādīth. For example, as is narrated in al-Jāmi' as-Sahīh al-Mukhtaṣr by Imām Bukhārī:

Yā Ḥāya bin Bukeer narrated to us al-Layth narrated to us from 'Uqayl from Ibn Shih b., 'Urwa reported to me that Aisha may Allah the exalted be pleased with her, reported to him that once in the middle of the night the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) went out and prayed in the masjid and some men prayed with him. The next morning the people spoke about it and so more people gathered and prayed with him (in the second night). They circulated the news in the morning, and so, on the third night the number of people increased greatly. Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) came out and they prayed behind him. On the fourth night, the mosque was overwhelmed by the people till it could not accommodate them. Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) came out only for the Fajr prayer and when he finished the prayer, he faced the people and recited 'Tashah-hud' and then said: To proceed - verily your presence was not hidden from me, but I was afraid that this prayer might be made compulsory and you might not be able to carry it out.

Bukhārī said 'Yunus succeeded / followed it'; Imām Muslim also recorded this in his Sahīh,⁴ the follow up of Yunus which is the reference as made by Bukhārī. Several Imāms also cite this in their collections, such as Sahīh Ibn Ibbān,⁵ in the Musnad of A'mad;⁶ the Sunan al-Kubra of Nas'i,⁷ Musnad Isq ibn Rāhaway,⁸ Muṣṣanaf Abdar-Razzaq,⁹ as well as in Mu'jam al-Awsat of Abarani¹⁰ as well as others. Bayhaqī recorded similarly via a long channel in as-Sunan al-Kubra in the same manner as Bukhārī but with some important additions after the Prophetic statement of '...you might not be able to carry it out' from what happened at the time of Umar bin al-Kha'b.

The Prophet (peace be upon him) encouraged people to perform the optional night prayers during Ramadān without any obligation, saying, ‘Whoever performs the prayer of night during Ramadān hoping for faith and gaining reward from Allah, his all previous sins will be forgiven.’ Then the Prophet (peace be upon him) died. The matter was left unchanged during the time of Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him). But during the Khilafah of Umar (may Allah be pleased with him), the situation was changed. ‘Urwa said Abdar-Ra man bin Abd al-Qāri informed me, (he was) one of workers of ‘Amr (may Allah be pleased with him), as he worked with Abdullah bin al-Arqam in the treasury of the Muslims. He said that Umar bin al-Kha'b (may Allah be pleased with him) got out during one night of Ramadān, then Abdar-Ra man got out with him, who showed around the masjid while all people were in the masjid as separated groups or individuals; a man might pray alone and others might pray the same prayer also. Umar said: By Allah, I think it will be more suitable to gather all those people under one Imām in order to all pray congregationally. So he commanded Ubay bin Ka'b (may Allah be pleased with him) to lead the people during the month of Ramadān for the optional night prayers. Once Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) got out and Abdar-Ra man bin Abd al-Qāri was with him, while people performed the optional night prayer congregationally, then he said to Abdar-Ra man – ‘What a delightful innovation! The optional prayer at the end of night, during the time where people sleep is the best one.’ He referred to the optional prayers at the end of night because people performed these prayers in the first part of the night.¹¹

After this, al-Bayhaqī said ‘It was narrated by Bukhārī in the Sahīh about Ibn Bakir and not the hadīth of Abdar-Ra man bin Abd al-Qāri; but he documented this in relation to the hadīth of Mālik from az-Zuhri.’ Also, the hadīth of ‘Aishah, mother of the believers, may Allah be pleased with her, is one of the soundest authentic traditions on record. Similar has been reported from Anas ibn Mālik, as set out in the Musnad of Aḥmad via an authentic channel of transmission:

Yazeed (he is Ibn Hurrum) narrated to us umayd (he is a - awel) reported to us from Anas that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) was praying one evening just outside the apartment. Some people came and prayed behind him so he made the prayer brief and then entered back into his house. Then he came out and did the same thing several times and each time people would pray behind him. The next morning people asked – O Messenger of Allah, you prayed and we prayed behind you, we would like you to make your prayer a bit longer. He said: I knew you were there so I deliberately made it brief.

Imām Aḥmad also has this in another place in the Musnad;¹² it is also reported in the Musnad of Ibn umayd,¹³ Musnad Abu Ya'la in several places,¹⁴ as well as in the Sunan al-Kubra of Bayhaqī¹⁵ and in other collections as well. In his Sahīh, Imām Bukhārī records the following from ‘Amrah from ‘Aishah which is similar to the narration of Anas ibn Mālik:

¹⁵ Sunan al-Kubra Bayhaqī Vol. 3 sec. 110, no. 5,021 & Vol. 3 sec. 110, no. 5,023

Mu'ammad narrated to us he said 'Abda reported to us from Ya'ya bin Sa'eed al-Anṣari from 'Amra from Aisha, she said: Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) used to pray in his room at night. As the wall of the room was low, the people saw him and some of them stood up to follow him in the prayer. In the morning, they spread the news. The following night the Prophet (peace be upon him) stood for the prayer and the people followed him. This went on for two or three nights. Thereupon Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) did not stand for the prayer the following night, and did not come out. In the morning, the people asked him about it. He replied that he was afraid that the night prayer might become compulsory.'

The hadith from 'Aisha, mother of the believers (may Allah be pleased with her) is from amongst the most authentic reported. It provides an unequivocal religious proof in relation to the points being raised herein. Bayhaqy also recorded this in *Sunan al-Kubra*¹⁶ and it appears in several other collections. A similar meaning is also reported from the narration of Zayd ibn Thabit, which again, is strong and authentic. As cited by Bukhari in his Sahih:

Isḥāq narrated to us 'Affan reported to us Uhayb narrated to us Musa bin 'Uqba narrated to us: I heard Abu Naṣr report from Busr bin Sa'eed from Zayd bin Thabit that the Prophet (peace be upon him) took a room made of date palm leaves mats in the masjid. Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) prayed in it for a few nights till the people gathered (to pray the night prayer behind him). Then on the fourth night the people did not hear his voice and they thought he had slept, so some of them started humming in order that he might come out. The Prophet (peace be upon him) then said: You continued doing what I saw you doing till I was afraid that this might be enjoined on you, and if it were enjoined on you, you would not continue performing it. Therefore, O people! Perform your prayers at your homes, for the best prayer of a person is what is performed at his home except the compulsory congregational prayer.

This hadith is widely reported, appearing in several collections. Bukhari and Muslim cite this in their respective books.¹⁷ Imam Nas'i has this in his *Sunan*¹⁸ as does Ibn Ibban in his Sahih;¹⁹ Abu Dawud records this in his Sunan in several places²⁰ as does Ahmad in the Musnad.²¹ Imam al-Awza'i records this in *Sharh al-Ma'ani al-Athar*²² in Mujam al-Kabir. Abari has this in several places,²³ reporting it with some additional wording, like 'they would cough, raise their voices and throw pebbles and sand on his door. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) came out angry because of this.' Abari also records this in Mu'jam as-Sagheer,²⁴ as does Bayhaqy in *Sunan al-Kubra*²⁵ and it appears in other collections as well. In summary, we can discern from these narrations that it has been authentically reported that some of the companions cleared their throats, some had thrown pebbles at his (peace be upon him) door to alert him to their presence. He (peace be upon him) left them till morning and scolded them for these actions. It may be the case that 'Aisha mistook the throwing of pebbles to be knocks at the door.

Second Consideration

The second matter to consider in relation to this subject is that the Prophet (peace be upon him) might abandon some devotional deeds and voluntary acts, whose virtues have been established to treat the Muslims with kindness and not overburden them with hardships. Indeed he (peace be upon him) the best exemplar with the most beautiful pattern of conduct abandoned the Jihād at times, though this was from amongst the most beloved acts in the world for him. He (peace be upon him) did this in order to not place hardship upon his Ummah. Abu Hurayrah reported that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said:

Allah has undertaken to look after the affairs of one who goes out to fight in His way believing in Him and affirming the truth of His Prophets. He is committed to His care that he will either admit him to Paradise or bring him back to his home from where he set out with a reward or (his share of) booty. By the one in whose hand rests the life of Muhammad - if a person gets wounded in the way of Allah, he will come on the day of judgment with his wound in the same condition as it was when it was first inflicted; its colour being the colour of blood but its smell will be the smell of musk. By the one in whose hand rests the life of Muhammad - if it were not to be too hard upon the Muslims, I would not lag behind any expedition which is going to fight in the cause of Allah. But I do not have abundant means to provide them with riding beasts, nor have they abundant means so that they could be left behind. By the one in whose hand rests the life of Muhammad - I love to fight in the way of Allah and be killed, to fight and again be killed and to fight again and be killed.

²⁴ Mu'jam as-Sagheer Vol. 1 sec. 329, no. 544

I would submit that this is one of the most authentic hadith's in existence. Im m Muslim has this in his Sahīh with the following isnād: Zuhayr ibn arb narrated to me Jarir narrated to us from 'Um ra - and he is Ibn al-Qa'q 'a - from Abu Zur'a from Abu Hurayrah, as well as through other channels.²⁶ It is also found in the collections of Bukh ri,²⁷ Ibn ibb n,²⁸ Ibn M jah,²⁹ A mad,³⁰ Is q ibn R haway,³¹ Bayhaqy,³² Ibn Abi Shayba³³ and other than them. Thus the Prophet (peace be upon him) abandoned some expeditions, although getting to every expedition was the most beloved thing for him more than anything in this world as he reported to us.

Third Consideration

The Prophet (peace be upon him) declared that the best fasting was what the Prophet D wud (peace be upon him) undertook. The format of this fast was that he used to fast on alternate days. However, it has not been reported to us that the Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him) ever fasted in this manner. So why did he abandon the best and practice otherwise? We do not know, because he (peace be upon him) did not clarify it for us. Moreover, it is known that this manner of fasting is not part of our religion, which Allah has promised to preserve and informing us that it is complete in every manner. If there was any specific merit now he (peace be upon him) would have clarified it for us. Although the Prophet (peace be upon him) is the best of all Prophets and Messengers and the most perfect example, the following should not always be assumed:

1. That every act including those of ibādah undertaken by the Prophet (peace be upon him) is represented in the best form. Generally, the precedence and the perfection do not mean the completing in every imagined part except for Allah, the Exalted.
2. That other Prophets had preference or primacy in certain other areas. It is not doubted that Musa (peace be upon him) had been chosen among the people, and all other Prophets as he was spoken to directly by Allah; that Esa ibn Maryam (peace be upon him and his mother) is termed the word of Allah and a spirit preceding him; his birth being miraculous as is his life.

The superiority of Bilal and Abu Dharr over Mu'adh ibn Jabal may Allah be pleased with them all, shouldn't attract conflict or suspicion, this is despite the fact that clearly Mu'adh was known to be very well versed in what is considered halāl and harām more than most companions. Most of companions came before Abdullah ibn 'Abbas, having a status not achieved by him, for example being from amongst the companions who fought at Badr, Uhud or who took the pledge of allegiance with the Prophet (peace be upon him) under the tree. Yet despite this, he had a greater knowledge than most being the interpreter of the Qur'an and a great scholar of Islam. Indeed, some of the earlier companions such as Abdar-Rahman ibn 'Awf read Qur'an under the tutelage of Ibn 'Abbas, correcting their understanding and recitation with him. Further to this, the primacy of the companions of Muhammad (peace be upon him) within this Ummah is acknowledged. However, this does not mean that every virtue and good deed rests with them until the day of judgement. Every point advanced in relation to this is but a misconception, being argued from an emotional or reactionary basis, that which doesn't stand scrutiny.

Fourth Consideration

As has been established previously with decisive evidences, the original rule concerning things / objects, acts and sayings is one of permissibility. The Prophet (peace be upon him) placed great emphasis upon the forbiddance of asking too many questions lest this lead to destruction; he also declared that he would elucidate all the commands and prohibitions that Allah revealed. Allah has told us '....and your Lord is not forgetful.'³⁴ Following on from this, we have established that his non-performance or lack of comment upon an act by necessity denotes its permissibility. It is not the case that this non-performance constitutes a matter of prohibition, since the Prophet (peace be upon him) clearly said:

Leave me as I leave you for the people who were before you were ruined because of their questions and their differences over their Prophets. So, if I forbid you to do something, then keep away from it. And if I order you to do something, then do of it as much as you can.

The Prophet (peace be upon him) might abandon or not perform some deeds for other considerations that we do not know. In any event, the abandonment or non-performance relates to not doing something; hence it is not a proof of anything as we have outlined thus far. Some people may hurriedly respond to what has been said by saying, that what has been presented is a disservice to their arguments and what they claim to hold. They would claim that they have never asserted that an abstract 'Tark' is such a thing or a proof. Rather, in their eyes, the argument is thus: that the proof relating to the 'Tark' of the Prophet (peace be upon him) is of an act that is not surmountable, together with the requirement and absence of an impediment, and other points of control.

In response, we would assert that despite the hatred, arrogance and the vicious reaction that often accompanies proponents of this viewpoint, there are very important fundamental principles that need to be elucidated. For the sake of completeness and intellectual honesty, the following quote is presented in full, from the work of Dr. Mu ammad ibn ussein ibn asan al-Jiz ni, entitled: Ma'ālim Uṣul al-Fiqh inda Ahl-as-Sunnah wal-Jamā'ah,³⁵

The origin of this book: stems from a doctoral thesis that was submitted at the University of Medina al-Munawara. The committee (to which this was presented) was comprised of the virtuous Dr. 'Amr ibn Abdul-Aziz, professor and supervisor of Uṣul al-Fiqh in the Department of Graduate Studies at Umm Al-Qura University, Makkah al-Mukarama; Dr. Ali ibn 'Abbās al-Hikmi, Head of Graduate Studies Department at Umm Al-Qura University, Makkah. Dr Ahmad Muhammad Abdal-Wahhāb, Professor of Uṣul al-Fiqh, from the department of graduate studies at the Islamic University of Medina

(The thesis) was approved with first-honours on 25-1-1415

(AH), conferring the title of 'Shaykh' which in Latin has the designation of doctorate (PhD). The author is expected to be able to adduce new material (sic. a contribution to knowledge), or so is the accepted universal custom these days. It is also accepted by contemporary modern standards, that the author must have written (the thesis) themselves and built upon the works of the previous contribution to scholarship. (From between the bowels and blood) his butter (pure milk, easy and agreeable to swallow for those who drink). And now (to proceed) to the text itself:

Beginning of the text transcript (Vol. 1 sec. 123/130)

Fifth:

A binding proof (relating) to his Tark (non-performance, abandonment) peace be upon him: to do one act from amongst others; it is purported (to be) by way of two types from the companions, may Allah be pleased with them all, namely:

1. That he peace be upon him gave an authorisation for such and such not to be performed, like his companions saying in relation to the Eid prayer: (that The Messenger of Allah peace be upon him offered the Eid prayer without the adthān and the iqamāh).
2. There is a reason why the companions did not narrate what the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him might not have done, they or at least one of them would have exhausted themselves to make this available to the Ummah. Therefore, none of them has indulged in this and it has never been narrated in a book. As an example, is that he peace be upon him abandoned / did not perform the (verbal) pronouncement of the intention when entering the prayer; and he left/abandoned the supplication after the prayer; for the future of the faithful who believe in his supplication, after fajr and asr or in the congregational prayer.

And his Tark (non-performance/abandonment) peace be upon him concerning an act from amongst the acts, is a proof, thus it is obliged to act as he acted, to leave whatever he left. Accordingly, that requirement must fulfil two conditions:

- a. First condition: that there is a reason present for this action during his time, peace be upon him, and that there is a need for him to perform the act. If this is the case and he peace be upon him did not do it, thereby not performing the act, then it is a Sunnah, that should be taken, to leave that act also. If the necessary obligation was not present as a condition, then for this reason, his (peace be upon him) non-performance does not constitute a Sunnah, because his abandonment/non-performance is due to the absence of a requisite condition. (Such as) fighting those withholding the zakāt only, as this was because of the absence of reason but when Abu Bakr, may Allah be please with him, fought only the withholders of the zakāt he was not acting contrary to the Sunnah of the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him.

As for what some rulers did in introducing the adthān for the two ‘Eids, that is an innovation (bidā’), because the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him left that act given it wasn’t necessary. He peace be upon him commanded (performance) of the adthān on Friday, and prayed the two ‘Eids without either an adthān or iqama; not performing/leaving that was the Sunnah. No one may (place) an addition to that, (similar to the fact that) no one may increase the requisite number of prayers or units of prayer.

That was similar to what happened, such as making the sermon prior to the prayer of the two ‘Eids, by the needs of the people, which was done by some rulers and they obliged it. People had become despondent before listening to the sermon, which was during the era of the Messenger of Allah peace be upon him. That wasn’t stopped until it was heard by the majority of them. Nor was it sufficient to leave, peace be upon him, the act (present) with its requirements.

- b. Second condition: The absence of symptoms and restrictions, because he peace be upon him, may actually leave one of the acts with the presence of the existence of the necessary reason because of another reason not allowing him to do that. That is like when he peace be upon him left the qiyām in Ramadān with his companions after a few nights and explained that he feared that it would be obligated upon them. During the time of Umar, may Allah be pleased with him, he (organised this) gathering under one reciter. By doing so, it wasn’t against the Sunnah small or large was neglected, it all reached his Ummah. Amongst the proofs that (establish) that, he the exalted said: O Messenger! Deliver what has been revealed to you from your Lord; and if you do it not, then you have not delivered His message [al-M'ida, 67]. The Prophet (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) complied with this and adhered to the command to deliver the message. His nation bore witness to the conveyance of this message and that he delivered it in full, as set out in the sermon of the farewell pilgrimage.

The Third Submission: Allah has preserved this Deen and guaranteed to maintain it from being lost. Allah outlined all the factors and facilitated the transference (of this message), ensuring it would survive and continue, up to this day and forever, God-willing. The evidence for this is the verse - Verily, We have revealed the Dhikr and We will most surely be its guardian [al-ijr, 9]. For indeed, one witnesses the truth of that; Allah has preserved his book and the Sunnah of his Prophet peace be upon him. And the jurisprudence of the Muslim scholars in relation to the (fundamental) principles, terminology of hadith and Uṣul al-fiqh, as well as the fundamentals of Arabic language.

Ibn Qayyim said: "Indeed, his 'Tark', peace be upon him, is a Sunnah and it is the same as his acts, (that are) Sunnah. If we would like to act upon that which he has left/abandoned, then it is exactly like leaving what he has undertaken, and there is no difference."

If it is said: from where did it reach you that he did not undertake the action, that is non-textual and doesn't require non-textual nothingness? But this question seems quite far-fetched, about the understanding of the matter and his Sunnah. If the question were correct, then it would be considered recommended and acceptable to us (then) to pronounce the adthān for Tarāweeh. And he said: from where did it reach you? And there is another desirable matter also, to wash for every prayer. And he said: from where (was that) that it wasn't reported?...And (that) opens the door of bidā'. And he said: everyone who calls unto bidā' said: from where (was that) that it wasn't reported?

It should be noted that the matter of the Sunnah of abandonment/non-performance – Tark, is based upon firm well established premises.

Turning now to the required comment upon all of this:

Firstly - What is mentioned in the first eight lines (or so) about how the Companions reported the matter of '

he wanted to formulate a general rule first, then proceed to the evidences relating to it. There appears to be some hesitancy in the phrasing ‘it is obliged to act as he acted’. Perhaps he meant to elucidate, doing what he peace be upon him did is obligatory. Or to argue that what he has not done is obligatory not to do also. If the latter is the intended meaning, then it is without doubt the height of falsehood.

Thirdly - Dr. Mu ammad ibn ussein ibn asan al-Jiz ni tried to set out the justification in the first condition by arguing ‘The existence of the reason for this and to need to do this action’, but it wasn’t dependent upon any necessity, reasoning, nor for that matter upon the texts of the revealed sent-down revelation, which is the book and the Prophetic Sunnah. Rather, his line of argumentation sought to dispense with the burden of proof by the following examples:

First example: his abandonment of fighting those who didn’t render the obligatory charity (zakāt). I would state in reply, this is complete ignorance. The Prophet peace be upon him prepared to fight the Khuzā’ah when the fāsiq fabricated lies against them, that much is well known. But Allah the almighty explicated the lying fāsiq until the Day of Judgement. It may be said: did Abu Bakr not stand as witness to this when in heated debate with Umar? We would say, why was this so? Did they forget or did they not then marshal it during this argument? On the other hand, the incidents of accidents and calamities will never cease until the end of the world. So it is necessary to bring forth the ruling of Allah by the most diligent ijtihād, suitable to the case. It is therefore not of the matter from Sunnah or even innovation (bidā’) but rather under the chapter of ijtihād.

Second example: The Prophet peace be upon him left performing the call to prayer for the two ‘Eid prayers. What some of the rulers who performed the call to prayer for the two ‘Eid prayers, undoubtedly, it is an innovation (bidāh). In reply, strictly speaking, that isn’t correct. Firstly, the city of Medina was a small entity and the time was generally well known to all, particularly given that many were keen to attend prayer in congregation as well as circles of knowledge held by the Prophet peace be upon him. If all the individuals of a given household couldn’t attend, they would rotate attendance, as was the known practice that Umar did with his brother from the Ans r. Hence there wasn’t a pressing need to announce the call to prayer for that of ‘Eid. Secondly, the adthān is the notice to people that the time of prayer has entered and to invite them to it. The Muslims were consulting one another and the Seal of the Prophets was amongst them. He would no doubt be involved in deliberations such as the call to prayer as a matter of course. One such striking example is the narrative of how the call to prayer came about, as it was being discussed; the bell was touted as a method and then the blessed vision came. He peace be upon him would often command a man to call for the congregational prayer, but also for emergency meetings other than that. However, we don’t know whether this was made in the same formulation as the present wording of the adthān. But with the expansion of the city and the absence of the Prophet’s blessed personality, this created a new situation with its own particular needs and requirements. Our question to Dr. Jiz ni is why did he depart so noticeably from any discussion concerning the first Friday congregational prayer held by the leader of the believers, Uthm n ibn ‘Aff n? No doubt, Uthm n is trustworthy in matters of Deen and it is not that he intended to innovate or introduce something new in matters of Deen, in stark contrast to the tyrants of Bani Umayyah. Yet the Deen was completed prior to the death of the Prophet peace be upon him. Innovation in Deen is the same: there is no difference between it being with good intent and requisite evidence, as well as the good faith of the leader of the believers, Uthm n ibn ‘Aff n, may Allah be pleased with him, or being with a bad intention, the misguided argument of a hypocrite.

The claim of Dr. Jiz ni that the Prophet peace be upon him left the adthān of the two ‘Eids because there was no need for it, is to cast stones into the unseen. It is to say something about Allah without having any knowledge. Given that we are prevented from exaggeration and asking unnecessary questions, the matter is best left there, instead of delving into speculation and departing from what is clearly established (muhkam). That which is clearly established, the muhkam, and it is indeed the truth with certitude: it is impossible for the infallible Seal of the Prophets, the Prophet Mu ammad peace be upon him, to leave that which has been made obligatory (wājib) upon his Ummah. The exception being that is, where it relates to his specialism as a Prophet and there is a decisive proof to establish that. Every legal ruling (hukm) by necessity, like disapproval, recommendation, prohibition and the like, is established by independent evidence (dalil) and not recourse to 'Tark'. Moreover, it is known with certitude: it is impossible for the infallible Seal of the Prophets, the Prophet Mu ammad peace be upon him, to undertake any matter that is prohibited for his Ummah. Again, the exception being where this relates to his own specialism as a Prophet, for which we have a decisive evidence to establish that. All that is necessary, recommended, permissible, disliked etc. needs to be established by requisite evidence, not merely reference to an act.

Fourth comment

When Dr. Jiz ni spoke in relation to the second condition, namely the 'absence of impediments', he mixed this together with the first condition. There are other impediments that could have been mentioned, some of which we have elucidated previously. There are matters that the Prophet peace be upon him did not do, even though they are praiseworthy, such as the intermittent fasting, and he did not clarify why he did not undertake it. As for the example concerning the collection of the Qur' n, that is a clear mistake. The Prophet peace be upon him had his own specific mushaf, which was attributed to Uthm n ibn Abi al-'A ath-Thaqafi, when he was appointed as the ruler of 'if. It is not clear whether a new copy was re-written for him. Each of the most important Qur' n memorisers had their own mushaf, such as Ali ibn Abi lib, 'Ubay ibn Ka'b, Abdullah ibn Mas'ud and Zayd ibn Th bit and Umm Waraqah ash-Shaheeda, may Allah be pleased with them all. Allah has confirmed that the collection and preservation of the book rests with him, the exalted and majestic: 'Surely upon us (devolves) the collection and its recitation.'³⁷

What was suggested by Umar during the period of apostasy, was to transcribe the mushaf, acting in the capacity of Im m. That text was to be according to the final recitation and would be devoid of the commentaries and explanatory notes that scribes had made. It would also contain none of the abrogated verses that were originally recited. In short, it would be a uniform copy for the Ummah.

Fifth comment

Following this admixtures and general mischievous whisperings, Dr. Jiz ni marshals a cited quote from Im m Ibn al-Qayyim. In a way, the use of this quote seems to be what he has premised his argument upon, particularly given the inability to provide any textual evidence to substantiate his view. The first quoted sentence from Ibn al-Qayyim is: "Indeed, his 'Tark', peace be upon him, is a Sunnah and it is the same as his acts, (that are) Sunnah. If we would like to act upon that which he has left/abandoned, then it is exactly like leaving what he has undertaken, and there is no difference." Although there are different editions, at the time of writing, the edition present here, is the study and commentary by aha Abdur-Ra'ouf Sa'd.³⁸ Despite perusal of this publication, no substantive evidence is present to substantiate his position. There isn't any evidence for this statement which is mursal, but only sporadic examples of some of what the Prophet peace be upon him left. Nothing further. The saying attributed to Im m Ibn al-Qayyim is mursal, it is a mere claim, or assertion that has no substantive proof within it. Even if Imam Ibn al-Qayyim was considered as an infallible Imam following the Rāfiḍah school of thought, the attributed statement wouldn't become a valid argument. Emphasis is placed that it isn't incumbent to do what the Prophet peace be upon him left/abandoned, nothing else. From the necessity of perception and reason we know that what is not recommended, may fall into another categorisation: either obligated, disliked or prohibited outright. So what are the parameters of what is being claimed ultimately?

³⁷ Qur'ān 75: 17

Following on from that, the next comment attributed to Imam Ibn al-Qayyim is: "If it is said: from where did it reach you that he did not undertake the action, that is non-textual and doesn't require non-textual..." etc. Foremost, as we have mentioned previously, this doesn't fall within the subject matter of 'the proof of Tark', but rather within the chapter about the protection and preservation of the Dhikr. There does seem to be some subconscious recognition that this statement and its underlying reasoning is inherently flawed, hence the need to return to it and attempt to strengthen it somehow.

Imam Ibn al-Qayyim wanted to round-off the chapter that he had called 'innovation' (bidāh). His comment is noteworthy: "And there is another desirable matter also, to wash for every prayer. And he said: from where (was that) that it wasn't reported?...And (that) opens the door of bidāh'. And he said: everyone who calls unto bidāh' said: from where (was that) that it wasn't reported?" To respond we would say, to claim that it is necessary to wash at every prayer requires an independent proof, because it relates to the matter of taking this point of washing and making it desirable. It cannot be established as being an obligation without a requisite proof. Hence there is no substance to placing this within a research concerning what the 'Prophet left,' for it is inconceivable that evidence has been 'lost' as the Dhikr is preserved and protected.

Sixth Comment

Dr. Jizani appears to sense that all which he has marshalled is but sentiments, incomplete examples. Vague references devoid of substantive proof cannot be construed as being 'well-established, firm introductions,' as he alludes to. In fact, the textual evidences which do exist are in stark contrast to what Dr. Jizani purports to claim:

- a. Allah perfected the elucidation of the Qur'an, and his Prophet (peace be upon him) had the complete perfect message that was delivered. He peace be upon him was granted 'Jawāmi' al-Kalim', the shortest expression with the widest meaning. Given this, such words make us wonder at how he expressed the following:

Avoid that which I forbid you to do and do that which I command you to do to the best of your capacity. Verily the people before you went to their doom because they had put too many questions to their Prophets and then disagreed with their teachings.

The most sinful person among the Muslims is the one who asked about something which had not been prohibited, but was prohibited because of his asking.

Whatever was considered lawful by Allah in His Book is lawful and whatever was considered unlawful is unlawful and He has refrained from mentioning other matters so it is forgiveness from Him. Accept from Allah His Forgiveness, as Allah never forgets anything.

Leave me with what I have left to you, for those who were before you were destroyed because of excessive questioning, and their opposition to their apostles. So when I command you to do anything, do it as much as it lies in your power and when I forbid you to do anything, then abandon it.

Whatever matter I informed you of, undoubtedly it is from Allah.

*Verily, Allah has set some limits, so do not trespass them and He has ordained some obligations, so do not neglect them; He has sanctified some things so do not violate them; and He has refrained from mentioning other matters not (out of) forgetfulness, but as a way of being merciful to you, so accept (that) and do not look for them!*³⁹

- b. He peace be upon him, said all of that. Moreover, he did not say: do what I do, but leave or abandon what I leave. That undoubtedly is the phantasm of some minds. Allah is fully cognisant of all matters and his knowledge encompasses all knowledge. Do such individuals really have the audacity to claim that Allah would have forgotten to instruct his Prophet to say this?

The perfection and preservation of this Deen by necessity, prevents the need to develop a rule or principle that has not been subjected to the decisive proofs of the Deen itself. But rather the innovation in the development of such a ‘rule of law’ is, in general, worse and more difficult to invent by creating a partial case with no tangible basis or reality.

Yet this is exactly what the proponents of those who claim that there is a ‘Tark an-Nabi’ which is a ‘proof.’ The same individuals level accusations of heresy and innovation at others, yet they themselves are guilty of this with a principle that has no basis in Deen. The Deen which includes its legal system has been established as complete. Secondly, that the Prophet (peace be upon him) discharged his duty to convey the message to in totality, without leaving any matter be it great or small, he has informed his Ummah of this.

The decisive truth, concerning that which the Prophet (peace be upon him) left, was silent about and tacitly approved: all of that at root, falls within the realm of original permissibility, absolutely. Hence there is no truth in someone claiming that whatever the Prophet left,

- Leave me as I leave you for the people who were before you were ruined because of their questions and their differences over their Prophets. So, if I forbid you to do something, then keep away from it. And if I order you to do something, then do of it as much as you can.
- Indeed, Allah has laid down certain duties which you should not neglect, and has put certain limits which you should not transgress, and has kept silent about other matters out of mercy for you and not out of forgetfulness, so do not seek to investigate them
- The greatest sinner amongst the Muslims is one who asked about a thing which had not been forbidden for the Muslims and it was forbidden for them because of his persistently asking about it.

Clearly, he stated: ‘leave me as I leave you...’ and he is never reported to have said: ‘whatever I have left, so you should leave it.’ Furthermore, this is not considered a bidāh – innovation or heresy, but is in fact similar to the argument put forward by the grand Imam Abu Mu ammad Ali Ibn azm in his seminal work al-Ihkām fi Uṣūl al-Aḥkām (Judgement on the Principles of Law) [Vol. 4 sec. 56]. He writes:

(From) what we have mentioned previously concerning al-‘Istisā’ (taking the Prophet as an exemplar in matters which are obligatory) in relation to his actions; and as for the one who says, ‘We demand evidence - therefore if we find something which substantiates that an action is obligatory we adopt the position. Similarly, if we do not find it then we consider those actions as a part of ‘Istisā only.’ Then this statement is the same as our opinion except that we always consider an action to be from ‘Istisā when we do not find evidence indicating its obligatory status. However, if there is such evidence, we adopt the position that it is obligatory and with Allah, the most High, is success.

Abu Mu ammad said: and as for the thing that reached him (peace be upon him), or he saw them, or he heard, which he did not explicitly reject neither did he command to enjoin in, then it is considered permissible because Allah the exalted described him (peace be upon him) and has said: *Those who follow the Apostle-Prophet, the Ummi, whom they find written down with them in the Torah and the Bible (who) enjoins them good and forbids them evil, and makes lawful to them the good things and makes unlawful to them impure things, and removes from them their burden and the shackles which were upon them; so those who believe in him and honour him and help him, and follow the light which has been sent down with him, these it is that are the successful.*⁴⁰

Therefore if a thing is supposedly munkar, then without a doubt the Prophet (peace be upon him) would have prohibited it. If he did not designate it has munkar (or prohibited) then it is considered as being permissible (mubāh). The mubāh is that which is ‘known’ and whatever the Prophet (peace be upon him) knew, then it is from the ‘known’. There is no ‘known’ except that which the Prophet knew and, likewise, there is nothing declared as munkar except what the Prophet has declared it as such. An example of this is the singing of the two young girls in the house of the Prophet (peace be upon him). He heard their singing and did not rebuke them for it. Rather when Abu Bakr rebuked them, the Prophet rebuked him for doing that. Therefore, this text that we have mentioned demonstrates the duty of one to rebuke those who prohibit actions that the Prophet (peace be upon him) himself knew of and gave tacit approval to. Another example is when Umar prohibited the dancing of two black slave girls to which the Prophet (peace be upon him) rebuked Umar due to his decree preventing those girls from doing that.

Another example is the games that the Prophet (peace be upon him) saw ‘Aisha play; where (she had) a doll (that was) a horse with wings. (This) was used despite his (peace be upon him) prohibition on images. This circumstance is an exception to what he (peace be upon him) had prohibited. It is like the prohibition of having images on one’s garments despite the fact that he permitted such a garment if it had a small image on it. It is an exception from him on a general ruling of what he has prohibited with regard to images. So when ‘Aisha cut out the images from a garment and two pillows which he (peace be upon him) would recline upon it was not because he prohibited the use of them. It is therefore correct to state that whatever is on a garment, which has an image on it, is makrūh and not harām nor mustahab; rather the one who leaves it is rewarded and the one who uses it does not incur sin. In this instance, the Prophet (peace be upon him) chose the better of the two options as well as ‘Aisha and Fā’imā. Therefore, it is correct to state that garments that have images, even pillows, are permissible and okay to have and are not mustahab. We do not dislike it initially rather we love it.

Likewise, if he (peace be upon him) left something and did not prohibit it or command for it to be done it is considered permissible to do according to us but makrūh. The one who leaves it is rewarded and the one who does it incurs neither sin nor reward. An example is like the one who lies down and eats or the one who listens to the musical instrument of the shepherd – if these acts were harām then they would not have been made permissible by the Prophet (peace be upon him) for others to do. Consequently, if they were recommended acts then the Prophet (peace be upon him) would have done them and he would not have left them in dislike. Hence we consider such actions as makrūh and we do not consider them to be harām.

And if one says, ‘A group had slept in the presence of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) then woke and prayed without being ordered to perform ablution, do you not see that as evidence against your position?’ It should be said to that person, and with Allah is success, that not one person has narrated that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) saw them sleeping and neither do I know whether they were sleeping as the hadīth reports that he (peace be upon him) delayed the Ishā prayer to the later part of the night when the people fell asleep to the point that one could hear them snore and Umar shouted ‘The women and young boys are asleep!’ Thus the hadīth is clear in that it shows that they were sleeping whilst the Prophet (peace be upon him) was absent and not among them. Rather, I know from this hadīth that it was only Umar who knew that the women and children were sleeping. Furthermore, these two groups of people are not obligated to attend prayers in congregation. Also it should be asked, how does one argue using this hadīth to hold the opinion that they slept a short sleep whilst sitting? Of course it cannot be argued as this hadīth does not intend that, so perhaps there were those among them who slept leaning on his companion or on the wall or lying down or in deep sleep. It is unknown to those who did not attend their presence how they had slept.

These types of arguments are not acceptable for the one who has a slight ounce of honesty in their faith. Therefore, when it is authentically reported that he (peace be upon him) was absent and textual evidence has not reached us that he knew of them sleeping then his command (peace be upon him) to perform ablution after sleep, as reported from afw n bin Ass 1 al-Mar d, is applied generally and we adhere to that. We do not remove that which we have been ordered due to a matter in which we do not know whether the Prophet (peace be upon him) was aware of the circumstances or not. If it were authentically established that he (peace be upon him) knew that they were asleep and that he allowed them to pray without performing ablution, then we would hold the opinion that ablution is not needed for the one who has slept under any circumstances. And if it were authentically narrated in that report that Umar said ‘the people slept’, then he would not have commented on them as his words ‘the people slept’ mean those who were waiting for the Prophet (peace be upon him).

And how can this be when every group amongst them differs in this narration because they claim that it refers to certain types of sleep over others, despite the fact that there is no basis amongst any of us to do this. Therefore, if one were to say, 'Is it permissible to state that the Messenger of Allah did not know of this?' It should be responded that it is permissible to hold this opinion just as it is permissible according to you, the people of the Sh fi'i, M liki, and anafi schools, when J bir said, 'We used to sell the mothers of our children during the time of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him)' despite the fact that this issue is more known than that of the people sleeping during the night. Those people were in need of light when they were in the corner of the mosque and, as it is stated among the M liki's, he (peace be upon him) was unaware when the family of Abu Bakr slaughtered a horse and they gave it to them and him (peace be upon him) in Medina. This is more known than the issue of a group sleeping in the corner of the mosque. They did this due to the lack of housing that they had in Medina during the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him), the difficulty in living, the lack of stability, the closeness of Abu Bakr's family with the Prophet (peace be upon him), and their proximity to him.

Therefore, how can it be said that he was unaware of them slaughtering a horse that they would then feed to him and he was not unaware of a group of people sleeping in the corner of the mosque whilst he was in their absence? If it were true that he (peace be upon him) was present in the mosque then it may have been possible to state that he was aware of them sleeping in the corner of the mosque. Yet how can that be the case when it is authentically reported that he (peace be upon him) was absent from them despite the fact that some have specified what type of sleep they were in; namely that they were sitting, neither leaning, nor lying down, nor reclining and who ever brings this argument he is lying and with Allah is his success.

We would disagree only slightly with the above as it relates to the fiqh issue of whether sleep necessitates ablution (wudu) and a couple of other items. Yet the basic purport of the argument that Ibn azm advanced remains correct. His reasoning presented, invalidates all the arguments relating to the repealed act, or the allegation that it is an innovation (bidāh'), merely on the basis that the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not do it. More grotesque and insidious is the additional argument accompanying this, that a ruling is invalid because the Prophet's companions (may Allah be pleased with them) did not do it. How is this valid? Their explicit words, the apparent of their actions as well as their approvals are not a proof, so how can what they leave – an argument based upon nothingness - be regarded as a legal proof? It is an argument that has no substantive basis either in law or reason. By Allah, those marshalling it are misguided innovators; they are the ignorant and the perverse and are incredibly shallow minded. Or even perhaps, Allah forbid, incredibly stubborn disbelievers.

9 Actions are by intentions

Deserving reward and praise from Allah for any action performed depends upon the underlying intention. The same exists with regards to punishment and dispraise from Allah. For example, if one were to hunt using a weapon and accidentally kill someone that would be considered as manslaughter. But despite the individual causing the death of another life unintentionally, he would not be classed as being a murderer and sinful for that as such. It is not comparable to someone who kills with the intention of taking another life, even if the end result appears the same in both scenarios. The distinction is that of the underlying intention. Perception and reason confirm this, as does the Shari'ah. Scholars of Islam are also in unanimous agreement over this principle. Allah the exalted and majestic states:

مَنْ كَانَ يُرِيدُ الْغَايَةَ عَجَلْنَا لَهُ فِيهَا مَا نَشَاءَ لِمَنْ نُرِيدُ ثُمَّ جَعَلْنَا لَهُ جَهَنَّمَ يَصْلَاهَا مَذْمُومًا مَذْهُورًا، وَمَنْ أَرَادَ الْآخِرَةَ وَسَعَى لَهَا سَعْيَهَا وَهُوَ مُؤْمِنٌ فَأُولَئِكَ كَانُوا عَيْنَهُمْ مَشْكُورًا

Whoever desires this present life, We hasten to him therein what We please for whomsoever We desire, then We assign to him the hell; he shall enter it despised, driven away. And whoever desires the hereafter and strives for it as he ought to strive and he is a believer; (as for) these, their striving shall

And if they had intended to go forth, they would certainly have provided equipment for it, but Allah did not like their going forth, so He withheld them, and it was said (to them): Hold back with those who hold back.⁶

Arguably one of the most famous statements of the Prophet (peace be upon him) is:

Actions are to be judged by intentions and a man will have only what he intended. So whoever emigrated for Allah and His Messenger, his emigration will be for Allah and His Messenger; and whoever emigrated for worldly benefits or for a woman to marry, his emigration would be for what he emigrated for.

Without doubt this is one of the most authentic hadith's in the world. All Im m's of hadith have agreed upon its authenticity as has the Ummah as a whole. Almost every Im m of hadith has cited this in their respective collections such as: Bukh ri, Muslim, Tirmidhi, Abu D wud, A mad bin anbal, an-Nas 'i, abar ni, Ibn ibb n, Abu D wud a - ay lisi, umaydi, Ibn Khuzayma and many others. It is substantiated by literally dozens of authentic channels of transmission from Ya ya bin Sa'eed al-An ri from Mu ammad bin Ibr him al-Taymi from 'Alqama bin Waqq from Umar bin al-Kha b. It was mentioned in Talkhees al-Habeer fi ahādīth ar-Rāfi'i al-Kabir: 'Al- fiz Abu Sa'eed Mu ammad bin Ali al-Khash b said it was narrated by Ya ya bin Sa'eed from about two-hundred and fifty people.' Al- fiz Abu Musa said: 'I heard Abdal-Jalil bin A mad say in al-

Mudthākara, that Abu Ism 'il al-Harawy Abdullah bin Mu ammad al-An ri said: 'I wrote this hadith from seven-hundred people from amongst the companions of Ya ya bin Sa'eed. I searched for it in the different books and volumes until I went through more than three-thousand volumes, but did not reach seventy chains for it.' Im m M lik recorded it but not in the Muwatṭā' and it was recorded in all other reliable books.

The meaning of this narration has been narrated through various different channels of transmission on the authority of a large number of companions such as: Ali ibn Abi lib, Sa'd ibn Abi Waqq s, Abu Sa'eed al-Khudri, Ibn Umar, Ibn Mas'ud, Ibn 'Abb s, Abu Hurayrah, 'Utba bin Abdus-Salamy, Hil 1 bin Suwayd, 'Ub da bin a - mit, J bir ibn Abdullah, 'Uqba bin 'A mir, Abu Dharr, 'Utba bin Muslim and Mu' wiya bin Abu Sufy n. Its meaning is mutawātir given the multiplicity of concurrent narrations, which we will consider in greater detail. Reason also supports its meaning as does numerous Qur'nic verses. In his Sahīh Im m Muslim records from the channel of al-'Arāj from Abu Hurayrah:

: : : :
: : : :» :

Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba, Zuhayr bin arb and Is q bin Ibr him narrated to us - and this is the wording of Abu Bakr; Is q said: Sufy n reported to us and he said (from) the other two - Ibn 'Uyayna narrated to us from Abi Zin d from al-'Arāj from Abu Hurayrah who said that the Messenger of Allah said: Allah the exalted and majestic said: Whenever My bondsman intends to commit an evil, do not record it against him, but if he actually commits it, then write it as one evil. And when he intends to do good but does not do it, then take it down as one act of goodness, but if he does it, then write down ten good deeds (in his record).

Similar is recorded in the Sahīh Bukh̄rī,⁷ Sahīh Ibn Ibb n,⁸ the Musnad of Amad,⁹ in the Sunan of Tirmidhi¹⁰ and others. Shaykh Shu'ayb al-Arn'ū said the isnād is authentic. In the Sahīh of Ibn Ibb n the following is recorded from the channel of Mu'ammad ibn Sireen from Abu Hurayrah:

: : : :

Abdullah bin Mu'ammad al-'Azdi reported to us he said Isq ibn Ibr̄ him narrated to us he said an-Na'r bin Shameel narrated to us he said Hishm narrated to us from Mu'ammad from Abu Hurayrah from the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) from Allah the exalted and majestic who said: Whoever intends to do good deed but does not do it, it will be written down as one deed of goodness, but if he does it, I will write it down as ten good deeds till seven hundred (in his record) and if he intends to commit an evil, but does not do it, I will not write it. If he actually commits it, I will record it against him as one evil deed.

Shaykh Shu'ayb al-Arn'ū said 'It has an authentic chain of transmission according to the conditions of Bukh̄rī and Muslim.' It really is as he has said; it has also been cited in Muslim, in Musnad Amad and in the Musnad ash-Shāmiyān. From the channel of al-'Al' from his father from Abu Hurayrah we have the next narration, again in Sahīh Ibn Ibb n:

: : : :

Al-Fa'l bin al-Ubāb reported to us he said al-Qa'nabi narrated to us he said Abdal Aziz bin Mu'ammad narrated to us from al-'Al' from his father from Abu Hurayrah that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Allah the almighty said - whenever My servant intends to do good, but does not do it, I write one good act for him, but if he does it, I write from him ten good deeds. When he intends to commit an evil, but does not actually do it, I do not record it. But if he does it, I write only one evil.

After mentioning this, Abu Tim provides a useful additional comment, he writes:

When Allah said - whenever My servant intends - He meant If my servant determines. He called determination intention because determination is the end of the intention. The Arabs in their language give the name of the start to the end and the name of the end to the start, as intention is not to be written down for the servant as it is just an idea that has no judgment. Allah records one good deed for whoever intends to do one, even if he does not determine to do it, and does not do it for the favour of Islam. It is the favour of Allah that He grants His servants with Islam. It is among His favour also, that He writes for His servant what he intends to do from good deeds, and does not do as good deeds, and what he intends to do from evil deeds, and does not do as good deed also. If He writes it down as an evil deed it would be justice. But his favour precedes His justice as His mercy precedes His anger. It is from His favour and mercy that He does not write all the evil deeds of Muslim children, who do not attain age of puberty, while He writes what they do from among good deeds.

Shaykh Shu'ayb al-Arn 'u rightly observed that this hadith '...has an authentic chain of transmission according to the conditions of Muslim.' Contained with the Sahifa of Hamm m ibn Munabih, is the next narration by way of Hamm m ibn Munabih reporting from Abu Hurayrah from the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) who said:

Allah the exalted has said - If My servant talked about doing a good deed, I will write it for him as a good deed if he did not do it, if he really did it, I will write it as ten double good deeds. If he talked about doing evil deed, I will forgive it for him as long as he did not do it, but if he did it I will write it for him as it is.

The next narration is from the Sunan of Im m Tirmidhi via the channel of Sa'eed bin al-Musayib from Abu Hurayrah:

'Imr n bin Musa al-Faz z narrated to us Abdal-W rith bin Sa'eed narrated to us Ali bin Zayd narrated to us from Sa'eed bin Musayib from Abu Hurayrah who said - the Messenger of Allah said: Indeed your Lord said: 'Every good deed is rewarded with ten of the same up to seven hundred times over. Fasting is for Me, and I shall reward for it.' Fasting is a shield from the Fire. The smell coming from the mouth of the one fasting is more pleasant to Allah than the scent of musk. If one of you is abused by an ignorant person while fasting, then let him say: 'Indeed I am fasting.'

After citing this, Im m Abu Esa at-Tirmidhi says: 'In this chapter from Mu' dth bin Jabal, Sahl bin Sa'd, Ka'b bin 'Ajra, Sal ma bin Qay r and Basheer bin al-Kha iya. His name is Basheer Za m bin Ma'bad and al-Kha iya is his mother.' He also says: 'The hadith of Abu Hurayrah is hasan and ghareeb (strange) from this channel.' Al-Alb ni said it is authentic; it is also reported by A mad from this channel. I would submit that Ali bin Zayd bin Jud' n is not strong but this hadith is authentic according to its evidences, it was followed by some summarised wordings, as it is mentioned in Mu'jam al-Awsat:

A mad bin Mu ammad bin N fi' narrated to us he said A mad bin li narrated to us he said Abdullah bin Wahb narrated to us he said 'Amr reported to me from Bakeer from ibn al-Musayib from Abu Hurayrah from the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) who said: Every good deed that is done by the son of Adam is to be doubled from ten to seven hundred doubles except for fasting, it is for Me, and I will give reward for it.

This is also reported by an-Nas 'i in his Sunan,¹¹ as have others. In relation to this Im m abar ni said: 'Amr is the only one to narrate this on the authority of Bakeer.' I would submit: why is this problematic? I say this because all of the narrators are firm, reliable and trustworthy. A further narration is found in the Musnad of Is q ibn R haway:

Jarir reported to us from 'A bin as-S 'ib from Abu Abdar-Ra man as-Salami from Abu Hurayrah from the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: Whoever intends to do a good deed but does not do it, it will be written down as one deed of goodness, but if he does it, it will be written down as ten good deeds (in his record) and if he intends to commit an evil, but does not do it, it will not be written. If he actually commits it, it will be recorded against him as one evil deed.

There is no fear from this except that of the ikhtilāt (mixing up) of 'A bin as-S 'ib who appears within the isnād, if this was before or prior to his ikhtilāt then the channel would be considered authentic. In the Mu'jam al-Awsat it comes via the channel of al-Fa 1 from Abu Hurayrah:

Abdullah bin Mu ammad bin 'Azeez al-Maw ili narrated to us Ghass n bin ar-Rabih' narrated to us Ibn Thawb n narrated to us from Abdullah bin al-Fa 1 from Abu Hurayrah from the Messenger (peace be upon him) who said: Verily Allah the almighty has said – Whenever my servant intends to commit an evil and does not do it, (angels) do not record it against him, but if he actually commits it, then write it as one evil deed. And if he abandons it for my sake, write it as one good deed. And when he intends to do good deed but does not do it, then write it down as one deed of goodness, but if he did it, then write down as ten good deeds till seven hundred doubles (in his record).

The narration is also contained within the Musnad ash-Shāmiyān.¹² I would submit that in the round, we can say that this is tawātur (recurrent reports) maqṭu (cut-off) and it is authentic from Abu Hurayrah. This is due to the various channels of transmission – from Al-'Araj, Mu ammad ibn Sireen, al-'Al , Hamm m ibn Munabih, Sa'eed bin al-Musayib, Abu Abdar-Ra man as-Salami and Abdullah Abdullah bin al-Fa 1 – all through Abu Hurayrah as mentioned above. Each of these narrators is 'thiqā thabit' - firm, reliable and trustworthy.

Other than this there are other transmissions of note. The following is in Muslim and via the channel of Th bit al-Bun ni from Anas bin M lik:

Shayb n bin Farrouk narrated to us amm d ibn Salama narrated to us Th bit al-Bun ni narrated to us from Anas bin M lik that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Al-Burāq was brought to me. It is an animal white and long, larger than a donkey and smaller than a mule; it would place its hoof a distance equal to the range of its sight. He narrated the whole hadith of the night journey and ascension and how Musa (peace be upon him) advised the Prophet (peace be upon him) to talk to His Lord about the number of the prayers, until the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: I then kept on going back and forth between my Lord and Musa, 'til He said to me, 'There are five prayers every day and night. O Muḥammad, each being counted as ten, so that makes fifty prayers. He who intends to do a good deed and does not do it, will have a good deed recorded for him; and if he does it, it will be recorded for him as ten; whereas he who intends to do an evil deed and does not do, it will not be recorded for him; and if he does it, only one evil deed will be recorded. I then came down and when I came to Musa and informed him. He said - Go back to your Lord and ask Him to make it lighter! Upon this, the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I returned (so often) to my Lord until I felt ashamed.

The same hadith was also recorded both in a summarised and long version in Musnad Abu Ya'la,¹³ the wording being:

Shayb n narrated to us amm d from Th bit narrated to us from Anas that the Messenger (peace be upon him) said: He who intended to do good, but did not do it, one good was recorded for him. He who intended to do good and also did it, ten good deeds were recorded for him. And he who intended evil, but did not commit it, no entry was made against his name, but if he committed that, it was recorded.

Shaykh ussein Asad said: ‘isnād Ṣaḥīḥ’; it is really as he said and it is according to the conditions of Muslim as you see. Another follow-up channel to this is in Musnad al- Ḥarith – Zawā'id al-Haythami we find:

Ya'la narrated to us Abdal- akam narrated to me from Anas that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Whoever intends to do a good deed and does it, it will be written down for him as ten good deeds, but if he does not it will be written one good deed. If he intends to commit an evil, and does it will be written one evil deed for him (in the record). If he does not do it, it will be not be written against him.

In the Musnad of A'mad the next narration from Abu Dharr al-Ghifari is judged to be authentic:

'Affan narrated to us Abu 'Awana narrated to us from 'Asim from al-Ma'roor bin Suwayd from Abu Dharr who said, I heard the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) the truthful say: Allah the exalted said – ten rewards or more and for bad (deeds) one (record) or pardoning. If he meets me without associating any partner yet with sins as great as the earth, repenting, he would be granted forgiveness.

From the Mu'jam Sagheer we have the next narration:

adaqa bin Muhammad bin Kharouf al-Maqri narrated to us Hisham bin Muhammad al-Sadousi narrated to us Muhammad bin Abi 'Adi narrated to us Ash'ath bin Abdal' Malik narrated to us from al-Asan from 'Abi 'A'ah bin Mu'wiya from Abu Dharr who said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Whoever intends to do good deed but does not do it, it will be written down as one deed of goodness, but if he does it, it will be written down as ten good deeds till seven hundred doubles and the seven double of that (in his record) and if he intends to commit an evil, but does not do it, it will not be written. If he actually commits it, it will be recorded against him as one evil deed or may Allah forgive it for him.

Imama-abari said: 'Ash'ath is the only narrator that recorded this hadith on the authority of al-Asan.' I would submit that there is no harm in that; Ash'ath bin Abdal' Malik is thiqah being amongst the men found as narrators in Bukhari and he is an accepted narrator by the majority.

The next narration is found in the Musnad of Abu Dawud al-Ayashi with an authentic isnād and good wording:

Shu'ba narrated to us from Wail from al-Ma'roor bin Suwayd from Abu Dharr who said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: *Your lord the exalted has said: A good deed (hasanat) is (multiplied) by ten and a bad deed (sayyi'at) accredited as one. Whosoever meets me with sins as great as the earth, by does not associate a partner with me, I will grant forgiveness as great as the earth. Whoever intends a good deed (hasanat) and doesn't act upon it, I will record a good deed to him. And whoever intends an evil deed but doesn't act upon it, nothing is recorded. And whoever draws close to me by a span, I draw close by a span. And whoever draws close to me by an arm's length, I draw close to him by an arm's length.*

Thereafter Im m Abu D wud a - ay lisi said: ‘It is not regarded as being ‘raised’ Shu’ba narrating from W il but the people consider it raised from al-‘Amash from al-Ma’roor’. I would submit that from the scholars it isn’t raised from al-‘Amash albeit partly.

In the round all of the previously cited narrations not only prove that the rewards of deeds, which includes sayings or statements and the notion of punishment are according to intention, but they establish the proof that intention alone without deed is deserving of reward. If Allah, the exalted grants us favour by not punishing us, it is from amongst his infinite mercy and justice. If he really punishes us for our sins, it would still be considered justice. There is no god but Allah, in Allah we put our trust and only by him are we supported. Further to this, it has also reached us that: ‘If somebody intended to do a bad deed and he does not do it, then Allah will write a full good deed (in his account) with Him.’ Indeed Allah removes sins out of his grace just as he promises to forgive those seeking true repentance. It is also established that none goes astray except he that is doomed as a loser. The following narrations establish these points. In al-Jāmi as-Šahīh al-Mukhtasr Im m Bukh ri records:

Abu Ma’mar narrated to us Abdal-W rith narrated to us Ja’d Abu Uthm n narrated to us Abu Raj ’ al-‘A ridi narrated to us from ibn ‘Abb s from the Prophet (peace be upon him) who when narrating about his Lord said: Allah ordered that the good and the bad deeds be written, and He then showed (the way) how (to write). If somebody intends to do a good deed and he does not do it, then Allah will write for him a full good deed (in his account with Him); and if he intends to do a good deed and actually did it, then Allah will write for him (in his account) with Him (its reward equal) from ten to seven hundred times to many more times: and if somebody intended to do a bad deed and he does not do it, then Allah will write a full good deed (in his account) with Him, and if he intended to do it (a bad deed) and actually did it, then Allah will write one bad deed.

The narration is also found in the Sunan al-Kubra of Im m an-Nas ’i:

Qutayba ibn Sa’eed reported to us he said Ja’far narrated to us from al-Ja’d Abu Uthm n he said Abu Raj ’ al-‘A ridi narrated to us from Ibn ‘Abb s from the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) reporting from his Lord, blessed most high: Verily your Lord is merciful. Whoever intends to do a good deed and he does not do it, it will be written for him a full good deed (in his account with Allah). And if he actually did it, it will be written (equal) from ten to seven hundred times to many more times, and whoever intended to do a bad deed and he does not do it, it will be written a full good deed, and if he actually did it, it will be written one bad deed (in his account) or Allah will remove it (forgive) and no one would go astray therefore except he who is doomed to be a loser.

Another amazing hadith concerning the same subject is reported in Ibn Ibb n with the channel from Khuraym bin F tik:

Al- asan bin Sufy n reported to us he said Mu ammad bin Bash r narrated to us Abu D wud narrated to us he said Shayb n an-Na we narrated to us he said ar-Rakeen bin Rabih' narrated to us from his father from his uncle (and he is Yuseer bin 'Ameela) from Khuraym bin F tik al-Asadi who said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: People are four (kinds) and deeds are six (types). Two unavoidable, like for like, one good deed that equals (in reward) ten of its double and one good deed that equals (in reward) seven hundred of its double. People will either be relieved in both this life and the hereafter, others will be relieved in this life and restricted in the hereafter, who will be restricted in this life and relieved in the hereafter, and who will be restricted in both this life and the hereafter; miserable during both this life and the hereafter. The two unavoidable means: paradise and hellfire; whoever said there is no god but Allah (the sub-narrator doubted. Is it these words or whoever believes in Allah) will enter paradise and whoever died while he is disbelieving in Allah, will enter hellfire. Whoever intends to do a good deed and actually did it, it will be written for him as ten-fold, whoever intends to do a good deed but did not do it will be written for him as one good deed; whoever intends to do evil and did not do, it will be written for him as one good deed, and whoever intends to do evil and actually did it, it will be written for him as one evil deed without doubling. Whoever spent his extra (money) seeking Allah alone, it equals (in reward) seven hundred fold.

Shaykh Shu'ayb al-Arn 'u said the isnād is Sahīh. Similar was recorded with a few differences in the order of wording in the Mustadrak, in Mu'jam al-Kabir and via several channels in al-Aḥād wal Mathāni. In the Musnad Shih b the next narration is reported on the authority of Abdullah ibn 'Amr ibn al-'A :

Abdar-Ra man bin 'Amr al-Mu'dal reported to us Abu Fa l Ya ya bin ar-Rabih' reports, Abdas-Sal m bin Mu ammad al-Amwi narrated to us Sa'eed bin Kathir bin 'Ufeer narrated to us Ibn Lahiya narrated to us from Amr bin Shu'ayb from his father from Abdullah ibn 'Amr that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Whoever intends to do sin and then did not, it will be (written) for him as a good deed and whoever intends to do sin and actually did it and then he asked Allah for forgiveness for that sin, Allah will forgive him.

The aforementioned hadith is not Sahīh in and of itself, but can be considered as ḥasan Sahīh according to the weight of evidence. In addition to this, there are several texts which confirm the statement or even maxim, ‘intention alone without accompanying deed is deserving of reward’ which are worthy of consideration. Imam Muslim has the following two hadith in his Sahīh in the book of government (Kitāb al-Imāra):

Abu Hurayrah and 'Amr ibn Ya'ya narrated to me and (this is) the wording of 'Amr ibn Ya'ya - Abu Hurayrah said reported to us and he said 'Amr ibn 'Abdullah bin Wahb narrated to us Abu Shuray narrated to me that Sahl bin Abi Umma bin Sahl bin 'Unaif who learned the tradition from his father who (in turn) learned it from his grandfather - that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: Who sought martyrdom with sincerity will be ranked by Allah among the martyrs even if he died on his bed. [In his version of the tradition by Abu Hurayrah, the words ‘with sincerity’ aren’t mentioned.]

Muhammad ibn Abdar-Raman ibn Sahm al-Anṣari narrated to us Abdullah ibn Mubarak reported to us from Uhayb al-Makki from Umar ibn Muhammad al-Munkadr from Sami from Abu Li'l from Abu Hurayrah who said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: One who died but did not fight in the way of Allah nor did he express any desire (or determination) for Jihād died the death of a hypocrite.

Despite this, there have been some amongst those who are unqualified and did not acquire the requisite knowledge of fiqh who were of the view that these narrations contradicted others, such as that found in al-Jāmi' as-Sahīh al-Mukhtasr of Imam Bukhari:

Abdar-Raman ibn Mubarak narrated to us 'Amr ibn Zayd narrated to us Ayub and Yunus narrated to us from al-Anṣar from al-Anṣar from al-Anṣar from al-Anṣar from Abu Bakr met me and asked where are you going? I replied - I am going to help that person. He said, go back for I have heard Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) saying, 'When two Muslims fight (meet) each other with their swords, both the murderer as well as the murdered will go to the Hellfire.' I said: O Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him)! It is all right for the murderer but what about the murdered one? Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) replied: 'He surely had the intention to kill his companion.'

This is also narrated by Hisham ibn 'Assan, Mu'alla ibn Ziyad and al-Mubarak ibn Faraj from al-Anṣar from al-Anṣar from Abu Bakr from the Prophet (peace be upon him). Moreover this isnād is of the utmost connectivity, authenticity and good wording. Imam Bukhari records this from alternate channels elsewhere in his Sahīh.¹⁴ He said following some of them: ‘It’s reported (by) Ma’mar from Ayub and reported by Bakr ibn Abdal-Aziz from his father from Abi Bakr;

¹⁴ Bukhari Vol. 6 sec. 2,520, no. 6,481 & Vol. 6 sec. 2,595, no. 6,672

Ghundar said – Shu’ba narrated to us from Man ur from Rabi’ bin ir sh from Abu Bakra from the Prophet (peace be upon him) and there was no raising or lifting in relation to Sufy n (reporting) from Man ur.’

The hadith is reported very widely and has been recorded by a large number of Im m’s: Muslim records this in his Sahīh,¹⁵ Nas ’i has this in several places in his Sunan as well as in Sunan al-Kubra,¹⁶ as does Abu D wud in his.¹⁷ It is in Sahīh Ibn ibb n¹⁸ as well as in several places in the Musnad of A mad,¹⁹ Ibn Abu ‘A im ‘Amr ash-Shayb ni records this in al-Aḥād wal-Mathāni,²⁰ Bayhaqy records this in several places in his *Sunan al-Kubra*²¹ and other than them. In his Musnad Im m A mad has the following narration with an authentic channel of narration:

Mu ammad bin Ja’far narrated to us Shu’ba narrated to us from Man ur from Rabi’ bin ir sh from Abu Bakra from the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: When one Muslim wields his weapon against his brother, both of them are at the edge of Hell, and if one of them kills the other, they will both enter it.

Ibn M jah also records this narration in his Sunan and it is also found in other collections.²² I would submit that there is no doubt that al- A naf ibn Qays (may Allah be pleased with him) was right, when he was carrying arms in support of the Im m of truth, Ali ibn Abi lib (may the grace of Allah be upon him) against those who were transgressing beyond all bounds (fi’ al-Bāghiya) and he fought them in line with the command of Allah. Abu Bakra misjudged the matter here by linking it to the specific incident to the Prophetic hadith. However Allah has not obliged us to accept the opinion of Abu Bakra, nor are we obliged to follow him in this. As in the indistinguishable, preserved and firm following words - Im m A mad records in his Musnad on the authority of Abu Musa al-Ash’ari:

Yazeed narrated to us he said Sa’eed reported to us from Qat dah from al- asan from Abu Musa from the Messenger (peace be upon him) who said: If two Muslims meet (and fight) with their weapons and one of them kills the other, the killer and the slain will both be in Hell. It was said: O Messenger of Allah, (we understand about) the killer, but what about the one who is killed? He said: He wanted to kill his companion

Elsewhere in the Musnad Im m A mad records the same but from a different authentic channel – Abdar-Razz q narrated to us Ma’mar reported to us from Qat dah from al- asan from Abu Bakra. Similar narrations are found in the Sunan and Sunan al-Kubra of Nas ’i,²³ in the Sunan of Ibn Mājah²⁴ as well as in other collections. In māhad has the next narration in the Musnad with an authentic isnād:

Yazeed bin H̄un narrated to us Sulaym̄ n reported to us from al-̄asan from Abu Musa al-Ashari from the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: If two Muslims meet (and fight) with their weapons and one of them kills the other, the killer and the slain will both be in Hell. It was said: O Messenger of Allah, (we understand about) the killer, but what about the one who is killed? He said: He wanted to kill his companion

The narration is also found in the Sunan and the Sunan al-Kubra of Nas̄ i,²⁵ in the Musnad of ‘Abd bin Ameed,²⁶ in the Sunan of Ibn Mājah²⁷ as well as in other collections. In māhad Nas̄ i also has this with an authentic isnād in the Sunan al-Kubra:

Musa al-Ash’ari that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: If two Muslims confront each other with swords, and one kills the other, they will both be in Hell. It was said: O Messenger of Allah, (we understand about) the killer, but what about the one who is killed? He said: He wanted to kill his companion

And this is also reported in the Sunan of Ibn Mājah on the authority of Anas ibn Mlik:

Suwayd ibn Sa’eed narrated to us Mubarak bin Suaym narrated to us from Abdal-Aziz bin Uhayb from Anas ibn Mlik from the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: There are no two Muslims who confront one another with their swords, but both the killer and the slain will be in Hell.

The difficulty with the aforementioned narration is that Mubarak bin Suaym as a narrator is classified as munkar al-hadith and consequently rejected (matrook).

Regarding the subject under consideration there is no discrepancy here. The one who was killed did not intend to kill the other and then abandoned this determination, returning to his house, so that he may deserve the reward of the one good deed. He changed from just determination to action. He went out of his house, held his sword and hit the other with an intention to kill him except that he was killed first, otherwise he would have been the killer. Whoever lacked the required intellect, to the degree that he did not understand these obvious truths, he must leave fiqh (jurisprudence) and deducing ahkām to those that are qualified to do this, or at the very least, find a new vocation. Allah has written beneficence for everything and he does not place a burden upon a soul greater than it can bear. If one cannot encompass such matters then one must devote oneself to what is viable.

Consequently it has been conclusively demonstrated that one may be rewarded for intention alone as the Qur'an and the aforementioned ahādīth show. A fortiori one can be rewarded for a purely permissible act if accompanied by a good intention (niyya) of mind or intellect and a conscientious heart, seeking only the pleasure of Allah the exalted. An example would be if this was also done in order to help one achieve the obligatory and desirable matters, or in order to accustom oneself to keep away from doing undesirable and prohibited matters. Someone may be undertaking a matter with such ‘consciousness’ while intending to do such deeds, their heart aware that Allah permitted such a deed and that doing the matter is but submitting to the judgment of Allah, being happy with the permission provided by Allah or any other good considerations which were mentioned in the aforementioned evidences. Reward here is according to this intention and this remembrance of the heart and not limited according to the permissible deed, as it is a mere permissible deed in itself. The permissible deed in itself, for whoever does it is neither deserving reward nor punishment, it will never be turned into a desirable matter, otherwise measures of Shari'ah will be disturbed and truth will mix with falsehood, Allah forbid.

The evidence which we have outlined above and others like it is the correct position and not like which was mentioned by other even famous scholars such as Imam an-Nawawi. In his commentary upon Sahih Muslim he wrote: ‘And this evidence is that the permissible matters (mubāhāt) become matters of obedience accompanied with intentions and charities,’ thereafter citing the hadīth where the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ‘....and in man's sexual intercourse (with *his wife) there is a Sadaqa...’²⁸ Indeed the hadīth is authentic, similar has been reported where he (peace be upon him) said: ‘And you should do the same, as it is among the best of your deeds to perform what is lawful (meaning: intercourse with your wives).’²⁹ Such narrations are definite and they establish that intercourse with one's spouse, as a mere naked act, is desirable in-itself; that whoever did it will be rewarded. So therefore it is not a mere permissible deed that whoever did it will neither be rewarded nor punished. How then did Imam an-Nawawi make it a mere permissible deed, as it is to be understood from his statement and then put the condition that there should be a certain intention behind this in order to gain reward? On the contrary, other Imams like Ibn azm was sharper to the point, recognising this matter by citing the verse where Allah said:*

فَإِذَا تَطَهَّرُنَ فَلْتُوَهُنَ مِنْ حَيْثُ أَمْرَكُمُ اللَّهُ....

....then when they have cleansed themselves, go in to them as Allah has commanded you...³⁰

He understood it as to be obligatory, not just desirable or permissible; in other words having intercourse even if once after the wife had completed the rituals of purification following her menstrual cycle. A persuasive argument indeed!

One should note, where is the word ‘intention’ mentioned in the ²⁸ The hadīth is recorded by Imam Muslim in the book of zakāt, chapter entitled: the word charity may apply to all good deeds. The wording is a short excerpt of a longer narration, the isnād for which is: Abdullah bin Muhammad bin Asim - uba'ee narrated to us Mahdi bin Maymoon narrated to us Wil mawla Abu U'yayna narrated to us from Ya'ya bin 'Uqayl from Ya'ya bin Ya'mar from Abul-Aswad ad-Diyali from Abu Dharr.

²⁹ Musnad Ahmad. The isnād for this hadīth is: Abdar-Rahman bin Mahdi narrated to us from Mu'wiya - that is to say - Ibn 'Uqayl from Azhar bin Sa'eed al-'Arabi who said I heard Abu Kabsha al-Anbari who said (etc).

³⁰ Qur'an 2: 222

ahādīth that Imam an-Nawawi cited? Surely this would be needed to substantiate his argument, that a permissible deed can be turned into a desirable matter according to one's intention, thereby being a matter of obedience. The use of the phrase 'act of obedience' here is not good either. Perhaps an-Nawawi meant by this 'desirable matters' (mustahabāt) otherwise, performing something permissible is an act of obedience, abandoning forbidden matters is an act of obedience and performing the obligations is an act of obedience. In short, obedience is obeying the dictates of the Shari'ah. Following the judgment of Allah and the creed he ordains is obedience; no difference in that between considering what was forbidden as forbidden, what was lawful as lawful, what was obligation as obligation, and so on.

Therefore to reiterate and stress this point again, it is not lawful to say that what is permissible is turned with a 'good intention' to something desirable, as it is not desirable in and of itself. Reward is due according to other matters that accompanied it. It is not then lawful to mix between them, otherwise measures of the Shari'ah will be disturbed and truth will mix with falsehood. That is why, the matter which is desirable in itself, whoever does it deserves to be rewarded and praised by Allah and whoever did not do it, does not deserve to be punished or dispraised by Allah. Concerning the matter which is undesirable in itself, whoever did not do it, deserves to be rewarded and praised by Allah and whoever did it, does not deserve to be punished or dispraised by Allah. Both of these two matters need independent evidence because they are not like the absolute original state of permissibility. Whatever was not like it, needs evidence, otherwise it would be a saying without knowledge and a judgment that Allah did not permit. That is to say, it would be innovation (bidāh) in the religion and this is exactly the way that leads to straying from the religion and ultimately in the extreme, kufr (disbelief).

10 Islam is the complete Deen

All actions and deeds that are voluntary in nature are judged according to the legal framework that Allah the exalted has revealed. Nothing is left out; there are no gaps. Allah the exalted himself says:

وَيَوْمَ نَبْعَثُ فِي كُلِّ أُمَّةٍ شَهِيدًا عَلَيْهِم مِّنْ أَنفُسِهِمْ وَجِئْنَا بِكَ شَهِيدًا عَلَى هُؤُلَاءِ وَنَزَّلْنَا عَلَيْكَ الْكِتَابَ تِبْيَانًا لِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ وَهُدًى وَرَحْمَةً وَبُشْرَى لِلْمُسْلِمِينَ

And on the day when We will raise up in every people a witness against them from among themselves, and bring you as a witness against these and We have revealed the Book to you explaining clearly everything, and a guidance and mercy and good news for those who submit.¹

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا أطِيعُوا اللَّهَ وَأطِيعُوا الرَّسُولَ وَأُولَئِكَ الْأُمَّرِ مِنْكُمْ فَإِنْ تَنَازَعْتُمْ فِي شَيْءٍ فَرُدُّوهُ إِلَى اللَّهِ وَالرَّسُولِ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ تُؤْمِنُونَ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ ذَلِكَ خَيْرٌ وَأَحْسَنُ تَأْوِيلًا

O you who believe! Obey Allah and obey the Messenger and those in authority from among you; then if you differ about anything, refer it to Allah and the Messenger, if you believe in Allah and the last day; this is better and very good in the end.²

وَمَا اخْتَافْتُمْ فِيهِ مِنْ شَيْءٍ فَحُكْمُهُ إِلَى اللَّهِ رَبِّي عَلَيْهِ تَوَكِّلْتُ وَإِلَيْهِ أُنِيبُ

And in whatever thing you disagree, the judgment thereof is (in) Allah's (hand); that is Allah, my Lord, on Him do I rely and to Him do I turn time after time.³

Reason, as well as continuous multiple reports from the annals of human history dictate that people have differed and quarrelled in all matters conceivable. Even the simplest points that one may think would be beyond matters of disputation were in fact by some, the Sophists being a case in point. In light of this, we are obliged to refer matters for judgement back to the judgement of Allah. The notion of reference must always return back to Allah and his Messenger (peace be upon him) as a matter of necessity. For it will provide the resolution to every matter in dispute. It is incredulous to believe that Allah would sanction reference to other than that. One must have absolute certitude that the book and the Sunnah contain all necessary judgements which can resolve disputes; only the ignorant and the stubborn disbelievers would have otherwise!

We see that Allah the exalted referred back in his revelation – Qur'an and Sunnah – all matters as they pertain to this world to the people. We mean the characteristics of this tangible physical world and its nature (like pollinating palm trees), that is, the world as it is. He referred physics, chemistry, astronomy, geology, medicine, agriculture, industry, engineering and the like to people. He referred it to experience, to examining and reasoning, totally and fully with all its stages of inspection, examining, studying, formulating theories, utilising and applying them. He kept whatever is left, essentially, the world as it ought to be, which is ‘religion’ or general law and the certain way of living to himself. He kept especially those aspects regarding his divine essence, his angels, the final day and the like. All the reckoning and calling people to account, ordaining things as lawful or unlawful and judging people's characters, whether they are good or evil. Our present Shari'ah, that has been revealed to mankind has included all the deeds of people with their judgments in the most perfect manner. Allah says:

³ Qur'an 42: 10

حُرِّمَتْ عَلَيْكُمُ الْمَيْتَةُ وَالدَّمُ وَلَحْمُ الْخِنْزِيرِ وَمَا أَهْلَ لِغَيْرِ اللَّهِ بِهِ وَالْمُنْخَنِقَةُ وَالْمُوْقُوذَةُ
وَالْمُنْتَدَبَةُ وَالنَّطِيحَةُ وَمَا أَكَلَ السَّبُعُ إِلَّا مَا نَكِّيْمَ وَمَا ذَبَحَ عَلَى النَّصْبِ وَأَنْ سَنَقِسُمُوا
بِالْأَزْلَامِ نَلْكُمْ فِسْقُ الْيَوْمِ يَسِّنُ الظِّنَّ كَفَرُوا مِنْ دِيْنِكُمْ فَلَا تَخْشُوْهُمْ وَاحْشُوْنَ الْيَوْمَ أَكْمَلْتُ لَكُمْ
دِيْنَكُمْ وَأَنْتُمْ شَرِيكُمْ نَعْمَتِي وَرَضِيْتُ لَكُمُ الْإِسْلَامَ دِيْنًا فَمَنْ أَضْطَرَ فِي مَخْصَصَةٍ غَيْرَ مُتَجَانِفٍ
لِأَنَّمِّ إِنَّ اللَّهَ غَفُورٌ رَّحِيمٌ

Forbidden to you is that which dies of itself, and blood, and flesh of swine, and that on which any other name than that of Allah has been invoked, and the strangled (animal) and that beaten to death, and that killed by a fall and that killed by being smitten with the horn, and that which wild beasts have eaten, except what you slaughter, and what is sacrificed on stones set up (for idols) and that you divide by the arrows; that is a transgression. This day have those who disbelieve despaired of your Deen, so fear them not, and fear Me. This day have I perfected for you your Deen and completed My favour on you and chosen for you Islam as a Deen; but whoever is compelled by hunger, not inclining wilfully to sin, then surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.⁴

Stressing after this the bestowing of proportionality concerning the judgement where faced with being forced to eat prohibited kinds of food, which were previously revealed in an earlier Meccan revelation. Allah said at the end of the aforementioned verse ‘...but whoever is compelled by hunger, not inclining wilfully to sin, then surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.’ Deen is perfect now, the Deen of Islam and no other. Anything else would be regression to at best, an earlier now superseded Shari'ah and at worst ignorance and disbelief. Grace is complete now and any other thing would be defective and calamitous resulting from disobeying Allah, breaching his orders and neglecting his laws. The final abode would be hellfire and a permanent curse. Adhering to the legal judgments is the main reason behind creating man. It is the meaning of human existence. Allah says in the famous oft-quoted verse -

وَمَا خَلَقْتُ الْجِنَّ وَالْإِنْسَ إِلَّا لِيَعْبُدُونَ

*And I have not created the jinn and the men except that they should worship Me.*⁵

To worship ('Ibādah) is to render the utmost obedience and submission, out of humility and choice to Allah the exalted; based upon the recognition of his prerogative of command (hākimiyah) that he alone by his glorious self, determines what is to be commanded or prohibited. That right is absolute, without any precondition, except that which he has prescribed upon himself to undertake or forbidden himself from, or a condition that he will fulfil himself. Such cognisance is but the apex of the expression of firm belief ('itiqād) with decisive certainty; borne of absolute faith ('Iman) in Allah as he is the one true God. For verily, there is no other god/deity but him; the one and only, the necessarily existent; al-Hayy al-Qayum (the living, the self-subsisting); al-Awwal (the first); ageless and eternal, without beginning or end. For he is al-Bāqi (the ever-lasting), the eternal. He acts according to his will, creating what only he chooses and determines. He cannot be questioned over what he does, and he governs and according to his judgement and is swift in calling to account. What is not worship ('Ibādah), in and of itself, is the prostration and bowing; standing and sitting, pilgrimage and fasting, may Allah forbid. Such acts are ritual acts of devotion. Expressed differently, the worship of Allah is obeying every order and abstaining from every prohibition as we shall discuss elsewhere in this book God-willing.

This perfect complete Shari'ah has made certain acts obligatory - termed 'farā'id' or 'wājibāt' making them duty bound. Exceptions do exist like where an individual is unable to perform them or a specific legal exception is set out. For example, one is not obliged to fast while travelling, even if this travel is dubbed by some nowadays as being comfortable. At the same time it is obligatory on those who have tiresome physical jobs, whose burden might exceed that of travelling, as long as the person is capable. Other acts have been declared prohibited - termed as 'muhibāmat'. No one is given leave to undertake these acts without a specific legal injunction, such as being allowed to lie under certain circumstances. One can be exempted from the prohibited under necessity (i.e. pain of death or the like) and coercion. Even in these particular circumstances, there is no license given to take another life or harm another in their body, period. The one subject to such a form of coercion does not have a legal get out clause allowing such harm, because no one individual has a greater right of preservation than another.

Moreover, necessity and coercion even under pain of death does not provide licence for a Muslim to support enemy combatants who are engaged in war, or operations other than war, whether that involves killing or not. The majority of scholars agree that the one coerced to kill is not allowed to do so, for this person is not worthier of preservation than another. This point was eloquently expressed by the famous Imam and scholar of Islam: Abul-'Abbās Ahmad ibn Abd-al-aleem Ibn Taymiyyah in Fatāwa al-Kubra:

There is no doubt that it is obligatory on him, if he was forced to be present not to fight, even if Muslims killed him. It is the same if disbelievers forced him to be on their side to fight against Muslims. If a man forced another to kill an innocent Muslim, Muslims agree that it is not permissible to do it. Even if he is forced under threat of death, saving himself by killing that Muslim is not worthier than the alternative. He has no right to do another person injustice by killing him in order not to be killed himself. If he did that, retaliation is on both the one forcing and the one forced to kill, according to the majority of scholars such as A mad, M lik and ash-Sh fi' in one of his opinions. His other opinion states that retaliation is on the one forcing alone. This agrees with the opinion of Abu anifah and Mu ammad. It was said that retaliation is on the direct forced person, as it was related from Zafar while Abu Yusuf obligates paying the blood money, instead of taking retaliation, which is not obligatory according to him.

Similar has been written in other areas of his works such as in Majmu' al-Fatāwa. The respected Im m also has another opinion that is worthy of consideration in which is to be found in Kutub wa-Rasā'il wa Fatāwa Ibn Taymiyyah fi Fiqh (books, letters and Fatāwa of Ibn Taymiyyah in fiqh):

The Prophet (peace be upon him) ordered the one forced to fight in ordeals, to break his sword. He is not allowed to fight even if he may be killed. It was recorded in Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim that Abu Bakrah (may Allah be pleased with him) narrated that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: There would soon be turmoil (fitan). Behold! There would be turmoil in which the one who would be seated would be better than one who would stand and the one who would stand would be better than one who would run. Behold! When the turmoil comes or it appears, the one who has camel should stick to his camel and he who has sheep or goat should stick to his sheep and goat and he who has land should stick to the land. A person said: Allah's Messenger, what is your opinion about one who has neither camel nor sheep nor land? Thereupon, he said: He should take hold of his sword and beat its edge with the help of stone and then try to find a way of escape. O Allah, I have conveyed (thy Message); O Allah, I have conveyed (thy Message); O Allah, I have conveyed (thy Message). A person said: Allah's Messenger, what is your opinion if I am drawn to a rank in spite of myself, or in one of the groups and made to march and a man strikes with his sword or there comes an arrow and kills me? Thereupon he said: He will bear the punishment of his sin and that of yours and he would be one amongst the denizens of Hell.⁶

Each of these quotes from Ibn Taymiyyah are truly excellent, may Allah raise his rank. One should carefully examine them and ponder over their meanings. It is unfortunate that despite his sharp and insightful comments as we have seen, he made catastrophic mistakes in other branches of Islamic knowledge, none more so than in his categorisation of Tawheed and understanding of the reality of Shirk (polytheism). Although he may have thought that this was addressing some of the ignorant practices that he saw in his time, history has shown that his tripartite division of Tawheed has caused more problems in understanding than it sought to address. Moreover, it became a sword drenched in the blood of the people of Islam wielded by Shaykh Mu ammad ibn Abdal-Wah b and his companions; the disastrous legacy of which we are still tirelessly working to reverse.

Returning to our main subject, there are actions, which praise be to Allah, are the majority of the deeds of people, they are left for the person to decide whether to do them or not. Doing some of them could be preferable. These are called 'desirable' (mustahabāt) actions. Leaving some actions might be more appropriate, and these are called 'undesirable' (makroohāt) actions. In cases, it might be on equal terms and then actions would be known as 'permissible' (mubāhāt) actions. The person ordered of these actions might do the permissible one, or leave them, according to his choice. It also depends upon each case and interest. One can carry out a permissible deal and leave another permissible one, for one could be of the view that the first will make more profit than the second. One could even avoid a third permissible one for fear of loss. Considering the best interest and profits – or losses and harm – is only possible if the action is originally permissible. So one must make sure of the legality of any action and one must first seek what the judgment of Allah is regarding a matter. If it was proven that it is an optional deed, only then could one consider the best interest and profits - or the losses and harm. Consequently, it is not lawful for anyone who believes in Allah and the final day to leave an obligation without any legal permit (rukhsa) or just for not being able to do it. One cannot simply commit that which has been deemed prohibited without any compulsion, under the pretext of ‘warding off an evil’ or consideration of wider interests / benefit (maslaha). There is definitely neither evil in what Allah has obligated nor benefit in what Allah has prohibited.

Whatever is said beyond this is from the whisperings of Shaytān; defamation of the perfect Shari'ah and neglect for what man has been created for, namely the worship of Allah – obedience to his commands, the ahkām Shari'ah, which is in contrast to what many are told, to only consider one’s existence, subsistence and ‘interest’, material or otherwise. Moreover, we were not ordered to grant victory and power as they are among actions of Allah. We are ordered to perform Jihād and to rule according to what Allah has revealed. Allah has obliged us to call people to his Deen, if we have the required knowledge, to spread his call and to propagate the truth. Allah never ordered us with ‘the spread of religion’ or ‘emergence of religion’; such acts are among his actions while others are among the voluntary actions of the servants of Allah, which are according to legal capacity.

The legal texts are the text of the revelation, namely the Qur’ān and the Sunnah. These revelatory sources are enough, praise be to Allah, for dealing with all incidents found in life, from the day of the death of the Prophet (peace be upon him) until the end of the world. It is never to be said that incidents and events are infinite while the texts are finite, because the infinite incidents are individual incidents and personal events, while types of incidents and kinds of events are finite and limited, that are included perfectly and completely in these texts. The prayer of Zayd is not like the prayer of ‘Amr but the kind of prayer is one or a few of such limited kinds that are included in texts, and so on.

Imām Ibn Mājah recorded in his Sunan a narration upon the authority of Salmān al-Farsi with an extremely authentic chain of transmission:

Ali bin Mu'ammad narrated to us Waki' narrated to us from al-'Amash (hawala) Mu'ammad bin Bashir narrated to us Abdar-Ra'man narrated to us Sufyān narrated to us from Ma'urūd al-'Amash from Ibrāhīm from Abdar-Ra'man bin Yazīd from Salmān who said that one of the mushrikeen said to him, while they were making fun of him: I see that your companion (the Prophet) is teaching you everything, even how to relieve yourself? He said: Yes indeed. He has ordered us not to face the Qiblah or to clean ourselves with our right hands and not to be content with anything less than three stones, which are not to include any excrement or bones.

In the wording of A mad,⁷ who also records this with an authentic chain, it is as follows:

: : : !

....A man said: Verily I see that your companion (the Prophet) is teaching you, does he teach you how to defecate? He (Salm n) said: Yes, notwithstanding (this) ridicule. He has taught us how to defecate. He has ordered us not to face the Qiblah or to clean ourselves with our right hands and not to be content with anything less than three stones, which are not to include any excrement or bones.

Similar has been recorded, albeit without the element of ridiculing, with authentic channels of transmission by Im m Muslim, Tirmidhi, an-Nas ’i and others. One should seriously ponder over this incident. Note the question posed by this stubborn mushrik (polytheist) with his intellect no better than that of a donkey, contrasted by Salm n; determined in his response, speaking with an excellent manner, patience and paying attention to detail. If the statement of Salm n is true and by Allah we testify to its truthfulness; there is no god / deity but Allah, how then can anyone claim who believes in Allah and the last day, that the final Shari’ah is somehow incomplete? That there are in some way ‘gaps’, ‘loopholes’ or that the texts cannot encompass the full range of human action and experience. Those that do hold this viewpoint proceed on the basis of desires, innovation and heresy. They seek to beguile others through beautiful names which hide an ugly and sinister agenda; they seek to aggrandise themselves and ultimately mislead people. From amongst the beautified terms that they marshal we find them saying that they have ‘the understanding of the Salaf as-Sālih (righteous predecessors)’; that they are seeking to ‘block the means (Sadd al-Dhara’i)’; they have the considerations of public interest and are preventing greater evil and the favoured hyperbole of the treasonous government scholars, that they are preventing fitna, sedition and tribulation. Meanwhile Allah the majestic states –

وَمِنْهُمْ مَنْ يَقُولُ ائْتُنِي وَلَا تَقْتِلْنِي أَلَا فِي الْفِتْنَةِ سَقُطُوا وَإِنَّ جَهَنَّمَ لَمُحِيطَةٌ بِالْكَافِرِينَ

And among them there is he who says: Allow me and do not try me. Surely into trial have they already tumbled down and most surely hell encompasses the disbelievers.⁸

In addition to this, Im m abar ni has recorded the following hadith on the authority of Abu Dharr:

Mu ammad ibn Abdullah al- a rami narrated to us Mu ammad bin Abdullah bin Yazeed al-Muqri narrated to us Sufy n ibn ‘Uyayna narrated to us from Fi r from Abu ufayl from Abu Dharr who said: the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) told us that there is no bird that flies in the air (sky), except that it has some knowledge from him. He said that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: There is nothing left that will further you to Paradise, and separate from the hellfire, except that it was explained to you.

⁸ Qur’ān 9: 49

The hadith is authentic - Sahīh and supports the point of this subject here regarding the completeness of Deen.⁹ In the Musnad of A mad he records the following narration:

Ibn Numayr narrated to us al-'Amash narrated to us from Mundthir, a Shaykh from at-Taym narrated to us they said (that) Abu Dharr said: Verily Mu ammad (peace be upon him) left us with (this): What drives the bird's wings in the sky, except that it remembers us and notes this knowledge.

This narration is recorded elsewhere in the Musnad,¹⁰ as well as in the Musnad of Abu D wud a - ay lisi,¹¹ and in other collections. In al-Jāmi' as-Saḥīḥ al-Mukhtaṣr Im m Bukh ri records:

: : . !

Musa bin Mas'ud narrated to us Sufy n narrated to us from al-'Amash from Abu W 'il from udhayfah who said the Prophet (peace be upon him) once delivered a speech in front of us wherein he left nothing but mentioned (about) everything that would happen till the (final) hour. Some of us stored that in our minds and some forgot it. (After that speech) I used to see events taking place (which had been referred to in that speech) but I had forgotten them (before their occurrence). Then I would recognise such events as a man recognises another man who has been absent and then sees and recognises him.

⁹ The Arabic edition has within the appendix a fuller discussion regarding the authenticity of this specific narration.

The hadith is also found in the Sahīh of Ibn ibb n,¹² the Sunan of Abu D wud,¹³ the Musnad of A mad¹⁴ and in other collections. Im m Muslim records the following again narrated on the authority of udhayfah:

armala bin Ya ya at-Tajeebe narrated to me Ibn Wahb reported to us Yunus reported to me from Ibn Shih b that Abu Idris al-Khawl ni said that udhayfah bin al-Yam n said: By Allah, I have the best knowledge amongst people about every turmoil which is going to appear in the period intervening me and the last hour; and it is not for the fact that Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) told me something confidentially pertaining to it and he did not tell anybody else about it, but it is because of the fact that I was present in the assembly in which he had been describing the turmoil, and he especially made a mention of three turmoil's which would not spare anything and amongst these there would be turmoil's like storms in the hot season. Some of them would be violent and some of them would be comparatively mild. Udhayfah said: All (who were present) except I have gone (to the next world).

Similar is recorded in the Musnad of Ahmad from a slightly different channel:

Ya'qub narrated to us my father narrated to us from Ili - that is to say ibn Kaysan - from Ibn Shihab he said: Abu Idris 'Aidh Allah bin Abdullah al-Khawali heard Udhayfah bin al-Yamani say: By Allah, I have the best knowledge amongst people about every turmoil which is going to appear in the period intervening me and the last hour and it is not for the fact that Allah's Messenger (peace be upon him) told me something confidentially pertaining to it and he did not tell anybody else about it but it is because of the fact that I was present in the assembly in which he had been describing the turmoil. He (peace be upon him) especially made a mention of three turmoil's which would not spare anything and amongst these there would be turmoil's like storms in the hot season. Some of them would be violent and some of them would be comparatively mild. Udhayfah said: All (who were present) except I have gone (to the next world).

Al-¹⁵ kim also has this recorded in the Mustadrak.¹⁵ In his Sunan, Imam Tirmidhi has the following narrated on the authority of Abu Sa'eed al-Khudri:

'Imran bin Musa al-Fazza'i narrated to us 'Abdullah ibn Zayd narrated to us Ali bin Zayd ibn Jada'na al-Qurashi narrated to us from Abu Nara from Abu Sa'eed al-Khudri who said: One day, the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) led us in prayer while it was still daytime. Then he stood to give us an address. He did not leave anything that would happen until the hour of judgement except that he informed us about it. Whoever remembered it remembered it, and whoever forgot it forgot it. Among what he said was: Indeed the world is green and sweet, and indeed Allah has left you to remain to see how you behave. So beware of the world, and beware of the women. And among what he said was: The awe (status) of people should not prevent a man from saying the truth when he knows it. He (one of the narrators) said: Abu Sa'eed wept, then he said: By Allah! We have seen things and we feared. And among what he said in it, was: Indeed, for every treacherous person there shall be a banner erected on the day of resurrection in proportion to his treachery. And there is no treachery greater than the treachery of a leader to the masses' whose banner shall be positioned at his buttocks. And among what we remember from that day is: Behold! Indeed the children of Adam were created in various classes... (etc).

¹⁵ Al-¹⁵ kim Mustadrak Vol. 4 sec. 518, no. 8,454

Al- umaydi also has this in his Musnad,¹⁶ as does Abu Ya'la¹⁷ and other than them. In his Mu'jam al-Kabir abar ni records the next narration on the authority of Mughira:

Al- ussein ibn Is q at-Tastari narrated to us al- asan bin Abi as-Suri al-A'sqal ni narrated to us Makki bin Ibr him narrated to us Hish m bin Hish m narrated to us from 'Amr bin Ibr him bin Mu ammad from Mu ammad bin Ka'b al-Qurazi from al-Mughira who said the Prophet (peace be upon him) stood stationed before us and he informed us what will occur in his Ummah until the day of judgement. And he said to us a word; some of us have comprehended (it) whilst others of us have forgotten.

Abu Ya'la also records in his Musnad:

¹⁶ Musnad umaydi Vol. 2 sec. 332, no. 752

¹⁷ Musnad Abu Ya'la Vol. 2 sec. 354, no. 1,101

Mu ammad bin Abu Bakr narrated to us Ya ya narrated to us from Fi r bin Khalifa from 'A who said (that) Abu Dard said: Verily the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) left us and the bird which flies in the sky with its wings, except that we mentioned it from its knowledge.

The claims of the Church of Najd, that is to say the sect of Wah bism and those adhering to their views who call themselves the 'Salafis' are manifestly false. They implicitly argue that the Deen is imperfect until it has been explained by the Salaf as-Sālih (righteous predecessors) from the first three-centuries, inclusive of the companions and the rightly guided Khulafa. They say this without any recourse to serious thought or study, reflecting their own superficiality. Many of their statements are made without any sense of deep thought, as they are impervious to reason and blinded by their own vanities. Indeed their mantra about – 'the Qur' n and Sunnah according to the understanding of the Salaf as-Sālih' refers without any doubt, to the notion that the Deen is in some way deficient and imperfect. It is a suggestion that the Deen was not completed before the death of the Prophet (peace be upon him), as if that the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not understand some matters, or that he did understand and failed to explain them - Allah preserve us from such banal nonsense! Their statements seek to undermine the seal of Prophethood and the universality of the Islamic message, yet they are blinded to how destructive their sect has truly become. The message of the Qur' n and the Sunnah are accessible to whosoever wants to read and study them, for anyone who wants to engage their reason, pondering deeply over its meanings, as Allah orders us to in Surah at-Tawba. The honest truthful heart should ask, are they really the adherents of the Salaf as-Sālih - or should they properly be called, the Khalaf Tālih (evil successors)!

These superficial zombies have abandoned seeking to understand the book of Allah and the Sunnah, preferring to retreat to the ivory tower of an imagined ‘understanding of the Salaf as-Sālih’ that all must bow to. Without seeking to understand what Allah has actually revealed they oscillate between various sayings, arguing we have A mad bin anbal while you have M lik bin Anas. They will remain lost in such endless circles, from contradicting sayings and different claims. Our discerned reader will become accustomed to their faulty understanding throughout this present work and will begin to see not only their heinous errors but how they have sought to entrench such erroneous views, all the while being impervious to what Allah has revealed. Most of those people claiming to be Salafis have arrived at an intellectual impasse. They have not examined the disastrous consequences of their Salafi assertions. They are just following other scholars, those that are not better in acquiring knowledge than them. Most of them do not know the sayings of the Salaf (predecessors) and their wide range of opinions that they took on matters of jurisprudence. To argue that they had a monolithic view on all issues is a flagrant lie. It is truly rare for any of them to have considered for example the Muṣṣanaf of Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba or the Sunan of Sa'eed bin Man ur, even rarer that they have had anything more than a cursory look at the Muṣṣanaf of Abdar-Razz q or even al-Awsaṭ by Ibn al-Mundhir. Yet they are proficient at levelling unsubstantiated allegations and fostering outright lies where it suits their agenda.

We mentioned in detail some of the points raised by the ‘followers of Salafism’ because they claim to be the best among all the creation of Allah; that they are the ‘ahl al-Aqeedah as-Sāfiya as-Sāhiha’ – the people of the pure authentic creed, while all others are the people of innovation or even apostates and disbelievers. They claim that they are ‘al-Firqa an-Nājiya’ or the ‘Tā'iqa al-Manṣura’, the saved victorious sect, yet they are more like the Khawārij in this regard. Without prejudice the adherents of ‘Salafism’ must seriously reevaluate their position, bearing in mind that the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: ‘Whoever says that the people are ruined, he is himself more ruined than them.’¹⁸

Amongst contemporary Islamic circles there still exists, unfortunately, those that cling to the false notion that there is somehow a ‘legislative vacuum’ or lacuna which people should fill. Exactly what to fill this imagined vacuum with prompts a number of differing viewpoints, be that according to one’s own reason, according to the principles of equity (Istihsān); an ill-defined public interest (maṣlahah mursalah), making analogous comparisons (Qiyās), or even bizarrely acting within the ‘spirit of the law’. Such notions are evidently false for the one who will take the time to seriously study them, since the revelation itself provides us with a succinct creed; a complete set of rituals for worship and the most complete set of transactions. The hadith of Salm n mentioned earlier which is concerned with purity and manners of relieving oneself should prove sufficient in counteracting these deadly tendencies which left unchecked, have the potential of leading to disbelief. Concerning transactions, it is enough to mention all kinds of sales that were proved by the text as unlawful, which are more than forty-types, some of them are very rare and even unknown nowadays. Even if it is only mentioned that one type of sale is prohibited, that in itself is sufficient evidence to establish that sales other than this kind are lawful, as we mentioned previously, especially when considering the verse in which Allah says: ‘But Allah permitted trade and forbidden usury.’¹⁹

Where then is the legislative vacuum or gaps within the Shari'ah? These are but phantasms of the mind. Im m Mu ammad ibn Idris ash-Sh fi'i was correct when he said in ar-Risāla: ‘There is nothing among the crises that happen to anyone among people of the religion of Allah except that there is an evidence in the Book of Allah that shows how to solve it.’ Indeed he spoke the truth which is a definite and absolute truth, regardless who knows and who does not know. Much the same was said by Imam Abu Muhammad Ali Ibn Al-Azm, as cited earlier, in which he provides a lucid argument to those who would try and argue otherwise.

¹⁸ The hadith is recorded widely and can be found in Muslim the book of virtue, enjoining good manners and joining of the ties of kinship, ch. the prohibition of saying ‘the people are doomed’

Such evil and accursed sayings generally stem from three sources. Firstly, from the disbelievers in general as well as the people who have hypocrisy (nifāq) in belief. They conceal disbelief (kufr) deep in their hearts while outwardly showing Islam, desiring to mix the Shari'ah with kufr. Although they proceed in a cautious and gradual manner, this is ultimately their goal. It is as brazen as if they were to walk naked in the streets, exposing themselves to all and sundry. Unfortunately our present age, the late 14th Islamic century, is replete with these individuals who more often than not, occupy positions of power, influence and authority. Secondly, from the sinful people that are beset with laziness. They neither memorise the Sunnah nor revise it from its sources, failing to distinguish or differentiate what is authentic from what is not. Laziness has become all too easy for them, retreating to the comfort of taqleed (imitation) thereby missing the essential wisdom and guidance which the Sunnah affords. Finally, from those who are completely passive, content with their own ignorance and promoting obscurantism amongst the wider public. By relegating their own minds to the priests and rabbis they have set up rivals to Allah, obeyed lords whom they fervently follow, like braying animals.

We do not deny that some scholars have committed serious mistakes by comparing the Shari'ah of Allah and man-made laws, which are full of gaps and loopholes that are required to be filled to patch up its shortcomings, be that with equity (Istihsān) considerations of an ill-defined public interest (maslahah mursalah), making analogous comparisons (Qiyās), or other intellectual acrobatics like acting within the ‘spirit of the law’. The faithful, earnest, sincere scholar - whatever his rank - is not allowed to continue in such mistakes; we must take flight to the refuge of Allah, seeking his forgiveness. We ask Allah to forgive all those who committed such blunders from amongst scholars of this Ummah, who were sincere and made their best effort to find the truth. We ask Him to reward them for their effort. While the unqualified, faithless scholars who are sycophants as well as the unjust tyrannical rulers we pray to Allah to never forgive them, but to curse them, making their life here and in the life to come full of misery, despair and punishment.

11 Prophet Muhammad permits all the good, outlaws all the evil

Allah the exalted, the majestic states the following in Qur' n:

بِالْمَعْرُوفِ وَيَنْهَا هُمْ عَنِ الْمُنْكَرِ وَيَحِلُّ لَهُمُ الطَّيِّبَاتُ وَيُحَرِّمُ عَلَيْهِمُ الْخَبَابَاتُ وَيَضْعِفُ عَنْهُمْ
إِصْرُهُمْ وَالْأَغْلَالُ الَّتِي كَانَتْ عَلَيْهِمْ فَالَّذِينَ آمَنُوا بِهِ وَعَزَّزُوهُ وَنَصَرُوهُ وَاتَّبَعُوا النُّورَ الَّذِي
أُنْزِلَ مَعَهُ أُولَئِكَ هُمُ الْمُفْلِحُونَ

Those who follow the Messenger-Prophet, the Ummi, whom they find written down with them in the Torah and the Bible (who) enjoins them good and forbids them evil, and makes lawful to them the good things and makes unlawful to them impure things, and removes from them their burden and the shackles which were upon them; so (as for) those who believe in him and honour him and help him, and follow the light which has been sent down with him, these it is that are the successful.¹

يَسْأَلُونَكَ مَاذَا أَحِلَّ لَهُمْ قُلْ أَحِلَّ لَكُمُ الطَّيِّبَاتُ وَمَا عَلِمْتُمْ مِنَ الْجَوَارِحِ مُكَبِّينَ تُعَلَّمُونَهُنَّ مِمَّا

عَلِمْكُمُ اللَّهُ فَكُلُوا مِمَّا أَمْسَكْنَ عَلَيْكُمْ وَادْكُرُوا اسْمَ اللَّهِ عَلَيْهِ وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ إِنَّ اللَّهَ سَرِيعُ الْحِسَابِ

They ask you as to what is allowed to them. Say: The good things are allowed to you, and what you have taught the beasts and birds of prey, training them to hunt-- you teach them of what Allah has taught you-- so eat of that which they catch for you and mention the name of Allah over it; and be careful of (your duty to) Allah; surely Allah is swift in reckoning.²

الْيَوْمَ أَحِلَّ لَكُمُ الطَّيِّبَاتُ وَطَعَامُ الَّذِينَ أُوتُوا الْكِتَابَ حِلٌّ لَكُمْ وَطَعَامُكُمْ حِلٌّ لَهُمْ وَالْمُحْسَنَاتُ مِنَ
الْمُؤْمِنَاتِ وَالْمُحْسَنَاتُ مِنَ الَّذِينَ أُوتُوا الْكِتَابَ مِنْ قَبْلِكُمْ إِذَا آتَيْتُمُوهُنَّ أُجُورَهُنَّ مُحْسِنِينَ
غَيْرُ مُسَافِحِينَ وَلَا مُنْتَخِذِي أَخْدَانٍ وَمَنْ يَكُفُرُ بِالْإِيمَانِ فَقَدْ حَبَطَ عَمَلُهُ وَهُوَ فِي الْآخِرَةِ مِنَ
الْخَاسِرِينَ

This day (all) the good things are allowed to you; and the food of those who have been given the Book is lawful for you and your food is lawful for them; and the chaste from among the b context of the present created world. It is but one of the possibilities of existence, but not necessity. It is like this because Allah the exalted has made it that way by virtue of his divine decree. Allah's omnipotent free will rules over everything and there is nothing whatsoever to place a limit or restriction upon it. There is no other authority beyond Allah or a higher right of appeal or audience. He is the most high, the wisest; the first – nothing existed before him – and he is the last – there is nothing after him. He is the all-knowing, the all powerful.

Therefore, a lawful (halāl) thing is so because Allah made it so. He made it so within the framework of his own divine absolute will to objects with a specific design and attribute, rather than due to an internal necessity of the created object, or as an absolute necessary concept. Thus, there is an important distinction between the creative command of Allah and his own legislative will. In principle there is nothing to say that Allah cannot create something to be good (tayib) in and of itself, yet deem that as being prohibited as part of a Shari'ah for whatever considerations as part of his legislative command. What constitutes the 'lawful', therefore, is what Allah the exalted decrees as lawful by his legislative command. Matters that are 'prohibited' are judged in the same way. Ultimately, Allah is the determining authority in the judgement of what constitutes the lawful and prohibited. Allah is the first and the last. He is the absolute authority and it is to him the eventual return ultimately is. There is no deity other than him. As cited previously the blessed verses from the Qur'an provide us with unequivocal statements, establishing certain binding proofs. From these we may detail the following maxims:

- ❖ There is a fundamental distinction between what the concept of good (tayib) is and the concept of lawful (halāl). The two concepts are independent of each other, with no necessity dictating that the two should coincide. What is deemed good (tayib) is as a result of Allah's divine will pertaining to its creation and destination (qadr) in that manner or fashion. Lawful (halāl) relates to a matter being decided as such by the legislative command of Allah.

- ❖ Concerning the concept of what is malignant (khabeeth) and prohibited (harām) they are also independent from each other in the same manner as described in relation to the good (tayib) and the lawful (halāl).
- ❖ Nothing can dictate to Allah the exalted, ultimate lord, whose sovereignty is absolute. Hence if he wishes, he is fully able to prohibit some matters which are deemed to be good (tayib), just as he is fully able to keep the law (Shari'ah) silent in relation to matters which are from amongst the khabā'ith, thereby not explicitly censuring them. Allah is fully conversant with what is good in and of itself and what is malignant or evil in and of itself. By way of ranks or degrees of consideration this in the grand scheme of things is secondary to Allah's overriding lordship and sovereignty. Allah judges as he wills, he legislates as he wills; Allah cannot be questioned as to what he does, though we will be questioned for what we do!⁵
- ❖ Regardless of what Allah legislates, his judgement is absolute not being subject to revision or higher right of appeal. He, the exalted is accountable to none. Obedience to him is absolute without limit, being a binding rational necessity.
- ❖ For the final Ummah though, Allah has bestowed a number of distinct blessings. Not only have we been favoured with having Muhammad (peace be upon him) as our Prophet and the seal of Prophethood itself, but Allah has synchronised the Shari'ah revealed to him; thereby making lawful (halāl) everything that is good (tayib) and prohibiting everything that is evil or malignant (khabeeth). The situation now is in contrast to some of the previous nations. They were burdened having shackles placed upon them. Yet now they have been given a reprieve. By accepting the final Shari'ah and the Prophethood of Mu ammad (peace be upon him) they too can partake in the good (tayib) that was previously unlawful for them. Matters that are khabeeth have been made unlawful on this blessed Ummah by the mercy of Allah, whereas some were not in previous revealed legislation, like alcohol.

Without doubt Islam is the perfect complete Deen. Its revealed texts contain, by the grace of Allah, the judgment concerning all things, be they objects or actions until the day of judgement. This has obviated the need to dwell upon extensive studies into the reality or nature of an act or object in order to determine whether it is good or evilw ne wnae(r) to a given point and ultimately his knowledge is infinitesimally limited when compared to the creator and lord of the worlds, Allah the exalted, who is omniscient.

Even if we suppose the possibility in principle that man could have the ability to comprehend the nature of things from all necessary angles, the reality of human endeavours in legislation demonstrates otherwise. All nations, civilisations and people have witnessed laws being formulated, implemented and then either amended or repealed totally for one or more consideration that was not evident at the time when they were formulated. In the round, such factors buttress our belief that mankind will always come in second in relation to this, despite the onset of time and accumulation of successive generations of knowledge. Notwithstanding mankind's proclivity for placing other non-rational considerations at the forefront of mind, such as limited worldly benefit, even if the assumption is made that the human mind is in principle reaching a definitive judgement in relation to whether a matter is truly tayib or khabeeth; it would be only a theoretical intellectual endeavour. All the while we have the final Shari'ah which Allah has given us providing the ultimate determiner of such things. The solution to human malaise in this area rests with the hukm shari', as outlined previously; the legal texts provide the complete necessary guidance. Legal judgement is not permissible except by way of a legal text. Faith (al-'Imān) and Islam stipulate all matters to be referred back to Allah and his Messenger (peace be upon him). There is no valid alternate position.

Concerning what we have previously said about the Arabic word 'khabā'ith' there is some conformity with the word 'al-fawā'ish' – indecencies. Therefore, the fact that something is indecent is a matter of self; a reality that can be readily discernible. It has nothing to do with laws. Indecency is doing something beyond its proper limit. It is a concept that is often used in classifying the actions and statements, in addition to the relations and proportions, the abstract systems, and conventional positive matters. The notion of 'al-fawā'ish' hasn't been used to describe an object or benefit; the word used in the legal texts for these is khabeeth. For the sake of clarity, for an object or action to be classified as fâhiša - whether in itself or for some other consideration - it is because Allah the exalted has made it thus by way of his divine decree (qadr) and creative act. It has been given that nature, for want of a better word, by the absolute free will of Allah, which rules over everything. This is done within the framework of Allah's absolute will to create objects on specific moulds and attributes, rather than due to an internal necessity of the created object.

It is established by way of definite evidence that Allah has forbidden all manner of indecencies (al-fawâhiš), open or concealed, in this last Shari'ah, just as he has forbidden the khabâ'ith as detailed in the following Qur'nic verses:

الْحَقِّ وَأَنْ شَرِكُواْ فُلْ أَنَّمَا حَرَمَ رَبِّيَ الْفَوَاحِشَ مَا ظَهَرَ مِنْهَا وَمَا بَطَنَ وَالْإِثْمُ وَالْبَغْيُ بِغَيْرِ
بِاللَّهِ مَا لَمْ يَنْزَلْ بِهِ سُلْطَانًا وَأَنْ تَقُولُواْ عَلَى اللَّهِ مَا لَا تَعْلَمُونَ

*Say: My Lord has only prohibited indecencies (al-fawâhiš), those of them that are apparent as well as those that are concealed, and sin and rebellion without justice, and that you associate with Allah that for which He has not sent down any authority, and that you say against Allah what you do not know.⁶*

فُلْ تَعَالَوْا أَتُلُّ مَا حَرَمَ رَبُّكُمْ عَلَيْكُمُ الَا شَرِكُواْ بِهِ شَيْئًا وَبِالْوَالِدَيْنِ إِحْسَانًا وَلَا تَقْتُلُواْ أُولَادَمْ
مِنْ إِمْلَاقٍ نَحْنُ نُحْنُ نَرْزُقُكُمْ وَلَا يَأْهُمْ وَلَا تَقْرِبُوا الْفَوَاحِشَ مَا ظَهَرَ مِنْهَا وَمَا بَطَنَ وَلَا تَقْتُلُوا النَّفْسَ
الَّتِي حَرَمَ اللَّهُ إِلَّا بِالْحَقِّ ذَلِكُمْ وَصَارُكُمْ بِهِ لَعْنَكُمْ تَعْقِلُونَ

Say: Come I will recite what your Lord has forbidden to you-- (remember) that you do not associate anything with Him and show kindness to your parents, and do not slay your children for (fear of) poverty-- We provide for you and for them-- and do not draw nigh to indecencies, those of them which are apparent and those which are concealed, and do not kill the soul which

⁶ Qur'an 7: 33

Allah has forbidden except for the requirements of justice; this He has enjoined you with that you may understand.⁷

These Qur'nic verses are unequivocal. Indeed Allah has forbidden all manner of sexual indecency in this last Shari'ah, in fact any immorality whatsoever. Whether that be open or concealed or whether that be from statements, acts, relations, abstractions or systems. The same also applies to matters of convention and what concerns the khabâ'ith as previously mentioned. What we had mentioned above about khabâ'ith can also be said here about al-fawâhiš and with Allah and their differences over their Prophets. So, if I forbid you to do something, then keep away from it. And if I order you to do something, then do of it as much as you can.

And also in the wording that has been reported by Imam Muslim in his Sahīh:

armala ibn Ya'ya at-Tajeebe narrated to me Ibn Wahb reported to us Yunus reported to me from Ibn Shih b - Abu Salamah ibn Abdar-Raman and Sa'eed ibn Musayib reported to me - they said Abu Hurayrah narrated to us that he heard the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) say: Avoid that which I forbid you to do and do that which I command you to do to the best of your capacity. Verily the people before you went to their doom because they had put too many questions to their Prophets and then disagreed with their teachings.

These ahādith are truly Sahīh, being reported in almost all collections of hadīth. At this juncture, we would hasten to emphasize the following points. Firstly, that Allah has taken upon his majestic-self in the final and complete Shari'ah to prohibit the khabā'ith as well as the fawā'iḥ. Regarding previous revelations, that wasn't always the case. Sometimes they were left without a prohibition, thereby becoming permissible; Allah is the only absolute sovereign, able to legislate as he wills. Secondly, fāhiṣha is something that is never commanded by Allah the exalted. It is neither commanded as being an obligation nor allowed to be desirable. He may not legislate against it, as in previous laws, but it is never commanded. That is above his sanctity and holiness, which is above any faults, just as he is above the notion of meanness and lowness. As stated previously, the verse is unequivocal, 'Allah does not enjoin / command fāhiṣha.'⁸

A number of simple examples can be given in order to further exemplify the general rules that we have elucidated thus far. The first example is that of pork which we are prohibited from eating by way of definite legal texts. The subject of 'pork meat' is no more than one of the following possibilities:

1. If someone believed that pork is prohibited because Allah has prohibited it, then he is a Muslim and a believer that has submitted the matter to Allah and His Messenger. No harm is done if he further believes that:
 - a. Pork was prohibited because of its essential nature, i.e. that of being impure. Thus it is from the blessing, mercy and kindness of Allah that he has given his servants a straightforward rule which obviates the need to search out the true nature of this item. This is what people of Islam should believe in this last message as we mentioned above.
 - b. The prohibition of eating pork is but a test, punishment, disciplining or for other reasons that are only known to Allah. It could be that Allah is exercising his legislative sovereignty in this regard. Pork could be good in itself from both sense perception and from a medical point of view; it may well be that it is the tastiest of all meats. This is a good opinion and a belief that could be accepted by those of the previous laws as well as by Muslims based - upon the evidences outlined above. For example, the great philosopher of Alexandria, Philo who was a contemporary of Jesus (peace be upon him), articulated this point lucidly arguing to the Romans that pork may very well be the best of all meat, however God wishes to test who we love most – the meat or him?

2. If someone believed that eating pork is prohibited because of its nature, that of inner impurity, that it is khabeeth, then that mind would force any rational person to avoid impurity and harmful matters. This is what is expected from rational people before the coming of the message and evidence, while after the message and the establishment of evidence this opinion is an invalid belief that will cause its owner to renounce faith. He accepts the law of reason; he makes reason his lord and god and not Allah or he accepts the judgment of the mind without taking express permission of Allah. In any case this viewpoint is not what is considered as submission to Allah. Rather it is disbelief which contradicts Islam and leads one to exit the religion. Whoever believes in such a matter is a polytheist and disbeliever, except he who has an excuse of ignorance, had a wrong interpretation, was under compulsion, or similar from among reasons that would prevent the accusation of disbelief being levelled. This opinion would be more indecent and a greater disbelief if this person makes this prohibition obligatory on himself and others, according to the opinion of reason, which sees that this pork is khabeeth for reasons such as:

- a. This means that he obligates and forbids what Allah did not obligate or forbid, which rationally contradicts the Tawheed of Allah's divinity that among its characteristics is him being the ultimate sovereign.

- b. It is an obvious accusation of lying, when confronted with the definite verse among the Qur'an that indicates that some good matters were forbidden in the previous creeds. They were sent down as revelation and they were the true religion before being abrogated. This is an accusation aimed at Allah, contradicting the right which was obligated to him according to their invalid claim. Allah accordingly oppressed and transgressed which is more offensive than the previous accusation, as it is absolute disbelief, or it is a doubt that the Qur'an is not revealed by Allah, which again is disbelief causing one to exit the fold of Islam.

The whole subject will differ completely if a legal text from this last honourable Shari'ah was revealed describing a certain matter, entity or act as being khabeeth. Then we can conclude that it is definitely prohibited in this Shari'ah of Muhammad (peace be upon him). Unless that is, it acts as an explanation that was revealed with a certain specification in mind, as is the case with regard to the foodstuffs of garlic, onions and others, which have strong pungent smells. Turning to the evidences from the Sunnah, we will note that there are a large body of ahādīth that exist concerning the Prophet's (peace be upon him) comment on these foods being khabeeth or khabā'ith. However the clarification is also apparent in these evidences, which we will now consider, that it was limited to that of its odour and people attending the masjid after consuming them. To begin, Imam Muslim records in his Sahīh the following on the authority of Abu Sa'eed al-Khudri:

: : () !

And ‘Amr al-N qid narrated to me Ism ’il bin ‘Ulaya narrated to us from al-Jariri from Abu Na ra from Abu Sa’eed who said: We made no transgression but Khaybar was conquered. We, the Companions of the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon), fell upon this plant. i e. garlic. Because the people were hungry, we ate it to our heart’s content and then made our way towards the masjid. The Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) sensed its odour and he said: He who takes anything of this offensive plant (shajara khabeetha) must not approach us in the masjid. The people said: Its (use) has been forbidden; its (use) has been forbidden. This reached the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) and he said: O people, I cannot forbid (the use of a thing) which Allah has made lawful, but (this garlic) is a plant the odour of which is repugnant to me.

The narration is also found in the Musnad of A mad bin anbal as well as in the Sunan al-Kubra of Bayhaqy. It is also found in Sahīh Ibn Khuzayma as follows:

Abu hir reported to us Abu Bakr narrated to us Abu Musa Mu ammad bin al-Muthanna narrated to us Abdal-‘Ala narrated to us Sa’eed al-Jariri narrated to us (hawala) and Abu H shim Ziy d bin Ayub narrated to us Ism ’il narrated to us Sa’eed al-Jariri Abu Na ra narrated to us from Abu Sa’eed, he said similarly to the hadith of Muslim, then Ibn Khuzayma said: ‘This hadith has come from Abu H shim who increased the hadith of Abu Musa at the end saying,and indeed the angels have come to me and I dislike that they go in this foul odour.’

In the Musnad of A mad bin anbal we find the following reported:

: : : : !

Abdal-Malik bin ‘Amr narrated to us he said Kh lid bin Maysara narrated to us Mu’wiya bin Qurra narrated to us from his father he said: The Prophet (peace be upon him) prohibited (us) from these two filthy trees / plants. And he said: Whoever eats from them let him not approach our masjid! And he said: If it is necessary to eat them, deaden them by cooking. He said – that is to say – onion and garlic.

The narration is also reported by Im m an-Nas ’i in the Sunan al-Kubra as well as in Sharḥ Ma’āni al-Athār. Furthermore in Sahīh Muslim we find:

Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shayba narrated to us Kathir bin Hish m narrated to us from Hish m ad-Distuw ’ee from Abu Zubayr from J bir who said: The Prophet (peace be upon him) forbade eating of onions and leek. When we were overpowered by a desire (to eat) we ate them. Upon this he said: He who eats of this offensive plant must not approach our mosque, for the angels are harmed by the same things as men.

The narration is reported in other collections, such as in Sahīh Ibn Ibban, Musnad Amad, the Sunan al-Kubra of Bayhaqī and in Musnad Abu Ya'la. Shaykh usseين Asad said: 'Its men (i.e. its narrators) are the men of Sahīh'. Also reported in Muslim is the following narration providing an additional clarification in regarding eating these items in private:

And Abu hir and armala narrated to me, they said Ibn Wahb reported to us Yunus reported to me from Ibn Shih b he said ‘A bin Abi Rab narrated to me that J bir ibn Abdullah said (and in the channel of armala he claimed) that the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: He who eats garlic or onion should remain away from us or from our masjid and stay in his house. A kettle was brought to him which had (cooked) vegetables in it. He smelled an (offensive) odour in it. On asking he was informed of the vegetables (cooked in it). He said: Take it to such and such Companion. When he saw it, he also disliked eating it. (Upon this) he (the Prophet) said: You may eat it, for I converse with the one with whom you do not converse.

This narration is also in the Musnad of A mad although at the beginning it has the wording – ‘to sit in his house.’ It is also in the Sahīh of Ibn Khuzayma similar to that of A mad as well as being reported in Mu’jam al-Sagheer of abar ni. In the Sahīh of Ibn Khuzayma the following is reported:

Abu Thir reported to us Abu Bakr narrated to us Yunus ibn Abdal-'Ala narrated to us Ibn Wahb narrated to us 'Amr ibn al-Rith reported to me from Bakr bin Sawda that Abu Najeed, mawla to Abdullah bin Sa'eed narrated to him that Abu Sa'eed al-Khudri narrated to him that he mentioned when the Prophet (peace be upon him) (mentioned about) onion, garlic and leeks. They said: Oh Messenger of Allah, the most severe of them is garlic - would you make it unlawful? So the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: Eat it and he who eats it should not come near this masjid until its odour goes away.

The narration is also reported in the Sunan al-Kubra of Bayhaqy. In man-Nas'i in the Sunan al-Kubra there is the following:

Mu^mammad bin al-Muthanna reports, he said Ya^mya bin Sa'eed narrated to us he said Hishām narrated to us he said Qatādah narrated to us from Sahl bin Abūl-Jād from Ma'dan bin Abī al-As that Umar bin al-Kha'b said: O people, you eat of two plants which I do not think are anything but bad, this onion and garlic. I have seen the Prophet of Allah (peace be upon him), if he noticed their smell coming from a man, ordering that he be taken out to Al-Baqī'. Whoever eats them let him cook them to death!

Imām an-Nasā'i also has the following channel concerning the same matter in the Sunan al-Kubra -Mu'ammad ibn Abdullāh ibn Mubarak reported to us he said Shabāb ibn Sāwī narrated to us he said Shu'ba narrated to us from Qatādah, except to its limit. It is also reported in the Musnad of 'Umaydi regarding this. In Sharḥ Ma'āni al-Athār there is:

Fahd narrated to us he said Abu Ghassān narrated to us he Qays narrated to us from Abu Isāq from Shareek bin Anbal from Ali from the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: Whomsoever eats from this offensive plant shouldn't come close with this harmful (odour) in our masjid.

After this Imām Aṣ-ṣāfi narrated: 'The people disliked to eat onions because of the smell it would give and they would be insistent upon this because of these narrations. Latter on people differed with them in this and stressed that the Prophet only prohibited eating it when coming to the masjid. Not because it was ḥarām but because people were disturbed in the masjid by the smell.' Unlike the subject of consuming garlic and onions we find the opposite end of the scale so to speak, that concerning the prohibition of homosexuality. This prohibition though is categorical as from the various meanings which are extracted from the book of Allah. He the exalted says:

وَلُوطًا آتَيْنَاهُ حُكْمًا وَعِلْمًا وَنَجَّيْنَاهُ مِنِ الْقُرْبَةِ الَّتِي كَانَتْ تَعْمَلُ الْخَبَابَاتِ إِنَّهُمْ كَانُوا قَوْمٌ سَوِيْرٌ فَاسِقِينَ

And (as for) Lut, We gave him wisdom and knowledge, and We delivered him from the town which wrought abominations; surely they were an evil people, transgressors.⁹

Allah clarifies in the following verses the ultimate form of khabā'ith, namely that of approaching men instead of women and committing acts of abomination. Allah blessed be his names says:

وَلُوطًا إِذْ قَالَ لِقَوْمِهِ أَتَأْتُونَ الْفَاحِشَةَ مَا سَبَقُوكُمْ بِهَا مِنْ أَحَدٍ مِنَ الْعَالَمِينَ

And (We sent) Lut when he said to his people: What! Do you commit an indecency which anyone in the world has not done before you?¹⁰

وَلُوطًا إِذْ قَالَ لِقَوْمِهِ أَتَأْتُونَ الْفَاحِشَةَ وَأَنْتُمْ تُبْصِرُونَ ، أَنِّي كُمْ لَتَأْتُونَ الرَّجَالَ شَهْوَةً مِنْ دُونِ النِّسَاءِ بِلَ أَنْتُمْ قَوْمٌ تَجْهَلُونَ

And (We sent) Lut, when he said to his people: What! Do you commit indecency while you see? What! Do you indeed approach men lustfully rather than women? Nay, you are a people who act ignorantly.¹¹

أَنِّي كُمْ لَتَأْتُونَ الرَّجَالَ وَتَنْقَطِعُونَ السَّيْلَ وَتَأْتُونَ فِي نَادِيكُمُ الْمُنْكَرَ فَمَا كَانَ جَوَابَ قَوْمِهِ إِلَّا أَنْ قَالُوا أَنْتَنَا بِعَذَابِ اللَّهِ إِنْ كُنْتَ مِنَ الصَّادِقِينَ

⁹ Qur'an 21: 74

¹⁰ Qur'an 7: 80

¹¹ Qur'an 27: 54/55

What! Do you come to the males and commit robbery on the highway, and you commit evil deeds in your assemblies? But nothing was the answer of his people except that they said: Bring on us Allah's punishment, if you are one of the truthful.¹²

أَتَتُونَ النُّكْرَانَ مِنَ الْعَالَمِينَ ، وَتَنْزَوُنَ مَا خَلَقَ لَكُمْ رَبُّكُمْ مَنْ أَزْوَاجُكُمْ بِلَ أَنْتُمْ قَوْمٌ عَادُونَ

What! Do you come to the males from among the creatures and leave what your Lord has created for you of your wives? Nay, you are a people exceeding limits.¹³

If the last two verses mentioned were the only ones revealed in relation to this subject, that would not suffice for a demonstrative prohibition in the last and final Shari'ah. Given that the previous abrogated laws are not to be followed, additional evidence would be required substantiating this point. The acts undertaken by the people at the time of Lu (peace be upon him) were described as being fâhisha. Consequently it is deemed to be fâhisha in and of itself. According to what we mentioned above from amongst the definite rules, this action is definitely prohibited in this final Shari'ah until the day of resurrection. The point becomes somewhat clearer when the verses in chapters seven and sixteen are also placed within view. Allah himself described these acts of homosexuality as being fâhisha, thereby demonstrating its prohibition. All the companions of the Prophet Mu ammad (peace be upon him) understood similarly, as did those who followed them. In fact, all Muslims since that time have concurred upon the illegality of acts which are the same or similar to that which the people of Lu (peace be upon him) undertook.

To emphasise the point again, the fact that some matter, objects / entities, sayings and acts deserve to be call khabeeth or fâhisha because of reasons bound with it in itself or for other considerations, is only because Allah has made it like that through his determination of the universe in which we reside. They are not according to reasonable necessity or absolute concepts which cannot be violated. The whole universe with its fundamental system and initial conditions is a possibility, a contingent being, a creation and existing because Allah made it like that according to his destined formative and creative order. There are some possible universes that may have neither khabeeth nor fâhisha in it – the most obvious being paradise. While there are other existing universes, that are not suitable for any legally competent to live in, or, they are even not suitable for any form of life. All that is possible and what is possible will never turn actually to the form of existing, except that if Allah makes, creates and permits it to be lik

Is q bin Man ur narrated to us he said Abdar-Razz q narrated to us Ma'mar reported to us from Hamm m from Abu Hurayrah who said, the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: (Allah says) The son of Adam tells a lie against me and he hasn't the right to do so; and he curses me and he hasn't the right to do so. His telling a lie against me is his saying that I will not recreate him as I created him for the first time; and his cursing me is his saying that Allah has begotten children, while I am the self-sufficient master, whom all creatures need, who begets not nor was he begotten, and there is none like unto me.

The same authentic narration can be found in the Sahifa of Hamm m ibn Munabih;¹⁵ it is also found in the Sahīh of Ibn ibb n,¹⁶ the Musnad of A mad,¹⁷ and in other collections. Bukh ri also has this narration as found in his Sahīh:

Abdullah bin Abi Shayba narrated to me from Abu A mad from Sufy n from Abi Zin d from al-'Araj from Abu Hurayrah who said, the Messenger of Allah (peace be upon him) said: I see that the son of Adam slights me, and he should not, he disbelieves in me and he ought not to do so. As for his slighting me, it is that he says that I have a son; and his disbelief in me is his statement that I shall not recreate him as I have created (him) before.

¹⁶ Sahīh Ibn ibb n Vol. 3 sec. 129, no. 848

¹⁷ Musnad A mad Vol. 2 sec. 318, no. 8,204

Bukh ri also records this in another place in the Sahīh.¹⁸ A large number of collectors narrated this hadith in their respective works, such as in the Musnad of A mad,¹⁹ the Sunan and Sunan al-Kubra of Nas 'i²⁰ and in the Sahīh of Ibn ibb n.²¹ Then someone followed up the statement of the Prophet (peace be upon him), and the initial creation [of him] is no easier for Me than remaking him. In this statement is an explicit clarification that attributes, which are used to describe individuals and imply deficiency, are not permissible to ascribe to Allah, mighty and majestic is he. This is because logic necessitates that one should use the phrase 'difficult for me' instead of the phrase 'easier for me'. However, using a phrase implying difficulty was avoided as it is infers deficiency. Therefore it was replaced with a phrase implying ease which does not have the same ramifications.

Im m A mad has the next narration in the Musnad with a good isnād:

asan narrated to us Ibn Lahia narrated to us Abu Yunus narrated to us from Abu Hurayrah from the Prophet (peace be upon him) that - *Allah the exalted and majestic said: My slave denies me and curses me and he had no right to do so. saying that Allah has taken a son, but I am Allah as-Samad, and not bitter.

Next Bukhari records in his Sahih on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas; abu al-Husayn also records this in Mujam al-Kabir and Musnad ash-Shamiyah,²² it also appears in other collections as well:

Abul-Yaman narrated to us Shu'ayb reported to us from Abdullah bin Abi Ussein, Nafi bin Jubayr narrated to us from Ibn 'Abbas from the Prophet (peace be upon him) who said: Allah said: The son of Adam tells a lie against me, though he hasn't the right to do so. He abuses me though he hasn't the right to do so. As for his telling a lie against me, it is his saying that I will not recreate him as I created him for the first time. In fact, the first creation was not easier for me than a new creation. As for his abusing me, it is his saying that Allah has begotten children, while I am the one, the self-sufficient master whom all creatures need, I beget not, nor was I begotten, and there is none like unto me.

As we can see from the aforementioned evidences taken from the Prophetic Sunnah, such statements are regarded as being false and obscene (fahisha) in all universes. They contradict the fact that Allah is the one and only manifest truth. It is among the impossibilities that any, of such matters, are obligations in any possible assumed creed, in any existing universe. In this universe in which we live now, during this present worldly life on this earth after the advent of Abul-Qasim, Muhammad ibn Abdullah – the servant of Allah and his final Messenger the obligation is to turn only to the revelation. In other words, to only refer for all matters of judgement to the legal texts - the Qur'an and the Sunnah – and nothing else, in order to search and locate the judgment of Allah in every issue. These legal texts are in effect like the 'ark of Noah' (Safeena Nuh). Whoever boards the ark is saved from danger and survives; whoever misses it, will drown and perish, no matter how he deceives himself, imagining that he can fight waves and escape from the flood by resorting to the mountains. To Allah and his Messenger is the return of all judgement to the revealed Sharī'ah legal texts. That is Islam and faith (al-Imān), which is the core of what is considered being subservient to Allah, worshipping him, which is the vocation of all mankind and jinn. Even if the reasonable search concerning the essence of matters be they entities, actions or sayings were just in order to know if a matter is good (tayib), vile / evil (khabeeth) or indecent / obscene (fahisha), it is not lawful to be used in order to reach a legal judgment. As in this case, it is not turning to Allah and his Messenger. Even if it was lawful in objective study or a philosophical search in order to know the nature of matters and their essences, or to other than that from among the permissible, desirable and obligatory aims and targets, it is definitely not lawful if it was to know the judgment of Allah in such matters.

Thus there is no need for useless arguments such as - is the judgment of matters according to reason only, to Sharī'ah only, or to both of them through certain order or certain arrangement. We may say that this issue could be a subject for philosophical, intellectual or legal research, but it is purely theoretical, with no resultant action and it is not among the field of Sunnah or innovation (bidāh) as some claimed from ancient times from amongst the Mutazilah or among those who claim to follow the 'Salafi' Islam in modern times, who are proud of themselves and their sect. They claim that they are 'al-Firqa an-Nājiya' or the 'Tā'ifa al-Manṣura', the saved victorious sect, brazenly asserting that only their followers would be admitted to paradise. We may say to them in response that Allah says:

وَقَالُوا لَن يَدْخُلُ الْجَنَّةَ إِلَّا مَن كَانَ هُودًا أَوْ نَصَارَىٰ تِلْكَ أَمَانِيهِمْ قُلْ هَاتُوا بُرْهَانَكُمْ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ صَادِقِينَ ، بَلِّي مَنْ أَسْلَمَ وَجْهَهُ لِلَّهِ وَهُوَ مُحْسِنٌ فَلَهُ أَجْرٌ هُدَى رَبِّهِ وَلَا خُوفٌ عَلَيْهِمْ وَلَا هُمْ يَحْزُنُونَ

*And they say: None shall enter paradise except he who is a Jew or a Christian. These are their vain desires. Say: Bring your proof if you are truthful. Yes! Whoever submits himself entirely to Allah and he is the doer of good (to others) he has his reward from his Lord, and there is no fear for him nor shall he grieve.*²³

Moreover we are only ordered but to the following:

اتَّبِعُوا مَا أَنْزَلَ إِلَيْكُمْ مِنْ رَبِّكُمْ وَلَا تَتَبَعُوا مِنْ دُونِهِ أُولَيَاءَ قَلِيلًا مَا تَذَكَّرُونَ

*Follow what has been revealed to you from your Lord and do not follow Awliyā' besides Him, how little do you mind.*²⁴

The Deen has been established as complete, as Allah says:

الْيَوْمَ أَكْمَلْتُ لَكُمْ دِيَنَكُمْ وَأَنْمَطْتُ عَلَيْكُمْ نِعْمَتِي وَرَضِيتُ لَكُمُ الْإِسْلَامَ دِينًا

*This day have I perfected for you your Deen and completed My favour on you and chosen for you Islam as a Deen.*²⁵

Definitely this shows that every judgment, among all judgments till the day of resurrection is in this verse. We do not care if, what was made good by the text, is reasonable, unreasonable, can be realised by the mind; or not, can be realised reason then by Shari'ah; by Shari'ah and then by reason, or similar. This is the truth which must be believed upon as part of one's creed (aqeedah). It cannot be otherwise for those who believe in Allah and the last day. Whosoever disbelieves in this, Allah is rich, without need or partner, lord of all the worlds.

²³ Qur'ān 2: 111/112

²⁴ Qur'ān 7: 3

²⁵ Qur'ān 5: 3

12 Verily, Allah does not command indecency

Previously we mentioned that it may be the case that Allah does not explicitly legislate (thereby permitting) against matters considered fawāḥish and khabā’ith, as well as prohibiting some from what is considered the tayibāt (good things), such as for Israel in previous Shari’ah’s. As an absolute dictum, Allah does not command towards fāhisha, in other words, making it a religious duty that is ordered, recommended or considered desirable. This neither occurs in the previous Shari’ah’s nor in the present blessed final one. By greater reasoning, Allah did not permit - not in this universe or in other possible universes, something that deserves to be called fāhisha originally. The conclusive proof which establishes this point unequivocally is the Qur’nic verse where Allah the exalted, blessed be his names says:

وَإِذَا فَعَلُوا فَاحِشَةً قَالُوا وَجَدْنَا عَلَيْهَا آبَاءَنَا وَاللهُ أَمْرَنَا بِهَا قُلْ إِنَّ اللهَ لَا يَأْمُرُ بِالْفَحْشَاءِ
أَنْقُوْنُ عَلَى اللهِ مَا لَا تَعْلَمُونَ

*And when they commit an indecency (fāhisha) they say: We found our fathers doing this, and Allah has enjoined it on us. Say: Surely Allah does not enjoin* *indecency; do you say against Allah what you do not know?*¹

Contained therein is a report of certain truth; an eternal maxim which cannot be contradicted neither can it be abrogated, for reports cannot be subject to abrogation - that Allah the exalted does not command fāhisha. He never commanded it previously, nor presently in any possible universe. Blessed are his names he says:

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا لَا تَتَّبِعُوا خُطُواتِ الشَّيْطَانِ وَمَنْ يَتَّبِعُ خُطُواتِ الشَّيْطَانِ فَإِنَّهُ يَأْمُرُ
بِالْفَحْشَاءِ وَالْمُنْكَرِ وَلَوْلَا فَضْلُ اللَّهِ عَلَيْكُمْ وَرَحْمَةُ اللَّهِ مَا رَأَيْتُ مِنْكُمْ مِنْ أَحَدٍ أَبْدًا وَلَكِنَّ اللَّهَ يُرَى
مَنْ يَشَاءُ وَاللَّهُ سَمِيعٌ عَلَيْهِ

*O you who believe! Do not follow the footsteps of the devil and whoever follows the footsteps of the devil, then surely he bids the doing of indecency and evil (fāhshā’ wa munkar); and were it not for Allah’s grace upon you and His mercy, not one of you would have ever been pure, but Allah purifies whom He pleases; and Allah is Hearing, Knowing.²*

It is inconceivable that Allah the exalted commands that which the devil, known as the enemy of Allah, commands! As mentioned previously, the purely rational judgement concerning a deed to be khabeeth or tayib would prove an extremely tall order. We have previously mentioned that the mental judgment on deeds to be evil or good may be very difficult. It is the same thing here regarding that which deserves to be called fāhisha. That conceded, it may be even more difficult to make a judgment on an action or statement, in addition to a judgment on relations, proportions, abstract systems, positive and conventional matters as being fāhisha on the basis of reason alone. If we suppose that it is possible in principle, it would be more difficult than judging something to be khabeeth, because it requires us to consider the reasons of the action, the nature of the action itself, what it is composed of and what it is related to. And then considering what may result from it as things, actions and occurrences, which are almost not limited in this vast universe. It is definitely impossible therefore, to be established by the text of the Shari'ah (or by the necessity of reason, though we regard it as unlikely that it can be perceived with sense or perception of mind separately), that an action be fāhisha in itself and then Allah commands its performance as a religious duty or even as a desirable matter. The judgement concerning desirable matters is that it is a command to be done, though it is not an absolute binding command and the person who leaves it is not considered sinful. Furthermore, it is impossible that Allah commands that something should be done, and then it appears as an act which is fāhisha.

We would hasten to clarify at this juncture that the juxtaposition between khabeeth and tayib regarding objects and benefits that are related to judgments of lawful (halāl) and prohibited (harām) in this last blessed Shari'ah, still fit within the overarching binding principle concerning permissibility being the default ruling on all matters unless a textual proof indicates otherwise. What necessarily results from that is that a certain ‘thing’ must definitely be tayib or khabeeth. Invariably the juxtaposition has nothing to be compared with the concept of absolute fāhisha. It is true that the Allah has guaranteed the prohibition of all fāhisha in this last blessed Shari'ah. But what is not fāhisha regarding statements and actions, relations, proportions and abstract systems and conventional man-made matters, may be religious duties (wājib), desirable (mustahab), or undesirable (makruh), or even unlawful (harām). It may be a ‘positive / declaratory’ (al-wad'iya) matter that falls under the concepts of: condition (shart), cause (sabab), deterrent, concession (rukhsa) or intention etc as ‘positive / declaratory’ judgments. Therefore, when something (especially, statements and actions) is not considered as fāhisha and as a result, it is not void and unlawful, no certain judgment is obligatory for it. There is no difference between the judgment being a commandment, such as an obligation, desirability, permissibility, undesirability or even prohibition, or a man-made judgment, such as making it a condition or deterrent, permission, intention or judging it as authentic, corrupt or void, etc. Concerning all of these matters Allah judges according to the divine wisdom which is the exclusive possession of sovereignty, lordship and dominion.

In order that our words do not appear to be general and too abstract, making it difficult to understand, it is better that we consider the following example. The most lucid being the matter of unveiling the private parts of an adult woman for other than her husband. This is one of the unlawful acts, which is known by necessity in Islam. It is one of the absolute recurrent proofs in the glorious Qur'an, the Sunnah and the consensus of the people of Islam. Hence for a woman to unveil her private parts is absolutely prohibited, regardless of the specific rank of prohibition whether it is a major or minor prohibition. Additionally, it is considered fāhisha by the necessity of legislation as it is prohibited. The evidence concerning this issue is illustrated in the following verse:

قُلْ إِنَّمَا حَرَمَ رَبِّيُّ الْفَوَاحِشَ مَا ظَهَرَ مِنْهَا وَمَا بَطَنَ وَالْإِثْمُ وَالْبَغْيُ بِغَيْرِ الْحُقُوقِ وَأَنْ تُشْرِكُوا
بِاللَّهِ مَا لَمْ يُنْزِلْ بِهِ سُلْطَانًا وَأَنْ تَقُولُوا عَلَى اللَّهِ مَا لَا تَعْلَمُونَ

Say: My Lord has only prohibited indecencies, those of them that are apparent as well concealed, and sin and rebellion without justice, and that you associate with Allah that for which He has not sent down any authority, and that you say against Allah what you do not know.³

The division is comprehensive, showing that prohibited things are of four main categories:

³ Qur'an 7: 33

- ❖ Making statements about Allah without knowledge, this is the worst of them. It occurs only in statements and beliefs. However, unveiling the private parts is not part of the genus of statements and beliefs; therefore it does not belong to this category at all.
- ❖ Shirk with Allah. That is, ascribing partners to Allah. Shirk in creed or aqeedah is disbelief – kufr, such as ascribing another god alongside Allah. There is also Shirk of action, such as Shirk Khafi' such as showing off and being ostentatious. Unveiling the private parts does not belong to Shirk of belief or deed.
- ❖ It is not an aggressive sin in the sense of an infringement upon other people's rights. Indeed a woman unveiling her private parts may be disturbing for some, whereas it is exciting or delightful for others. But no one in the world would say that it would constitute aggression upon other people, such as shedding blood, taking people's wealth and consuming it unjustly; beating people on their backs and faces, violating the honour by levelling false accusations against a spouse or a breach of covenants and so on and so forth.
- ❖ Necessity dictates that this action must squarely fall within the fourth and last category, which is that of obscenities, al-fawā'ihish. In reality, it is intuitively one of the most obvious of obscenities. We say, narrowly speaking, regarding the indecencies, injustice, oppression and aggression are also excesses beyond the proper limit. Therefore, it is fāhisha and excess in the broad sense.

In the same manner, ascribing a partner with Allah is an aggression upon Allah's right, that of being worshipped alone without the association of any partner. It is also an assault upon reason and truth to claim the existence of another deity with Allah. In fact, it is actually a claim assuming the existence of that which is an absolute impossibility. Shirk - polytheism, therefore is an obscenity, fāhisha and is excessiveness in the broadest sense. Making statements about Allah without knowledge, is deeper in fāhisha, excessiveness, aggression upon Allah's due, and upon the mind, which is the cause of responsibility. If someone were to say that all prohibitions are fawā'ihish according to this broad sense, the person would be right to say so. With regard to this, the addition of the other three categories in the Qur'nic verse adds particular to the general. One will notice that the order of the main four categories in the Qur'nic verse is in an ascending order to the general categorisation. This means that the worst sort of fawā'ihish, in the narrow sense, such the acts committed by the people at the time of Lu, does not reach in terms of sin the highest rank, that of aggression - killing, rape or levelling false accusations against chaste married women. Yet again these are not in the same rank as ascribing a partner with Allah. Although they are falsehood and saying something about Allah without knowledge, yet they are less in rank, compared to someone who accuses Allah of wrong, foolishness and deviating from the truth, as the devil did, may Allah curse him. The topic is in itself vast however this short study here is but an introduction rather than a comprehensive analysis. What we have previously said is evident and confirmed by the word of Allah the exalted:

فَلْ تَعَالَوْا أَتْلُ مَا حَرَمَ رَبُّكُمْ عَلَيْكُمْ لَا تُشْرِكُوا بِهِ شَيْئًا وَبِالْوَالِدَيْنِ إِحْسَانًا وَلَا تَقْتُلُوا أَوْلَادَكُمْ
مِنْ إِمْلَاقٍ نَحْنُ نَرْزُقُمْ وَإِيَاهُمْ وَلَا تَقْرُبُوا الْفَوَاحِشَ مَا ظَهَرَ مِنْهَا وَمَا بَطَنَ وَلَا تَقْتُلُوا النَّفْسَ
الَّتِي حَرَمَ اللَّهُ إِلَّا بِالْحَقِّ ذَلِكُمْ وَصَاحَبُمْ بِهِ لَعْنَكُمْ تَعْقِلُونَ

Say: Come I will recite what your Lord has forbidden to you-- (remember) that you do not associate anything with Him and show kindness to your parents, and do not slay your children for (fear of) poverty-- We provide for you and for them-- and do not draw nigh to indecencies, those of them which are apparent and those which are concealed, and do not kill the soul which Allah has forbidden except for the requirements of justice; this He has enjoined you with that you may understand.⁴

Some may misunderstand this topic by putting forth an objection that at an earlier juncture, Allah commanded Ibr him (peace be upon him) to sacrifice his son. Taking another human life is a heinous crime, unless it is by way of due process of law or done in a legitimate war, or by defending oneself against an aggressor. According to this line of argumentation, Allah the exalted would appear to have commanded at least one fāhisha which some, who do not understand the holistic nature of the ownership of the creator over his creation, would see as being a refutation of all what we have written thus far!

But this objection is invalid, built upon a corrupt foundational reasoning. All souls, including the souls of the children of Adam belong to Allah. He has sovereignty over them and he has the absolute sovereignty to do whatever he wants. Other than restrictions he has placed upon himself, which he has informed us of via revelation; he is not bound by our limitations. Placing oneself in harms way as an act of devout adherence to Allah's commandments or killing another person for the same purpose, within the prescribed limits of revelation, is not considered absolute fāhisha. Such acts are however, challenged by the worldly-minded people, secularists who claim that man is not slave to his lord and creator. They would have us believe that man is the master of himself, being both lord and god in miniature. Such line of argumentation is at complete odds with Tawheed, which the Prophet of Islam, Mu ammad ibn Abdullah the last of the Prophets and the Messengers (peace be upon them) brought to us all. It is thus kufr (disbelief), which definitely contradicts Islam. Not only that, it also contradicts reason and logic.

On the other hand, placing oneself in harms way outside of prescribed limits is an act designated as being prohibited, unless it is done as an act of martyrdom. In the same way, killing another person is also prohibited, except by way of a legitimate Jihād such as defending oneself against a hostile aggressor or as part of a legitimate judicial process in a Shari'ah court. Other types of killing apart from this would be considered, firstly as fāhisha and munkar. It is transgression of prescribed limits and what is more, as wrongdoing and aggression on people's property and the possession of the creator. Therefore, it is unlawful in this context, as it is obvious from the Qur'nic verse.

Secondly, making statements about Allah without knowledge; in the case of the one who kills himself or kills another purely as a sacrifice to be devout to Allah, just like sacrificial animals. This is because Allah abrogated that commandment, which He commanded Ibr him (peace be upon him) to perform and he ransomed Ism 'il with a great sacrifice. After that he did not command such a commandment in successive religions. It is not that he is not worthy, that human sacrifice should be made for him, as an act of devotion, but it is just that he has abrogated this kind of sacrifice, in order to bestow his favour, kindness and mercy upon us. Therefore, whoever does that, he would have committed a prohibited act by saying something about Allah without knowledge, which is an innovation in the religion, for he has made his action a devout act to Allah, while Allah did not make it a legal act of devotion and this is one of the main causes of prohibition as it is clear in the Qur'nic verse.

About the author

Born in Mecca (Friday 8 November 1946), Professor Mu ammad ibn Abdullah al-Mas'ari (may Allah preserve him) is from the Daw sir tribe, which is the modern name for the famous tribe of Hamd n and hails from a distinguished and scholarly family. His father, Sheikh Abdullah ibn Sulaym n ibn Abdur-Ra man ibn Mu ammad al-Mas'ari, may Allah have mercy upon him (b. 1918 / d. 2005) was a learned scholar and one of the distinguished students of Sheikh Mu ammad ibn Ibr him al-Sheikh, may Allah have mercy upon him. He also held several distinguished posts from early on, from being an assistant judge to Sheikh Abdal-Aziz ibn Abdullah ibn B z, to becoming vice-President and later President of the Board of Grievances (Diw n al-Mathālim; the Supreme Administrative and Constitutional Court), and a Professor of Islamic studies at Dar at-Tawheed, in 'if.

His maternal grandfather was the distinguished Sheikh Mu ammad ibn Abdur-Razz q (d. 1973), the founder of Dar al-Hadith Academy in Mecca and al-Im m al- aramayn, of Medina and Mecca.

Naturally growing up in this distinguished scholarly environment Professor Mu ammad al-Mas'ari was an outstanding student from a young age, benefiting enormously from study circles with his father and his associates. He has always had an insatiable desire for knowledge, leading him to peruse the rich collection of works from his father's library, covering both the Islamic sciences, philosophy and literature. A very early example of this, is the study he undertook of Majmu' al-Fatāwa, which is Ibn Taymiyyah's acclaimed work consisting of some 40 Volumes, following its publication in 1963. That study included a complete critical reading of the text accompanied with detailed comments, observations and criticisms.

In tandem with his studies in various branches of Islamic sciences, Mu ammad al-Mas'ari is also Professor Emeritus of Theoretical and Mathematical Physics. Published widely in the field of solar energy conversion, solid-state devices and QCD (quantum chromodynamics), some of his key achievements have been designing the first prototype electric car and the calculation of the Top-Quark mass within the framework of the renormalisation group equations.

However, it is his Islamic works that have made a quantum leap in contemporary Islamic thought, notable works include:

- The Seal of Prophethood
- Prohibition of building Mosques on Graves
- Najd and the Horn of the Devil
- The Constitution of Medina
- Hākimiyah and the Sovereignty of Shari'ah
- The Awaited Promised Mahdi

Professor Mu ammad al-Mas'ari lives in exile in London since 1994, where he currently continues his research and writing.
